SENATE SURPRISES

There were some surprises in the list of new Senators named by Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent last week.

That a Progressive Conservative member of Parliament should have been made a Senator by a Liberal prime minister was not the big surprise. The appointment of John T. Hackett, Montreal lawyer, had been forecast.

Perhaps most unexpected, by the Canadian public as a whole, was the appointment of David Croll, Liberal member for Spadina.

It is not surprising that Mr. St. Laurent should consider Mr. Croll suitable Senate timber, but it is surprising that Mr. Croll should consent to go to the Upper Chamber, removing himself from the more active arena of the Commons.

Two explanations are possible. Mr. Croll may finally have despaired of winning that place in the Commons which many of his admirers, and quite possibly Mr. Croll himself, feel was his due. There are several members of the Cabinet who have had a less distinguished record in public life than this Russian-born Jew.

Or Mr. Croll may believe that there is a role for him to play in the Senate—and has been assured by the Prime Minister that he, and other senators of like mind, will be given the opportunity to play it.

A Canadian Press story Friday said that Mr. St. Laurent "apparently plans no major reform of the Senate." But this may have been the wrong inference to draw from the Prime Minister's statement that he hopes the kind of appointments in the past and future will make the public feel that the upper house is a useful institution. Indeed, perhaps the latest appointments are Mr. St. Laurent's major reform of the Senate.

Of the thirteen new senators four had no apparent connection with a political party. One was a Progressive Conservative. The remaining eight were Liberals—but three of these eight had given concrete example of the possession of independent minds. All three had, at one time or another openly disagreed with their party and tendered resignations. Hon. C. G. (Chubby) Power disagreed with the government's conscription policy and resigned as minister of national defence for the party on the same issue. As for Mr. Croll, his independence of mind, particularly on welfare issues, has been demonstrated on more than one occasion in the House of Commons and has been given in some circles as a major reason why he has not been selected for a Cabinet post. Prior to being elected to the Commons, Mr. Croll resigned from the Hepburn Cabinet when he disagreed with the Ontario government's policy in the General Motors strike which saw the United Auto Workers Union establish a foothold in Canada.

Some may argue that Mr. St. Laurent was merely getting rid of three thorns in his flesh. That, however, is hardly an adequate explanation for the selection of these three former rebels from the long list of Liberal supporters throughout the nation. Mr. Pouliot's fire is more spectacular than dangerous. Mr. Power has mellowed. Only Mr. Croll might be considered likely to become a danger to the regime if, in his opinion, occasion demanded it.

So it seems evident that the Prime Minister meant exactly what he said when he declared he wanted the new senators to be perfectly independent in the upper chamber. He selected men who he was certain would be independent—whether he liked it or not.

EN GARDE!

"That's homilizing!"

It's your headline writer's reaction to an address by A. J. M. Smith of Michigan State College, who told the Canadian Writers' Conference at Kingston last week that poetry is sometimes unpopular because it "convicts the reader of all sorts of shame-making, humiliating things."

No apologies are made for this retreat to Jimmy Durante in the face of this statement. Durante's nonsense is amusing. Mr. Smith's is merely puzzling.

In the first place, nobody should be convicted without a fair trial and the suspicion lingers that some modern poets never give the reader a chance. Their poems do not carry a footnote stating what language they are written in. (That sentence is in English, in spite of the dangling preposition, but the poems are not. In defence of "in" out on a limb, we will merely note that Sir Winston Churchill, faced with a similar criticism, said that it was "nonsense up with which I will not put.")

Secondly, for the reader to be convicted of anything, he must identify himself with the actions of the person in the poem. Perhaps a pacifist might be shocked to discover that "We there in strife bewildering split blood enough to swim in; we orphaned many children and widowed many women." Perhaps a maiden might be embarrassed to learn that "What lips my lips have kissed and what arms have lain under my head at midnight I don't remember." But it is still possible for most of us to enjoy the War Song of Dinah Vawr or the love songs of Edna St. Vincent Millay without feeling shame or being humiliated.

That, of course, is just the opinion of one person who probably typifies "the inanity, ignorance and prejudice found in the daily press," of which Mr. Smith complained.

HOT WEATHER THOUGHTS

Hair is damp around the neck;
Hands are sticky, palms and fingers.
Ought to write a long due check,
But too high the mercury lingers.
Room is stuffy; so am I.
No relief a breeze is bringing.
Grass is brown and earth is dry.
Even birds have stopped their singing.
Trees are standing straight and tall,
Not a single leaf is stirring.
Work to do, but after all

Even cats have stopped their purring.
Dogs lie sleeping in the shade,
Giving up their ancient habits.
Not a move by them is made.
It's too hot for chasing rabbits.
I won't write a line today.
At the copy paper staring.
Here I sit and here I'll stay.
Blank it is but I'm not caring.
It's too hot to think of words.
And to group them all together.
With the dogs and cats and birds
I will wait for cooler weather.

The Morton Family Reunion.

One hundred and fifty relatives gathered at Oak Lake yesterday for the Morton family picnic.

Guests were present from

Cleveland, Ohio; Midland, Toronto,

Napanee and a large representation from Hastings and Prince Edward counties. Tables were laid in Bird's pavilion and a most excellent dinner was enjoyed. Mr. John Morton of Stirling, the president, made an interesting speech after the dinner and then the officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

hon. president, Mr. Mark Morton; hon. first vice-president, Mr. Alexander Morton;

hon. second vice-president, Mr. David Elliott;

hon. treasurer, Mr. Charles Elliott;

hon. secretary, Mr. Charles Bishop;

hon. committee, Mr. Charles Morton,

Matthew English, Mrs. Burton Elliott and

Mrs. Charles Ketcheson. Mr. Mark Morton was the oldest member present and little Miss Mary Carol Dunlop of Midland, was the youngest. During the afternoon swimming and sports were enjoyed and at six o'clock an excellent supper was served. A resolution was passed thanking Mrs. J. E. Brown, Thomasburg, for her untiring and efficient services as secretary. His Honor Judge J. A. Wills, the president of the celebration, will preside at the opening and His Worship Mayor W. C. Mikel will extend the welcome to the city.

Mr. Ted H. Hamby of Philadelphia, Pa., is home on a visit to his parents, Lieut. Col. P. H. Hamby and Mrs. Hamby, Albany, N.Y.

Mr. Judson Whalen, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Bowmanville, and Mrs. Whalen formerly of this city, are spending a few days here.

Rink from Thistle Club Of Hamilton Wins Tourney And Corbin Co. Trophy

The fourteenth annual Corbin Gold Cup tournament, sponsored by the Belleville Bowling Club, passed into history and the Hamilton Thistle Club will be the proud holders of the trophy for the next year. On Monday, L. T. Spaulding, Don McCormack, T. McCann and Robert Bell of that Club scored the three-game high for the day and took them to the Ambitious City, the four lawn mowers and the beautiful trophy, that designated first prize.

The tournament was staged under the chairmanship of Gerald B. Hyde and his committee and the thanks of all go out to the chairman for the wonderful job he accomplished. This was his first attempt as Cliff Argue, who has guided the other thirteen tournaments was unable to head the set-up this year due to ill health but Cliff played in his first tournament since it was inception.

As usual the tournament was favored by nearly ideal weather. There was not a cloud in the sky but the heat and humidity certainly was felt not only by the bowlers but by those who closely followed the play during the day and evening. The greens were in excellent condition and some splendid bowling was witnessed by the large number who thronged the beautiful lawns. The women members of the club made the presence felt by the tasty and delightful meals they prepared for the visitors. The soft drink stand was probably the busiest place on the grounds.

So keen was the bowling that extra ends after the tournament was over were needed to decide the winners of certain prizes and even these games were followed to the end. The draw was a heavy one but was excellently handled and the tournament was brought to a close before the midnight hour.

KINGSTON RINK SECOND

A rink of D. Duncan, W. Duncan, Jr., W. Duncan, and D. E. Eddy of Kingston, which won the trophy last year, was second on Monday and received the Lord Calvert Trophy and four sets of silver trays, which were presented by Larry Murphy, representative of the firm in this district. The third prize, the Belleville trophy and four genuine leather 2-suiters Gladstone bags, sponsored by the Hotel Proprietors was won by G. Eastwood, E. Marshall, R. Pearson and J. Rouleau of Cornwall. The fourth prize, the Brading trophy was won by G. Taylor, W. McLean, E. Wiggins and E. M. McFadyen of Cobourg. The four silver meat platters with carving sets were presented by Jack Cummins, representative of the firm in this district. The fifth prize of four sets of Avon jewellery, presented by the Avon company was won by M. Button, S. Johnston, J. McArthur and A. E. Wonnacott of Belleville. G. Johnston, A. J. Marleese, George Martin and H. Swaffield of Kingston won the sixth prize of four Sunbeam electric fryers sponsored by the Belleville Lock Company. Four silver meat platters sponsored by the Corby Distillery Ltd. and presented by Robert Farquharson were won by J. Fitzgerald, Ernie Boulton, Wilfrid Price and Jim Hanna. Four combination electric heater and fan units sponsored by the Bata Shoe Company was won by R. Patterson, Dr. E. A. Carleton, H. Tompkins and Earl Fox of Stirling.

SMART BOWLING

There were four two-game high winners, the first being H. Hoefall, S. Dennis, G. McQuorodale and D. McQuorodale of Kingston. They won the four Grenfell jackets presented by the Deacon Company Ltd. R. Cooper, Cliff Boudry, W. Foxhall and Morris Booth of Cobourg, won the four pair of sport trousers presented by the Tip Top Tailor. George Twiddy, Lloyd Carson, John and Bill Preston of Oshawa, won the four namers of groceries presented by the Stephen Adamson Company. Four solid leather utility kits, presented by George T. Lanning of the G. T. Leslie, G. C. Stevens, H. E. McLean and Dr. H. L. Cheney of Ottawa.

The first of the one-game high winners was A. Atkinson, F. Stote, F. Hunter and W. Boyd of Ottawa and they won four silver cake servers sponsored by the Morton-Parker Ltd. The money for four thermo water jugs, presented by the Bakelite Company were won by D. Bruce, R. Gage, Ron Gage and Charlie Smart of Kingston. A. Hunting, M. Rosenthal, W. Maynard and E. Berry of Ottawa won the four garden chairs, presented by the McFarlane Woodware Company while P. Stewart, J. Gilbert, I. McDougall and A. Allen of Ottawa won the four carafes sponsored by Col. P. H. Wills and the Belleville coal merchants. The four sets of Anson cuff links and tie clips presented by the American Optical Company for the no-game high winner were presented to E. Solomon, W. Colling, L. Lockwood and George Brown of Brighton.

The trophy was always the feature of the tournament was won by Bob Carter, who received a cedar lined cigarette case presented by the Morton-Parker Ltd. The money received from this event goes into the fund for crippled children of the Province.

It was a wonderful day and all the bowlers expressed their thanks for the hospitality and promised to be back again next year.

Bob Davis, Orlo Smith with Percy Graham skip won from Ron Knox of Peterborough 15-13. Morley Galt of Kingston defeated G. McGee, Mark Vanner, Gord Vince with Davey Davison at the helm 23-9. W. Holway, Bruce Miller, L. E. McLean with Gord Edwards as skip lost to Dick Edney of Kingston 15-5. Fred Mallory of Stirling defeated B. Carter, Al Symons, Harold Parker and Dave Fisher as skip 17-12.

Garn Dobbs, Claude Tice, W. B. "Skit" Vandervoort with Fred Harper as skip eked out a 15-11 win, the rinks being tied coming home, M. Button, J. Johnston, J. L. McArthur with A. E. Wonnacott as skip won from Morris Booth of Kingston scoring four on the last end for a 20-16 win.

In the second draw Jim Hanna won his second game from Fulton of Chertsville 18-8 while Austin Watkin took Charters of Brantford 22-9. Percy Graham was another two-game winner over Proddham of Deloro 28-11. Davey Davison was nosed out by Art Armstrong of Kingston 17-16 while Gord Edwards eked out a 15-14 win over Jim Smith of Kingston. Dave Fisher had a win in an extra end over Art McConnell of Brighton. Fred Harper had his second win, a 12-10 victory over Archie Myers of Campbellford, while A. E. Wonnacott won over Fred Thorne of Brighton 13-9.

Whitehurst of Montreal in an extra end, the game ending 17-17. Swaffield of Kingston defeated A. Watkin 20-14, while Rouleau of Cornwall won over Percy Graham 21-8. Davison defeated Jim Smith of Kingston 19-15, while Edwards won over Art Armstrong of Kingston 19-14. Dave Fisher was defeated 32-4 by Staunton of Peterborough and Harper lost to Fox of Stirling in the last end 14-13, while Wonnacott won his third game over Ralph Hinton of Kingston 21-6.

Nineteen Fish Caught on Hook At Same Time

BOURNEMOUTH, Eng. (AP)—Nineteen fish caught on the same hook at the same time is the claim of Edward Knott.

But there's a technicality involved. He was fishing with two friends four miles off Bournemouth when he pulled in a 40-pound tope which showed, practically no fight.

A few minutes after hauling in the fish, Knott saw a tope being born. In rapid succession, 17 more fish were born, each about 14 inches long and weighing a pound. The newborn tope were in good condition and the three anglers placed them all gently in the water and watched them swim away.

Around the Kitty

A tournament such as the one sponsored by the local club would be a sorry affair if it were not for the women members of the club. They started work early, they worked late in the terrific heat without a murmur and their efforts added considerable revenue to the success of the tourney. The eats served were the best and the congeniality of everyone made every meal a delight. Thanks ladies for a wonderful job.

The greens of Corbin Tournament day have always been keen, hard and true and this year was no exception. In fact they were the best in many years. The greenskeeper, Jack Smith has had a hard summer. The weather has been hot with little rain. There was considerable winter kill and this had to be overcome. Jack, with his usual determination, eked the job, and the verdant green against the background of the colorful costumes made a beautiful picture, when the first bowl was sent toward the kitty.

The grounds were tastefully decorated for the tourney. Flags were prominently displayed, chairs and umbrellas placed on the lawn and the chairs were filled by interested visitors during the whole day. The tables in the dining room were prominently decorated with summer flowers.

The bowlers were welcomed by the general chairman, Gerald Hyde and the president, Orlo Smith, while Ald. Claude D. Tice, a member of the club, welcomed the visitors on behalf of His Worship, Mayor Both and members of the city council.

In the first draw, J. Fitzgerald, Ernie Boulton, Wilfrid Price with Jim Hanna skip, won from Stote of Ottawa 13-9. Ernie Jones, W. Wright, G. Watkin and A. Watkin skip won the last end from Berry of Ottawa 16-13. C. Argue,

For Full Benefits of High Octane Gasoline you need Shell Premium with TCP

If certain engine deposits did not form inside your combustion chambers as a result of your daily, short-haul driving, any good high octane gasoline would do very well.

But because this kind of driving increases the build-up of these deposits, you need a gasoline with a special kind of additive.

The reason is simply this:

As your engine warms up, these deposits warm up, too—glow red hot. And these glowing particles act like hot coals—ignite the gasoline mixture ahead of time . . . before the pistons reach proper firing position. This is called pre-firing and means that power works against you instead of for you.

In addition, these same deposits have another power-wasting effect: They foul spark plugs, causing your engine to miss.

Engineers will tell you there's nothing more wasteful of power and gasoline than pre-firing and spark plug "miss."

But there is an answer—there's one high octane gasoline that gives you all the advantages of high octane without the power-crippling effects of these deposits—Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP*.

TCP, the Shell-developed additive, fire-proofs the deposits so that they no longer cause pre-firing. No longer can they glow red hot and ignite the gasoline mixture. And TCP stops spark plug "miss," too. Your spark plugs do the job they are supposed to do.

Start getting the full power built into your engine. Get Shell Premium with TCP. It's the most powerful gasoline your car can use!

Only Shell Premium Gasoline has both TCP and High Octane!

Weddings

KLEINSTEUBER-HOPKINS

In St. Francis of Assisi church, Frankford, Mary Agnes Johanna, daughter of Mrs. Leonard Hopkins and the late Mr. Hopkins, became the bride of Thomas George, son of Mrs. Carrithers of Kingston, and the late Mr. Fred Kleinstuber. The Rev. Father La Marche officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Mr. Bill Long of Trenton, played the traditional wedding music and sang appropriate hymns during the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Harold Hopkins, Toronto, looked radiant in a gown of imported French lace over white satin in floor length. It was fashioned with a fitted bodice, a tiny stand-up collar, and long lily-point sleeves. The skirt was made with fine scalloped graduated tiers of lace. Her fingertip veil of embroidered tulle hung from a flower petal head-dress of lace and satin. She carried a horse-shoe bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. R. F. McNeely, Ottawa, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing a white gown with white tulle and matching head-dress. She carried a bouquet of white flowers. Mrs. Harold Hopkins, sister-in-law of the bride, was bridesmaid wearing a white gown with white tulle and matching head-dress. She carried a bouquet of yellow flowers. Mrs. Louis Reid of Frankford, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid wearing a white gown with white tulle and matching head-dress. She carried a bouquet of yellow flowers.

Little Lynda Gunning of Batawa, made a lovely flower girl, wearing a white gown with white tulle and matching head-dress. She carried a bouquet of yellow flowers.

The ring-bearer was Leonard McNeely, nephew of the bride.

The groomsmen were Mr. Hubert Armstrong, Oshawa; Mr. John Cormack, Batawa; and Mr. Harold Hopkins, Oshawa, acted as ushers.

For the reception held in the Trinity Anglican church hall, the bride's mother received in a navy linen dress with pink accessories and wore a corsage of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to Hamilton and Niagara Falls, the bride chose a black linen suit with black and pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The young couple will reside in Oshawa.

HINCH-VEZINA

White and pink gladioli decorated the altar of St. Michael's church, Saturday, July 9, at 10 o'clock when the Rev. Father Murphy heard the marriage vows of Hilda Mary, daughter of Mr. Peter Vezina, of Tweed, and the late Mrs. Vezina, and John Vincent, son of Mrs. Michael Hinch and the late Mr. Hinch.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Leo Gauthier, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace and nylon net over satin topped with a close-fitted lace jacket, featuring a small Peter Pan collar, buttoned to the waist and having long lily-point sleeves. Her fingertip veil with wide lace fell from a head-dress of rhinestones and pearls and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

The bride was attended by Miss Lucille Burns, Enterprise, as maid of honor. She was attired in a floor-length gown of nylon net over tulle and a pink nylon lace and a head-dress to match completed her ensemble. She carried a bouquet of yellow mums and fern. Little Miss Barbara Ann Drapew, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She was attired in long green nylon net over tulle and a pink head-dress and gloves. She carried a basket of mixed flowers.

White Kearns, Enterprise, attended the bridegroom. The witnesses were Mr. Henry Drapew and Mr. Ambrose O'Reilly, both of Toronto and brothers-in-law of the bridegroom.

The bride's aunt, Mrs. Leo Gauthier, received guests at the reception held at Golden Acre Inn. She wore a flowered tulle net dress with white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted, attired in a navy and white two-piece dress with navy accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

For travelling eastward, the bride chose a navy dress with a wide white collar, red accessories, and a corsage of red roses. After returning, the couple will live in Mimico.

BRENNAN-GRANT

Pink and white gladioli mingled with baby's breath adorned the sanctuary of the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, on Saturday, July 16, at 8:00 a.m., when Catherine Estelle Grant of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Grant, became the bride of Gerard Francis Brennan of Lonsdale, Ont., son of Mrs. J. F. Brennan and the late Mr. Brennan. The Rev. Peter Murphy officiated, while the Rev. J. J. Brennan, brother of the bridegroom, said the Nuptial Mass.

Sister Mary Wilhelmina, organist, rendered the traditional wedding music, and accompanied Mr. Robert Burke, soloist, who sang, "Ave Maria." "The Wedding Hymn," "O Lord I Am Not Worthy," and "To Jesus Heart All Burning."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. W. G. Grant, the bride wore a charming gown of lace, nylon net and satin fashioned with strapless lace bodice topped by a long-sleeved lace jacket ornamented with mother-of-pearl and seed pearls and floor length skirt of nylon net over satin accented with matching lace bolero and inserts. Her Juliet cap of lace, which held the fingertip veil of tulle illusion, was encrusted with mother-of-pearl and seed pearls. She carried a semi-cascade bouquet of Havannah roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Helen Gaffney, of Belleville, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, was attired in a son green strapless lace bodice with matching lace bolero and full-length nylon net skirt over tulle, featuring matching side panels of lace. She wore a matching head-dress and gloves. Miss Mary Domenico, Miss Joan Foley, Miss Peggy Grant, sister of the bride, as bridesmaids, wore gowns of mauve, shrimp and aqua colored nylon net and lace, respectively with strapless bodices and matching lace boleros. The full length skirts of nylon net over an underskirt of nylon net were enhanced with lace inserts and mother-of-pearl bows. They wore matching head-dresses and gloves. All carried cluster hand-bouquets in shades of aqua, lavender, shrimp and lime green summer flowers.

Little Meribeth Barrett, of Belleville, and Patricia Brennan of Lonsdale, as flower girls wore frocks of yellow organza over yellow tulle with matching head-dresses. They carried baskets of yellow and pink sweetpeas, Shasta daisies and white baby's breath trimmed with pink satin bows.

Mr. Charles Brennan of Lonsdale, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Ray Prather of Detroit, and Mr. Bruce Lynch of Belleville were ushers.

The reception was held in Holy Rosary hall, where the bride's mother, wearing rose crepe with lace inserts, white accessories, and corsage of Golden Seepre roses, received. The bridegroom's mother, assisted, gowned in navy blue sheer, with white accessories, and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses and stephanotis.

For travelling to Detroit, the bride chose a brown and white

Pretty Blonde Tops Law Class, Wins First Case

Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—A young French-Canadian woman, who was hesitant about studying law, has had a successful start to a legal career.

Justine Gaudet, a graduate of Laval University, was admitted to the bar early in July with the highest marks of 132 persons who wrote the examinations. Two weeks later, she won her first case.

The pretty blonde, who appears younger than 22, was asked by a caller to defend him on a charge of car theft.

"He told me that the car was involved in an accident and that his father was going to pay the $100 damages," she said. "I picked up the phone and told his father that I would not take the case unless the son paid the damages himself because he had to be taught a lesson."

Then she defended him in court and he was acquitted.

Louise admits she was reluctant to become a lawyer since her grandfather, Antonin Gaudet, was chief justice of the Quebec Court of Appeal and her father, Langis Gaudet, is a lawyer.

"I felt that tradition was no way to choose a career," she said.

The reason she finally decided to study law was to provide a common ground with her father that would draw them closer together.

"When I went to Montreal to write my bar exams, he came with me not as a father but as a friend."

Her grandfather, also proud of her achievements, presided at the ceremony at which she was sworn in as a lawyer.

Louise confesses that as a young student she was so shy she often wrote down 10 topics of conversation which she carried with her when she was going to meet strangers.

While a freshman at Laval, she was named queen of the campus during its centennial year.

"I had to attend all the dances and sit at the head table during social functions connected with the centenary celebrations and I forced me to overcome my shyness."

Louise is going to Europe at the end of August to study at the University of Paris for a year on a provincial government scholarship and to travel.

Little summer, she studied English at Harvard University and intends to take courses in England to improve her command of the language. She also learned Italian so that she can make the best use of her trip to Italy.

Louise already has decided to give up her legal career when she marries.

"I'll forget all about law books once I get over a tubful of diapers," she said.

Women of the Moose

The Women of the Moose, Belleville, Chapter 435, held the last meeting of the month on Thursday evening, in the Moose Hall, Victoria Avenue, with Senior Regent Mary Van Dusen presiding.

The meeting was called to order by the Senior Regent.

Balloting on a candidate was held with ballot being favorable.

Recorder Nellie Scrymgeour called the roll call of officers, escorts, chairman and read the minutes of the last meeting, which were certified correct.

A thank-you letter was read from the social editor of the Ontario Intelligencer for a bottle of perfume received from last year's publicity chairman, Nora Kaiser.

Reports were given by Florence Carufel on the draw with the proceeds turned in to the chapter. Sr. Regent M. Van Dusen gave a report on the penny bingo for the month of August will be convened by the Sr. Regent Nora Kaiser and alumnae chairman, Audrey Donnelly.

The chairman's meeting will be held next Thursday evening at the Sr. Regent's home, all chairman and friends invited to attend.

Grad. Regent Selena Isles donated $10 to the chapter toward the fan to be installed in the Moose Hall.

A birthday box was suggested by the Sr. Regent for the year, each member to pay one penny for each year with the limit being 50 cents. The proceeds will be turned in to the chapter.

The Sr. Regent brought the meeting to a close.

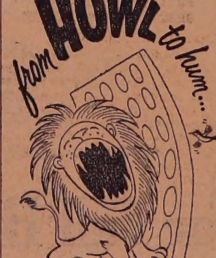

Following the meeting a euchre was held, the winners being: Annie Young, Nellie Shandraw, Nellie Scrymgeour, and lone hands, Annie Young.

Refreshments were served to the members by the officers.

The draw donated by Pearl Way was won by Joyce Soules.

The roar of an aircraft engine during ground test can rattle windows and nerves for blocks around. So we're glad to report that aluminum has turned up as a noise-absorbing "honey-comb" in an aircraft company's test-cell. Hundreds of aluminum tubes of differing diameters and lengths, filled with absorbent, sound-buffing material, make up the end walls. And we are told that by the time the giant roar has bounced around in these aluminum mazes it comes out the other end thoroughly "baffled" and weakened to a hum. We expect there are lots of aluminum boosters around that factory!

Canadian-Born Actress, 76, Shatters Myths of Stage

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lucille Watson never let the footlights dazzle her.

The 76-year-old Canadian-born actress, now retired, shattered a critic's column of myths during an interview here.

"The stage sickens me," Miss Watson said. "The only reason I stood it was the monetary reward. And that has been modest."

She looked out of the window of her hotel room and grew more serious.

TWO OLD TO ACT "I'm too old to act any more. I don't want to die with my boots on. I find something undignified about an old lady dying in her dressing room."

The sparkle came back when she was asked about stage people.

"We actresses and actors are a strange breed. Great bores, y'know especially if we've been successful. We know nothing. The theatre is the most interesting and isolating profession in the world."

LONDON (CP)—A young dress designer from Toronto will exchange her needle for a sword this fall to face Britain's best women fencers.

Cynthia Beauchamp, 23, started fencing to improve her posture as a model in her mother's London dress-designing studio. Now she handles the flashing blades well enough to enter the British ladies junior foil championships, to be held in London in October.

Her mother, British-born Cynthia Bradley Beauchamp, returned here 10 years ago after selling her dress shop in uptown Toronto. A year ago the mother-and-daughter team opened a basement studio in a London side street near Oxford Circus. They produce original designs and patterns, and individual garments.

Mrs. Beauchamp, who lived in Canada 17 years, started designing in Toronto during the Second World War and her daughter was sewing her own dresses at the age of eight.

Fencing has brought Miss Beauchamp both poise and a fiancé. She met Kenneth Toye, 25-year-old London actor, at an afternoon class when the young man was learning sword skill for a film role. They will be married next year and will later move to Canada.

being directed by "a very stupid boy." Miss Watson was born in Quebec City and started her stage career in New York in 1900. Unlike other aspirants, she says she had little trouble getting started.

"I wasn't stage struck," she said matter-of-factly. "I simply wanted to make a living at acting." An early success was the lead performance in "Gloria with the Green Eyes," a hit at the beginning of the century.

When her husband, French playwright Louis E. S. Shipman, died in 1933 after five years of marriage, Miss Watson "plunged back" into the theatre.

Hollywood offers took her away from Broadway during summers for "too many films to remember" including "Watch on the Rhine" and "Waterloo Bridge."

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SURE YOU'RE NOT A "A CRAB AND A CRANK," TOO?

Dear Beatrice Fairfax: I am 23 years old, my husband is 27, and we have been married five years. We have two boys, aged 4 and one.

The problem is that my husband has been working upstate since February of this year, and is home only for weekends. I don't mind that so much; what bothers me is that when he is home, he's a crab and a crank, and all we do is to argue the whole weekend.

Let me explain to you what my week is like, and what I expect of my husband on the weekend.

Each day I get up at seven o'clock, we eat breakfast and I do the housework, wash clothes and hang them out, make lunch, give the children baths and put them to bed. Then I take in the clothes, fold them and put them away.

By then, I am completely exhausted, and I sit around all night, either watching television or looking out of the window. No one to talk to.

When my husband comes home, and I ask him to do something, he'll do it, but always with a complaint. He must have been born complaining. I am nervous enough, and he does nothing to improve the situation. I honestly feel he'd be better off if he didn't come home for the weekend, and I've told him so. I think it's far better to have no one at home than to have him nagging and complaining all the time.

Instead of staying home on Sunday, and helping me so we could go out for the day and enjoy ourselves, he spends his time talking to his friends. Then about one o'clock he asks me where I want to go. The window is that I don't go out, or the weekend is ruined. I am too disgusted with everything.

I feel my husband should help me on weekends, because I do everything all week and why should I do everything on weekends, too? I think he should either improve, or just leave me and I'd be much happier. — Mrs. R.

Dear Mrs. R.:

To be quite frank—and what would be the use of anything else?—the impression I get from what you say is that if your husband is a crab and a crank, and you probably run him a close second. I realize that you have agreed deal to do during the week, but are you any different in that respect from any other woman who has a home to run, children to care for and no outside help?

And why do you sit up all night watching television or just looking out of the window when you ought to be asleep in your bed? It's no wonder you are so thoroughly exhausted, when you give yourself no chance to rest after a busy day and get ready for another one.

What I think is that you need to improve just as much as you think your husband should. If you change your attitude, he might change his. As it is, probably nag and complain just as much as he does.

So, instead of telling him how much better off you'd be without him—and maybe he feels he'd be better off without you, too—you know—why don't you get together with him on an affectionate, companionable basis and try to understand each other? No man is going to change his attitude or his ways if he is scolded and reproached all the time.

I can think of other things you might do, too, to make your days easier, and yourself happier, by better planning of your time and work. But space doesn't permit my setting them down here. So if you like to have me send you some further suggestions in a personal letter, write and tell me so.

Wife Preservers

The easiest way to remove dried or burned-on food from an aluminum utensil is to cover the dried or burned-on surface with water. Put the pan on the stove and bring the water to a boil. If the food has been severely burned on, allow extra time for the boiling. After the food has loosened, cleaning can be completed with steel wool cleaner pads.

SUMMER FOOT CARE

The average woman's feet take a lot of punishment all year round—whether she's a homemaker or a career girl. Actually, it makes little difference whether she's pushed around in crowds, running for buses, subways or trains on the office beat, or dashing to market, taking the car to school or going upstairs and down in the pursuit of household chores. The strain on the feet is the same—but it's even worse in summer when the feet are likely to become swollen or perspire more freely than usual.

The hot weather season, then, is the time to give your feet the best care possible. And the first step is absolute cleanliness. You wash your hands frequently, of course—probably after almost any household chore or office hour which produces the slightest soil. So why not take the same care of your feet? You should bathe your feet at least once but preferably, twice a day, drying them carefully and dusting them with either a talc or a deodorant powder.

The drying is exceptionally important—especially in warm weather—since dermatologists agree that dampness provides a fertile spot for fungi, which can be picked up at beaches, swimming pools and even around the garden. Few persons realize that practically every one picks up fungi in microscopic form, but are never aware of it if the feet are in healthy condition. Healthy feet build up an immunity to fungus diseases which is not possible if these organisms are allowed to contain in the dampness induced either by body warmth itself or excessive perspiration.

The best method of drying is to press a Turkish towel all over the feet and especially between the toes. This, of course, after you have scrubbed them thoroughly with soap in hot water, then rinsed them thoroughly. First in warm water, then with cold. A good rinse with a hand spray is particularly effective. Once the feet are thoroughly dry, apply the powder lavishly. You may use your regular body talc or a special foot powder. There are many excellent ones on the market, and in warm weather, especially, they should be considered just as important as any other cosmetic in your kit.

Socks or stockings should be changed frequently and it is also advisable to have enough pairs of shoes so that you can change them every day. This is not as expensive as it sounds since tests have shown that shoes last three times as long if they are changed frequently.

Tight shoes should never be worn but be especially careful of their fit in warm weather. Actually, it is advisable to get them a size larger, so as to give plenty of room for foot movement. Snug-fitting shoes induce excessive perspiration, besides being mighty uncomfortable.

SHOULD NEW HOME PLANS BE SECRET?

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

We are engaged, and we are planning to buy a home. When we have done that, we will announce our wedding date. Now, Mrs. Beckman, when we have purchased a home, are we supposed to tell our friends where it is? We really do not want anyone except our immediate families to see the house until after we move in. What do we do about this? I am having At Home cards enclosed with my wedding invitations.—R.

You and your fiancé will have to take every care and precaution possible to surround with secrecy every plan and procedure about acquiring your "dream house." Your friends should not expect to know where your house is, or anything else about it. If you and your fiancé seem disinclined to even mention it, it might be another safeguard not to tell any more members of the families than is absolutely necessary... and firmly pledge to secrecy those whom you do tell. Also, on your At Home cards, to be enclosed with your invitations, include the date when you really will be "at home" to your friends. Like this:

after the first of October
Two Pleasant Street Haven, New York

ON PLANS AND UNEXPECTED GUESTS

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

We have rented a cottage at the seashore, for these last weeks before Labor Day, and I am perplexed by the problem of unexpected guests. (We have never had a house before, so I've watched hostesses try to cope with this problem, and I realized it wasn't easy.) When an unexpected caller (or a group of them) arrives just as we are planning to go out, should we stay at home, or leave after explaining that we had planned to go out? W.S.

Callers who drop in unexpectedly should, naturally, be prepared to adapt themselves to whatever circumstances they find. They are guests by chance, and they should graciously and understandingly accept this change. If you and your family are about to leave when the callers arrive, you certainly needn't, and you certainly shouldn't, hesitate to explain your plan. As in all other circumstances that may be somewhat awkward, there are gracious ways of doing this. Explaining, for example, it's simple to say, "It was so nice to have you drop in, and I do wish we could ask you to stay. But we are just about to leave for Bill's sister's house, and she is expecting us soon. Do let us know when you can come again." (That "do let us know" is a good and practical hint for dropper-in-ers!)

HOW TO SIGN FAMILY VACATION CARDS

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

My husband and I, with our two children, 6 and 9, are going to take a two weeks' vacation trip next month, and we have been talking about our plan to send many picture post cards. We want to send many cards for we've never been away together before, and this is our chance to send cards to our relatives and friends and to neighbors who have been so thoughtful in the past in sending us cards when they are away on trips. Should we sign these cards "Mr. and Mrs. John Baker" (for example), or perhaps "Mr. and Mrs. John Baker and family" on the cards to casual friends, neighbors, acquaintances, and of course our first names to cards to relatives and close friends? — Marion B.

Don't ever sign a card-of-greeting "Mr. and Mrs. John Baker," and don't ever sign a card-of-greeting "Mr. and Mrs. John Baker and family." In a signature there should be no title before the name... no "Mr.," no "Mrs.," no "Mr. and Mrs.," You would, naturally, sign first names to relatives and friends. When children's names are included in the signature, the father's name comes first—John and Marion, and Anne and Peter. To casual friends, neighbors, to acquaintances, you might sign the card: "Greetings from the Traveling Bakers—John and Marion, and Anne and Peter. We're having such a happy trip!" Or, "Bill The Baker sends the Five Clark's greetings and best wishes. Our trip is wonderful."

SHOULD GROOM REMAIN SEATED DURING TOAST?

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

My fiancé would like to have me ask you a question. We know that at our wedding breakfast the best man proposes the first toast, the toast "To the Bride and Groom." I remain seated while the guests rise and drink the toast. But does the groom rise or remain seated? — Janet M.

Since the toast is proposed to both of you, you both, bride and groom, remain seated while the toast is being drunk. Then, when the guests are seated, your groom rises and expresses your thanks as well as his own.

COFFEE AT TEA TIME?

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

A says that today it is considered correct to serve coffee at an afternoon "tea." B maintains that at an afternoon tea only tea should be served. What's the answer? — Cleo M.

The answer is that today many hostesses serve coffee as an alternative to tea at the "tea hour." And indeed many hostesses now days serve only coffee at the "tea hour"... inviting their guests to "a coffee" instead of "a tea." In the summer time some hostesses offer both tea and coffee, one hot and the other iced.

BROWN is the color, the fabric a blend of cotton and dacron and here we have an excellent example of the transitional dress perfect for now and right into fall. A crisp white collar looks good above the pretty pleated insets. Pockets are in one with the hip yoke and the belt in back extends from the sides. A discerning eye will discover many such clothes ready to give good and smart service for many months.

Pickle Season Opener

By Mary Moore

A letter from Mrs. M. T. dated June 17 started a run of mail on pickling for the 1955 season.

So I'll start answering through this column today and will make a noble try to keep about four or five requests which believe me kids and mountaineers every year come the ripening of first cucumber.

Mrs. M. T. asked for "a 9-day sliced cucumber pickle." I think the following one must be it.

SOCIETY CHIP PICKLES

(Courtesy K.P.)

Fourteen dill-size cucumbers (smaller may be used but you must have enough to nearly fill a 1-gallon crock.) Pour fresh boiling water over them for four mornings. On the 5th morning slice about 1-2 to 3-4 inch thick slices. Let drain. Have ready syrup to pour over hot: 1 quart vinegar, 8 cups sugar, 1-2 cup pickling spices (not too many red peppers), 2 tablespoons salt. Bring this to a boil with spices tied loosely in a bag, and pour hot over the cucumbers for three mornings. Drain off the syrup each morning and repeat to boiling point. On 9th morning pour syrup in pan, reheat and drop sliced cucumbers into it. Heat through, fill in jars and seal.

Maxine H. asks for chili sauce which she thinks appeared last summer. It was "delicious and contained, celery, onion, green pepper, etc. and called for cinnamon sticks."

The following recipe appeared August 27, 1953 and while it is not exactly what Maxine asks for is the latest Chili Sauce recipe I have given you as far as I can see by the files.

REGULAR CHILI SAUCE

Six and one-half quarts (32 measuring cups) peeled and cut up tomatoes are allowed to stand while you prepare remaining ingredients. Pare 8 large onions (preferably red Italian ones), and chop them, seed and chop 4 sweet red peppers, wash and chop 1 large bunch celery, and to these mixed vegetables add 1-2 tablespoons white pepper, 2 tablespoons powdered ginger, 5 cups white vinegar, and 2 sticks cinnamon (if desired), 1-2 cups white sugar, 1-2 cup salt. Boil all except the tomatoes for 1 hour. Drain off all excess liquid which has collected on bottom of container holding tomatoes and add drained tomatoes to cooked vegetables and boil until of chili sauce consistency—about 20 to 25 minutes longer. This must be almost constantly stirred. Seal in sterile jars.

In April of this year I promised to give you

MARJIE'S TOMATO BUTTER

This is a great favorite. You may want to wait until the peak of the tomato season early in September to make it.

Peel 10 lb. ripe tomatoes. Pour 1 pint vinegar over them. Let stand overnight. In morning drain through colander and discard liquid. Make syrup of quart vinegar, 3 lbs. brown sugar, 1 tablespoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon red pepper, 1 tablespoon each whole cloves, allspice, cassia buds (tied in small bag). Leave bag of spices in mixture until flavored sufficiently (at least 3-4 of the whole time). Let syrup get hot before adding tomatoes. Boil all slowly about three hours.

MARJIE'S COMMENTS:

This, of course, boils down a great deal. I usually double or triple the recipe. It is a very popular pickle though—good with just bread and butter. (It always seemed a waste to me to discard all of the liquid saved from the overnight sitting, and though the original recipe says to use 1-2 cups of the liquid in the syrup, I found it was just that much more liquid—to be boiled away so I don't give it to you. It really is a very weak-flavored liquid anyway.)

Longer Hemlines Feature Fashions

PARIS (Reuters)—Longer hemlines and daytime motifs inspired by riding habits featured the fall fashion collection shown Thursday by Jeanne Lanvin.

Hemlines go from 13 inches for day wear to 11 inches above the ground for almost midnight.

The daytime theme developed what was termed the "shipline." This features a slender straight sheath. It succeeds in indicating the waist without actually hugging the body.

The Lanvin collection, which was designed by Castillo, gave prominence to "hunting crop" coats. These come both in short and full lengths and are usually full-lined, frequently with russet fox or lynx. The riding-habit theme is emphasized in ribbon bandings of self fabric, looped over like a whip at the neckline.

Angostura Bitters Secret Kept by Family 131 Years

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad. (Reuters)—Few people who drink cocktails flavored with angostura bitters realize that the aromatic dashes in their drinks are the product of one of the best kept family secrets in history.

For 131 years, successive generations of the Siegert family have been making their bitters in a factory here. Only one man outside the family knows the formula. He is David Boon, chief chemist of the company, who let into the secret in 1932.

When one of the three big vats in the factory is empty, Boon or Robert W. Siegert, managing director of the company, retires to a locked room. There, Boon or Siegert measures out the ingredients which go into the bitters and places them in a perforated stainless steel basket.

The filled basket, carefully covered, is placed in a percolator where rum gets to work in the ingredients to produce the bitters which, when marketed, have an alcoholic content of 46 per cent. The ingredients for bitters are imported from several countries.

That is about as much of the secret as is known.

The man who started the business, Dr. J. G. B. Siegert, served as an army surgeon in the Second East Prussian Infantry at Waterloo. He arrived in Venezuela in 1820 with some former comrades-in-arms to join Simon Bolivar's forces.

Dr. Siegert produced in 1824 aromatic bitters which he intended as a harmless stimulant for the appetite and to relieve the many minor stomach complaints common in the tropics.

He gave his bitters the name of the town of Angostura — later changed to Ciudad Bolivar—where Bolivar set up his headquarters on the river Orinoco. Siegert settled there and distributed bottles of his bitters to patients and friends.

Angostura was then a busy port and the reputation of the bitters was carried around the world by officers and crews of the many ships that called there. Siegert died in 1870 and his two sons decided that because of the unsettled political situation in Venezuela, they would move to Trinidad.

'Preview Review' of Festival At U.S. Stratford Is Lukewarm

STRATFORD, Conn. (AP)—The Hartford Courant has carried what it calls a "preview review" of the production of "The Tempest" which opened Tuesday night at the American Shakespeare theatre, a review which the management had asked critics to withhold judgment for a few days.

"The cast, for the most part, will have to learn to read their lines not only with more eloquence but with more plain sense and understanding," says Theodore Parker, The Courant's "preview reviewer."

The theatre, a replica of London's Globe theatre, opened its doors for the first time July 12 with "Julius Caesar." The cast, including Raymond Massey, Jack Palance and Fodor McDowell, switched to "The Tempest" Tuesday night.

Last week Lawrence Langner, president of the theatre asked critics to withhold the cast a chance to familiarize itself with the theatre's outside stage before reviewing "The Tempest." The first few productions should be regarded as "paid public previews," Langner said.

Stating that the request "poses a nice problem for the newspapers," Parker writes: "The fact is that some 30 actors did assemble on the stage of the Shakespeare theatre here this evening and give 'The Tempest' before a good house. And from a newspaper point of view, the night a play opens is the night it's news. "But equally important is the fact that between now and Monday, a potential of at least 8,000 people will be wondering whether they want to see this 'Tempest' at the American Shakespeare theatre, and they are entitled to some sort of advice from the newspaper."

Collect Bottles To Pay Their Way To Australia

VANCOUVER (CP)—Fifteen Vancouver girls are hoping to pay their way to Australia for an international grass hockey tournament next year by collecting empty beer bottles and waste paper.

So far the Greater Vancouver Women's Grass Hockey Association has raised $2,500 in three months—one-third of the return air fare for the team and a manager.

The championship doesn't start in Sydney until May 20 but the girls are confident of raising enough money to become the first Canadian team to enter the international tournament.

In one trip to Grouse mountain, a popular weekend skiing centre here, 80 girls from the association collected $250 worth of beer bottles. Several tons of waste paper also helped pad the bank account.

"Now I know why those junk dealers always die with their mattresses stuffed with bank notes," says Mrs. Pat Hamilton, past president of the association and one of the four enthusiasts.

Raffles, baby-sitting and a "personalized taxi service"—charging friends 10 cents for an auto ride—are some of the other money-earning schemes being used to finance the team.

Practice sessions are held two nights a week and early this fall trials to select the all-star team will begin.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was reading a red book after dinner, saying to pop, Sycology is wonderful thing, William.

That's right, it's what makes the brain go round, pop said, and ma said, Maud Hews lent me this book. It's called The Sycology of Everyday Living, she said.

That's the kind we have to live with, after all, pop said, and ma said, It's by Dr. Rufus Bannister. What does he have to say on the subject, if you can put it in a few words? pop said, and ma said, "Well, the principal idea of the book is that the important thing in life is not what you think you need, it's what you realize you don't need. The doctor has quite a thought there, pop said, and ma said, It's more that a thought, William, it's a whole philosophy and it has already changed my entire view-point. For instance, without actually ever expecting the happy day to dawn, I've had a haunting idea that I need a mink coat. Well my dear, after reading this book I realize to my grate relief that I don't need a mink coat at all, she said. By golly that's an intriguing book, pop said, and ma said, In fact I'm probably better off without a mink coat. I've noticed that most women with mink coats are afflicted with a certain holier than thou superciliousness, and I'm sure I don't want any of that, she said, and pop said, No, that's bad.

So now I realize I'd be perfectly satisfied with just a mink stole, ma said. It has certainly lifted a burden from my shoulders, William, she said, and pop said, It must of lightened the burden, at least. A stole is not nearly as heavy as a coat, and some day I hope to see you bearing up gracefully under one, he said.

Meaning he hopes he can buy her one.

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

A bridge system that functions most naturally should be the aim of every expert. However, unusual conditions are often served better with a convention that is based on an unnatural meaning.

When your opponents bid a slam that makes, they get in round figures 1,000 points or more. Where proper bridge is played, this means a loss of that amount to your side.

If you have a chance to defeat such a prospect, you should be very glad. So glad should you be, you are willing to take less than you could get if you defeated the slam bid doubled.

So good players do not make a practice of doubling a slam. It might tip off the declarer as to where the dangerous cards may be and a clever opponent might catch himself to safety.

Thus, the double of a slam becomes a lazy bid. To put it on more active duty, wise players turn it into a convention; a signal for asking partner to lead the first suit bid by dummy.

A case like this came up in the deal shown here:

NORTH
♠ K Q 6 5 4
♥ A Q J 8
♣ 6

♠ 10 8 7 2
♥ J
♦ 9 4 3
♣ J 10 8 7

SOUTH
♠ K
♥ A 10 7 3 2
♦ 10 5
♣ A K Q

When south opened with a heart his partner replied at once with a jump takeout or three diamonds. Finally they reached a small slam contract of six hearts which east doubled.

The double did not intend to say east could defeat the contract. It was a signal to west to start out with a diamond lead; the lead of a card in the suit the dummy hand had first mentioned.

Obediently the signal, the opening lead from west was the diamond nine. Before declarer could find a safe parking place for his second diamond, east was in line for a diamond trick.

With spade ace taken in a later round, opponents killed the slam against anything south could do. For many ill there are some pills.

Leafs Take Two From Royals; Chiefs Move Up

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Havana Sugar Kings, members of the International League only three years, today hold the attendance record for baseball's oldest minor league. What's more, they are within striking distance of second place.

They celebrated "Cubans' Day" Monday night by whipping Columbus Jets 9-5 before a crowd of 29,917. The old mark of 29,844 was set in 1949 by Baltimore Orioles and Jersey City Giants.

The victory moved the Cubs within a game of the second-place Montreal Royals, who dropped a doubleheader to the past-setting Toronto Maple Leafs 11-4 and 3-2.

In other games, Syracuse Chiefs moved to within two games of fourth place with a 7-3 victory over Richmond Virginians and Buffalo Bisons edged Rochester Red Wings 4-3.

INTO OVERTIME
Leafs had to go an extra inning in the nightcap before three successive singles pushed across the deciding tally. Billy Demars' home run in the seventh inning had tied the score and Lou Limmer's eighth-inning single scored Lou Morton with the winning run.

Leafs banded three Montreal hitters for 13 hits in the first. The big blow was Archie Wilson's bases-loaded home run in the fifth. Lou Berberet homered for Leafs in the fourth and Demars slammed one with a mate aboard in the eighth.

Don Richmond's bases-loaded double in the seventh won for Syracuse. The Virginians were leading 2-1 when the infielder cleared the bases.

Ben Flowers struck out seven Red Wings and gave up seven hits to bring his record to seven victories against six defeats. Elsons scored three runs off starter Jack Faschitz before Tony Jacksons and Cot deal combined for some fine relief hurling.

Canada, Britain Hail Gallant Marilyn, Youngest Conqueror Of Channel

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

WELL DONE, MARILYN!

Toronto's darling, Ontario's sweetheart, and the nation's sports idol, Marilyn Bell, was the toast of Canada over the holiday week-end.

This seventeen-year-old youngster, the conqueror of Lake Ontario, added another brilliant "first" feather to her cap of achievement when she safely negotiated the tide-ripped turbulent waters of the English Channel. She is the youngest swimmer of either sex to accomplish the feat.

This blonde, teen-aged epitome of guts, stamina and natural ability brought further honors to herself, her native city, country and coach Gus Ryder.

Marion did not break the record for cross-channel swimming by the distaff side. This is held by an English girl. It was within her grasp at one time. The white cliffs of Dover, the landing spot were at her fingertips. A new record was within her grasp. A man could walk the distance in an hour. But Nature, kind at times, cruel at others, turned a sour countenance on the gallant young Canadian. She ripped the tides. Winds sprang up. Jellyfish provided an uninvited escort.

Marilyn drifted westward. The cruel sea swept her from her goal and snatched the record from her eager grasp. But the gallantry, the guts, the stamina that conquered Lake Ontario was not to be defeated by the Channel. The grit, courage, the will-to-win again rose to triumph and gallant Marilyn touched English soil some two hours off the record, the proud owner of the title "the youngest to swim the Channel."

Toronto, especially, Ontario in particular and Canada in general are proud of this latest achievement of a brave, courageous youngster who rose to superb heights to conquer a ribbon of water that while beaten by many has turned back the best, and now has been forced to bow to a pretty, hair-haired Canadian girl by far the youngest of either sex to accomplish the feat.

ANOTHER GOOD ONE

The Belleville Lawn Bowling Club can place another feather in its cap of fine achievement. The annual Corbin Gold Cup trophy tournament played on the club's greens on Civic Holiday was another unqualified success and tournament chairman Gerald Hyde, Cliff Argue and club members can take a well-merited bow. The tournament was run off in excellent time. The greens were in excellent condition (thank you Mr. Smith) and from all sides were heard comments of the excellence of the tournament, conditions and things in general. The heat was terrific but had little effect on the general calibre of play. It was a grand show, one that makes the Corbin Gold Trophy tournament one of the most popular events of its kind.

HODGE PODGE

Tommy Pedder was the only Canadian that did not finish in the Atlantic City swim marathon yesterday. No details at the time of going to press, but gallant Tommy must have turned in a fine job, but found Ole Man Atlantic a mite too tough. Better luck next year, fella. "Pop" Kelleher's Haggis Juniors take on the Pictou Lightfoots at the Fair Grounds tonight in the second game of the Belleville District Baseball League playoffs. All's crew lost the first one by a close score and are going all out to even matters this evening. Game at 6:30. Leo Luciola's unbeaten Osterhout Shelleys won two over the holiday. The met and defeated the Kingston Pen's "Angels" 26-17 on Sunday. They were given a fine reception and a delicious luncheon after the game. Last night the Shelleys won their 14th straight league victory with a 1-0 win over Madoc. It was one of the best played games this season with the Shelleys' fielding standing out. Madoc rapped out 11 hits, but failed to score. Our boy Friday, Garry, is on a well-earned vacation for the next two weeks.

Tom Park Repeats Victory In Atlantic City Marathon; Tommy Pedder Forced Out

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (CP)—This Atlantic City swim marathon ended Monday with a striking similarity to last year's inaugural—Tom Park the winner and a girl from Canada leading the women's division. The race that first brought Toronto's Marilyn Bell to fame when she led the rest of the feminine contenders by some two hours last year was won for the second straight time by Park, a former Hamilton, Ont., swimmer who now lives in California.

Leading the women Monday was Lies Put, a new Canadian from The Netherlands who now lives in Montreal, but 15-year-old Dorcas George of Humber Summit, Ont., youngest in the race, won plaudits for her grit in being the last to finish the 26-mile grind. The youthful redhead, who took 15th place, won $200.

Counting Park and Miss Put, who has lived in Canada for five years, eight Canadians entered and all but one finished. Tommy Pedder, 40-year-old veteran from Belleville, Ont., had to drop out.

Second behind Park was Cliff Lumsden of New Toronto, 24-year-old swimmer of Canadian National Exhibition fame. Lumsden was about seven minutes behind Park and won $2,000, compared to the winning purse of $5,700. Park's time was nine hours, 49 minutes and 30 seconds. Lumsden came in with 9:55.25.

In fifth place was John Lacouriere, 20, of Montreal. John Jeremy of Toronto was 13th and Harry Bryant, also of Toronto, right behind him in 14th spot. Miss Put's time for 11th place and the women's crown was 11 hours, 42 minutes and 45 seconds. She took $1,000 in prize money. Last year, when the Dutch-born girl was forced out of the race with a cramp, Miss Bell did the distance in 10:07.28.

Park and Lumsden finished in the same one-two fashion as they did last year. They were trailed by another CNE veteran, Steve Zozulak, 39, of Buffalo, N.Y., who took $1,000 third money. Park, husky 3-foot-9-inch swimmer weighing 180 pounds, crossed the finish line with powerful strokes although his time was about 28 minutes more than in last year's performance. He said, however, that he felt he swam better this year, since the water was rougher and the wind more troublesome than last year.

A crowd of 4,000 persons on the steel pier and in small boats cheered him enthusiastically at the finish. The race around Atlantic City's Abascoin Island was about half in the open ocean.

DIES IN FALLS

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—A young Canadian woman plunged to her death over Niagara Falls early Monday, police reported. Police said the woman was identified from papers found in a purse on the river bank as Miss Diane Gage, about 30, of Toronto.

MARILYN BELL

Blonde Canadian Youngster Follows Epic Victory With Dip in Dover Harbor

By ARCH MACKENZIE

Canadian Press Staff Writer

FOLKESTONE, England (CP)—Marilyn Bell says the people in accompanying boats had it harder than she did during her epic conquest of the English channel Sunday.

"The water was so rough," she remarked during a press conference Monday. "It was all so boring for them just to have to go on watching me all the time. I had something to do and that made all the difference."

Hundreds of messages have poured into Marilyn's hotel here, congratulating the blonde, freckle-faced Toronto girl on becoming the youngest person ever to swim the Channel.

Among the senders were Prime Minister St. Laurent, the mayors of Toronto and Montreal and British swimmer Brenda Fisher, now training for a swim in Canada, who holds the women's record of 12 hours, 42 minutes for the swim.

Marilyn, 17, swam from Cap Gris Nez, France, to Abbotsclyff, between Dover and Folkestone, in 14 hours, 36 minutes.

WENT FOR SWIM

The Toronto schoolgirl celebrated her first day of freedom after weeks of training by resting about her hotel and going for a dip in Dover harbor.

As she splashed about in the water she told reporters about some of her experiences during the long channel crossing. She described running into schools of jellyfish and said: "They got me twice just before the end."

Asked if she was disappointed at not breaking the women's record, Marilyn let coach Gus Ryder answer for her. "No," said Ryder, who was in a boat with the swimmer's parents during the crossing. "Of course, all athletes like to beat a record but conditions have to be perfect. Although she started with the sea like a mill pond it got very choppy later on."

Marilyn said her future swimming plans are uncertain. After finishing high school next spring, she plans to enter the University of Toronto.

WITHOUT FANFARE

In contrast to her widely publicized channel crossing, Marilyn's dip in the harbor was without fanfare. It followed what she described as a "wonderful night's sleep."

As news of her remarkable exploit spread, it became a dominant topic of conversation among visitors and residents of England's south coast. Marilyn, apparently oblivious to all the excitement, slipped quietly away from her hotel and went to Dover for the swim and a talk with her channel pilot, John (Pop) Burwell.

A British buccannier who saw Marilyn finish, recalled the final tense moments. "Some were going to help her when she got near the shore," he recounted. "The crowd should have left her alone or the swim would be void."

Marilyn scrambled ashore on hands and knees to the cheers of hundreds of people lining the 400-foot-high cliffs.

Dr. Bruce Findlay, who treated the girl in July for a throat infection, while she was in training and was with her on the swim, said he was completely satisfied with her condition.

She was bright and exhilarated Monday and spent most of the time out of doors. Before returning to Toronto Marilyn plans a trip to Paris, one of the prizes she won in conquering the Channel.

The little Toronto girl was Britain's holiday heroine, London newspapers Monday banner-lined her epic of courage and printed pictures showing Marilyn entering the water with a smile at Cap Gris Nez, France, and wearily crawling out on the pebbles of Abbotsclyff.

"Schoolgirl swims channel," proclaimed the Daily Sketch. Other papers told of Marilyn's struggle, especially during the final two miles when a westerly current pulled her down the coast and for a time threatened her ultimate victory.

With the channel swim behind her, Marilyn now will settle down to a brief but well-deserved rest and some sightseeing. She is expected to remain in England long enough to visit the ancient cathedral city of York, a walled city she has always wanted to see.

When Marilyn reached the rough beach below Abbotsclyff, she pushed her cheek to the pebbles and said:

"Gee, I never thought this moment would happen."

One newspaper said she finished the swim with a four-leaf clover in her hand, and slept with it under her pillow.

YOUNGEST SWIMMER

All papers cheered Marilyn as the youngest swimmer to defeat the tricky tides and currents that make the 21-mile crossing such a hazardous feat.

During the final stages, Marilyn's 12-year-old sister Karen, with her parents in an accompanying launch was seasick from the choppy waves along the Dover coast. One of the five British "pacers" who kept Marilyn company in the water was also ill.

As she stepped onto the beach, Marilyn, clad in a black nylon bathing suit with white shoulder straps, a red bathing cap and goggles, managed a big grin.

"I am very happy," she sputtered. She attempted to speak to the throng of British holiday-makers gathered to greet her, but the breakers drowned her words.

A huge wave, knocked her down seconds later. Attendants then helped Marilyn into a small boat, in which she was taken to Dover. A small crowd of Dover residents was waiting to cheer her as she arrived at the Prince of Wales pier.

CONTINUE PARTNERSHIP

"We'll help each other," Marilyn said to her coach, Gus Ryder, as the weary pair climbed the steps at the pier.

Ryder, who stood most of the way across despite a rough sea, said nothing. He was probably too tired.

A woman shouted "Good go, Canada" as a car took Marilyn to her hotel.

Until Marilyn's swim, Philip Mickman of England was the youngest person to have swum the channel. He made the crossing in 1949 at the age of 18. Gertrude Ederle, first woman conqueror of the straits in 1926 at the age of 19, had been the youngest woman to make the crossing.

The swim climaxed months of preparation and training. It had been planned for earlier last month but a cold kept Marilyn in bed for a week and also prevented her from being presented to the Queen at Buckingham Palace.

Shirley Dunbar of Nottingham, England, who was to accompany Marilyn in her swim, was forced to give up because of sea-sickness after five hours, 22 minutes. Gus Ryder steered Marilyn through the odd patches of seaweed and the occasional jellyfish school as she swam through the water, which was a warmish 60 degrees—a considerable help.

Marilyn joked with the "pacers," who kept her on course. A slight wind came up around 8 a.m. and the launch raised the Canadian red ensign and beneath it the Marilyn Bell flag, a bluebell with one blue maple leaf on either side of a white field.

A boat had to be sent back to France, when it was discovered Marilyn's spare goggles were missing.

Every hour Ryder fed the schoolgirl. While he gave her a cup, often containing corn syrup, she treaded water and often made a light-hearted remark.

Trabert Taken To Hospital

NEW YORK (AP)—Tony Trabert's back miseries were diagnosed as nothing more than a pulled muscle Monday and the fluctuating United States Davis Cup took an upward turn.

Trabert, America's No. 1 star, was taken to hospital by cup captain Bill Talbert for a checkup.

Talbert said he didn't know when Tony would get back in action. However, since the injury is not serious, Trabert's illness will be ready for action in the challenge round.

The challenge round is scheduled Aug. 26-28—less than a month away—for set Hillman 4 Trabert must return to competition well before that if he is to be in to playing trim.

REJECTS REQUEST

CALEDON (CP)—Township council Monday rejected a request that it take immediate steps to establish a 3,600-acre, $10,000,000 national park in Caledon hills. Council said it would give consideration to a proposal that Caledon pass a zoning by-law restricting use of land in the area.

With Marilyn Bell

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost Sunday cabled Ontario's congratulations to Marilyn Bell on her conquest of the English channel.

"The government and people of Ontario salute you as a great world champion as the news is flashed to your native province and home city of Toronto that you have successfully completed your France-to-England battle with the English channel," he said.

"In pitting yourself against the forces of Nature and conquering the channel, you have demonstrated a courage and stamina which have won the admiration of the world."

"Your parents, grandmother and other relatives will be very proud as are all the people of Canada who rejoice in your great victory."

Before the swim, the premier cabled Marilyn:

"Ontario is pulling for you. Best of luck to you and Gus."

FOLKESTONE, England (CP)—A toy panda is being credited with helping buck up Marilyn Bell when she was struggling to hold her own a mile from shore toward the end of her channel swim Sunday. As her spirits and strength began to sag at one point, coach Gus Ryder picked up the panda, one of several mascots in the boat for luck and nursed it in his arms.

"The sight of the tough looking Gus nursing that panda made her laugh hard," a friend said. She seemed to find renewed strength for that final effort and finished with a sprint.

Those accompanying her in the escort boat had also played her the odd musical selection on a toy trumpet and mouth organ to keep her spirits up.

TORONTO (CP)—Marilyn Bell, 17, youngest swimmer ever to conquer the English channel, will receive $15,000 plus a trip to Paris and Rome for her and three companions.

This was announced Sunday by The Telegram, sponsor of her channel swim.

Mayor Nathan Phillips of Toronto cabled his congratulations as soon as word of her triumph reached here. He said she will be given a ticker-tape parade reception on her return from Europe.

TORONTO (CP)—Brenda Fisher of England, who holds the women's record for swimming the English channel, said Sunday Marilyn Bell probably could have broken the mark if she had not run into strong currents.

Brenda, who set the record of 12 hours and 42 minutes in 1951, said Marilyn was making such good progress in the first eight hours of her channel swim Sunday that she figured the record would be broken.

Marilyn, 17-year-old Toronto schoolgirl, crossed the channel in 14 hours and 36 minutes. She bucked strong currents near the end of the swim.

MONTREAL (CP)—Mayor Jean Drapeau has sent a telegram on behalf of the people of Montreal to congratulate Marilyn Bell on her English channel swim Sunday.

The cable says: "Best congratulations in the name of all the citizens of Montreal. Your feat has brought pride and joy to every Canadian. Wish you accept invitation extended to you on your first visit at Montreal city hall."

FOLKESTONE, England (CP)—Marilyn Bell was the toast of the south coast Monday.

Swarms of Bank Holiday seaside visitors made her channel conquest their conversation piece. They didn't even talk about the unusual weather—brilliant sunshine.

"Did you see her," the elderly lady in a white hat asked her neighbor in the beach chair rows along the water. "We just missed her."

"Fancy swimming all that way alone," said another.

They talked about her age (17), her height (five-foot-two), her weight (122 pounds), the color of her hair (dark blonde) and her courage.

"What got me," said a weekend staying at the same hotel, "was the way she came back from the swim last night. She and her coach (Gus Ryder) came into the lobby about 10 o'clock alone. Her hair was wet and she looked like she had just finished a swim across a pool rather than the channel."

"A woman came up to congratulate her and she hugged her and said how happy she was and that was that."

American League Race Reaches Fever Heat As Top Teams Join Battle

White Sox Leading by Game Tackle Red Hot Red Sox As Yankees Take on Indians

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nursing a paper-thin one-game lead and deprived of the services of their top pitcher, Chicago White Sox tackle the rickety Boston Red Sox tonight as the tight American League race reaches a fever pitch.

White Sox are just one game and 12 percentage points in front of New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians and three games ahead of Red Sox, currently the hottest team in the league. The Yanks and Indians also will be trying to knock each other out of the race in the first of a three-game set in New York.

No games were scheduled in the American League Monday but the National League had a full slate. Brooklyn Dodgers pulled 14½ games in front of the race by coming from behind to defeat the second-place Milwaukee Braves 4-3 in 10 innings.

GIANTS BEAT CARDS

In other games, New York Giants knocked St. Louis Cardinals into seventh place with a 9-1 victory. Cincinnati Reds moved up to sixth by winning their fifth straight, a 4-3 decision over Philadelphia Phillies, and Pittsburgh Pirates edged Chicago Cubs 5-4. Sunday, in the American, Boston was a double winner over Detroit 8-3 and 3-2. Chicago took Washington 3-1 in 11 innings and then skinned to a 6-5 win in the second game. New York won the opener with Kansas City 5-2 but as came back with a 7-1 victory. Baltimore won 4-3 over Cleveland but the Indians posted a 6-0 shut-out to get even for the day.

In the National, Brooklyn bombed St. Louis 12-1. New York broke Milwaukee's six-game winning streak 7-3. Chicago swept two from Philadelphia 7-1 and 6-5 and Cincinnati won a pair from Pittsburgh 7-4 and 6-5. Marty Marion's White Sox not only have the Red Sox to contend with but they also face a serious psychological barrier. Dick Donovan, their No. 1 right-hander, is recuperating from an appendectomy and will be out of action more than four weeks.

HELD SCORELESS

Monday Lew Burdette held the Brooks scoreless until they tied it in the seventh with three runs. They won it in the 10th when John Logan got only one out on a potential double-play ball, permitting Junior Gilliam to score. Karl Spooner, third Brooks pitcher, was the winner and Ernie Johnson lost it.

Don Liddle made his first start for the Giants in two months and held the Cards to five hits. Willie Mays hit his 34th homer of the season.

Hershel Freeman came to a mate's rescue for the third time in the last three games, when he saved Art Fowler in the ninth. Fowler helped himself by batting in one run with a single. Dick Hall whipped the Cubs for the second time in eight days and in the process broke a six-game Pirates' losing streak. He also knocked in what proved to be the winning run with a single in the ninth. That gave him a 5-2 lead but the Cubs scored twice in their half.

THEY DIVIDED

The recall of Don Larsen from the Denver farm looked like just what the Yankees needed Sunday as he threw a four-hitter at the As in the first game for a 5-2 victory. Then the As, who humbled New York Saturday 12-2, rose up to score five in the ninth and take the second game 7-1. Gus Zernial's two-run homer in the eighth gave the As the lead. The clubs tied a major league record with nine double plays in the second game.

Brooklyn continued to pour it on its National League rivals Sunday by bombing the St. Louis Cardinals with 14 hits. Don Newcombe breezed in with a five-hitter to make his record 18-1 for the season. Roy Campanella's 200th homer of his career was one of four hits by the Dodger pitcher.

The New York Giants, so discouraged that they sold Sal Maglie, their old "Dodger killer," to Cleveland, broke Milwaukee's six-game winning streak. The Cardinals' power in Milwaukee who is tied until the club wins seven straight has another long wait. The Braves also lost the services of first baseman Joe Adcock for a month when he suffered a fractured right forearm as the result of being hit by a Jim Hearn pitch. Willie Mays hit home run No. 33 for the Giants.

In the most notable game Saturday, Herb Score, Cleveland's 22-year-old rookie fastball pitcher, hurled a one-hitter as the Indians defeated Baltimore 7-0. A single by third baseman Jim Dyck in the fourth was the only hit off Score, who won his 10th game and struck out 19, boosting his total to 164, tops in both leagues.

New York Papers Front-Page Marilyn Bell

NEW YORK (CP) — Three of the papers Monday gave front-page space to Marilyn Bell's conquest of the English channel.

The Daily News gave Marilyn the biggest play, devoting most of its front page to the Toronto swimmer with two large radio-photos. One showed Marilyn entering the water at the start of her swim and the other showed her stroking her way across the channel.

The News also carried a double-column picture of Marilyn on Page 3 over a two-column headline story. The Herald Tribune had a two-column picture of Marilyn in the water and a double-column story, both on the front page, while The Daily Mirror had a page-wide headline on Page 1, a single-column story on Page 2 and a picture of Marilyn in the channel waters on its back page.

The Times played Marilyn on Page 9 with a single-column story and a double-column picture of her entering the water.

Girl Swimmer Pulled from Lake

PORT DOVER, Ont. (CP) — Gerda Olsson, 18, Simcoe swimmer was pulled from Lake Erie at 4:55 p.m. Monday 14 miles out from Port Dover.

Miss Olsson set out Monday morning from Long Point beach for Port Dover, 23 miles to the north in what her coach described as a practice swim for the Canadian National Exhibition marathon Sept. 5.

The plucky Scot's girl, who June 26 became the first person to swim Lake Erie, had to battle high waves right from the first. She was tired out by the time coach Ward Wright ordered her out of the water only 8½ miles from where she started.

Records Broken At Fort Erie

FORT ERIE (CP) — Bunt's Flight, a bargain Canadian-bred, won the $5,000 Summer Stakes for two-year-olds Monday at the Fort Erie Jockey Club. A weekend holiday crowd of 10,000 witnessed the afternoon's racing.

Three records were broken at the track Saturday. The crowd of 12,707 was the largest to attend the track. A betting record was established when $579,576 passed through the "tote" machines, an increase of $18,967 over last year. The fans wagered $45,268 on the daily double, setting a record. Betting on the feature race totaled $77,275.

Jimmy Baxter, owned by Ben R. Steen, of Toronto, won the featured $10,000 Niagara Stakes Saturday. He led from gate to wire and outlasted Marked Game by a short neck at the finish.

Marlene Shoots Round in Par

VICTORIA (CP) — Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, Ont., defending Canadian women's closed and open golf champion, Monday rated the Royal Colwood course here—where the 1955 titles will be decided—a tight course with little room for error.

In a weekend round, Miss Stewart toured the links in par 77. No official record is kept but club officers said it beat the best competitive score in recent years—a 78 by Victoria's Marg Todd in a local medal play competition "some time ago."

Marlene arrived here along with the vanguard of more than 100 players from across the continent, including six from the United States, who will take part in the closed, open and senior and junior inter-provincial championships beginning Thursday.

Polio Victim Completes Swim

BAGOTVILLE, Que. (CP) — A 28-year-old polio victim was given a year's holiday today as he completed a 28-mile swim down the Saguenay river from the northern Quebec centre of Chicoutimi.

The plucky swimmer is Robert Cossette of nearby Port Alfred, who was stricken with infantile paralysis at the age of four months. The illness has left him with one of his legs useless and undeveloped.

He left Chicoutimi at 12:30 p.m. EDT Sunday and arrived here at 3:05 a.m. Monday. Two other swimmers, who started out with him, gave up after 14 miles.

Canadian Amateur Championship Field Narrowed to 58 Linksman

By PETER MURRAY

CANADIAN PRESS Staff Writer

CALGARY (CP) — A trimmed field of 58 golfers, headed by a Florida bond salesman and a one-time fisherman from British Columbia, open play today in the second round of the Canadian amateur championship.

The starting draw of 107 was chopped in two Monday in the first 18 holes of match play in the picturesque Calgary country club course. Most of the top players advanced easily.

Don Biplinghoff, 20-year-old stock and bond salesman from Orlando, Fla., who won the U.S. junior championship in 1952 and was finalist in the French Amateur this year, is given the best chance to succeed Harvie Ward, Jr., of San Francisco, as Canadian titleholder.

He showed why Monday in making quick work of Walt Holden, Jr., of Calgary, with a 6 and 5 win.

TOP CANUCK

Top Canadian threat is Lyle Crawford of Vancouver, who turned to selling cars last year after two years commercial fishing along the B.C. coast. The last Canadian to win the Amateur was Walt McElroy of Vancouver in 1951 at Ottawa.

Crawford, who complained of feeling ill, was taken to the 18th green Monday before disposing obsequiously to the Canadian title at Royal Bonbride of Edmonton, two rounds with a nervy display of golf.

The 22-year-old B.C. amateur champion was well off the form he displayed Saturday in leading the four-man west coast team to its second straight Willingdon Cup victory, with a pair of record smashing 67's.

Of the 32 players who competed in the interprovincial matches Saturday, 27 entered the Amateur and only four failed to survive the first round.

The most notable casualty was Bob Gardner of Calgary, who dropped a 3 and 2 decision to Dave Moon of Halifax. Gardner was low scorer on the dark horse Alberta team which took second place behind B.C.

Quebec was third with a 579 total. The Ontario foursome finished fourth, two strokes back of Quebec, despite a five 69-69-138 by Moe Norman of Kitchener. Norman is another highly rated Canadian in the amateur.

BEAT OLD MARK

Crawford's six under par for the two interprovincial rounds Saturday cut four strokes from the record of 138 held jointly by Gerry Kesselring, Kitchener, Nick Westlock, Windsor, Ont., and Jimmy Robertson, Vancouver.

Even the juniors got in on the record book assault as slender George Knudson of Winnipeg green Monday before disposing of Robert Blairbridge of Edmonton, two rounds with a nervy display of golf.

Oshawa Headed For Trouble

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Oshawa Merchants may be heading for trouble in the senior inter-county baseball league.

The Merchants, protecting a slim lead over the second-place Kitchener Panthers in the league race, suffered one of their worst defeats of the year Monday when they were walloped 10-4 by Galt Terriers. It could be the first sign of a Merchant slump.

The loss, however, left Merchants still 2½ games ahead of Panthers because Kitchener dropped a 5-0 decision to the third-place St. Thomas Elgins Monday.

In two other inter-county games during the weekend, London Majors beat Elgins 8-6 and Brantford Red Sox edged the last-place Terriers 5-3 Saturday.

NIAGARA TIE

In the Niagara district league, Fort Erie Hornets rallied for three runs in the ninth inning to deadlock Niagara Falls Cataracts 5-5 last night. The engagement, at Fort Erie, didn't go into extra innings.

Down two strokes to Saskatchewan's Wilf Homenuik after the morning round, the 18-year-old Knudson fired a slick 69 on the second 18 while Homenuik blew to a 76.

Knudson's 71-69-140 total sliced seven strokes from the previous low of 147 set by Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver in 1948.

St. Catharines Rowing Club Wins Royal Canadian Henley Honors

PORT DALHOUSIE, Ont. (CP) — 155-pound fours and the senior Buffalo Westsides' domination of, eight, the Royal Canadian Henley regatta has been stopped—at least temporarily.

The powerful New York state club, winners of the Henley since 1951, surrendered the title to St. Catharines Saturday but they had some consolation. The Americans won the much-sought senior eight and the Ned Hanlan Memorial Trophy.

And Philadelphia's John Kelly Jr. went home with the co-featured championship singles, winning the mile and 550-yard race for a record-breaking sixth time. No other sculler in the 73-year history of the regatta has matched the 28-year-old American's record.

Westsides, with an 80-man representation, the largest of the participating 19 Canadian and American clubs, were favored to make it five in a row but St. Catharines came up with powerful crews in the fours and eights to take the Maple Leaf Trophy. The Ontario club ended with 215½ points, far ahead of Westsides' second-place finish with 240½.

Westsides weren't in contention for the regatta honors until Saturday's final program. They started the day in seventh position and climbed to the runner-up spot with victories in the senior fours, senior est permanent colony.

It was a remarkable showing by the eastern Ontario club — and Rooney—and gave the club 100½ points and seventh position in the final standing.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, August 2, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries). — Struggling your work is sometimes advisable but you may overdo it, becoming exacting, extreme. Strike a happy medium for better results. And stand by your principles.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus). — A good day for you Taurus natives—especially where new ideas, modern methods, advance preparation for future benefits are concerned. Romance favored.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini). — Apply yourself carefully today. Being quick on the "follow through" is not always in order. The more steady and consistent, the greater your chances of success.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer). — Today's influences stress regularity and system. Don't override others' feelings and opinions. Listen instead. Don't be led unwisely, however.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo). — You may be between two "fires" at cross purposes now. There are some uncertainties. Don't toss a coin; that won't help. Instead, stop, study and, if need be, seek sound advice.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo). — Keep an open mind on current happenings to get closer to the meaning of things. Planning endeavors first will save much time, and will result in bigger, better rewards. Relax properly for health's sake.

Land Conservation on Prairies Cost $77,000,000 in 18 Years

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—In 1935, Angus MacKay, a pioneer western farmer, discovered that by seeding wheat on land that lay idle for a year he was able to increase the yield by as much as 35 bushels an acre.

Mr. MacKay's observations and experiments led to the introduction of summer fallowing as a standard farm practice for moisture conservation, one of the earliest conservation moves made on the Prairies.

Since then conservation has become a household word in farm homes, and is as much a part of farming as the sowing of grain. But it's taken years to gain that position, and the battle is still not won.

PIONEERS LAX

When the homesteaders moved on to the virgin prairie, many intended to grow a few crops, sell their land and then leave. Consequently, little was done to protect the soil from wind and erosion.

Now the farmer, the federal and provincial governments spend millions annually on conservation projects.

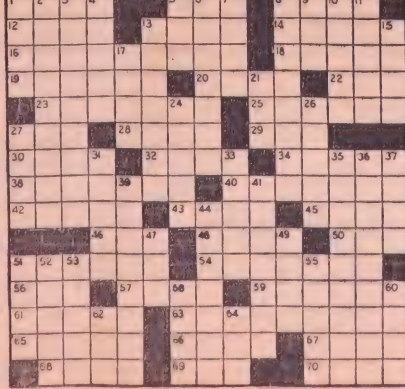

The most ambitious programs have been carried out under the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act set up by the federal government in 1935 as a result of prolonged drought and soil drifting. The PFRA program, administered from headquarters in Regina, centres about two major activities—land utilization and water conservation.

By March 31, 1955, the PFRA had spent approximately $77,000,000.

It has spent some $43,000,000 on the reclamation of 1,500,000 acres of starved land and on assistance to farmers through dams and irrigation projects. Some $34,000,000 was used on such special projects as the St. Mary and Bow river irrigation systems in Alberta and diking and related flood-protection works in the Riding Mountain area of Manitoba.

Olivers Observe Silver Wedding Anniversary

PRICEVILLE, Ont. (CP)—A man whose entire adult life has been bound up in politics and a woman who shines away from political activities celebrated 25 years of marriage here Monday.

Faughar Oliver, Ontario Liberal leader, and Mrs. Oliver held a dinner party for about 40 friends and relatives on their silver wedding anniversary.

The celebration was a day early. They were married Aug. 2, 1930.

"We decided to hold it today because everybody is here for the Civic Holiday," Mrs. Oliver explained.

BRIDGE SAGS

SOUTH HILL, Va. (AP)—A pillar supporting a bridge on heavily travelled U.S. highway No. 1 collapsed 10 miles south of here Thursday night. The concrete surface of the bridge sank about two feet when the pillar gave way about midnight. There were no cars on the span at the time.

Moth's Digestive Troubles Interest Aussie Scientists

MELBOURNE (Reuters)—More than 100 experts from all parts of the world met here in August to discuss the digestive troubles of moths and what causes socks to shrink in the wash.

The conference is being sponsored by the Australian Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization and the Australian wool bureau.

"Why is wool curly?" will be one of the questions discussed. Dr. R. D. B. Fraser of the Australian research organization explained that wool buyers base their judgment of the quality of wool on, among other things, the curliness, or crimp of the staple.

"Just why they choose wool for its curliness, we don't know, scientifically speaking," he said. "The textile manufacturers say the crimp quality is better for what they want, mainly for weaving into fine suitings. But, exactly what the wool curl fiber with the more pronounced crimp better for their purpose we don't know."

"It is a good example of the gap between craftsmanship and science. If we scientists knew what quality in the curly wool was so good, we would then have a basis on which to attempt to breed sheep which grew wool better to meet the weavers' requirements."

Dr. Fraser explained why the scientists are interested in the digestive systems of moths, or actually, the larvae of moths which attack the wool in which they are hatched. For many years, various researchers worked on repellents and now have switched to toxic compounds which could be incorporated in the wool fibres in dyeing vats. The idea is that the larvae will find the compounds impossible to digest, so will leave the wool alone.

"I don't think I need enlarge very much on the matter of shrinking socks," Dr. Fraser laughed. "It is an aspect of wool that has been only too well known."

"A lot of research has been made into the problem and the latest method of dealing with it, by resin treatment is promising and will be discussed at the conference."

Navy Tests Channel Swimmers In Survival Research Project

LONDON (Reuters)—More than 20 men and women from 15 countries taking part in the international cross-channel swimming race from France to England in August will act as medical guinea pigs for an admiralty survival research project.

The experiment is to discover the effects on the human body of prolonged expenditure of energy in cold seas, with a view to applying the lessons learned for the benefit of shipwrecked seamen or airmen forced down on the ocean. Particular attention will be paid to the fat distribution of the body, which is human insulation against cold.

Physiologists will examine each swimmer before the race, and then follow them across the channel in a naval motor launch.

In other motor boats following each competitor will be royal marine signallers with radio-telephone sets who can call the scientists' launch to the scene when any swimmer gives up and is taken out of the water. A physiologist will then make a further examination of the swimmer.

As competitors reach the English coast, whether under their own swimming power or by boat, they will be taken to a medical centre for a further examination.

The scientists will have men and women from widely different climates and ways of life to investigate as there are entrants from Mexico, Portugal, the United States, Syria, Lebanon, Egypt, Greece, Turkey, Malta, New Zealand, Denmark, India, England, Ireland and Scotland.

They are due to start their swim between Aug. 10 and 16, as weather conditions permit.

The scientific records obtained will be related to other findings in long-term research on survival at sea. The object is to discover the best equipment, clothing and methods for saving the lives of seamen forced by disaster or enemy action to take to rafts or dinghies in the open sea.

Housing Units For Disabled Vets Planned

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A plan to provide housing units for disabled veterans of the First World War at a cost of not more than $25 a month was outlined Monday to the Ontario provincial command of the Canadian Legion.

Provincial president Harold Tolley, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., said a prefabricated house, costing about $3,000, could be provided to any organized veterans' group in Ontario which will undertake to provide land and services to erect the house.

He said the local organization would have to agree not to charge more than $25 a month, and to pay taxes and maintain the property. The organization would be given title to the property after 15 years, he said.

TURN BACK TWO

The convention turned back two resolutions which were aimed at limiting the influence of immigrants to Canada. One, which asked the Ontario government to take steps to abolish what it termed "foreign colonies" in the province, was criticized by several branches as being contrary to the British North America Act and undemocratic.

A second resolution, discussed at the same time, called for laws to prevent building of schools to continue foreign languages and customs. It was decided by the convention to return it for recording.

N. McGuigan, deputy commander of the Blenheim branch, suggested the resolution should read that French or English has to be learned by every child in a Canadian school.

STONE SPARKS BLAZE

GODERICH (CP)—A stone because lodged in a threshing machine on the nearby farm of William Robertson Monday and caused this chain of events:

The stone, cut by the blades, sparked a grass fire, which spread over several acres of meadowland, burned farm implements, destroyed $28,000 worth of grain in two barns and ignited the nearby home of William Dobie.

Firemen and farmers managed to save the building.

Minor Baseball

Behind the one-hit hurling of W. Keeble, Parkdale defeated the Tigers 7-1 in a minor league baseball game on Saturday.

The winners scored two runs in the second and exploded for five in the third.

Keeble struck out fourteen Tigers but issued seven walks. T. Hook on the mound for the losers gave up seven hits, whiffed ten and walked three.

Tigers scored their lone run in the first innings. They committed eight errors as against two for Parkdale.

Keeble hit a double and single with R. Wilson and R. Conboy getting two singles each. Terry McCabe hit a double for the Tigers.

Aussies Sweep Davis Cup Honors From Canada

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada is out of the Davis Cup picture for 1955 after dropping five straight matches to a power-packed Australian squad in the tennis classic's North American zone final.

Aussies Ken Rosewall and Lew Hoad completed the sweep Sunday as they beat Henri Rochon and Don Fontana, respectively, both in straight sets. Scores in the Rosewall-Rochon match were 6-1, 6-2, 6-1, while Hoad defeated Fontana 7-5, 6-2.

The Australian squad now goes to Glen Cove, N.Y., to meet Japan, winner of the Asian zone final. Winner of the tie at Glen Cove will go off with Italy for the right to play into the challenge round against the United States at Forest Hills, N.Y., Aug. 28-29.

Australia clinched the zone tie here Saturday when Hoad and Rex Hartwig downed Fontana and Bob Bedard 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 in a doubles fixture.

PLAYED WELL. Harry Hopman, captain of the Australian squad, said he thought the Canadians played well and he singled out Fontana especially.

"He served very well and he has good ground strokes," said Hopman. "but he still has a few things to learn."

Although Hoad beat Fontana in straight sets Sunday, the lanky Torontonian gave a good account of himself.

WINNERS. The Australian squad now goes to Glen Cove, N.Y., to meet Japan, winner of the Asian zone final. Winner of the tie at Glen Cove will go off with Italy for the right to play into the challenge round against the United States at Forest Hills, N.Y., Aug. 28-29.

Australia clinched the zone tie here Saturday when Hoad and Rex Hartwig downed Fontana and Bob Bedard 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 in a doubles fixture.

PLAYED WELL. Harry Hopman, captain of the Australian squad, said he thought the Canadians played well and he singled out Fontana especially.

Shellettes Edge Madoc Girls 1-0

In one of the best games played this season, the Osterhout Shellettes edged the Madoc girls softball team by a 1-0 score to rack up their 14th straight victory.

The Shellettes scored the only run of the game in the sixth inning as Linda Wagg and Berny Thomson waged a stiff pitcher's tting two each.

duel. Linda gave up 11 hits but smart fielding held the Madoc ladies off the score sheet.

Berny Thomson held the city girls to six hits while whiffing four and walking none. Linda Wagg struck out three and issued no walks.

Helen Reebes paced the winners with a double and single with Mary Ann Ray getting two singles. Betty Empey and L. Canning got the others.

Sagar had three singles for Madoc with Rollins and Barry getting two each.

200 Vegetarians Settle for Soup And Trimmings

PARIS (AP) — Two hundred vegetarians came to the gourmet capital of the world Monday and settled for potato soup and the trimmings.

They shunned thick steaks, lobster, French wines and cheeses, and concluded things would be better all around if everybody joined them.

It was the annual congress of the International Vegetarian Union.

The union's president, Mrs. Gloria Gasque, passed on the word that vegetarians now are in the majority in the world.

"All over the world there are many more vegetarians than meat-eaters," Mrs. Gasque told a reporter. "They think we're queer, but the meat eaters are the queer ones and don't know it."

Mrs. Gasque, a woman in her 50s who hasn't touched meat since her early teens, attributed the big problems of the world to those who kill animals for meat.

"It's a matter of vibration," she said. "The vibration from shock and hate of the animal at being killed is transferred to the people who eat the meat."

Level Crossing Accident Takes Father of Two

Widow and Children Receive $10,000 on $5,000 Policy

In Western Canada, a young executive died recently in a level crossing accident. He was insured with a $5,000 Confederation Life Policy carrying an Accidental Death & Dismemberment Benefit. As a result, his widow and children received $10,000 for their care and protection.

The only policy of its kind in Canada!

Confederation's Accidental Death & Dismemberment Benefit on a $5,000 Policy pays:

- $5,000 if you die from natural causes.
- $10,000 if you die by accident.
- $15,000 if you die by accident while a passenger in a commercial bus, streetcar, train or ship, or in a fire in a public place.

Liberal cash payments for dismemberment accidents.

Diefenbaker Says Morale Canadian Servicemen High

OTTAWA (CP) — Morale of Canadian servicemen in Europe is high, John Diefenbaker said Monday.

The Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Prince Albert was one of a 20-member NATO Parliamentary Association delegation which returned to Ottawa by RCAF plane after a trip to Paris and visits to the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade and RCAF Air Division in Germany and France.

Five other members of the delegation, including Senator Wishart, McL. Robertson, who headed the group, remained in Europe.

Mr. Diefenbaker said in an airport interview that it is impossible to find Canadian newspapers at Canadian bases in Europe.

John Hunter, Liberal MP for Toronto Parkeville, said he was staggered at the size and complexity of Canada's military installations in Europe.

"Our equipment is the envy of the Americans. Our Mark V and Mark VI (jet) Sabres fly rings around theirs."

Three women — Senator Muriel Fergusson, Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, Conservative member for Hamilton West, and Mrs. Ann Shipley, Liberal MP for Temiskaming, made the trip.

CUTHBERT ADMITS

Mr. Norris produced documents to show that Cuthbert had paid $350 down and $15 a month to purchase his $4,000 home from Rosina Campello, a one-time bootlegger, then, in 1947, paid off the mortgage in full.

Cuthbert testified he inherited between $5,000 and $7,000 from his mother who died in England in "1944 or 1945" and offered to produce evidence to prove it.

Then Mr. Norris picked up the officer's record sheet, a copy of the official conduct report kept at police headquarters.

"Do you remember an offence in 1945, concerning a woman named Youmans and a man named Edgewood?" the lawyer asked.

"He was a crook—a bad one," Cuthbert replied. "He was a bad egg—a fraud."

"Do you remember you were charged that while on duty you acted in a manner to Miss Phyllis Youmans to bring discredit on the force? That you were suspended and reduced in rank?"

"I remember."

Over the objections of Cuthbert's counsel, Mr. Norris produced a statement signed in 1945 by the woman to the effect that Cuthbert, had asked and she had given him a signed document stating she was not a virgin "and that I had intercourse with men."

After securing the statement, Mr. Norris said, the detective dated her. The counsel said they went to a hotel room where the officer attempted to have intercourse with the woman and she refused.

"Is that true?"

"That is true," Cuthbert replied.

New 1955 B-A Gasolines "BURN CLEAN" to protect your engine!

The B-A PLEDGE

WE AT B-A MAKE THIS PROMISE TO THE MOTORING PUBLIC. WE WILL NOT PERMIT A SINGLE COMPETITOR—NO, NOT A SINGLE ONE—TO OFFER GASOLINES SUPERIOR TO OUR NEW 1955 B-A 88 AND 98.

IT IS OUR SINCERE BELIEF THAT NEW 1955 B-A 88 AND 98 ARE THE FINEST GASOLINES IN CANADA TODAY, AND NO MATTER WHAT OTHERS DO OR SAY WE WILL KEEP THEM THE FINEST—in power, in performance, in engine protection.

IT IS ALSO OUR BELIEF THAT YOU CAN'T BUY A BETTER MOTOR OIL THAN OUR OWN PEERLESS HEAVY DUTY MOTOR OIL.

THIS IS NOT A BOAST, NOT A CLAIM. IT IS A PLEDGE TO YOU, THE CANADIAN MOTORIST—A PLEDGE BACKED BY THE RESOURCES—AND THE INTEGRITY—OF THE BRITISH AMERICAN OIL COMPANY LIMITED.

W. S. Fletcher
PRESIDENT

Your engine will have more "get-up-and-go" when you use NEW 1955 B-A Gasolines. B-A has refined out the deposits that harm your engine. This tar-like gummy residue is part of the "dirty-burning tail-end" of the gasoline. It is taken out at the refinery by B-A... to give you clean burning gasolines that really work for you mile after mile. Next time your car needs gasoline—fill up at the sign of the Big B-A with NEW 1955 B-A 88 or 98 gasoline. You'll feel the difference under your foot.

CLUB MEMBERS
GUEST SPEAKERS

Guest speakers to Belleville Kiwanis were club members Bob Irvine and Abe Mazer.

Continuing the summer series of classification talks by members the speakers discussed their particular businesses. Mr. Irvine, chartered accountant, spoke on income tax, while Mr. Mazer gave members an insight into the manufacturing of costume jewelry.

Taylor Franklin introduced the guests while chairman for the meeting was president Staff McKenna.

Grass Fire
Near Mudcat Lane

City firemen were called to the Mudcat Lane area east of Foxboro this morning to fight a grass fire which had got out of control. Only one fire truck was sent to the blaze.

Police Blotter

With temperatures continuing to hover around the 90's, even crime has taken a holiday.

Provincial police said there was "nothing to report" while also with the city police accidents were conspicuous by their absence.

Routine matters dealt with by city officers included a couple of family disturbances, a couple of drunks and a complaint that rest benches at city bus stops were being mutilated by youths.

Parents on Hand
At Playgrounds

Last night each of the 12 playgrounds in the city presented programs to illustrate to the parents what the children have been doing on the parks this summer. Most of the programs consisted of a "Welcome to the Parents", play songs, stories, dramatics, variety shows and craft and sandbox displays. St. Paul's and Queen Elizabeth playgrounds challenged the fathers of their area to softball games.

Each park ran a "Miss Playground Contest". The winner will represent her playground in the "Miss Penny Carnival Contest" which will be held this Friday, August 5th, at East Hill playgrounds at eight.

Boy Has Polio
After Shots

WINDSOR (CP)—An eight-year-old boy believed suffering from non-paralytic polio was admitted to Isolation Hospital here Tuesday for examination. He is Edmund Sheff, of Bearline, Kent county.

Local board of health officials said the boy had received two Salk anti-polio vaccine shots several weeks ago. If he is suffering from polio, he will be the second Canadian child reported to have the disease after receiving the protective shots.

Charles Girardin, 10, of Leamington, Ont., was the first Canadian child to be stricken after being admitted to hospital two weeks ago. His condition now is reported as satisfactory.

Plunges to Death

DETROIT (AP)—A father of two plunged four storeys to his death Tuesday after a purse snatching and an attempt to sell his blood to the Red Cross failed to pay off.

Mrs. Virginia Sheridan said Leroy Harris, 30, approached her in the Red Cross building and offered to sell blood. Telling him the agency did not buy blood, she went into the next room, returning to see Harris with her wallet in his hand.

When Mrs. Sheridan cried out to a friend, Harris ran to an open window and leaped through.

COLOURIZED TO HARMONIZE

Plan on seeding your lawn during the last of August, cool weather and fall rains will give you a lush substantial turf in just a few weeks. But now is the time to make preparations. If you need top-soil, have it brought in and leveled. This gives weed seed (contained in all top-soil) a chance to germinate and be destroyed before seed time.

Ask for our pamphlet on lawn styling a description of various grasses, seed mixtures and situations and we will be glad to advise you on your specific needs.

Obituary

GAYLORD EUGENE (PETE) GOYER

A life resident of this city, Gaylord Eugene (Pete) Goyer, 20 St. Paul Street, died suddenly at his summer cottage at Concession Beach yesterday. He was in his 42nd year.

A commercial fisherman, Mr. Goyer, familiarly known as "Pete", was a popular and well-known member of the city. Born in Belleville, he was the son of Mrs. Isobel Goyer and the late Joseph Goyer. He was a member of St. Michael's Roman Catholic church. His sudden death ended an illness that had lasted nearly six months.

Besides his widow, the former Ruby Goyer, he leaves one daughter and two sons: Joan, at home and Terry in the AA Battery at Picton, and Christopher, at home.

Also survive are two sisters, Mrs. James (Norma) Keegan, Belleville and Mrs. Harry (Phyllis) Plumber, Port Hope, and one brother, Jack Goyer, Belleville.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. MILTON DELONG

Mrs. Edith Isobel Delong, 49 Catherine St., died at home Wednesday, August 3rd, after a long illness in poor health for some time. She was in her 84th year.

The deceased was born in Ameliasburg, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Sweetman, and lived in Bloomfield prior to taking up residence in Belleville 40 years ago.

She was a member of Holloway Street United church.

She is survived by her husband, Milton Delong, one son, Gerald, of Belleville, and five grandchildren. She was the last of her family.

The body is resting at the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Chapel, 38 Everett St. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

CHARLES HENRY MUMBY (Rawdon Township)

Only for ten days, Charles Henry Mumby, died at his home on Tuesday. He was in his 84th year.

Born in Rawdon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mumby, he had lived his entire life in the township. For some years he had lived at Bonarlaw but for the past 56 years he had lived on the farm, where with his wife he was currently living retired.

He was a member of Salem United church, where he was an elder and past treasurer. He was also a past president of the Harold Church Company.

He is survived by his wife, the former Abigail, Belcher, former daughter, Mrs. Albert (Mabel) Twiddy, R.R. 1, Harold and four grandchildren. Also surviving are two brothers, James of Belleville and Lindsay of Bonarlaw, and three sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Linneen of Moosomin, Sask.; Mrs. Martha McInroy of Tweed, and Miss Mildred Mumby of Toronto.

One son, Delbert, pre-deceased him in 1914, while five brothers and one sister are also pre-deceased.

The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

DR. R. G. STEWART (Toronto - Belleville)

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Rupert G. Stewart, 71, retired pastor of St. John's Presbyterian church here, died Tuesday at his summer home at Sturgeon Point.

Dr. Stewart spent 40 years in the ministry. He also held pastorates at St. John's, Nfld., and Belleville, Ont.

Surviving are his widow, three daughters and a son.

NEW YORK (AP)—"Earn while you learn" work-study program in the city's high schools have netted students an estimated $20,000,000 in 25 years, according to a board of education estimate.

Pupils alternate a week of classroom work with a week of job experience in a related field.

Cruisers Slide Out of Harbor
To Open Power Boat Regatta

The lusty throbbing of a dozen engines was an early-morning opening fanfare for the power boat regatta here today, as the event finally got off the water.

The National Youth Club Trophy race, owned by J. Brown, of Toronto, slid out of Belleville harbor to the bay, on the first leg of the race to Picton.

At intervals, it found its way to the smooth waters of the sun-washed bay of Quinte. The race, one of five to be run here for four days ending Saturday, is officially dubbed a long distance predicted log race open of the Lake Yacht Racing Association and Canadian and U.S. power squadrons. However, although it is not a race against time, a similarity all the races have in common here, a time element does enter into it.

Entrants are acquainted with the course with charts but must predict the time of their arrival at various check points along the route. The time taken by the entrant whose times of arrival at these locations coincide most closely with his predictions.

FIVE CHECK POINTS

Five check points there are in all five check points — at the flashing buoy outside Belleville harbor, at Telegraph Island Light

When Mr. LaPalme hooked the 900-lb. shark he was fishing for sailfish which might go 40 or 50 pounds. Or you might hook to a dolphin. Mr. LaPalme has caught them all.

HAS APPEAL FOR FAMILY

Deep sea fishing had its appeal for the entire LaPalme family. Mr. LaPalme's son Kenneth also took to the sea fishing enthusiastically, while the bug has also bitten his eight-year-old grandson Teddy.

But just as with other forms of the sport, fishing Florida-style has a certain luck element.

Mr. LaPalme told of one American millionaire who fished off the Florida coast for ten years before he landed his first big fish.

With the LaPalms it has been different.

"My first time out I caught a sailfish in the first hour and Teddy caught three fish the first time he was out."

It is that kind of luck which brings fishing enthusiasm. So much so that the LaPalms will decide on the spur of the moment for a spot of Florida fishing.

So whether it's two o'clock in the morning or two in the afternoon the LaPalms might catch the next plane out of Malton and a few hours later be deep sea fishing off the Florida coast.

Most Popular Consort in History Plays Catch in Palace Corridor

By JACK SMITH

LONDON (AP)—A cricket ball whistled down the drafty corridor in Buckingham Palace.

"That's the way a grey-bearded royal official, "His Royal Highness at play again."

The Duke of Edinburgh, who plays catch in the hall, is proving himself the most popular Queen's consort in history.

His handsome husband has a serious side and keen intelligence that help. But the quick glimpses Britain catches of the everyday man behind the princely sheen are cementing his success.

The 33-year-old first gentleman of the land is a novelty among royals.

In the ballroom of a fashionable London hotel, watching a rough game of indoor mock hockey in the name of charity, the six-foot duke leaped to his feet with an unroyal shout.

"Smack him! Give him what for!"

His six-year-old son Prince Charles, meeting distinguished guests, uttered a word hardly suitable for the heir to the throne.

"He may have picked it up from one of the workmen," the duke is reported to have explained. "But I'm afraid he may equally have picked it up from me."

There were four Belleville entries in this morning's contests: "The Jane", 29-footer, owned by Dr. J. H. Forrester; Jack Marshall's 32-foot "Jay Gee"; Rodger Riedel's 36-foot "Ebb Tide" and the "Phalabuster", H. M. Crane's 45-footer.

The weather, clear as the chrome of a Chris-craft, co-operated splendidly for the event.

A light breeze wafted across the harbor from the bay, smooth as glass and as bright in the early morning sun. Temperatures were pleasantly warm with discomfort from the heat still down to a minimum.

Eight entrants were expected to return to Belleville about two p.m. with the entire flotilla of entries due back in harbor at four p.m. at the latest.

Other craft contesting the trophy are: "Marlin II", R. Y. Reid; Toronto; "Bobcat", R. Moser, Buffalo; "Happy IV", L. Smart, Niagara; "Bateau Cinq", H. Holcombe, Buffalo; "Pat's Delight", Dr. Parker, Utica; "Chaldean", J. Brown, Toronto; "Rayman", E. Morton, Toronto; "Flamingo II", K. Link, Port Credit.

TORONTO (CP)—Most of southern Ontario today had some relief from the oppressive weather of the last few days, but it will be temporary.

The area around Toronto and Hamilton the temperature was expected to reach 85 today, about seven degrees cooler than Tuesday's high of 92.

Around Kirkland Lake and North Bay, the temperature was expected to be in the 70's, with scattered thundershowers were forecast, with a maximum of 95 in the Earlton district.

Variable cloudiness and widely scattered thundershowers were predicted for the Windsor and James Bay regions. There the highs will range from 85 to 95 degrees, forecasters said.

Muggiest area in the province was expected to be the Windsor area where weather officials said, the weather will continue hot with a high of 95 predicted.

It includes 16 British Herefords shipped to Regina at a cost to owners of $1,000 each. They were culled from some of the most select herds in the United Kingdom.

American entries were restricted but several well-known United States blood lines are represented in the Canadian entries, all from ranches on the prairies and from Ontario. U.S. sires often have been obtained by Canadian Hereford breeders.

At the end of the seventh both squads had reached a deadlock with a 12-12 tie. The extra innings however settled accounts for Elliotts when they scored 3 runs to clinch the win.

Pitching for Elliotts, Hook gave up eight hits, struck out eight and walked 19. Catcher for the winners was Clapp.

Halloway, pitching for Blainds, was tabbed for 14 hits, struck out five and walked 10, with Pointer catching.

A home run by McDonald, a homer, a single by Scribshaw led the losers. Keller had a double and two singles for Elliotts, Lewis, 2 doubles, Ted Hook, three singles and Jim Hook, two singles.

Other hitters for the losers were Norm Till, with two singles and Zakos with a double.

Line score:
Elliott 0 0 2 8 1 0 1 3
Blainds 3 0 0 3 4 0 2 1

SAYS FATHER WILL RUN

HONOLULU (AP)—Army Pte. Borden Stevenson, 23, Tuesday said his father, Adal, has "re-signed himself" to running again.

Stevenson declined to predict in an interview whether his father could defeat President Eisenhower but said, "I'm sure he'll put up a good fight."

PLAN NEW JUMPS

NEW YORK (AP)—Air force Lieut. Henry P. Newman and Capt. Edward G. Sperry, whose 45,200-foot jump last year set parachuting records, are planning to leap from twice that height, in the interest of science. The new jump is to be from a balloon late this year or early 1956.

90-Plus Heat
To Continue
In United States

CHICAGO (AP)—Temperatures headed into the 90-100 range again today in midsummer's persistent and widespread heat wave in most of the United States.

The long-range forecast indicated there will be no general break in the steaming, scorching weather for several days. The 30-day outlook by the weather bureau in Washington has brought additional unpleasant news: warmer than usual weather in August in most of the northern two-thirds of the country.

The steady heat of nearly two weeks in the mid-continent, with only light rain, has threatened some crops. Farmers in central New York state have asked Governor Averell Harriman to declare a drought area so they can get federal aid. Crop damage was expected to run into the millions of dollars.

At least 45 persons have died from the 90-plus heat.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market moved ahead irregularly in first-hour trading today at the Toronto stock exchange.

Mining issues again drew most interest. The base metal index of 15 key issues touched a new record peak while the golds index was at a three-year high.

Industrials were most consistent in the forward movement though gains seldom went to more than a point. Toronto General Trusts was up 2 1/2 to a high of 42 1/2 and better by a point were General Dynamics, Canadian Bronze and Beaver Lumber. Steels and utilities gave the group best support.

Uraniums were dull. Off were Algom, Consolidated Denison, Bell, Faraday and Rayrock.

Best gains in base metals was Barvue Mines, up 35 at $1.90.

Western oils won scant attention. Bralorne, Malartic and Teck Hughes gained amounts up to 15 cents to lead golds upwards.

Holding companies scored a good number of advances. Hoyle, Inspiration, Lake DuFault, Mogul and Ventures were among gainers.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

Canada Packers Show Increase In Net Profit

TORONTO (CP) — Canada Packers, Ltd., had net profit in the 1955 fiscal year of $3,716,652, an increase over 1954 of $14,632, the company's annual report showed today.

Net profit per share was $3.10, up one cent over 1954. Shares paid $1.50 both years.

Dollar sales dropped slightly from $375,473,225 in 1954 to $363,550,639 this year. But working capital advanced from $20,677,934 last year to $22,869,542 in 1955.

Despite the net profit increase, net profit from packinghouse operations was $3,171,778, down from fiscal 1954 by 12.3 per cent. The drop was due mainly to a heavy loss on pork, resulting from a fall in the average price of hogs.

Company president W. F. McLean, commenting on the loss, said that during the last few years there has been a serious decline in the quality of Canadian hogs.

Biggest Log Boom Moved Down River

FREDERICTON (CP) — The biggest log boom ever to move down the winding St. John river from Fredericton to Lancaster, N. B., means employment, profits and a future for many along the riverbanks.

To farmers and independent cutters who contributed many of the 90,000 cords of pulpwood the boom is a boon.

The logs, corralled a few miles from here, will be towed by four river tugboats to Irving Pulp and Paper Ltd. for conversion to newsprint and paper products.

The big boom supplements 90,000 cords moved to the Irving mill earlier this year and boosts the income of independent woods operators who found the winter of 1954-55 far from satisfactory.

About 12,000 of the cords comprising the boom were supplied by farmers between northern Grand Falls and Fredericton. The remainder were taken from woodlands inside the army's Camp Gagetown and company holdings in Madawaska and Victoria counties.

In 1954 the Irving mill gobbled up 150,000 cords of pulpwood. By 1957, with the mill's production capabilities steadily increasing, its annual consumption will be about 350,000 cords, one-third of which will be contributed by independent cutters.

Disk Jockey Has Volunteered To Provide Funds

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A Philadelphia disk jockey has volunteered to provide funds for a trip to Canada so that a two-year-old girl may establish her American citizenship.

Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Jacobs disclosed they had been informed by the U.S. immigration and naturalization service that their daughter, Lesley Sharon, is considered an alien and must apply for citizenship.

The situation developed, Jacobs said, because at the time of Lesley Sharon's birth in England he had not had five years of residence in the U.S. after reaching the age of 16. The little girl was born while he was stationed at Burtonwood air force base, Warrington, England.

Under the same law, Jacobs said, another child, Marvin, 1 1/2, is considered a citizen.

Jacobs said the immigration officials told him he would have to take Lesley Sharon outside the U.S.—Canada would be the closest spot—to obtain a visa and then apply for her citizenship.

Tuesday, disk jockey Phil Sheridan said funds for the little girl's trip would be forthcoming—if her parents accepted—from money he earned in guest appearances.

Prisoner Shot To Death By Prison Guards

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Ten officers shot one prisoner to death and injured four others as they used 40 shots Tuesday night to quell a prison riot.

The bloody, bustling outbreak was the Bexar county jail's second abortive riot in a week. The first, on July 26, took three hours to break up. Tuesday night's was stopped in 30 minutes.

Sheriff Owen Kilday wept as he told of firing the fatal bullet into the riot. "I saw him fall," he said.

Kilday left a hospital bed to come to the jail when jailers warned him that a riot threatened.

He said about 40 shots were fired, including paraffin bullets, and added that he ordered live ammunition used only after the dummy slugs failed to quell the rioters.

The riot was set off, jailer Bob Beckman said, when prisoners protested disciplinary action against Johnny Crawford, 22, an habitual criminal serving life term and described as a leader in last week's riot.

JUDGE, JURY AND SENTENCE

The tragic and unnecessary death of two student nurses in Toronto Monday night once again focuses critical attention on the use of firearms by anyone, including the police.

Two nurses died, a third was seriously injured and the driver of the car that struck the girls is critically injured with a bullet wound in the head. A man trimming a hedge, his two sets of twins and a fifth child all escaped injury or death by inches as the car plunged past them out of control.

The car, allegedly stolen, was being pursued by police in what was described as a "wild chase." Just prior to the senseless slaughter of innocent bystanders it is reported that the police fired at the stolen car which swerved into its path of death.

No car is so valuable that anyone's life, including that of a suspected thief, should be placed in jeopardy by the use of firearms. In cities, especially, even a warning shot can go astray and kill or wound innocent parties.

The law of this country does not impose the death penalty for car theft. It was not the intention of the pursuing officers to inflict death on the thief. However, because a shot was fired at a fleeing automobile two persons totally dissociated from a suspected crime are dead and the suspected thief is near death with a bullet wound in his head.

It would have been much more sensible for the police to abandon a "wild chase" than to fire at the fleeing suspect. It would have been much more practical for them to let the thief make a complete getaway and later recover the stolen car than to fire at the fleeing suspect. It would have been better for the police never to have fired at all.

Because a shot was fired two persons died, one was injured, and six barely escaped injury or death. The car that was so valuable that its recovery depended on taking chances that led to tragedy was wrecked as it careened into a house.

A bullet, fired as a warning, became a judge and jury and a death sentence. A police bullet fired at a suspect circumvented the processes of law and inflicted far worse consequences on the innocent and the suspect than any court had in its power to do. A maximum penalty was inflicted for a crime that did not call for such a penalty.

The only justification of the use of firearms by the police is in those instances when an officer's life is in peril from armed thugs.

Only recently a stray shot by a Toronto bank manager killed a teller in his bank as he attempted to foil a robbery.

If such tragic and unnecessary consequences are to be the result of the use of firearms it may become necessary to ban their use for the protection of the innocent who have no defence. A policeman should never draw his gun unless he intends to shoot and he should shoot only if his life is threatened. Bank managers should never fire at all.

THIS IS TREASON

Treason!

That's what it is.

Deserting in the face of the enemy!

We have the words of the New York Times for it.

The Times welcomes the deserter with a paen of praise. "Welcome to the Canadian air mass!" it says. "All hail that traveller to whom we eagerly play host from time to time during the summer. . . That lovely cool visitor from the north country began moving in on us Sunday, (a week ago), bag and, we hope, baggage. The Weather Bureau was the first to know about the trip and quickly passed the word to make ready. We had been standing at the doorway, peering down the road when the good news arrived."

The Times treats the Canadian air mass as a summer tourist. It is nothing of the kind. Here in Canada we had been mobilizing every national resource to fight the heat for more than a month—and the Canadian air mass, as cool as a cucumber, went strolling off across the border without so much as a by your leave, or even a breezy wave of the hand!

We repeat: Treason! Desertion!

Extradition proceedings should be started immediately. Make the Canadian air mass come back to stand trial.

If the U.S. court accepts the New York Times version of this affair, it will be, at the very least, an unfriendly act. But as it has been much too hot north of the border to start a war, the Department of External Affairs could argue that, if not actually guilty of treason, the Canadian air mass is certainly guilty of breach of contract. Of course, in the interest of smooth employer-employee relations, we are willing to grant more than the customary two weeks' vacation—but we insist that the Canadian air mass should not take its holidays in the middle of summer. Let it trot off to Florida, if it wants to, for all of January and we should never mourn its departure. In fact we should wish it well and hope that our enthusiastic citizens to the south of us would give this cool visitor a warm welcome. But summer vacations for the Canadian air mass are definitely out of the question.

FLATTERY

That I was looking very well
The salesman told me;
Then something that he had to sell
He quickly sold me.
I had for what he offered me
No need at all for
But still a bit of flattery
I often fall for.

I like to hear a word of praise.
Though I may doubt it,
It helps me through these troubled days
To think about it.

The man who gives a smile to me
Won't always mean it,
But happier I seem to be
When I have seen it.
'Tis said that flattery will get
A fellow nowhere,
But where I get it, you can bet
Again I'll go there.
For salesmen this one rule's
Be pleasant, flattery's the stuff
Most men will swallow.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

August 3, 1935

The Bateman family held their seventh annual picnic and reunion on Wednesday with 250 members and guests present at the "Cedars" in Clifton. It was an all day celebration and was highly enjoyable. Games of all kinds were entered into with enthusiasm and a good time was had by all. The dinner served by the ladies was most excellent and in abundance. The election of officers resulted in Mr. Ross Bateman of Belleville being named president, and Mr. Lynde Bateman of Springfield, named secretary-treasurer. The committee named is composed of the following: Messrs. James Bateman, Thomasburg, John Bateman, Springfield, Ernest Bateman, Tweed, Harold Bateman, Belleville, W. J. Tanner, Harold, and Mrs. Newton White, Springfield. The reunion next year will be held at Tweed.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Taylor of Cleveland, are visiting friends here. Mrs. Taylor was the former Miss Margaret Sheehan of this city.

Mrs. Leon Smith and Miss Gertrude Anderson left today to spend a vacation in Montreal, Grand Cascapedia and other points east.

30 YEARS AGO

August 3, 1925

In the presence of many visitors and former residents from Canada and the United States, His Worship, Mayor W. C. Mikel and His Honor J. F. Willis, the president of the reunion, officially opened the Old Boys' Reunion and Peace Celebration on the court house lawn this morning at ten o'clock. The band of the 15th Regiment furnished excellent music. Speeches welcoming the old boys and girls were made by Judge Willis. Lieut. Col. S. S. Laxier and Mayor Mikel, the latter declared the city to belong to the visitors and hoped all would have a happy reunion with old friends. Many attractions have been arranged for the pleasure of the visitors.

Mr. Fred Elvins of Windsor, Ontario, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Elvins, North Front Street.

Mr. Howard Chown of Toronto.

40 YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. MacDiarmid of Toronto, formerly of Belleville, are visiting friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Moorman have returned home after a trip of six weeks' duration to Edmonton, Saskatchewan, and other places in Western Canada.

Work on the Catherine St. sewer was commenced yesterday morning at the junction of Catherine and Coleman Streets.

A very enjoyable concert was given by the band of the 15th Regiment at Victoria Park yesterday afternoon. Instrumental solos were given in an excellent manner by Max. Denmark and Walter Aseltine. The concert reflected much credit upon Bandmaster Hinchey and his talented musicians.

Mr. A. F. Wood of Madoc was a visitor in town today.

Mrs. (Dr.) Ekins of Toronto, formerly of this city, is visiting friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gordon spent yesterday with friends in Port Hope.

Mrs. and Mrs. John Sinclair of Elizabeth, N.J., are visiting friends here.

The Rev. J. P. Wilson is spending his vacation at Stoney Lake. During his absence the pulpit in Bridge Street Methodist church will be occupied by the Rev. J. T. Cavers of Toronto.

Mine 12,000 Years Old

BBC

In East Anglia, near Brandon in Suffolk, lies Grimes Graves, the oldest mining ground in England, which goes back to 10,000 B.C. From this ancient site Neolithic and Palaeolithic man took flints for making their arrowheads and Grimes Graves is still producing flints today, in black flints that Herbert Edwards, master flint-knapper of the only flint workshop in the world, spoke about in "This is Britain", the BBC programme for the BBC's programme for the Pacific. Mr. Edwards carries on the family trade of flint-knapping and outside his yard is a swinging sign which pictures one of his ancestors hard at work inside a wonderful selection of ancient flint-knapping tools, from great blunderbusses to small little pistols for ladies to handle in moments of stress.

Brandon used to make flints by the thousands for the armies at Waterloo — it is said that they made them for the soldiers' bayonets. Flints are being made there even now as they are still used in West Africa and, more surprisingly, in the United States, where some shooting clubs find it more sporting to use a muzzle-loader.

Mr. Edwards grew very technical as he talked to BBC reporter Alastair Dunnott of the various types of flint and their uses. He is the only flint master left now, although a century ago there were one hundred and sixty craftsmen in Brandon engaged in the work.

Mr. Dunnott began to decline when the percussion cap arrived and today there are only four of them. Dunnott watched a man quarrying, the first process in making gun flints, when with skillful blows from a large lump flint he splits it quickly, long practice giving him the knowledge of just where to hit it. Next comes flaking, when the man, the flint lying on a thick pad on his knee, chips off flakes to produce gun flints. Last of all is knapping, and the knapper, with a very light hammer in his right hand, holds the flake on a tiny anvil and then shapes it to the required size. They make four kinds of flint: musket, carbine, horse-pistol and single. A good knapper can shape about a hundred in an hour.

Grimes Graves, lying in a lonely, heathery clearing with small birch trees dotted about it, now appears as a series of more than three hundred pits of very shallow, saucer-shaped pits overgrown with vegetation. They are three centuries old, flint lies in narrow strata embedded in the chalk at different levels and they are of different qualities, the most prized being the pure black kind. The earliest miners prised out flints with the long bones of red deer or other pieces of flint, later on the miners used deer antlers as picks and in one pick an interesting tool was discovered which had a flint head inserted in a handle made from an antler. One of the later pits excavated was sunk vertically for thirty feet and from the foot of it a shaft very low galleries, some of them connecting with those from other shafts. These galleries give immense delight to any children visiting Grimes Graves today.

Mr. Dunnott said that the children with difficulty restrained from crawling along the passages so laboriously tunnelled out by their prehistoric forebears.

These galleries give immense delight to any children visiting Grimes Graves today.

Mr. Dunnott said that the children with difficulty restrained from crawling along the passages so laboriously tunnelled out by their prehistoric forebears.

Grimes Graves, lying in a lonely, heathery clearing with small birch trees dotted about it, now appears as a series of more than three hundred pits of very shallow, saucer-shaped pits overgrown with vegetation. They are three centuries old, flint lies in narrow strata embedded in the chalk at different levels and they are of different qualities, the most prized being the pure black kind. The earliest miners prised out flints with the long bones of red deer or other pieces of flint, later on the miners used deer antlers as picks and in one pick an interesting tool was discovered which had a flint head inserted in a handle made from an antler. One of the later pits excavated was sunk vertically for thirty feet and from the foot of it a shaft very low galleries, some of them connecting with those from other shafts. These galleries give immense delight to any children visiting Grimes Graves today.

Waiting Difficult

(Christian Science Monitor)

One of the most difficult things for most people to do is to wait. They may not think it, but they may think they would like to have nothing to do and lots of time to do it. But let them have it that way for a while and they become bored. Witness the frustration expressed in the armed services by the saying, "Hurry up and wait!"

The most significant kind of waiting is not idleness. It usually involves some element of suspense. It is a matter of waiting for something to happen which we fear or desire, a condition to unfold which requires adjustment or embodies opportunity. It may be a young man waiting for a girl, a farmer waiting for a car, a farmer waiting for a car, a farmer waiting for a car.

Such things call not only for patience but also for activity, either physical or mental. Sometimes the best release from tension is in doing something quite unrelated. Sometimes living simply has to go on, with a bare of demands, until the answer has been received. At any time the vacuum can be filled with some purposeful endeavor.

Longfellow put it: Let us, then, be up and doing, With a heart for any fate; Still achieving, still pursuing, Learn to labor and to wait.

And Victor Hugo described the reward, "Greater than the treat of mighty armies is an idea whose hour has come."

For those students who flunked their Latin tests this summer, there is a reward. The school record of one of the great men of our times — a soldier, statesman and author who has added noble pages to the production of the English language.

Sir Gerald Woods Wollaston, a contemporary of Sir Winston Churchill at Harrow, relates that the former British prime minister turned in a blank sheet of paper in Latin at his entrance examination because he couldn't answer a single question. Nevertheless, the young son of Lord Randolph Churchill was admitted to Harrow.

It isn't to suggest Latin isn't important. With a working knowledge of Latin, there is no telling how much better Sir Winston would have done as an author. Yet, no one will deny he has done very well, indeed, without it.

How Are You Breathing?

Among the benefits ascribed to belly breathing exercise, you'll find no mention of increased oxygenation or increased oxidation or purification of the blood or clearing the complexion.

The benefits one may derive from lying on the back with knees flexed and no tight clothing to impede breathing, and making slow steady inhalations through the open mouth, letting deflation occur without effort, first thing on waking each morning and last thing on retiring each night, are as follows:

1. Tends to bring down blood pressure.
2. Prevents, relieves or cures dyspnoea in young women.
3. Has a calming, soothing, relaxing influence.
4. Helps persons with cold feet to get warm and go to sleep.
5. Brings considerable relief to persons with chronic bronchitis (winter cough), asthma, emphysema or bronchiectasis.
6. Acts as a natural massage of the liver, gall-sac and other abdominal organs and thus prevents or relieves ailments associated with inactivity of these organs.

Most important of all, natural breathing improves circulation by putting the booster pump back to work — that is, the respiratory action of the — I could say thorax, for that is what the physiologists call it, but after all, the thorax is just a lot of bones, which have no action. So let's call it the respiratory action of the diaphragm. When the diaphragm relaxes to its high arch position again, and air leaves the chest — expiration, exhalation. It is difficult to explain in a few paragraphs, but just remember chest — expiration, exhalation.

East and West Scientists Discuss Hazards of Interplanetary Travel

COPENHAGEN (Reuters) — Scientists of East and West met here today to discuss man's initial ventures into space and the blood-curdling hazards that threaten the first interplanetary travellers.

About 100 delegates to the congress of the International Astronautical Federation were holding the first public session of their week-long assembly. Though the congress is the federation's sixth annual meeting, it has been unexpectedly dramatized by the announcement last week of American plans to launch an artificial earth satellite and the arrival here of two leading Russian space scientists as observers.

In an atmosphere suddenly transformed from the theoretical to the practical, the delegates pondered the formidable risks of space travel. Apart from the dangers presented by meteors hurtling through space at tremendous speeds, it is known that voyages far above the earth present grave physiological problems.

Experiments with animals in rocket flights have already shown that white mice will develop cancer and turn grey from their experience.

PLAN MAN-MADE MOON

Mingling with the intense young scientists from many Western countries are Leonid Sedov, head of Russia's newly formed commission on interplanetary communication, and Prof. Kirill Odorodnikov, astrophysicist from Leningrad University.

The two Soviet scientists are only observers at this year's meeting, but Sedov told a press conference that the possibility of full Russian membership in the federation will be discussed when he returns to Moscow.

Sedov told reporters and delegates who deserted conference business sessions to hear him that Russia "considers it possible" to launch a space satellite within two years.

He predicted a formal announcement of Russian plans at an early date, and hinted that the Soviet Union plans a man-made "moon" somewhat larger than the basketball-sized globe envisioned by the West.

Nuclear Warfare Would Destroy All Life on Earth

LONDON (AP) — Earl Russell told the opening session of a world conference of scientists today that nuclear warfare probably would "create a planet destitute of life, except for a few mosses and fungi."

The 83-year-old philosopher introduced a resolution appealing to governments to acknowledge that their aims cannot be furthered by world war and to scientists to find ways of telling the unscientific world what the effects of nuclear war would be.

Four Russian scientists attending the conference followed intently Russell's opening conference speech through earphones carrying a simultaneous translation. They frequently burst into applause.

The three-day conference of 70 experts from 24 countries is sponsored by the World Association of Parliamentarians for world government.

The conference will divide into four commissions to begin a study lasting several months into biological hazards of large-scale peaceful use of atomic energy and the effects of nuclear weapons on animals, crops and the weather.

Toronto Constable Released on Bail

TORONTO (CP) — A policeman whose bullets are believed to have caused a speeding car to kill two nurses Monday night was remanded today until Aug. 12 on $1,000 bail.

Constable Bruce Priestman, 24, of the suburban East York force, was charged with criminal negligence in connection with the deaths of Colombia Colangelo, 20, and Josephine Shynal, 19. He was suspended from the force pending a hearing of the charge.

Also charged with criminal negligence is Robert Smythson, 18, driver of the vehicle, who still was in critical condition today from a bullet wound in the back of his neck. He also faces a charge of car theft. Smythson remained in hospital under guard.

Police said Constable Priestman in a cruiser driven by Constable William Ainsworth fired the two shots at the fleeing car during an 80-mile-an-hour chase.

Councillor Norman Chaseman of East York today proposed a new training system to teach police to use revolvers only when suspects are known to be armed. He said police should be impressed with the "danger of their revolvers as potential killers."

Opera-Loving N.Y. Shoemaker Wins $32,000

NEW YORK (AP) — Geno Prato, an Italian-born shoemaker with an amazing grasp of the history of grand opera, Tuesday night used his lifelong enthusiasm to win $32,000 on a television quiz show.

Prato easily answered a complicated four-part query about a Verdi opera to reach the next-the last stage on the CBS program, "The $64,000 Question."

Next week, Prato may decide whether to keep his $32,000 or try for the final prize, $64,000.

Asked if he would try for the $32,000, the modest little cobbler from the Bronx said "With God behind me all my life, I think I will try."

IN THE BOX

He stepped into an "isolation box" on stage designed to prevent anyone in the audience from helping him, and crossed himself.

Then he was asked what was the name of the Verdi opera which started Arturo Toscanini on his conducting career; in what country did he conduct it; where was the opera originally premiered; and on the eve of what holiday was it originally premiered.

With no hesitation at all, Prato rattled off the answers: Aida; Brazil; Cairo, Egypt; and Christmas Eve.

Prato has said he plans to take his family back to Italy to visit his 92-year-old father, who lives near Genoa, with his winnings.

Forecast Stiff Competition In Canadian Open

TORONTO (CP) — An advance entry list bristling with notable golfing names today led Royal Canadian Golf Association officials to forecast the keenest competition on record in the 1955 Canadian open golf championship.

Defending champion is Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon, whose victory in 1954 was the first for a Canadian in the country's oldest open tournament since 1914. He makes his title defence Aug. 17-20 over the suburban Weston course, back in top playing shape after a tough mauling by hurricane Hazel last fall.

Phil Farley, tournament committee chairman, spoke with most enthusiasm about long-limbed George Bayer from South Pasadena, Calif. The 36-year-old six-foot-five former football player made his longest drive at Las Vegas in 1953 when his tee shot on the 478-yard fourth hole hit a spectator at the green on the second bounce.

There's a sentimental touch to another entry — 53-year-old Gene Sarazen, returning for one more try at a championship that eluded him in the days when he was winning United States and British Opens. He was runner-up for the Canadian crown in 1924 and 1926.

The younger guard of name golfers from the U.S. includes Doug Ford of Yonkers N.Y., who won the U.S. professional championship recently at Detroit; Dick Mayer, Durham, N.C.; Marty Furgol, Le Mont, Ill.; last year's U.S. open champion.

Trap to Catch Prowler Claims Life of Father

TORONTO (CP) — Police said a crude trap set by two children on the lawn of their suburban Etobicoke home to catch a prowler early today claimed the life of their father.

They said Walter Leonard Prior, 49, was killed by a bullet wound in the temple when he went out to investigate noises and tripped over the rope.

Inspector Ralph Boal of Etobicoke police said Mr. Prior was aware of the trip-trap, set by his sons David, 10, and Roger, 8, but apparently forgot it in his search for the prowler behind their home.

Weddings

FOX-BARBER

Mountain View United church was the scene on Saturday, July 16, at 2:00 p.m. of a pretty summer wedding when the Rev. H. Hunter Hills, assistant pastor of Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, united in marriage Marilyn Kathleen Barber, of Belleville, R.R. 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Barber, to Gordon Whytock Fox, of Bloomfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Whytock Fox, in a double-ring ceremony. Pink and white gladioli and ferns formed a lovely background for the occasion, while the guest pews were designated by white satin bows.

Mr. Robert Barber, as organist, accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Morley Davidson, who rendered the "Wedding Prayer," "The Lord's Prayer," and "Where'er You Walk."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her bridal gown of white nylon net, Chantilly lace, and white satin, featuring a molded strapless bodice of lace, and floorlength skirt of nylon net over satin with centre flounce of Chantilly lace. The lace jacket featuring a stand-up collar, was fastened with tiny, matching buttons, and the long sheath-like sleeves ended in lily-points over the wrists. She wore a halo headpiece of seed pearls and sequins, with fingerling veil having matching lace insets, and carried a bouquet of mauve orchids, white baby's breath, stephanotis surrounded by white, velvet leaves in crescent shape.

Miss Jean Barber of Belleville, sister of the bride, as maid of honor; Miss Marion Conklin, also of Belleville; and Mrs. Clifford Foster of Picton, as bridesmaids, were gowned alike in waist length pastel green embroidered nylon, featuring bodices of pleated net and skirts with matching net flounces. Short bolero jackets, matching mitts, shoes, and head-resses of pink Sweetheart roses, white baby mums and net, with nosegays of pink Sweetheart roses, mingled with stephanotis, white mums and green velvet leaves completed their ensembles. Mr. Robert Fox, of Bloomfield, attended his brother, while Mr. John Barber, of Belleville, brother of the bride, and Mr. Burton Norton of Bloomfield, acted as ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Island Acres home of the bride's parents, where the bride's mother, attired in navy lace over pink taffeta, with navy and pink accessories, received the many guests. The bridegroom's mother, gowned in dusty pink taffeta with white and navy accessories, assisted in the receiving line.

For the wedding trip to Stratford, and the mid-western United States, the bride wore an embroidered blue linen ensemble with pink and white accessories, and corsage of rainbow lilies and baby's breath. Mr. and Mrs. Fox will reside in Bloomfield upon their return, at the bridegroom's farm.

During the reception, Mr. Hills acted as toast master and proposed to the bride to which the bridegroom responded. The toast to the maid of honor and the bridesmaids was proposed by Mr. Robert Fox; and the toast to the parents and to the grandparents by Mr. Harry Farrow with Mr. Whytock Fox and Mr. Clifford Barber responding.

Those who served the 100 guests were the Misses Geraldine Harry, Kathleen Homan, Barbara Redner, Sybil Redner, Joanne Roznicki, Eleanor Walt, Mrs. Beverly Foster and Mrs. Carl Johnston.

Guests attended from Toronto, Guelph, Lanark, Almonte, Newburg, Marmora, Picton, Cherry Valley, Brighton, Wellington. The bride was the guest of honor at several showers and a presentation previous to her marriage. Her class at Prince Charles school made the presentation of a chafing dish; a kitchen shower was given at the home of Miss Jean Tonkin; a miscellaneous shower was given by Mrs. Clifford Foster and Miss Marion Conklin at the former's home; a trousseau tea was held at the home of Mrs. Clifford Barber; a rehearsal dinner was held at Maple Inn. She was also presented with a white Bible from Mountain View Sunday school.

MEAGHER-GODIN

White and pink gladioli with ferns formed the setting in St. Francis Xavier church, Brockville, on Saturday, July 2, at nine a.m., when Collette Rhea Godin, first daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Godin, 293 Brock street, Brockville, became the bride of John Bernard Meagher of Belleville, first son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Gore Meagher, 9 Octavia street, Belleville.

Rev. J. A. O'Neill, parish priest, performed the ceremony and wedding music was provided by Miss Mildred Powers with Peter Amodeo as soloist.

Few for the many guests were marked with white gladioli and white satin ribbon. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a strapless floor length gown of white nylon lace net over slipper satin, with a lace jacket, having long sleeves with points over the hands. Her three-quarter length veil of French illusion was held by a tiara studded with mother of pearl. She carried a cascade of American Beauty roses and stephanotis with baby roses on satin streamers. Mrs. Cathy Shannon, sister of the bridegroom, Plainfield, Ont., as matron of honor, was gowned in pale pink net over baby blue satin with matching headpiece of pink and blue roses. Her ensemble included pale pink net gloves and baby blue shoes. She carried a nosegay of pink carnations and stephanotis with pale blue streamers.

The bridesmaids were Miss Rita Godin, sister of the bride, Miss Sherry Meagher, sister of the groom, and Miss Hazel Ireland. Miss Godin selected turquoise net over pale yellow satin with headpiece of turquoise and yellow roses with lily-of-the-valley, turquoise net gloves and yellow shoes. Miss Meagher was gowned in pale yellow net over turquoise satin with pale yellow net gloves and turquoise shoes. Her headpiece was of yellow and turquoise roses with lily-of-the-valley.

Miss Ireland chose turquoise net over pale yellow satin with yellow slippers and turquoise net gloves. Her headpiece was comprised of turquoise and yellow roses and lily-of-the-valley. All the bridesmaids carried baskets of pale yellow and baby blue carnations sprinkled with ivy and sweetpeas.

Miss Lynn Meagher, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl, demure in a pale pink floor length frock with matching headpiece of pink apple blossoms. She carried a basket of Sweetheart roses with lily-of-the-valley and ivy. Mr. Dick Fitzpatrick of Picton, was groomsmen with Mr. Marcel Godin, brother of the bride, as head usher. Additional ushers were Messrs. Gerry Meagher, brother of the bridegroom, and Fernand Godin, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Hotel Manitou. Assisting in receiving the guests were the bride's mother, Mrs. Lorenzo Godin, attired in a medium blue lace dress with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations; the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Allan Gore Meagher, gowned in a nylon dress of light tan print with light brown accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations; and Mrs. Rose Meagher, the bridegroom's grandmother, who selected an aqua dress with white accessories and a corsage of pale pink carnations.

The couple left by motor for a honeymoon to Quebec and the eastern United States; the bride changing to a black and white figured linen suit with white accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

The bridegroom is employed as a brakeman with the Canadian National Railways and on their return, will take up residence at 12 Craig street, Belleville. Guests were present from Rochester, N.Y.; Anaheim, California; Calgary, Alberta; Ottawa; Plainfield; Hull, Que.; Hamilton; Newington; Belleville, Cornwall and Picton.

SUFFOCATES IN CAR

THREE RIVERS, Mich. (CP)—A three-year-old boy suffocated Wednesday when he accidentally locked himself in an old car sitting in the hot sun. Police said Mark Cottingham apparently was playing in the old car when the door closed and jammed shut. Temperature inside the car climbed to about 150 degrees, they said.

New Senator's Trademark Is Winning Smile

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—Mrs.

Florence Elsie Inman, whose personality is trademarked by her winning smile, has become Canada's sixth woman senator.

Senator Inman, who operates a hotel in Montague, P.E.I., was appointed to Canada's upper house Thursday but she "doesn't think" her new job will force her to curtail any of her present activities.

Today at 63, her black hair showing only a trace of grey, Senator Inman is the recognized leader of the island's women. She is the provincial president of the Women's Liberal Association and a vice-president of the national association.

Born in West River, Queen's county, she married the late judge G. S. Inman of the Prince county in 1910 and has four sons.

A fourth-generation Canadian, Senator Inman made her first appearance into politics in 1917 when she spearheaded a drive for women to vote.

In 1922 she carried her campaign to the Prince Edward Island legislature and convinced it of the women's right.

Senator Inman is a charter member of the island's Women's Liberal Association and one of its founders.

During the Second World War her sons served in the armed forces and she took an active part in Canadian Legion, Red Cross and blood-donor work.

Two of her sons are in the navy. Cmdr. W. R. Inman, Ottawa, and Lt. Cmdr. W. N. Inman, Halifax. Another son, Major Ronald V. Inman, is attached to the joint service staff in Washington.

The fourth, Dr. George Inman, practices in Montague.

NEIGHBORS REALLY AID

OSHAWA (CP)—Oshawa citizens have seen to it that a family of 13 will have a house to live in. Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson and their 13 children, ranging in age from two years to 14, were facing eviction. For six months welfare organizations sought to obtain premises which the Wilson family could rent. Now citizens have raised a $500 down payment on a new house.

SHE BEATS THE SCOTS

Senator Mariana Jodoin Says More Women Senators Needed

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's

first French-speaking woman senator believes there should be more women in the upper house. Addressing a meeting of Montreal's Richelieu Club, Senator Mariana Jodoin said she hoped that in future years women will be more active in enhancing the life of the Canadian Senate and in contributing to the general prosperity and happiness of the country.

Senator Jodoin said well-informed citizens believe the upper house is fulfilling its duties, while the ill-informed most frequently talk of Senate reform.

Senator Jodoin defined the object of the Senate as safeguarding the principles upon which the Canadian constitution was established. "The Senate would have no reason to exist if it were deprived of the power to check, to amend, to postpone, to oppose and even, when considered necessary, to reject legislation introduced in the House of Commons," she said.

"For this purpose the Senate must remain an independent body."

Hints for Hay Fever Sufferers

TORONTO—The season dreaded by hay fever sufferers will soon be by us again. In Ontario this usually commences about the third week in August and terminates at the first frost, probably about the third week in September. Pollen surveys in old Ontario indicate that the number of hay fever days average about twenty-four for the London-Windsor area, twenty-one for Toronto and nineteen for the Peterborough-Ottawa area.

For those who are allergic to ragweed pollen the only sure way of obtaining relief is to go to an area where there is little or no ragweed. The Field Crops Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture advises that almost all districts of northern Ontario, including Muskoka and Parry Sound are safe havens from hay fever.

By careful planning of the summer vacation most of the hay fever days can be avoided. Those with severe cases of hay fever, perhaps accompanied by asthma, should go as far north as possible and select resorts isolated as much as possible from highways, railroads and extensive agricultural areas.

For the person unable to arrange a vacation during the hay fever season, a considerable measure of relief can be obtained during the sleeping hours by specially fitting one room in the house. All dust, feather pillows, etc. should be removed. The room should be kept completely closed and quiet during the day to allow all pollen in the room to settle to the floor. This provides reasonable relief for the patient during most of the night. A forced ventilating device with air filter attachment will provide further protection.

Hay fever sufferers can help themselves by some extent by clearing up all sources of infection, such as infected teeth, and by eating well balanced meals and following a sensible program of exercise, recreation and rest. These practices tend to build up resistance.

The use of drugs to relieve hay fever symptoms should only be practised on the advice of and under the direction of the family physician.

Marmora

MARMORA—District No. 1 Centre Hastings Orange Association, under District Master Edward Bateman, held its grave decoration at Mt. Nebo Cemetery, Springbrook, on Sunday afternoon, with graves of deceased members decorated with flowers and names of the brethren interspersed elsewhere.

Previous to this, a service was held in St. Mark's Bonarlaw where Canon J.M. Bonarlaw officiated and gave the address and the Right Wor. Bro. Fred Bateman, past Grand Master of Ontario East, read the lesson.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hulsmann, of Toronto, visited Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hulsmann, over the week-end.

Miss Dorothy Phillips is visiting her brother, Glen and Mrs. Phillips, in Cobourg.

Miss Dorothy Logan, of Peterborough, spent the week-end at her home, here.

Miss Anne Gaffney, of Toronto, visited her mother, Mrs. B. Gaffney over the week-end.

Mrs. George Mantle is a patient in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Callery, of Toronto, visited relatives here, over the week-end.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU'VE LEARNED THE HARD WAY, BUT IT NEEDN'T SPOIL

Dear Beatrice Fairfax: I am an elderly woman, and I never thought anything could happen to me like what actually has happened.

I had been a widow for four and a half years when my neighbor's father asked me to marry him. At first, I was not interested, but after he had been coming to see me constantly for three months, I decided to marry him. I finally decided I could not go wrong in consenting. So we were married just four years ago.

Just as soon as the knot was tied, however, everything was different. After we returned home, he at once began telling me what I could and could not do. I was not to wear nail polish, and I was to comb my hair straight back—which I refused to do. All my jewelry was taken down from the windows in my house, the plants were to come off the window sills and the rugs off the floors.

The first week of our marriage, he got the bonds that my former husband had paid for. He wanted to buy a truck, saying he would make our living with it, and I was to pay half the cost and he the other half. Well, I paid my half, and then he told me he was broke and couldn't pay his. So I paid the full price.

The second week, he asked me if I had any insurance from my husband. I said no. The third week, he asked for the deed to my home. I consulted a lawyer who told me to give him nothing.

Then this man I married told me that his nephew had married a woman, divorced her six months and got $100,000 out of her. You see he thought I was a wealthy widow, but my husband had been too sick to have a large amount of money left. I have a pension, and could have lived on it nicely, as I had my bonds and social security, both of which I lost when I married this man.

Kindly let me know what you think of a man like this. I would like to know your opinion. I have now started divorce proceedings against him. — A.S.

Dear A.S.: I should think you would guess what I—anybody else—would think of such a man, and since you are divorcing him, I don't see why it matters. You're not getting rid of him, and you've learned the hard way that there are men in the world who will take advantage of widows if they possibly can, and that a wise woman will be extremely careful to find out everything she ought to know about a man before marrying him.

Now it's up to you to make a life for yourself that will be so full and so interesting that it will keep you from dwelling on the past. Moreover, if you will let it, your experience can do much to make a wiser and more understanding person who can be a good and helpful friend to others who have troubles, even though they may not be just the same kind.

You have had a bad and tragic time, but try not to let it be a continuing bitterness that will poison the future and keep you from being happy again. For you can be a happy and useful woman all the rest of your life if you really want to be.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

SKIN BLEMISHES

Exposure to summer sun sometimes brings out blemishes on the loveliest of complexions—to say nothing of the damage done to skins which were not perfect to start with.

But there's no need to moan any longer. To help you deal with a problem skin, there's now a fine kit on the market which contains three medicated products—cleanser and stick—designed to end such problems forever. All three contain hexachlorophene, the new antiseptic which reduces and inhibits surface skin bacteria. They have been tested extensively by a leading dermatologist, who dispenses them to many of his own patients.

Which is your problem? A skin that is excessively oily? One that shows blackheads, conspicuous pores, or one that is in the more severe stage—pimples or acne? Whichever it is, it must be correctly cleansed and properly treated. There are many potentially harmful bacteria on every skin. These bacteria aggravate the condition of a disturbed skin by setting up an infection, followed by

Canning Beans and Corn

By Mary Moore

Because I was in the canning business for years a little of the fun goes out of writing this column when I receive letters from readers telling me they want to can vegetables without a pressure cooker. It can be done but the risks are multiplied.

If they just once observed the spoilage that occurs through "flat sour", bulged cans, sprung seams in even the most efficient of canning plants, with batteries of pressure cookers (retorts) capable of supplying 20 lbs. pressure and over, they would pause in their merry ways.

One jar lost and bingol down goes the profit margin. A pressure cooker is highly recommended to all of you who plan to can vegetables. For vegetables except tomatoes, pressure canning is a must for me. A higher temperature can be attained in a pressure canner than in a boiling water bath. This high temperature will kill the spore-bearing bacteria which non-acid foods harbor. Boiling temperature will not.

I constantly receive requests for instructions for canning beans and corn.

Both of these vegetables are particularly high in spore-bearing bacteria and it is imperative that they should be canned as soon as possible after gathering. In fact picking time should be so planned that they may be canned as soon as they are gathered. The method practiced by vegetable canning plants. Vegetables are processed on the day of delivery.

TO CHECK AND PREPARE GLASS SEALERS

Examine sealers to see that they are not cracked or chipped. Use new metal screw bands or those readily become stretched or corroded. Make sure that screw bands can be tightly screwed down on sealers and that they do not spin. If spring-type jars are used be sure wire bands will snap sharply into lowered position.

Wash sealers and glass lids thoroughly in hot, soapy water and rinse well with clear, hot water. Half fill each sealer with water. Place glass lids in position and stand sealers on rack in large kettle or boiler, surround with water, bring to boiling point, boil 20 minutes, and leave untouched in water until ready to fill. If using the oven for sterilizing jars put glass lids on empty sealers and place on oven rack. Heat oven to 200 deg. Fahr., using bottom heat only, having oven shelf not less than three inches above bottom burner. Remove from oven and place on dry cloth to fill.

Dip rubber rings—new ones and metal lids—tested—into boiling water before placing on filled sealers.

CANNED BEANS

Read directions above. Wash young tender green or wax beans. Trim off ends, stringing them if necessary. Leave whole or cut into 1-inch lengths. Cover with boiling water, bring to boil, covered, and boil three minutes. (This is called blanching.) Pack hot into jars. Add 1-2 teaspoon salt to pints; 1 teaspoon salt to quart. Cover with boiling hot cooking liquid from beans, leaving 1-2 inch headspace. Using sterile tongs, put glass top in position. Partially seal by screwing metal band tightly and then loosening slightly, but not more than 1 inch. If spring-top sealers are used partially seal by pushing the long wide ball in groove on lid, but do not spring down the lower ball. Place filled containers on rack in canner at least one inch apart. Adjust lid, open petcock, let steam escape (you will need at least one petcock of water in canner); close petcock and bring to 10 lbs. pressure. Allow 30 minutes for pints, 35 minutes for quarts. Stand canner off heat and allow pressure to drop of its own accord. Sudden drop may cause cracking or loss of liquid from sealers. Remove lid with care, cover canner with towel for two minutes, then carefully lift out jars, and cool on towel out of drafts, tightening seal at once.

CANNED CORN
Same as beans above but cover cobs with boiling water, boil covered four minutes. Cold dip. Cut whole kernels from cobs. Add half as much boiling water as corn, bring to boil and pack boiling hot loosely. Ten lbs. pressure; 35 minutes for pints; 65 for quarts.

slightly blemishes as it aids in drying and heating them. Use it as a spot cover-up or as a covering for an over-all oily face. Always be sure to apply with clean cotton. The medicated stick may be used alone for minor skin blemishes, applying on a clean face before using make-up. However, it should be used in conjunction with the lotion for more severe cases. The stick helps control bacterial mischief on the skin and is perfect for that one unruly spot that gleams like a highlight. It is of a greasiness consistency and the color is blended to match the lotion.

As a follow-up, watch your diet carefully! Skip sodas and sweets, especially chocolate, cut down fats and fried foods and concentrate on fruits, vegetables and lean meats. Drink plenty of water, have lots of fresh air and get your full quota of sleep. Finally, be sure your hair and scalp are thoroughly clean and keep your fingers off your face!

Now the medicated lotion is applied. Greaseless, it is blended to a natural skin tone to conceal un-

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BECKMAN

TWINS AS MATRONS OF HONOR

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

I am planning a church wedding in November. My two best friends are twins, and I would like to have them both as matrons of honor. In this case is it proper to have two best men or should there be just one best man, and the other escort to be considered an usher. Your help will be deeply appreciated, as this situation has led to much discussion and difference of opinion.

—A.B.
Your best friend should have only one best man... this is the correct and customary procedure. You, of course, may have two matrons of honor... and I think it's wonderful that they are twins! In the Recessional they may walk together, if you wish... and since they are twins, this would probably be the more dramatic and effective plan... or, if you prefer, they may walk separately. Which ever is your decision, they should be dressed exactly alike.

In the Recessional, you would have a choice of two procedures: (1) The best man might not take part in the Recessional; the two matrons of honor might walk together, directly following you and your bridegroom; then the bridesmaids, two by two; last, the ushers, two by two. (2) Or your groom may choose an uneven number of ushers: one matron of honor then would walk with the best man, and the other matron of honor with an usher; then the bridesmaids, two by two; last, the ushers, two by two; or the bridesmaids and the ushers may walk in pairs.

A WEDDING RING QUERY

Dear Mrs. Beckman: I was married recently, and I am not sure about the answer to a question about my engagement and wedding rings. Some tell me that the wedding band goes first on the third finger of the left hand, then the engagement ring. Others tell me that the engagement ring goes first, then the wedding band above that. What is the correct way?

—B.P.
The correct way is to put your wedding band on your finger first... and then your engagement ring. It is definitely not correct to put your engagement ring on your finger first, and then your wedding band. When you were married didn't you wear your engagement ring on your right hand during the ceremony (as most brides do) so that your third-finger-left-hand would be free to receive the wedding band in the ring part of the ceremony. This is what you should have done, and this is what you should do now... put the wedding band on the finger first.

HOW TO EAT HALVED AVOCADOS

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

What is the proper way to eat halved avocados—L.M.

When halved avocados are served in their shells, they are eaten with a spoonful taken with some of the dressing that is provided... usually each half is served with a little "pond" of French dressing in the center. But when halved (or quartered) avocados are served on fruit platters or in salads they are eaten with the fork.

Says Regular Hair-Dos Are 'Necessary Luxuries'

By SYLVIA HACK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Herman Deigh-Steiner, a one-time violin player collects antique jewelry and dreams of the day when women will devote as much time to their hair as he thinks they should.

"Women the world over are uneducated about hair," says Steiner who runs five elegant salons dedicated to changing the situation.

"Women are far more conscious about makeup. But one of these days they will start to think about hair as they think about a new lipstick—that is, that regular hair-dos are necessary luxuries."

Steiner aptly has his headquarters in London's Mayfair district, haunt of debutantes, high—and gay—society. Steiner of Mayfair salons located in some provincial cities, bear the royal warrant of patronage because Steiner used to dress the late Queen Mary's elaborately-done hair.

He recently opened one at busy London airport, where coiffure-conscious women can get their hair done between planes, or while away delays.

All his establishments—and one he plans to open next year in Montreal will follow suit—follow the lines of his headquarters situated in a genuine Adam house. Regency motif is the rule.

From the reception room, clients enter the main section of pink and white striped walls, an elaborately-carved Adam ceiling, and regency period furniture.

Mayfair clients under the driers rest their feet on Queen Anne-type footstools. What used to be the stables houses the beautifying and relaxing rooms.

Steiner gave up his violin and music 20 years ago, and has had little financial cause to regret it. He collects antique jewelry, musical dolls and possesses some rare priceless fobs and brooches, including a fob once owned by a Russian czar. His wife, sharing his tastes, has one of Lady Hamilton's lockets, containing a lock of Admiral Nelson's tresses. Steiner, who claims to be "always first with an idea," has followed something of a trend in London's fashion world by writing a book. It's called "Crowning Glory" and outlines his secrets of what to do to bring out the best in hair.

Annual Kill 600 Canadian Whaling Fleet

Once again the Pacific coast waters off British Columbia are echoing to the blast of harpoon warheads and the stentorian bellow of "There she blows!" Well-armed raiders of Canada's whaling fleet are today cruising the off-shore waters of Vancouver Island and Hecate Straits, in search of herds of tough sperm, Bottlenose and Humpback whales. A swirl of smoke clouds the harpoon gun mounted in bow of a "killer" boat, sending an explosive-pointed harpoon winging toward the 50-ton Humpback off the vessel's port bow. Charge is timed to explode deep in whale's vitals 3 seconds after impact.

National Film Board Photos by Chris Lund

At Coal Harbour whaling base, "flensing" crew chops blubber into chunks, like hard, white cheese. From here blubber will go into digesters of processing station to be reduced to oil. Flesh of whale looks very much like beef and provides a wealth of tender steaks and roasts.

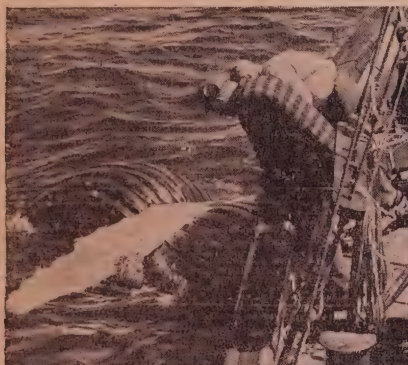

Whaling boat of Canada's west coast whaling fleet puts out from converted RCAF base at Coal Harbour, in Quatsino Sound. Coal Harbour whaling station is only one on North America's west coast. An average of 600 whales fall prey annually to harpoon guns of Canadian whaling fleet.

Towed up seaplane ramp of converted RCAF base at Coal Harbour, a 50-ton Humpback has its skin peeled back, banana-fashion, by "flensing" crew. Using razor-sharp flensing knives, the crew makes three cuts through the blubber from tail to head, parting the firm white coat with a crisp sound. Blubber is then cut into strips and diced before being fed into digesters. Mammals yield big returns in blubber, oil and bone fertilizer. To a limited extent, fast-frozen, beef-like "whale steaks" are sold in Vancouver shops for human consumption. Canada's whaling industry has operated since 1890.

One hour and three harpoons after start of sea battle, a 50-ton, 50-foot Humpback is brought to the "killer" boat's side where tail flukes are lopped off. Whaling men will inflate carcass, mark its position with a buoy, before taking off in pursuit of remainder of herd.

Gunner stands ready in bow to send dynamite-laden harpoon on its way to Humpback whale sighted by lookout. Harpoon's warhead is made of soft cast iron. Sharp flukes, tied back by strong twine, fly open when harpoon buries itself in whale, preventing the missile from being pulled free.

Danger of Famine Knocks At Door of Red China

By DON DALLAS

LONDON (Reuters)—Communist China is battling for its daily bread—against floods and natural disasters, against rural "capitalists" and peasants who failed to understand state plans. Six hundred million mouths have to be fed.

As state planners fix grain targets and try to organize peasants into co-operatives and "mutual aid teams," the danger of famine knocks at the door.

Spokesmen of the Communist government have referred to the "tense" grain situation that prevailed in the spring. At that time, Vice-Premier Chen Yun admitted, it was the towns which got the main grain supply, and some of the rural areas went hungry. As a consequence, peasants came flocking into the cities.

GRAIN IS SOLD

Chen told the congress of deputies from various parts of Communist China that in certain rural areas the grain supply this spring was sufficient to feed 70 to 80 per cent of the total population of the provinces. In certain provinces, Chen added, the amount of grain sold was enough to feed 95 per cent of the population.

This indicates that 20 to 30 per cent of the population of several provinces were without grain—or only five per cent in the case of "certain" others.

Chen did not disclose how many peasants died as a result of the local grain shortage, but his speech, as quoted by the New China news agency, was studied with references to the "tense" situation.

Last year severe floods affected many provinces of China, with the overflowing of the Yangtze and Huai rivers. During the fall there was a drought in the provinces of Kwangtung, Kwangsi and a part of south Hunan.

TROUBLES GROW

The troubles of these areas mounted in January, when they were hit by a heavy frost.

Under present methods, the government fixes the amount of grain to be purchased from the peasants. This total has been fixed at 43,250,000 tons for the year beginning July, 1955, and for each of the following two years. The government distributes the grain for selling.

According to Chen, a new system will be tried out this year in several areas. Here the agricultural tax will be collected in cash, not in kind, from "those peasant families whose harvest is just what they require for their own needs or whose harvest is less than their own needs."

In organizing the collection and distribution of grain, the Chinese Communist authorities face big problems. Only 650,000 "agricultural producers' co-operatives" roughly corresponding to the Russian collective farms—have been organized in China. These co-operatives, mostly small in size, have as members only about 15,000,000 farm households.

Chen estimated at over 200,000,000 the number of Chinese in the rural areas who have either to buy grain or to sell grain which they must buy back later.

Explaining why there is strict government control over grain, the vice-premier said, "if the government does not control this grain supply, but gives the merchants and rich peasants a free rein in manipulation, capitalism, which would ruin the mass of the peasants, would inevitably grow up between the rural areas—and the state plan of the nation between the various areas down to the difficult crops would certainly be upset."

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was looking at the movie page in the paper to pick out a picture for pop to take her to if he would, and she said, William, I know you don't think much of Laureen Bond's acting.

I don't even approve of her appearance, pop said, and ma said, But there's an extra added inducement to go to see her new picture.

Do you mean she doesn't appear till the last scene? pop said, and ma said, I mean Hookey the Second is appearing in person after the picture. He does the most amazing feats in full view of the audience.

Three men from the sheriff's office, all sworn to honesty, huddle him and tie him in a thousand knots, yet by some unexplained miracle he frees himself while you watch. He claims Hookey the First told him the secret in a dream, ma said.

That stuff is all right for most people, but I've seen the greatest master of them all, pop said, and ma said, Now William, you can't possibly see Hookey the First.

No my dear, I've seen you, pop said. I've seen you squerm and fiddle your way out of the tightest argument. I've seen you talk your way through the smallest loophole and completely disappear, he said, and ma said, William, is that supposed to be a compliment?

Naturally, my dear, pop said. There's not another woman in the world I could pay it to, because I'm convinced no other woman could learn your secret, in or out of a dream, he said.

And he gave her a kiss and took her to another movie with no live magician after it.

SAFE, CHEAP AND LOTS OF FUN

Water sports enthusiasts will welcome this newest gadget devised for their pleasure. It's a water motor scooter, latest invention of Guenter Lepel, a West Berlin engineer. The 44-pound motor boat, called a "wavescooter" can skim over the water at 8 miles an hour and one gallon of gas lasts seven hours. Should the driver by chance fall into the water, the scooter will not "swim" away but will turn automatically in circles, thus eliminating the danger of running over the driver. ## Toots Shor Files Suit Against Stork Club Head

NEW YORK (AP)—Restaurant Toots Shor Monday filed in Supreme Court a $1,100,000 libel suit against Sherman Billingsley, proprietor of the Stork Club. Shor's complaint charged that remarks made about him by Billingsley on a May 8 "Stork Club" television program held him up to public disgrace and injured his business.

The complaint said the statements "were intended to and did charge" that he was "insolvent and financially embarrassed, unable or unwilling to pay his just debts and obligations, unworthy of credit . . . and reckless or dishonest in his business dealings."

Shor said these statements were untrue and the defendants knew or should have known they were untrue. Also named defendants were the American Broadcasting-Paramount Theaters Inc., Stork Restaurant Inc., and Mayfair Productions Inc. The broadcasting company telecast the show and Mayfair produced it.

Soviet Farm Leaders Take Look at Base

By TOM WHITNEY

COLUMBUS, Neb. (AP)—Members of the Soviet farm delegation Monday rode past a big strategic air command field where in full view of the highway scores of big B-47 jet intercontinental bombers and their tanker refueling planes were lined up on the runways.

Americans who were riding with the Russians in their bus said the Soviet farm leaders manifested no particular intense interest in the sight—though they all noticed it.

One of the Russians—a Tass correspondent—however, asked the Americans what kind of planes these were.

The SAC field was Lincoln air force base, where training is carried out in refueling in the air.

NOT THE FIRST

This is not the first time the Russian farm delegates have passed by U.S. defence or security installations.

At Iowa State College in Ames, Iowa, the Russians during their stay of several days, drove past several times each day an atomic research laboratory which operates under the authority of the AEC.

At Sioux City, Iowa, on their visit there three Russian farm delegates took off from an air defence command field where military aircraft were in evidence. Americans accompanying them said the Russians showed no special curiosity.

MAGAZINE EXPLODES

HAVANA (AP)—A powder magazine on an island in Havana bay exploded Monday night. The blast was heard throughout the capital, but only one person was reported slightly injured. There was no official explanation as to the cause of the explosion. Authorities said the magazine contained explosives taken from plotters against the government.

SETS NEW RECORD

NEW YORK (AP)—Panagra Airways said Monday its new Douglas DC-7B set a speed record on its maiden flight Sunday between Buenos Aires and New York, flying the 6,000 miles in 20 hours and two minutes. It was the first time a DC-7B had flown between Buenos Aires and New York, and it sliced about seven hours from the regular-service northward run by DC-6Bs.

Former CBC Official Enters Monastery to Become Priest

By PETER BUCKLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. HYACINTHE, Que. (CP)—With his grown-up sons looking on, the white robes of the Roman Catholic Dominican order, forsaking a successful career as a CBC radio and television executive.

Just 20 days after he resigned as head of English and French networks for the CBC's Quebec region, Mr. Seguin, at the age of 51, becomes a novice in the monastic order—the first step in a new career that he hopes will take him to the priesthood.

With 13 youths from different parts of the province, he is to be the center of a public ceremony in Notre Dame du Rosaire church, part of the famed order's granite monastery in this city, 30 miles east of Montreal.

BEGINS NOVITIATE

At the end of the ceremony, he will begin a year's novitiate here before moving on to the Dominican monastery at Ottawa—his birthplace—for three or possibly four more years of study. At that time he should be ready to be ordained a priest.

Today's ceremony marks the end of long years of uncertainty for Mr. Seguin.

When his wife died in September, 1947, after a lengthy and costly illness, he was left with three young boys, the youngest nine. As his sons grew and his career in radio and television advanced, he began to think more and more of a religious life.

"I think he really began to hope for it about six years ago," said Marcel Seguin, a film librarian at the CBC in Montreal, and, at 28, the oldest of his sons.

But, however much he thought of a religious career, he decided to wait until his sons were able to take care of themselves.

Meanwhile, his work for the government-owned broadcasting body had earned him a solid reputation.

PRODUCED SHOWS

Storing as an announcer in Ottawa with the old Canadian Radio Broadcasting Corporation in 1934, he went on to produce shows and was later sent to Quebec City as administrator of radio station CBV.

In 1939 he was given the job of organizing a new radio program for the French-language network.

Called Radio-College, the program became one of the most successful to appear on the French network during the 10 years he was its director. Described by a CBC official as "a sort of university on the air," Radio-College featured top-notch experts in discussions and courses on a wide range of subjects, from grammar and mental illness to geography and the theatre. From its ranks have come some of the CBC's best talent.

After a study trip to Europe in 1949, Mr. Seguin was made the first director of TV in Montreal. Four years later, he was named regional program director for radio and TV and the next year was appointed one of the corporation's four regional directors.

WAS AT QUEEN'S

In between his official duties, he opened a school of radio attached to the faculty of social science at Laval University in Quebec, and was the first to direct the Radio Institute at Queen's University in Kingston. In 1952, he was the Canadian delegate to the first international conference on television in Paris.

By early this year, he had made up his mind that the time was ripe for him to go through with his plans for a new career.

The youngest son, 17-year-old Jean, was promised a home with a family friend while he finishes his studies at College St. Alexandre in Ironside, Que., near Ottawa.

Robert, 23, now is secretary of the Catholic Action movement at nearby St. John's, Que., and Marcel, with a wife and daughter, is similarly independent.

Strikers Remanded

FORT FRANCES, Ont. (CP)—

Fifteen striking truck drivers were remanded to Aug. 22 here Tuesday on charges of obstructing the lawful use of property.

The men, members of the Northwestern Ontario Independent Truck Drivers Union, Local 990, were arrested for setting up a tight picket line across a road at Stratford, Ont. The road was leased from the CNR by Haccouit Construction Company of Fort William, the firm affected by the strike.

The strike on the road started three weeks ago, Ontario Provincial Police and crown attorney A. Douglas McLennan claim the picket line was illegal.

Legion Requested To Use Strength In Peace Cause

DAY LEAD LEGION NEW BGT

WINDSOR (CP)—The Canadian Legion has been called on to use its strength to further the cause of world peace by Rev. M. C. Davies, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Windsor-Walkerville.

Addressing the biennial convention of the Ontario provincial command of the legion, Mr. Davies said Tuesday night that members of the legion are bound together by the hardships they suffered during the two great wars.

This spiritual bond gives the legion a real strength which can do great good in the world, he said. It can weld together a large group of men who know through experience that lasting peace is essential in the world. He said the legion should lead the rest of the country in trying to win this peace.

HIT HOME COSTS

During the business sessions of Tuesday's meeting, the provincial command criticized what it called the "inflated cost of new homes," and called for a government inquiry into high costs of homes.

A report from the command's housing committee said benefits of Dominion and provincial housing legislation were being wiped out by exploitation of land values.

Veterans are not receiving the benefits promised them by the government because land and housing are being priced beyond their reach, the report said.

ASK EXPROPRIATION

The report called on the Dominion government to ask the federal government to take action to expropriate land if necessary in order to make it available to veterans at reasonable rates.

A further recommendation of the report was that the National Housing Act should be amended to provide for mortgage funds at 3½ per cent interest instead of 5½ per cent as at present.

The amortization period of the loans should not be less than 35 years, and roads and services should be provided at a "minimum of cost," it said.

A resolution from the Sarnia branch which called on the federal, provincial and municipal governments to work together to provide year-round public works projects was adopted.

REUNION WITH TRAGIC OVERTONES

Spokesmen of the three U.S. turncoat soldiers, William Cowart, broke down as he meets his mother, Mrs. S. C. Green, at San Francisco. After meeting relatives, the three former prisoners of war were arrested by the army and now face charges of betrayal that could mean the death penalty. They turned their backs on repatriation after the Korean cease-fire and cast their lots with the Chinese Reds. Later the ex-POWs asked to go back to the U.S. (Central Press Canadian).

CBC Financing Is Expected To Come to Fore in Enquiry

OTTAWA (CP)—An independent body that is to investigate all Canadian broadcasting is expected to pay a big share of attention to the problem of footing the bills for the publicly-owned CBC.

Government sources indicated Tuesday that the CBC's growing expenditure, particularly in television, was the main reason for the decision announced last week by Revenue Minister McCann to look into the whole broadcasting field, both radio and TV.

The investigating body is expected to comprise three members, but officials said none has been selected and the body's terms of reference have not yet been defined. It may be operating by fall.

ANYONE'S GUESS

How the inquiry—which Dr. McCann, who reports to Parliament for the CBC, said will open "in the near future"—will react to demands of private broadcasters for a separate regulatory body is anyone's guess. But the government has consistently rejected suggestions that the CBC board of governors be replaced by a separate body.

This problem and that of the often-protested TV policy whereby only CBC stations are allowed in Halifax, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver are expected to be subordinate to the politically touchy CBC finance question.

The CBC, faced with an expected deficit this fiscal year of more than $10,000,000, is said to be unhappy with the present financing method. It combines grants totalling $25,000,000 and revenue from the 15-per-cent excise tax on radio and TV sets and parts, expected to fall off as supply meets demand.

LOWER REVENUE

Total CBC revenues are expected to be about $32,800,000, compared

Bulgaria Admits Planes Shot Down Israeli Airliner

LONDON (AP)—Communist Bulgaria admitted today that two of her fighter planes shot down an Israeli airliner last Wednesday. The Sofia government said it would "discover and punish those responsible for the catastrophe."

All 58 persons aboard the airliner, including four Canadians, were killed in the crash. The plane went down just north of the Bulgarian-Greek border.

Previously the Bulgarians had said Red anti-aircraft guns downed the airliner, and promised partial payment for the million-dollar plane. But the Israeli foreign ministry said Monday that Israeli investigators who inspected the wreckage saw "numerous bullet holes" and gained "the definite impression" that they came from machine-gun fire.

The Bulgarian Telegraph Agency made the government's announcement today. It was broadcast by Sofia radio.

RATIONALIZE INCIDENT

In addition to promising punishment for those responsible for the downing of the plane, the statement said the Bulgarian government "will adopt all measures to prevent a repetition of such a disaster in our land."

But the statement cited current international tension and what it claimed were repeated previous violations of its air frontier to make illegal "drops" into its territory.

In this tense atmosphere, the broadcast said, the government had to protect the country's security.

The broadcast gave this account with expenditures of about $42,200,000.

The CBC is said to favor a return to the system of charging $2.50 annually for receiver licences which was dropped two years ago.

It is also said, however, that the government is aware of the political unpopularity of the licences.

Another problem that may be studied is private broadcasters' demands for the right to operate networks. At present only the CBC can originate network programs.

The investigating body likely will give some attention to pay-as-you-see TV whereby you put a coin in a meter attached to your set whenever a program you want to see is due.

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—A Melbourne physicist said Tuesday radio-active clouds from an atomic test explosion in Nevada last March 14 may still be circling the earth.

Dr. V. D. Hopper, senior lecturer of Melbourne University's physics department, told a press conference that radio-active clouds were circling the earth as low as 20,000 feet.

He said that four different consignments of special photographic film sensitive to radio-activity had been returned when flown through the clouds en route from London to Melbourne.

Dr. Hopper gave no indication why he thought the clouds had been caused by the Nevada blast.

of the downing of the airliner, as determined by an official government commission composed of three cabinet ministers and the attorney-general.

"In all, the aircraft flew some 200 kilometres (about 125 miles) over Bulgarian territory," about 80 miles off its course over neighboring Yugoslavia.

SIGNALS IGNORED

An air defence command post received news that an unidentified foreign aircraft had entered Bulgarian air space. The command post ordered two fighters to pursue the aircraft and "compel it to ground on any one of our airfields."

The Bulgarian fighters warned the plane "through the established international signals" to follow them to an airfield, but the Israeli plane did not reply.

"The fighters, seeing that the offending aircraft intended to make off, opened fire against it, as a result of which it caught fire and crashed in the neighborhood of Petrich."

An explosion followed, demolishing the aircraft, and all 58 aboard perished.

WERE TOO HASTY

The Communists contended that the Israeli plane had modern navigation instruments and "could not fail to see" it had violated the frontier, as well as having disregarded the warnings from the Red fighters.

But Bulgaria continued: "The organs of the anti-aircraft defence were too hasty. They did not take all necessary measures to force the plane to land."

A-Bombed Japanese Cities Mark Nightmare Anniversary

(Editor's note: Nobody knows better than the people of Hiroshima what atom warfare means. That's why the 10th anniversary of the atomic bombing Aug. 6 will have a meaning far beyond mere memorials. Here, in a closeup of the city today, is how they plan to mark the anniversary of the day of mass death.)

By GENE KRAMER

HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP)—The world's two atom-bombed cities are about to mark the 10th anniversary of nightmares they cannot forget. The people of both Hiroshima and Nagasaki, whatever their politics agree almost fanatically on one thing — the atom-bombing which almost levelled their cities must be the last used in warfare. The atomic bomb dropped on HIROSHIMA AT 1:15 a.m. Aug. 6, 600 yards above Shima Hospital, spreading death and fire over a diameter of 2½ miles.

"Only God knows how many really died," says scarred Dr. Michihiko Hachiva, whose clothing was completely burned off by the flash as he slept about one mile from the blast centre.

FREE PEACE DOVES

Exactly 10 years after that explosion, Mayor Tadno Watanabe will release hundreds of peace doves. As church bells ring and whistles blow, the crowd will kneel in silent prayer for peace around the cenotaph, a white stone arch memorial to the dead.

"Rest ye in peace. For we shall never repeat the mistake" is the inscription on the cenotaph. "The mistake" was not made by any single country, but by humanity, Hiroshima's people say today.

Death-toll estimates range from the Nov. 30, 1945, police count of 78,150 civilians to 200,000, a figure in the city museum's official booklet. An accurate count is impossible because unknown thousands of troops were housed within half a mile of the bomb centre. Countless outsiders were in Hiroshima and most death certificates merely carried the words "Military aircraft as the cause of death."

"No less than 100,000 people died on that one day," says Shinzo Hamai, former mayor who survived the bombing in his destroyed house 1.4-5 miles from the centre.

Hiroshima's population was 312,277 before the blast, 171,912 two months afterward, and now is estimated at 380,000.

Eleven years ago this was a typical Japanese neighborhood of tiny houses and shops crowded into narrow winding lanes. Ten years ago it was a holocaust of flame and death. Now it's being slowly transformed from a desert of stunted trees and muddy or dusty ground to a landscaped park.

"Most visitors come here and see the city from a high point and say reconstruction is going well," says city councilman Tsukasa Nitou, who specializes in planning. "But that is mostly private building. The big job for the city is still ahead."

Mayor Watanabe, recently elected on pledges to speed reconstruction, says Hiroshima has rebuilt only 35 per cent of its public works. He hopes to go to the United States soon to ask for a $4,000,000 loan, to be repaid in instalments over 25 years.

Canadian, U.S. Boats Hold First Rendezvous Here

Four-Day Program Marks Visit of Beautiful Craft

(By GEORGE H. CARVER)

The aristocracy of American and Canadian powered craft this week has transformed the Bay of Quinte off the Yacht Club that bears its name into a colorful panorama of nautical beauty.

The sleek powered beauties, the most part a gleaming white, are representatives of District No. 6, United States Power Squadron and the Canadian Power Squadron which are establishing the first joint rendezvous milestone along which is hoped to be a long, successful trail of organized powerboating.

The Bay of Quinte Power Squadron, host organization with the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club along with the city in general extends a cordial welcome to the visiting yachtsmen with the sincere wish the first joint rendezvous of these international squadrons will be an unqualified success.

MANY CLUBS REPRESENTED

Clubs represented here include the RCYC, National and Queen City of Toronto; Wilson, N.Y.; Burlington; Port Credit; Hamilton; Detroit; Rochester; Buffalo; Syracuse; Clayton, N.Y.; Alexandria Bay, N.Y.; Montreal; Ottawa; Port Huron; Watertown; Niagara Falls, N.Y. and Grand Island, N.Y. Organization of the Canadian Power Boat Squadron is practically new, stemming as it did from Detroit to Windsor. The United States Power Squadron which reaches from Maine to California is divided into districts. District No. 6 takes in the entire southern shore of Lake Ontario.

The Canadian Power Squadron still in toddling clothes but growing to nautical manhood by leaps and bounds, is not yet divided into districts. It stretches for the nonce across the breadth of Canada. And an authoritative power squadron source says, the Bay of Quinte power squadron is developing into one of the strongest units in the parent body.

The colorful burgees that flutter from the mastsheads of member craft of both USA and Canadian power squadrons mean something more than a decorative wriggle of bunting. It is honored and respected by both the United States Coast Guard and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

For it signifies that one or more aboard is qualified in navigation, piloting and other nautical essentials that are so important in the operation of the power craft of modern times.

It may sound strange to the landlubber, but there are practically as many "rules of the road" on the waterways of Canada and the United States as there are on the highways. In other words the flying burgees of Power Squadron members are equivalent to the drivers' licence required by those who operate motor vehicular traffic.

The resurgence of yachting due mainly to the efforts of a few lovers of "white-wing" sailing a few years ago, and resulted in the rebirth of a yacht club here brought about a commensurate upsurge of interest in power craft.

Some of the water enthusiasts felt the more solid comfort of power craft would be more to their liking. In addition several members of the club already owned power-driven craft. But it was not a definite about-face from "sails to screws". Far from it.

PROUD OF FLOTILLA

The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club is proud of its wind-driven flotilla. Many beautiful Marconi-rigged crafts, sloops, Y Flyers, the new small-boat sensations and other windied craft are in evidence. A Bay of Quinte picture would not be complete without these rakish craft, heeled well over, shipping water under a spanking breeze and driving along at smart speed over the various race courses.

However with the increased interest in power craft, many new boats were evident and a couple of years ago it was decided to form a Bay of Quinte Power Squadron.

The Bay of Quinte club was fortunate in having in its membership ranks nautical men who were qualified to teach at least the fundamentals of the courses necessary to members wishing to join the ranks of the power squadron.

Present power squadron commander Ian Morch, headed the course assisted by Freeman Burrows, Bill Knudsen and others. The course studied all winter by members was an unqualified success. Nineteen took part and following examinations in the Gleaming queens of the United States Power Squadron and the Canadian Power Squadron ride easily at anchor off the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club's spacious property in Victoria Park. The squadrons holding the first joint rendezvous in the history of their organizations, are represented by nearly 100 powered beauties. They will remain here all week taking part in various instructional events. The rendezvous ends Saturday night with a cruise dinner at the yacht club.

spring, all passed the test.

Powerboat people take what seems to the landlubber, their recreation seriously. The cruises and rendezvous are not strictly social events nor outings just for the helix nor the opportunity to "get away from it all." True there is an abundance of pleasure in cruising no matter what the craft is powered with.

But these people of the streamlined purring cruisers garnish their pleasure with plenty of educational endeavor, with the ultimate aim the coveted J. P. junior pilot or J. N. junior navigator behind their nautical titles.

That practically is why the cruise and rendezvous in both the United States Power Squadron and its Canadian equivalent is taking place in the Bay of Quinte this week. Officials of both squadrons readily admit it is the greatest event in the history of the respective squadrons and a forerunner of many such events to come. It is the first joint assembly of its kind. And as such, executives of the squadrons are leaving no stone unturned to make the event a history-making one for the archive of their organizations.

TO INCREASE KNOWLEDGE

Actually the idea of power squadrons is to increase navigational knowledge of its members thus increasing the measure of safety on the water. In the winter time they study various techniques of navigation besides adding to their knowledge of engine maintenance and piloting.

Five main events are carded for the August 3 to August 6 rendezvous. Opening the program today was the long-distance predicted log race for the National Yacht Club Trophy. The entrants in this event will vie for the Lake Yacht Racing Association Gold Cup piloting contest. Tomorrow the feature event of the rendezvous takes place when powerboats from the United States and Canadian Power Squadrons will meet for the Van Valkenburg Trophy.

But somebody must lose and somebody must win. So on Thursday following the feature event, those craft not qualifying for the Van Valkenburg Trophy will get the chance to win the Rochester Consolation Cup piloting contest. On Friday it will be an all-Canadian squadron day when the CPS skippers will vie for the Claydee Trophy.

The cruise and rendezvous climaxes weeks and months of organization and administrative effort on the part of the executive bodies of both squadrons.

The host organization, the Bay of Quinte Power Squadron, realizing the importance of success of the rendezvous went all out to make it a crowning effort.

An over-all committee composed of power and yacht squadrons officials was appointed. It is headed by Commander Jack Tatham of the Bay of Quinte Squadron, assisting are Ian Morch, past-commander, Elwood Wickerson, commodore of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club, Freeman Burrows and Bob Boyce, junior pilots, and Mrs. Kay Smith, commodore of the Squadronettes.

The "Squadronettes" incidentally are performing a very important function. Under the supervision of Commodore Smith they are arranging for the food and other wants of the boat-borne families of the guests.

But all work and no play. Many social events have been planned for the guests, city power squadron members, and others. Heading an imposing array of luncheons and parties is the cruise dinner slated for the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club on Friday.

And lest we forget, other hands have done a splendid job in assisting in the work of providing the well-being for the guests. Alderman Art Keegan, has done yeoman service while the harbor commissioners A. H. Ketcheson and H. McCabe and Mayor Roth have bent willing shoulders to the wheel.

Nothing has been left undone for the comfort and well-being of the visitors. Besides food facilities, gasoline and oil are immediately available at Wills Marina and Goyer's station. Telephone service is nearby. Ice and other commodities are within reach.

The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club has placed the facilities and space-ous club quarters at the disposal of the guests. Another story in this edition carries in detail the improvements and work done by the yachtsmen to their club and grounds.

PRETTY PICTURE

Since the first boat anchored here Sunday morning the bay has been a nautical picture of gleaming white beauty of proud power craft, rippling waters, the greens of towering trees, sentinels that guard the harbor, the speeding outboards of private owners, the heeling "sticks" of the "white-wings" while across the bay the haze-shrouded eminences of Prince Edward county rise gently from the shore.

The Stars and Stripes' brilliant colors mingle with the brilliant reds of the Canadian ensigns on the stems of the craft. At the mastsheads the power squadron burgees float proudly.

Many queens of the powerboat aristocracy are here for the rendezvous. There is the "Bobcat" of Buffalo owned by Richard F. Moser, commander of the Buffalo Power Squadron, and first winner of the National Yacht Club Trophy two years ago and the "Bateau Cinq" of Grand Island, New York, present holder of the NYC trophy which will be defending her title here. Other beautiful craft include the "Stormy Weather," Syracuse; "Idler," Toronto; "Albo," Niagara Falls, N.Y.; "Happy IV," Niagara Falls, N.Y.; "Marita II," Toronto; "North Star," Syracuse; "Fillbuster," Belleville; "Betty Jane," Toronto; "The Tebs," Syracuse; "Jane," Belleville; "For-Au-Sal IV," Buffalo; "Glad," "Straceni," both of Buffalo; "Pala," Delight, Sylvan Bay, "New York," and many others.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Grain elevators in the Brandon district are plugged to capacity and agents said here Tuesday the congestion is the worst in history for this time of year. The situation will be aggravated by the new crop, now being harvested, which is expected to be of near-record proportions. No apparent relief is in sight. Agents blamed the lack of box cars.

Record Turnout Marks Training 9 Militia Group

By MAJOR IAN EISENHARDT

POINT PETRE MILITIA CAMP—With all units of the 9 Militia Group reporting greater strength than ever before with 385 officers and men are looking forward to the climax of their winter training, the one week of practical training and the actual "shooting" of the guns which most of the men are only familiar with in a theoretical way.

Lt. Col. G. L. Vincent, CD, Camp Commandant RCS of A (AA) welcomed the units attending camp and laid down the arrangement made for the training by the permanent force staff. Lt. Col. J. N. Wood, MBE, ED, GSO 1, 9 Mil. Group is in command of the militia units which come from two groups. The group is represented by 109 officers and men from 61 LAA from Farnham, Granby and Valleyfield, Que., under the command of Major J. R. Ledge. The 62 LAA from Shawinigan Falls, Que., has 86 officers and men and is commanded by Lt. Col. G. Dufresne, ED. This unit brought its band along, and Capt. L. P. Fillion the bandmaster, plans to give several concerts in the camp and possibly a public concert at Picton.

The 6 Group, commanded by Col. G. Stevens, St. John, New Brunswick, has sent his two heavy ack ack regiments to camp. The 3 HAA Rgt, commanded by Lt. Col. D. B. Armstrong has 91 officers and men and the 23 HAA under the command of Lt. Col. R. J. Kelly has 76 officers and men. A contingent of 14 men from the 64 LAA Rgt, and 9 officers and men from the 9 Headquarters Staff make up the grand total of 385.

The Point Petre Militia Camp situated near Picton is a soldier's dream. All men are under canvas and even the usual hot weather is soon forgotten when the men go swimming in Lake Ontario's cooling waters.

Mut it is the "shooting" that the men are looking forward to. Tuesday afternoon all twelve 40 mm Bofors guns will be blazing at sea targets and today on planes from the Air Force base at Trenton, Ont., will parade the "drogues" at around 1000 foot level. It usually takes a couple of days for the boys to get their eyes in, but by Thursday and Friday scores of "drogues" will probably fall and the gun crews will vie with each other for prizes which are presented at the end of the week.

The cleanliness of the lines is stressed to the highest degree and every morning the orderly officer of the day accompanied by the Group RSM Patterson, formerly of the Guards, makes a thorough inspection. The pennant for the best unit lines was awarded 1 Aug. to 61 LAA Reg, RCA. Although it is said that "cleanliness is next to godliness" the 9 group is taking no chances, and the camp has its full complement of chaplains.

YOUTH IS DROWNED

PARIS, Ont. (CP)—Roger Muldie, 17, of Norville was drowned Tuesday night while swimming in the Nith river.

$10,000 Addition to Bay of Quinte Yacht Club Indication of Members' Confidence

To all intents, if present progress is any justification, the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club is headed for a successful future. Certainly, at present it appears to have every indication, as its members have every confidence, of reaching that happy state of affairs.

Surest indication at the moment is the way its members have confidently spent $10,000 on the addition to the club premises at the south end of Victoria Park. But side by side with this goes something more fundamental, which for prestige purposes alone weighs just as heavily in the club's favor with citizens and out-of-town visitors.

"With the hospitality here, and if the facilities can be developed, there are great possibilities," one visiting boatman, who travelled half-way around North America, stated here recently. He was referring in the main to the spirit of his fellow clubmen. His comments seem to have been the epitome of impressions voiced by most visiting cruise enthusiasts this year.

"Don't miss Belleville," one U. S. visitor reported he was told by a neighbor, when setting out for a boating holiday in this province. He didn't miss it, probably much out of curiosity as anything else, and he didn't regret it.

Naturally it is the city as a whole that impresses, but helping drive home a large part of that spirit to the sailing visitor are the yacht clubbers, who appear to be carving a niche for themselves and the city among their water-going fraternity.

TO EXTEND PROPERTY
Their optimism is reflected in the somewhat ambitious plans, now rapidly taking shape, for the extension to the club premises. Nearly 45 feet long and 35 feet wide, the addition has been smoothly grafted onto the older premises, club headquarters since its foundation three years ago.

Off the main-floor area, along the north end of the addition are located a modern kitchen, a forced-hot-air furnace, cloak room and ladies washroom. In front of the partition separating these installations from the main floor a built-in brick fireplace has been built, to dominate the whole room.

Water is now in full-time supply, the main having been laid just recently by the public utilities commission.

Outside, on the 400-foot lot on which the club house stands, land-

Population Now Over 15,600,000

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's population has passed 15,600,000. The bureau of statistics today reported its June 1 population estimate was 15,601,000, up 2.7 per cent from June 1, 1954.

The population rose by 1,592,000, or 11.4 per cent, since June, 1945. The bureau credited the post-war rise to a rising birth rate, falling death rate and heavy immigration. Annual increase to June, 1955, at 405,000, compared with gains of 414,000 331,000 and 421,000 in the three previous years.

Of the provinces, Ontario had the heaviest increase since last year, rising by 137,000 to 5,183,000.

HOUSES SHARPLY INCREASE

OTTAWA (CP)—Volume of new home construction financed under the National Housing Act during the first half of 1955 showed a sharp 44.5 per cent increase over the same period last year. Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation reported Wednesday that underwriting to insure were issued for 28,082 loans valued at $312,123, 349 between Jan. 1 and the end of June. This compared with 17,011 loans worth $196,867,288 last year.

scaping is both afoot and underfoot. Already one raised lawn is evident behind the extension, while flower beds, drives and parking facilities are on the way for rest of the lot.

Members expect the whole plan to be completely in evidence as a standing feature of the city's waterfront by the fall — this after work first commenced in May.

Jr. Red Cross Summer Speech Camp Is Staged

MORIN HEIGHTS, Que. (CP)—Eighteen young folk from various parts of Canada came to summer camp on the shore of Lake Chapleau to have a good time—and also to "tune up" their vocal chords.

Their common weakness of speech deficiency does not isolate them from some 400 other children in the camp community, operated by The Old Brewery Mission. They are sponsored by the Junior Red Cross summer speech camp.

Now in its eighth year, the camp-within-a-camp is described as unique in Canada. Miss Lorraine How, provincial Junior Red Cross director, said she had to turn to the United States to find qualified instructors—Miss Virginia Branson of Ohio and Milmore Stires of New York. Both instructors hold masters' degrees in speech correction.

Most of the campers are victims of congenital cleft palate and require constant repetition of words under conditions that do not place undue strain on the handicapped.

GET RID OF SHYNESS

Mr. Stires said in an interview that in dealing with stutter cases the main problem is to get rid of shyness, which is both a result and cause of stuttering.

Some lip, and here again repetition is the main aid. Miss Branson uses mirrors so they can imitate her lip and tongue movements as an aid.

"We always try to build up an auditory image for the word," said

Mr. Stires. "They picture in their minds the way the sound of the word looks before they speak."

Miss Branson, with some deaf children among her charges, said with a smile, "we frown on sign language, but they've all picked it up as a novelty."

Camp director Mrs. Sigfrid Dav said the handicapped children bunk by themselves and the chatter goes "on and on," accomplishing by natural means exactly what the therapists advise—practice.

They take part in camp concerts, singing and dancing with the others.

GET CIVIC WELCOME

KITCHENER (CP)—More than 100 Boy Scouts from West Germany were given a civic welcome here Tuesday. The scouts, carrying flags, sang several songs on the steps of city hall as Mayor Donald Weber of Kitchener, Ald. Harold Palkin, represented the Waterloo mayor, welcomed them. The scouts will stay here two weeks before attending the world jamboree at Niagara-on-the-Lake.

King of Beauty Contest Judges, 60, Has Viewed Half Million Lovelies

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Some 525 times in his life Russell Patterson has had to view a line of beautiful girls and pick out the prettiest.

Naturally, hard work like this should pay well. A fellow has to think of the wear and tear on his eyeballs.

But Patterson, a famous illustrator and interior decorator, has selflessly put principle above profit in this matter.

BIG INDUSTRY

"You can't accept money in a thing of this kind—it might be mistaken, or it might obligate you," he said.

Beauty contests have become a big industry. It has been estimated that there are up to 17,000 beauty contests a year and the promotion money, including advertising, runs into the hundreds of millions of dollars.

At 60, Patterson, a cautious, white-moustached man who admits to a six-stitch head scar inflicted by one losing contestant, is the unchallenged king of beauty contest judges.

His own shy estimate is that he has had to view and judge the charms of maybe half a million lovely girls, and he still doesn't feel tired.

IMPERVIOUS TO CHARM

Being an artist himself—he figures—he has drawn the female form 150,000 times in his work—he feels he is impervious as a judge to any feminine charm pressure.

But over the years he has achieved an idea of what he thinks is an ideal girl.

She would be about five feet six, have red hair, blue eyes, a full, saucy mouth, a 37-inch bust, a 24-inch waist and a 34-inch hipline. As a judge, Patterson admits to being neither a leg nor bosom man, says the basic desirable shape of beautiful women hasn't really changed much in this century. He feels that the quality of entrants in beauty contests, however, has risen with the increasing popularity of such competitions.

PICKS 'MISS FORM'

At present Patterson is conscientiously engaged in the task of picking "Miss Exquisite Form," a beauty contest sponsored by United Artists, a Hollywood firm. There were 163,000 original entrants throughout the United States and Canada, and Patterson is resigned to the fact that as a judge he won't make many close personal friends.

He says the scar in his scalp was put there by a runner-up in a contest to choose "the most beautiful cigarette girl in New York." She hit him with her makeup kit.

Melbourne Speeds Preparations For Olympic Games

MELBOURNE (AP)—After a slow and shaky start, Melbourne is going ahead full speed in preparations for the 1956 Olympic Games. Not 22-Dec. 8. Political differences and labor troubles have been solved or modified, and the prospects for a highly successful Games are good.

Work on the triple-deck steel-and-concrete stand at the main stadium—the Melbourne Cricket Ground—is well under way. The stand will hold 40,000 and increase the stadium's capacity to 104,000. Sale of tickets is proceeding fast.

Almost all gas, sewage and water piping for the Olympic village have been laid, and the homes are due for completion by July of 1956. The village will house 6,200 athletes and officials.

Swimmer Was Bait For Big Fish

NEW MADRID, Mo. (AP)—Argentina's Antonio Abertondo, bleeding from fish bites, failed Tuesday in his second bid to swim some 300 miles down the Mississippi and was hauled unconscious from the river.

The 37-year-old swimmer, three-time conqueror of the English channel, had covered 221 miles and had been in the water 65 hours and 17 minutes. He started at St. Louis at 9:43 a.m. CDT Saturday.

"His whole body was literally covered with fish bites," said a spokesman for the group accompanying him by boat.

Rivermen said the lanolin which covered his body was a natural attraction for the big catfish and alligator gars that infest the river.

Salt pork and other greasy meats are a common bait for such fish. Still champion for the 292-mile swim from St. Louis to Caruthersville, Mo., is John Sigmund, St. Louis butcher. In 1940 he made the swim in 89 hours and 59 minutes.

DIES OF INJURIES

CORNWALL (CP)—Mrs. Dorothy Barier, 46, of nearby Northford station, died in hospital Tuesday night from injuries suffered Saturday in an car-bus collision north of the city.

Man Is Killed, Seven Injured In Ajax Crash

AJAX (CP)—A slowly-moving car with one tire missing and eight persons aboard was hit from behind by a heavy transport on Highway 401 near here Tuesday. One man was killed and seven persons were injured.

Dead is Hector Gibeault, 32, of RR3, Chesterville, a passenger in the back seat of the car.

Driver Gerald Charbonneau, 32, of Toronto, his wife Josephine, 29, and their three-year-old twin daughters, Denise and Deborah, were taken to hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises. James Carlton, 28, of Toronto, his wife Madeline, 21, and their two-month-old baby, Sandra, are in hospital with undetermined injuries.

Transport driver James Elmer Webster of Athens, Ont., was uninjured. He told police he did not see the car until it was too late to stop.

Charbonneau said he was driving about 20 miles an hour because of the tireless wheel on his car.

START WITHDRAWAL
KLAGENFURT, Austria (AP)—Britain began withdrawing its troops Wednesday from Austria. Under the Austrian treaty, troops of the Big Four occupying this country must leave before Oct. 25.

ITALIAN NAVY HEAD

ROME (AP)—Admiral Pectori Giraldi, wartime battleship commander, Tuesday was nominated chief of staff of the Italian navy. He will replace Admiral Emilio Ferreri, who was named last May to head the arms control agency of the Western European Union. Giraldi, 56, was skipper of the battleship Vittorio Veneto during the war.

Bible School Is Success

MADOC — The community Daily Vacation Bible School closed Friday after a two week session, concluding with an open meeting Friday morning for parents and those interested in the project. The lessons were held in the school room and in the St. Peter's Presbyterian Church. A program of song, recitation and memory work, along with displays of work accomplished by the pupils was very creditable to both pupils and teachers.

The leaders taking part were: the Rev. and Mrs. Johnson, in charge of juniors; Miss Blanche Trotter and Miss Lamorne Post, the primary; Mrs. Nathan Bronson and Miss Carol Lough, the beginners; Miss Donna Devolin, the nursery; and Mrs. Emma Reid and Miss Helen Lane, music.

Much credit is due to those who used their cars to drive the children to and from their homes. The co-operating churches gave much appreciated financial assistance and the Kiwanis Club gave a liberal donation. A small balance will be left in the treasury to begin next year.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to the Rev. J. F. Lane, the overseer, for his efficient service and co-operation. Total enrollment was 115, with 17 on the staff. The average attendance being 95.5 per cent, making the year 1955 a real success.

Hold Annual Street Dance

MADOC — (Special). — The Kiwanis annual street dance and carnival held on Wednesday attracted a large crowd, despite the threatening weather. Madoc and district brass band opened the proceedings which were followed by an hour and a half stage show presented by Norman Harris artists, Ltd., which included Ron Leonard, a magician; Mary May, acrobat, and Jack McLean, well known television singer and impersonator.

Music for round and square dancing was furnished by Graydon Sheldon orchestra until 2 a.m. The draw for the $100.00 in cash was made at midnight, the winner being W. Stothers, an employee of the Canadian Talc Industries. During the evening the refreshment and coffee booths were well patronized, while the games were also popular.

Harts-Riggs WI Holds Meeting

Mrs. Cecil Woods opened her home for the July meeting of Harts-Riggs Women's Institute. The roll was "A Garden Pest and How to Control It". Many helpful suggestions were given by the members. Two new members, Mrs. Doris Sherrow and Mrs. Don Neal paid fees, making a paid membership of 30 members. The Madoc Rural Girls' Club, no longer functioning, presented the branch with their balance on hand $30.11. Plans were made to hold the August meeting at the cottage of Mrs. R. A. Woods, Moira Lake. Mrs. Cecil Woods gave a splendid report on the district annual held at Wellman's. Mrs. Leonard Trotter conducted a musical program. The branch is sponsoring a nammoth pie social at the Tannery ball diamond in August when the farmers and village merchants will be the attraction.

Trinity W.A. Enjoys Outing

Wednesday afternoon, the members of Trinity United Church Women's Association enjoyed a very pleasant outing when they drove to the summer cottage of the president, Mrs. R. C. Jackson, at Beaver Lake. The afternoon was spent visiting and playing games and contests. A pollock supper was served. Following the supper hour a short worship service was conducted by Mrs. Jackson, assisted by Mrs. Albert Empey, Mrs. Perry Bronson and Mrs. W. McCoy. A short business period concluded the meeting and a special thank-you for the fine hospitality was tendered the hostess by Mrs. Frank Dafos.

Nagasaki Has Been Called Forgotten Atom-Bombed City

(Editor's note: Nagasaki, blasted three days after Hiroshima 10 years ago, has been called the "forgotten atom-bombed city." Here's how survivors there will mark the anniversary next week and how they are living with the memory of the war's second and last atomic bomb.)

By GENE KRAMER

NAGASAKI, Japan (AP) — Ten years ago was Domsday at Shiro-yama grade school.

At 11:02 a.m. Aug. 9, 1945, the second atomic bomb dropped on Japan exploded about half a mile away and turned the building to rubble. Twenty-eight teachers and more than 1,300 students died.

Today a new building stands on the same site. In its courtyard is a bronze statue of a schoolboy and two doves. It is inscribed: "The 9th of August is Domsday."

Once a month a new generation of school children gathers around the statue. They say a prayer to the A-bomb's victims, sing a song called "Spirit of the Children," and hear a talk by principal Tatsuo Oi. Oi has been a school principal in Nagasaki ever since little Japanese boys and girls were forced to wave Rising-Sun flags and shout "banzai" in schools such as this.

He lost his first wife in the atomic attack.

"We tell the pupils that such a dangerous weapon as the atomic bomb should not be used, or it will mean destruction of the world," Oi said in an interview.

"Then the pupils go to their own classrooms and their teachers guide them to think seriously about the peace of the world."

WAR TALK STILL BANNED

There is no formal class work on the war and atomic bombing. It was eliminated from the elementary school course when the Allies occupied Japan and has never been restored.

"The children (ages 6 to 11) are too young for such a delicate question," said Oi. "They are living under various circumstances. Some had fathers who died on the battlefield. It would be wrong to evoke unnecessary yearnings for revenge."

The teaching pattern for youngsters in Japan 10 years after defeat is de-emphasis on the last war, aversion to things military and near-worship of the abstract idea of peace. Some authorities warn Oi has been a school principal that his making martyrs of the new army leaders, that in a decade it will backfire into a new era of military patriotism.

Survivors of Nagasaki's A-bomb blast spent the night after the attack atop Mount Kompira, now called Magic Mountain because it shielded most of the city from disaster. A shipbuilding yard downstream, which had launched some of Japan's biggest battleships and was said to have been the central target, was only slightly damaged. But 73,000 people were killed.

DEDICATE NEW BUILDINGS

Next week, on Aug. 9, the people of Nagasaki will dedicate two new civic buildings to the memory of those dead. One is the new 50-foot-high bronze statue called "Prayer for Peace." The other is a six-story building—Nagasaki's new international cultural centre and auditorium.

On the fifth floor, photographs of survivors are displayed, along with samples of melted tile and burned clothing. There is a cracked bust of Christ facing away from a clock stopped at 11:02, the instant of the explosion.

Workers are still repairing the twisted steel framework of factories and some of the ghost-like, cracked buildings of Nagasaki's Medical College, where 884 patients, students, doctors and nurses died.

The only recent sign of bad feeling toward Americans was a show of hostility from fishermen here after dust from an H-bomb, tested last year at Bikini, drifted over the Japanese fishing boat Lucky Dragon. American warships here on occasional visits get a big welcome.

CREATE LOCAL MILITIAS

WASHINGTON (AP). — The House of Representatives Monday passed by voice vote and sent to the president a measure authorizing the states to create local militias. The purpose is to establish a core of men in each state trained to handle local wartime problems in case National Guard units are called to federal duty in an emergency.

PLAN LONG REST

OJAI, Calif. (AP). — Actress Loretta Young is resting at home following a 3½-month stay at a hospital where she underwent surgery for peritonitis and abdominal adhesions. Her husband, Tom Lewis, said they plan a long rest in Honolulu when Miss Young is strong enough to travel. She will no longer resume her television career until after the first of the year.

Beverly Dunford Beauty Queen At Local Carnival

CAMPBELLFORD — The choice of Miss Campbellford was the highlight of a three-day Rotary carnival which closed recently. The contest drew one of the largest crowds ever and Rotary members were well pleased with the way the booths were patronized and said it had been a financial success. Funds raised are used in community welfare work.

There were eight entries in the beauty contest, which was arranged by Miss Georgia DeCarrol. Most of the commentary was done by Mr. Francis DeCarrol.

Beverly Dunford, 17, was chosen as Miss Campbellford. Second place went to Nancy Darrington, 18, and Margo Ames, 17, placed third. Miss Ruth McCubbin placed fourth. Judges were Dr. Harold Herking of Detroit, Michigan and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hall, Belleville. Dr. C. A. Bright, president of the Campbellford Rotary Club, presented the prizes to the winners. Each of the eight entries in contest received a $10 gift from the club. Miss Campbellford was presented with a wrist watch, a cosmetic kit, bath mat set, jewellery, lingerie and theatre tickets as well as the Miss Campbellford banner.

Second place winner, Miss Darrington, received a ladies' electric razor, a cosmetic kit, black leather kit, lingerie, and theatre tickets. Miss Ames, who placed third, received a cosmetic kit, perfume, a bamboo summer bag, lingerie, and theatre tickets.

The club sponsored a soap box derby on the school hill on Bridge Street as part of the carnival. Home-made cars of every description were entered in the annual event, and 19 cars took part in the final event.

First place in this competition went to Ricker Holmes, who received the Davidson trophy and a tent. Nancy Covey came in second and was awarded a sleeping bag while David Masterson, third, won a set of swim fins and goggles. Each of the other 16 entrants was awarded a flashlight. Three Rotarians arranged for and looked after the annual derby. They were William Holmes, William Dawson, and Jack Connor.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

HIS VIEW!

Michael J. Rodden, sports editor of the Whig Standard of Kingston, came over here, took off Saturday on a well-earned vacation. Mike and the missus will absorb some of that pure air for which Prince Edward County is famous, which should do him the world of good.

However his parting columnar shot was directed at the existing conditions of the district senior "B" hockey group. He quotes "Soup" Campbell, Oshawa scribe, who said that the Goodyears "pulled a boob" when they announced that the group melon was cut to 7 1/2 per cent. He would not play hockey next season. Campbell mentions the fact that Whitty (fancy that) and Peterborough are mildly interested in the formation of another group consisting of Orillia, Newmarket, Whitby, the Petes and Stouffville. "If that happens," he says, "Belleville, Brockville and Cornwall would have to make their peace with Kingston—or there wouldn't be much of a league left in Eastern Ontario."

Mr. Rodden reminds Campbell that the Ontario Hockey Association will have to approve such a move before the objective can be achieved. He states that this new group would provide something akin to equality in that the arenas in Peterborough, Whitby, Newmarket, Orillia and Stouffville are about on a par relative to accommodation for the fans and that particular "par" does not assure the hockeyists of much coin of the realm. A very important item, indeed. He goes on:

"Lack of balance did exist in the group that functioned last season. Travelling expenses and salaries paid to players were too high in all except this city. It is known or has been alleged that the Petes and Whitty Dunlops did, as is the Samia Sailors, have to accept the financial crumbs but such conditions should be attributed only to the lack of support accorded the teams on home ice.

"The parity that was approached when this city's representatives operated in the Jack Hartly Arena vanished when the Community Centre became available to the hockeyists. Costs of operation also did a bit of climbing locally and the higher they went the worse the situation became in other localities. These are facts that cannot be lightly ignored.

"Kingston's fans have not only 'donated' a lot of money to the cause but they have also been generous to visiting clubs who transferred home games to the Centre. When Blair, manager of the 'homeless' Oshawans of two years ago, should know that crowds at Oshawa's transferred games attracted vastly larger attendances than those recorded in the Bowmanville rink.

"Allegedly, the returns were not satisfactory but they should have been adequate in view of the fact that the local paying public was under no obligation to exhibit interest in such ventures either before or after the Goodyears were eliminated. One can well imagine how many fans would have been present if two outside teams elected to meet in Whitby, Peterborough, Orillia, Stouffville or any place else."

The meeting of the newly-proposed five-team group is scheduled for tomorrow (Thursday)—if it materializes. The Stouffville-Orillia-Newmarket trio probably will offer all kinds of inducements to Whitty and the Petes to join their ranks as it is no secret the three-team set-up of last year nearly fizzled out. Orillia, in fact, at one time considered making application to enter the eastern group. They may even inaugurate a group pool.

At least there will be no Kingston "sugar-daddy" in a set-up like this. It should be an "even-break" all around, for, as Mr. Rodden remarks, none of the arenas in the five centres has anywhere near the seating capacity of the Community Centre. However this department, while it could be speaking out of town, hasn't many quibbles regarding the outcome. We could be wrong. Whitty and the Petes may turn their faces westward. If they do, we repeat, we hope the motive is purely financial. The set-up down this way will not be disrupted because of their withdrawal. We feel another team or two could be included, especially since the long hauls to Whitty and Peterborough would be out of the question. You see, Mr. Whitty columnist, it works both ways.

Then again, we quote the estimable Mr. Rodden, the OHA will have something to say about the matter, although in the past the parent body has left the groupings to the teams with the OHA stepping in to clear up situations.

Swims Four Miles In Strait Jacket

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—You think people who try long-distance swims ought to be in strait jackets? So does Wesley R. Struble, and he includes himself.

Sunday, Struble, 29, swam 4 1/2 miles from Sea Breeze to Ontario Beach Park near Rochester confined in a strait jacket. It took him 2 1/2 hours.

He swam part of the time on his stomach and part on his back, using only his feet for movement. He says he plans a swim of Lake Ontario in the near future.

Struble says he got the idea from newspaper stories of a convict who made the swim from Alcatraz to San Francisco handcuffed. But he points out that the convict could use both arms, whereas the strait jacket kept his arms motionless.

White Sox Retain Game Lead As Indians, Red Sox Slip; Milwaukee Downs Dodgers 5-3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A handful of oldtimers expected to wit in the heat resembled a crop of young rookies Tuesday night as first-place Chicago and runner-up New York gave Boston and Cleveland hot foots in the sizzling American League race.

It was Connie Johnson, 32, and Millard (Dixie) Howell, 35, both reclaimed from the minors, who supplied the pitching in the 2-1 White Sox decision over Boston. And at New York, Yankees nudged Cleveland 2-1 on the pitching of 35-year-old Tommy Byrne, another re-tread, and a pair of home runs by Joe Collins, 32.

As a result, White Sox still have their one-game lead over Yanks. But Cleveland has dropped two games back and Boston four.

Fifth-place Detroit, 7 1/2 games behind, outslugged Washington, 13-10 and Baltimore tumbled Kansas City 5-1.

BROOKLYN LOSES

In the National Brooklyn gave in to a Milwaukee rally, 4-3. New York beat St. Louis 3-0; Cincinnati whitewashed Philadelphia 7-0, 2-0 and 4-0, and Chicago pasted Pittsburgh 12-4.

None of the White Sox and Yankee stars of the night were old codgers, exactly, but they are well past youth.

Johnson had Boston's kids well in check with two out in the ninth, then needed relief for his fourth victory in five decisions since being brought up from Toronto June 30. He gave a single to Jim Piersall and went 3-0 against pinch-hitting Fay Thorneberry before Morrie Martin and Bobby Byrne came on. Thorneberry swatted a triple to make it 2-1 and Howell, under from Memphis, went 3-2 against Eddie Joost before getting him on a game-ending fly.

TIMELY BELTING

Collins, with just two home runs in the last two months, made it 1-1 in the first inning with his first homer of the night. Then he broke up a duel between Byrne and Early Wynn, another 35-year-old guy, with his one-out poke in the 10th.

Indians' run came in on Al Smith's lead-off triple and Bobby Avila's sacrifice fly. Phil Paine one-hit Byrne shut the door—giving just six hits the rest of the way for his 10th victory against two defeats. Wynn, who had counted Yanks three times in his 13 victories, took his sixth.

Detroit blew an 8-2 lead and then a 10-8 edge at Washington before jumping on reliever Pedro Ramos for three in the ninth. Harvey Kuenn had two doubles and a pair of singles for Tigers as each club got 17 hits. The joint 23-run slugfest was accomplished without the help of a homer.

MATHEWS

Milwaukee tied the Brooks at 3-3 as Ed Mathews swatted his 28th homer—his second of the game. The Braves got two more in the big eighth-inning rally on Don Zimmer's error. Phil Paine one-hit Dodgers in four relief innings and fanned six for his first major league decision this year. Rookie Roger Craig took his first defeat with the Brooklyn—who now lead by just 1 1/2 games.

Johnny Antonelli blanked Cards on five hits while Don Mueller drove in two runs with a single and a sacrifice fly.

Cincinnati paired a four-hitter by John Klippstein and a five-hitter by Joe Nuxhall with the bat work of Gus Bell to sweep the twelfth night from Phils. Bell had two RBI singles in the opener and hit two more homers in the nightcap.

Ernie Banks matched a major league record with his fourth grand slam homer of the season for Cubs and added a run-producing single to trample the Bucs. His bases-loaded shot marked a six-run sixth.

Bill Wight, the Tribe castoff, four-hit As, who contributed four errors that made all the Orioles runners unsafe. Wight gave just one hit over seven innings—Bill Wilson's homer in the fifth.

Miami Beach, Fla.—Bobby Dykes, 161, Miami Beach, outpointed Pedro Gonzalez, 162 1/2, Rankin, Pa., 10.

San Jose, Calif.—Cisno Andrade, 135, Compton, Calif., knocked out Eddie Chavez, 128 1/2, San Jose, 6.

Detroit—Eddie Lee Walker, 169 1/2, Detroit, outpointed Don Jasper, 160 1/2, Duluth, Minn., 6.

HURT IT AGAIN

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Maureen Connolly's right leg was injured again Monday.

An automobile driven by the 20-year-old former world's tennis queen, who became Maria Norman Brink last June, hit a pole.

The leg, severely injured a year ago in a horse-riding accident, was cut and bruised.

Sugar Kings Blank Jets 2-0; Chiefs Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two former Rochester Red Wings have come back to haunt their former mates in the International League.

First baseman Charley Kress and relief pitcher Freddie Hahn teamed up to defeat their former Rochester mates, and lead the Buffalo Bisons to a 7-2 victory Tuesday night. The Red Wings lost three in a row and dropped them to within one game of fifth place as the surging Syracuse Chiefs edged Richmond Virginians 5-1 in 10 innings.

In the only other scheduled game Havana Sugar Kings blanked Columbus Jets 2-0 to move within 1 1/2 game of second place. Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Royals were idle.

Kress slammed two home runs and drove in four runs to pace the Buffalo victory. Hahn came on in the third inning, after Jim Stump became ill, to hurl six innings of scoreless, one-hit ball. Hahn was credited with his fourth victory against four setbacks.

SINGLE DID IT

Mel Clark's tenth inning single sent home the winning run and brought Syracuse to within a game of fourth place. The Chiefs scored twice in the first inning on a walk, Bob Bowman's triple and Jim Command's double. Bowman hit a homer in the sixth after Al Beebe had clouted one for the Virginians in the fifth.

Corky Valentine limited the Jets to five hits in registering his third victory against four losses for the Cubs. It was the second time in the series and it was the 17th shutout victory for Havana this season.

Valentine helped his own cause by slapping a single in the third and riding home on a successful bunt by Pompeyo Davaillo and Ray Noble.

Twenty-Seven Topflight Golfers Enter Third Round Amateur Tourney

By TED MOSER

Canadian Press Staff Writer

CALGARY (CP)—Twenty-seven top Canadian amateurs and five United States golfers lead the way today into the third round of the Canadian amateur golf championship.

The 16 victors at today's end play off Thursday morning to qualify for the quarter-finals in the afternoon. The 36-hole semi-finals are Friday and the champion will be decided in a 36-hole match Saturday.

Two of the five Americans stand out as serious threats to a Canadian winning the tournament for the first time since 1951.

Don Bishpoff of Orlando, Fla., advanced into today's round with a 4 and 3 win over Calgary's Trev Forlyce. Tied at the end of 12, he took three in a row for his 15th-hole triumph.

Long-ball hitter Hobart Manley of Savannah, Ga., came back from a slow start to take three birdies in a row starting on the 10th to down Montreal's Brian McGuigan, a member of the Quebec Willingdon Cup team.

ONTARIO PLAYERS

The toughest competition for Bishpoff and Manley is expected from Nick Welch of Windsor, Joe Leblanc of Montreal, Moie Norman, Kitchener, Lyle Crawford of Vancouver, Doug Silverberg of Red Deer, Alta., and Doug Bajus of Vancouver.

'Indian Jack' Calls It Quits, Becomes Blue Bomber Scout

By AL VICKERY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—Jack Jacobs, one of the greatest passers in Canadian football history, has called it quits.

In a formal announcement Tuesday night, Jacobs, top quarterback with Winnipeg Blue Bombers since 1950, and one of the game's most controversial figures, said he is hanging up his cleats to become chief scout with the club.

Jacobs, as he is familiarly known, stumbled for words as he spoke to a press gathering on the same training field where Bombers were scrimmaging. It was the toughest decision of his long football career which dates back to the first time he laced on a shoe with a high school team in his hometown of Muskogee, Okla., in 1932.

Asked how he felt about the new setup, Jacobs said: "It's like losing a leg. Football has been my whole life. But I have no regrets."

The announcement wasn't too surprising in football circles here. Coach Al Sherman had indicated the swing would be to a Western Interprovincial Football Union club this season. Jacobs, who will be 36 next Sunday, hadn't been able to adapt himself to the running game in recent workouts. Jacobs indicated he might have been able to catch on as a relief quarterback with some other club this year if Bombers had given him a release, but he said he wanted to continue in Winnipeg where he had started his Canadian career. He said he hopes his new job will eventually lead to a coaching position.

Jacobs had a varied career with Green Bay Packers, Washington Redskins and Cleveland Rams in the National Football League after graduating from the University of Oklahoma.

Jacobs captured the imagination of Winnipeg fans as has no other player since Fritz (Twinkletoes) Hanson danced across western grids in the 1930s and 1940s.

Jacobs still holds many records in the WIFU including: most touchdowns in one game (six in 1952); longest completed pass, to end Neil Armstrong for 100 yards for a touchdown in 1951; most passes attempted in one season (355 in 1951); and completed in one season (274 in 1951); most passes attempted in one game (40 in 1953); and completed in one game (26 in 1953); fewest interceptions in one season (eight in 1950); and most yards gained on passes during a season (3,248 in 1951).

Haggis Juniors Defeat Picton 4-2 To Square League Playoff Series

Belleville Haggis juniors squared their Belleville District Baseball League playoffs here last night, defeating the Picton Lightfoots 4-2 in an abbreviated pastime.

Picton won the first of the best-of-five series last week. The game went five and one-half innings due to the lateness of arrival of the Picton team. The game was scheduled for 6.30.

Coach Al Kehler announced the game would be played under protest due to the non-arrival of the visitors at the specified time.

Reid on the mound for the Juniors gave the Picton bats seven hits, two of them doubles. He struck out three and issued two walks. Miller did mound duty for the Lightfoots and was nipped for six safeties. He whiffed five and strangled six.

Reid blanked the Picton bludgeons for five innings, both their runs coming in the third inning. The visitors threatened in the first, fifth and sixth innings but the young hurler settled down and retired the side with no damage done.

He walked Cornelius to start off the third frame, the runner going to second when Perry was tossed out. Stacey singled the runner home and reached third via the stolen base route. Reid uncorked a wild pitch to score the second Dolan.

run of the frame, then forced the next two batters to ground out to retire the side. That was all for Picton.

The Juniors got one back in the sixth inning on a base on balls and successive singles by Buskard and Gerry Goyer. They pulled into a 3-2 lead in the fourth inning scoring twice off hits by McKay and Stolkier, a base on balls and a wild pitch. They added their fourth run in the bottom of the fifth on Kingston's clout, a wild flip and a Picton bobbie.

Buskard paced the Haggis offensive with two singles. Contributing one each were Goyer, Stolkier, Kingston and McKay. M. Stacey and K. Stacey each hit doubles for the Lightfoots, with the former adding a single. Perry, Hayden, Greer and Johnston were good for singles.

The teams: Picton—Cornelius, Perry, M. Stacey, Hayden, Bolton, Greer, K. Stacey, Johnston, Miller. Belleville—Hull, Stolkier, Buskard, Goyer, Kingston, Batchelor, Casey, McKay, Reid.

'Pit' Lepine Hockey Great Dies at 54

MONTREAL (CP)—Alfred (Pit) Lepine, graceful centre with the National Hockey League's Montreal Canadiens for 13 years, died Tuesday night in a convalescent home at Ste. Rose, Que., in nearby Terrebonne county. He had marked his 54th birthday only last Saturday.

Lepine had been sick for several years. He suffered a paralytic stroke four years ago and two more strokes last year.

A brother, Hector, who played a short time with the Canadiens and later moved to Pittsburgh in the American Hockey League, died four years ago at the age of 53. They began their hockey careers together but Pit was the more famous.

Pit's graceful skating and renowned "poke-and-sweep" check should have earned during the 13 standing reputation during the 13 years he toiled with Canadiens—from 1925-26 until he retired from major league hockey after the 1937-38 season.

OVERSHADOWED Instead he was almost condemned to oblivion by the Canadiens' great super-star, the late Howie Morenz. It has been said that Lepine was robbed of fame by the fact that Morenz ruled the hockey world at that time.

His best season was 1929-30 when he scored 24 goals and assisted on nine others during the 50-game schedule. On Dec. 15 of that campaign he bagged five goals and assisted on another against Ottawa—a feat that stood for a long time as an NHL record.

His lifetime NHL mark consisted of 143 goals and 98 assists. After leaving the Canadiens, he went for a short spell with New Haven of the American League before returning for an even briefer period to coach Montreal in the 1939-40 season.

Survivors include brothers, Edras, chief of police of suburban Ste. Anne de Bellevue, where Pit was born, and Norman. He was unmarried.

Sam Snead's Golf School

Notice today's player's stance is slightly off his grip. Notice that both arms are still virtually straight although he has just started his backswing. Because his left hand is at the top of the shaft, his left shoulder is still slightly higher than his right as the top dotted line indicates. Our player is bent over in an approximately correct position for an upright swing. He has started his backswing with the sort of all-together-movement (club, hands, shoulders, arms and hips). So his hands will pass back, around and up, close to his body, until his club shaft is horizontal at the top. Then his left shoulder will be under his chin, his elbows fairly close together and his hands will be under the shaft. This player will see to it that his right elbow is kept in close to his body so that his right fore-arm is under the shaft—not sticking out to the right—at the top of the backswing. Good!

RECEIVES APPOINTMENT

WINNIPEG (CP)—Lou Davies, 55, of Winnipeg has been appointed vice-president of the R. James Speers Corporation and general manager in charge of western racing operations.

The announcement by corporation officials Tuesday night followed the recent death of R. James Speers, head and general manager of the corporation. Davies has been operating manager of the western Canadian racing circuit since 1951.

The youngest mistress in history of the cruel English channel, Canada's Marilyn Bell showed the same steady calmness and good humor that marked her conquest of Lake Ontario last September. During the 14½ hour channel ordeal, she exchanged quips with Coach Gus Ryder during pauses for nourishment, left. When she was given peaches instead of the usual corn syrup and cereal, Marilyn asked: "Who ordered a la carter?" The 17-year-old swimmer covered at least 28 miles in her crossing from Cap Gris Nez, France. (Central Press Canadian Photos.)

Although Marilyn missed setting a channel record by 42 minutes, she received a tremendous welcome when she crawled ashore at Abbotscliff. A bigger welcome awaits her in Canada when she returns after a holiday in Europe. Both Marilyn and her coach, Gus Ryder, admitted that the 40-mile Lake Ontario swim was tougher. The next long distance swim on her agenda may be the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

Ontario Gals Favored In Golf Tourney

VICTORIA (CP)—A smooth-swimming foursome from Ontario has been established as the team to beat in the interprovincial women's golf championship opening at the Royal Colwood golf course here Thursday.

The Ontario team, captained by Mary Gay of Kitchener, is expected to meet strong competition from Alberta, British Columbia, Manitoba, Quebec and Saskatchewan. The New Brunswick and Nova Scotia entries are generally rated "not so strong."

Other members of the Ontario squad are Shirley Woodley of Thornhill, Mrs. J. H. McCarter of Toronto, a member of last year's winning team, and Moresen Laing of Toronto. Missing from the team is the defending Canadian closed and open champion, Marlene Stewart of Fonthill.

Miss Stewart did not participate in sufficient tournaments in Ontario this year to be eligible for the provincial team.

However, she is heavily favored to again win the closed and open titles. Play in the closed championship also gets under way Thursday. The Canadian women's open starts Monday.

AMERICANS ENTER

LONDON (AP)—Five Americans are among 47 entries in the famed 605-mile Fastnet rock yacht race, the Royal Ocean Racing Club announced Tuesday.

The race from Cowes, Isle of Wight, to the Scillies, Fastnet rock and back to Plymouth on the English south coast starts Saturday. It usually lasts a week.

Canadian Football Roundup

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadian professional football unofficially kicks off its 1955 season tonight with an East-West game that may give fans some idea of what to expect in the way of power this year.

Calgary Stampede of the Western Interprovincial Football Union meet Tiger-Cats of the Big Four at Hamilton in the first exhibition engagement. Before the regular schedules begin, eastern and western clubs will shuttle back and forth for nine other exhibition games.

Stampede arrived at Hamilton Monday night and started workouts. They travel to Ottawa Saturday for a game against the Rough Riders.

As the Stampede and Ticats held practice drills, word came from the Calgary quarters that western fans may see a Canadian as first-string quarterback within the next two years.

Jack Hennemier, former Maryland University coach starting his first football season in this country, said Bill Stevenson of the University of Toronto is a fellow with all the ability needed.

"He's a fine player," the 42-year-old Hennemier said. "Within a couple of years, he should be as good as any American quarterback."

Stevenson, with varsity from 1952-55, has adapted himself to Calgary's split-T attack. Hennemier said Stevenson has learned the formation faster than any other player he has coached. Bill will be used in tonight's game.

Hennemier and Hamilton coach Carl Voyles will use all their players to help them decide whom to cut before the roster deadline early in the regular schedule. The WIFU schedule starts Aug. 20; the Big Four Sept. 3.

Both Stampede, who finished out of the WIFU playoffs last year, and Tiger-Cats have the same problem this season. They have strong backfields with lines that appear to be only fair.

Ottawa's young Canadians are making coach Chan Caldwell happy. Following an intra-squad game Tuesday night, Caldwell said "Those Canadian boys looked mighty good out there."

He was referring to such men as end Bill Sovalski, a second-year Rider from Brantford, and halves Don Pinney of Ottawa and Boris Kotoff of Brantford.

'Scott Frost' Favored In Hambletonian

GOSHEN, N.Y. (AP)—Eleven of the world's speediest three-year-old trotters face the barrier today in the $86,863 Hambletonian Stakes, and the horse with the coolest name—Scott Frost—could very well smash the record for the famous sulky derby.

As thousands jammed into this little Orange county village for the 30th edition of the harness racing classic, there were few who would concede much of a chance for anything else in the race against Sol Camp's California comet.

Drivers and owners of the opposition acclaimed Scott Frost, to be driven by Canadian-born Joe O'Brien, a native of New Glasgow, N.S., as the finest three-year-old trotter since the immortal Greyhound won the 1935 Hambletonian.

ON THE HOUR

The first heat of the race was scheduled at 3 p.m. EDT, with other dashes to follow every hour until one horse wins two brushes. If the Hambletonian isn't decided by 4 p.m., most everyone will be surprised, for Scott Frost is the fastest two-year-old in the sport's history. Furthermore, he's been as fast as tough this season in his races leading up to this buggy-whip spectacle.

Scott Frost has two other camp horses to keep him company. Butch Hanover and Home Free. If anything is to give them trouble, the odds makers look to Galophone, owned by William T. Maybury of Dexter, Me., and Childs Hanover from the stable of Kenneth D. Owen, Houston, Tex.

Scott Frost and his mates are 3-to-5 in the morning line, and may even be a shorter price when the crowd of some 20,000 gets together in the predicted 90-degree weather. Galophone is 4-to-1 with Childs Hanover 6-to-1.

Will 'Hurricane' Blow or Zephyr?

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Is Edward Charles finished? Is Hurricane Jackson just a freak fighter?

The answer comes up tonight at War Memorial Auditorium and it could be "yes" in both cases.

Charles, the 34-year-old former heavyweight champ, must win convincingly over the awkward Hurricane if he is to remain a serious factor in the division.

Jackson, only 23, must prove he can handle a "class" fighter of Charles stature if he is to retain his No. 3 ranking among Rocky Marciano's contenders.

The 10-round match means a great deal to both men.

TEAM ARRIVES
NEW YORK (AP)—The British Wightman Cup tennis team, bent on regaining the international trophy from the U.S. court queens, arrived Tuesday and declared "that for the first time since the war we have a realistic chance of winning."

Mrs. Mary Halford captains the invaders. No English squad has won the cup since 1930. Others on the team are Angela Mortimer, Patricia Ward, Shirley Bloomer and Angela Buxton.

APPOINT ASSISTANT
BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Jack Carpenter, former lineman with old Buffalo Bills in the defunct All-American Football Conference Tuesday was appointed assistant football coach at the University of Buffalo.

Carpenter, a University of Michigan alumnus, was formerly a player-coach with Toronto Argonauts and was twice named to the Canadian all-star team. He quit football last year.

First of Its Happy Owners!

The Cadillac you see in the picture has just started out on Mission Number One: to make its first owner and his family members of the happiest motorist fraternity in the world—for as long as they wish.

And then it will be ready for Mission Number Two: to do the same thing for its second owner. And so on; in turn, for its third owner and its fourth—and, mayhap, for an almost indefinite number of others.

The years and miles rest so lightly on a Cadillac that it can continue to serve well nigh beyond computation. We have heard of Cadillac cars which have actually approached a full million miles of service.

The fact is, a Cadillac just about refuses to give up; if it is treated fairly and driven with common sense. Even after the body has ceased to exist, the heart of a Cadillac often beats on.

You can see those tough old engines and chassis everywhere. Maybe you'll see one supplying the power for a country sawmill . . . or pulling a plow . . . or serving as a truck, with an improvised body. Give it regular, decent care—and a Cadillac chassis is all but indestructible from normal usage.

Of course, as the purchaser of a new Cadillac; you would not expect to utilize more than a minor portion of this ability to serve. You would look forward to changing models from time to time, in order to enjoy the benefits of styling and engineering advancements.

But what carefree and satisfying performance this quality foretells for the period during which you would expect to keep the car! It is the world's best guarantee of the first owner's satisfaction.

All this, of course, is just one more solid reason for owning a Cadillac—in addition to such obvious reasons as beauty and luxury and pride of ownership.

Better come in today—and be the first of a Cadillac's proud and happy owners.

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, August 4, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — An interesting day if you allocate your energies properly. Much to be accomplished. Give your best but without overstraining. Keep trying, success is within reach.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Rays similar to Aries. Seek benefits, proceed energetically but don't overdo. With a well regulated pace, you can cover much ground. An analytical review of things-to-do is essential.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Take advantage of opportunities as they present themselves. Friends and interested business associates are willing to help now. Wholehearted social relaxation favored in the p.m.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Control emotions to a sensible degree so that you won't be misguided or use feelings judiciously. You'll accomplish more through calm, thoughtful action. But do not dally.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — A progressive day. Get into the swing of things, express yourself with decisiveness, but with tact. Move with alacrity. Give some thought to family affairs.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Introduce a new, refreshing method to your routine. It will raise your morale and enhance your performance in the eyes of others. This does not need to be bizarre or eccentric.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Modern methods, tempered by the wisdom of experience is today's formula for advancement. Don't anticipate difficulty but don't sidestep it either. Meet all situations squarely.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — A day to consolidate your gains, attend to incomplete duties, plan for the balance of the week. Eliminate non-essentials. Don't underestimate your competition; it's mightily keen.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — As with Scorpio today, it is a time for retrenchment and preparing for the future. Your innate ability will see you through the "rough" spots. A cheery disposition also helps.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Auspicious rays. Channel your activities to include home and family matters, civic and church interests, financial and investment affairs. Be tolerant.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Be a bit more cautious and choosy about how you allocate your time now. Gains are possible, but judicious planning must be your forte. Good luck!

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Some days we can accomplish a great deal; on others we seem to be held back either by outside disturbances — or by ourselves. Give yourself a pep talk now, and resolve to go steadily onward for the future.

You born today have remarkable vitality, intuition and a cheery personality. Be careful not to override anyone in your desire to get things done or put over points you feel important. Be less sensitive about hurts, setbacks. Yours can be a wonderful life if you will be true to the many fine characteristics with which God has blessed you. Be temperate in likes, dislikes, and keep Leo's sense of humor on top. Birthdate of Percy Shelley, famous poet; Walter Pater, Eng. man of letters.

IT MAY BE YOUR LIVER

It's a fact! It takes up to two pints of liver a day to keep you in good health. If your liver is not working freely, you'll find you don't digest — you'll get indigestion, you'll feel tired and sluggish, you'll get a headache, you'll get a bad cold, you'll get a bad cough, you'll get a bad asthma, you'll get a bad heart, you'll get a bad stomach, you'll get a bad liver, you'll get a bad everything.

RYLSTONE Havelock Kiltie Band Present At Open Air Concert

RYLSTONE - Another large crowd attended the open-air concert sponsored by the Rylstone Women's Institute on Sunday night. The Havelock Kiltie Band was in attendance and favored the audience with a number of selections, beginning with "The British Grenadiers." The theme song, "Church in the Wildwood" was sung, with Mrs. Carl Linn as organist for most of the choruses. Welcome was extended from Mrs. Wilfred Spencer, W. I. president; Mr. Harry Bourne, picnic ground owner, and Mrs. Don Kerr, mistress of ceremonies. The following is the balance of the program:

Vocal solo, "Rose of Tralee," and "Western Home" by Don Baldwin, of Campbellford; vocal solo, "Evening Prayer" and "The Shannon, The Shamrock and You" by Mrs. Tom Wallace, of Campbellford, accompanied by Mrs. Alan Tucker of Peterborough, at the organ; mixed chorus of Rylstone Institute members sang "I'm Coming Home," accompanied by Mrs. Tucker at the organ. Community singing, led by Thos. Fry with Mrs. Carl Linn at the

Little Benny's Notebook

The rain stopped but the sidewalks were still muddy, and I was looking for suspicious footprints with Puds Simkins, us being the secret members of the Forrin Intriguers, and Puds said, On boy, look at the size of these gilly looking footprints. Let's follow them, operator One, he said. On the trail, Operator 2, I said. I wouldn't be surprised if they belonged to the leader of the very gang we been tracking, I said, and Puds said, Have your gun ready, in case he shows resistance. If he does, he wont show it very far, I said. And we kept on following the footprints, not having to follow them very long on account of us being in front of Skinny Martin's house and the footprints went right up the front steps, and I said, This looks bad, Operator 2. ## Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Findings Healing Substance That Does Both - Relieves Pain - Shrinks Hemorrhoids
Toronto, Ont. (Special) - For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved - without resort to surgery. In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations. Pain was relieved promptly. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place. And most amazing of all - this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months. In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Files have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing. All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) - the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body. This new healing substance is offered in suppositories or ointment form called Preparation H*. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H* suppositories or Preparation H* ointment with special applicator. Preparation H* is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. *Trade Mark Reg.

City and District News

PLAYOFF SERIES
OPENS ON MONDAY

Belleville Orfurn's victory over Frankford in a Belleville and District Softball League fixture last evening left the city crew deadlocked with Point Anne for the league lead.

The two clubs will stage a best-of-three playoff series for the pennant with the first game slated for the CNRAA Park Monday evening. The second game will be played Tuesday at Point Anne and the third, if necessary, at the CNRAA Wednesday.

PLAYGROUNDS

Wednesday afternoon was tea-time for all twelve of Belleville playgrounds. The girls entertained their mothers with plays, sing songs, craft-sessions, and craft displays. Many parks invited mothers to take part in playground games. A light lunch was prepared and served by the children. Some playgrounds displayed colorful tea tables complete with table cloths, candles, and flowers. The interest of the mothers, who attended was greatly appreciated by both supervisors and children.

LAWN WATERING

Due to the hot dry weather and the poor condition of the raw water it will be necessary to carry out more rigidly the regulations with regard to outside watering.

Regulations require that all lawn or garden watering be done only during the hours of 7 to 9 in the morning and 5 to 9 in the evening.

Consumers found using water for lawn or garden watering outside these hours are liable to have their water service shut off and a charge of $5.00 made for turning it back on again.

JOHN LUSCOMBE WILL TOUR EUROPE

John Luscombe, of the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home, sailed from Quebec on the "Homeric" on Tuesday for a six weeks trip to Europe.

Mr. Luscombe will fly to Paris from England to attend the two-week conference celebrating the YMCA's centennial. Following the conference he will tour Germany and Switzerland before returning to Belleville in mid-September.

TOMATO CANNING HAS COMMENCED
AT WAUPOOS

Almost two weeks earlier than in the normal season, canning of tomatoes was commenced Wednesday at the Waupoos Canning Company, on the shore of Lake Ontario east of here.

Hot sun and lack of rain has speeded the ripening of tomatoes. Due to the dry season, the plants have not grown to fill the rows and the fruit needs moisture to develop.

289 FRONT ST.First Time in Canada
Phil. Cane's 'Philabuster'
Wins Coveted Yacht Trophy

Belleville's first power boat regatta got off to a good start for the home squadron yesterday when "Philabuster" of Belleville won the long distance predicted log race, to bring the National Yacht Club trophy to Canada for the first time.

Second place also was scooped for Belleville by Dr. J. H. Forrester's 29-foot cruiser, "The Jane." Third was a Niagara entry, "Happy IV," while the local squadron also took fourth place with Dr. Jack Marshall's "Jay Gee."

The only other Belleville entry, Rogers Reid's "Phib Tide," was eleventh.

"Philabuster," Phil Cane's 45-footer and one of the largest cruisers in the regatta, came through the round race from Belleville to Picton only three minutes and 12 seconds on its total predicted times of arrival. It was skippered by Mr. Cane himself.

"The Jane," skippered by Frank Leach with his wife and Dr. Mrs. Forrester aboard, followed closely behind with a four-minute, 44-second error, while Dr. Marshall's "Jay Gee" was seven minutes and 43 seconds astray from its skipper's predictions.

L. Smart's "Happy IV" clocked in seven minutes and nine seconds off its set time.

The present holder of the trophy, H. Holcombe's "Bateau Cinq," from Buffalo, finished in fifth place, while the original winner of the title two years ago, "Bocat," owned by R. Moser, Buffalo, ended the race in tenth place.

The trophy will be presented, along with all the other awards, Saturday, at a cruise dinner in the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club House.

"Ebb Tide," in eleventh place, finished 22 minutes and five seconds away from its predicted time.

Other placings were: "Pat's Delight" of Utica, in sixth place; "Chaldean" of Toronto, seventh; "Marita II" of Toronto, eighth; "Flamingo II" of Port Credit, ninth.

This morning, fresh from the laurels and losses of yesterday, eight power cruisers from Canada and the U.S. prepared to battle for the Lake Yacht Racing Association Gold Cup, in a piloting contest.

The race got under way at 10 a.m. when "The Jane" sailed out of the dock under skipper Frank Leach and set off for destinations unknown. This particular race again is a test of skill, this time, as its name implies, one of piloting prowess.

Each entrant is given sealed orders and is unaware of his destination when he sets out.

As began the case yesterday, the bay undisturbed in brilliant sunshine, save for the rippling of a light breeze.

Entries in today's contest are: "The Jane," "Pat's Delight," "Chaldean," "Philmar," "Marita II," "Happy IV," Bateau Cinq," "Ray Mar."

The race will finish sometime this afternoon.

Filthy Condition Of Zwick's Is.
Causes Complaint

Complaints about the filthy conditions of Zwick's Island with refuse from picnics and waste paper being left on the ground are being heard frequently from persons who visit the island during the hot weather to get a breather.

One woman complained that the odor from garbage cans was so offensive that she came away, while a man today said he visited the island for the first time last night.

"It was my first visit to the island and it will be my last," he said. "Bread crusts and heels of sandwiches and loose paper litter the grounds."

"It's too bad, too, because the island could be made a beautiful place. And it's cool."

Masonic Funeral Held For
H.W. Sabine

MARMORA — Six past Masters of Marmora A.F. and A.M., No. 222, acted as bearers at the funeral of the late Right Wor. Bro. H. W. Sabine, P.D.M., of Prince Edward District, held under Masonic auspices on Wednesday afternoon.

The service in St. Andrew's United Church was conducted by Rev. K. J. Crawford, assisted by Bro. Rev. J. E. Glover.

Nine Grand Lodge officers were also in attendance, namely, Right Wor. Bro. J. M. Brownlie, Grand Chaplain; Past D.D.G.M.'s R. Adams, G. Little, C. H. Buskard, G. West and McConnell, the present D.D.G.M. Rt. Wor. Bro. Everett Wood, and past Grand Stewards W. Embury and E. C. Prentice.

A number of brethren from other lodges in the district made a large turnout of brethren.

In the service Bro. Rev. J. E. Glover read Scripture portions and offered prayer. The pastor spoke of the Roll Call of the Faithful. The hymns sung with much feeling were "Nearer My God to Thee" and "My Faith Looks Up to Thee."

The funeral took place in Marmora Protestant cemetery. Last rites of the order were taken by Wor. Bro. B. G. MacKenzie, W.M. of A.F. and A.M., No. 222, assisted by Rt. Wor. Bro. C. H. Buskard, Wor. Bro. G. West, and Grand Chaplain Canon J. M. Brownlie.

Among relatives and friends attending the funeral of H. W. Sabine here on Wednesday were Mr. and Mrs. Vincent McKay, Detroit; Mr. Morley Sabine and the Misses Hattie and Mabel Sabine, Hamilton; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Bagg, Sunderland; Mr. and Mrs. J. O'Hara, Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Linton, Barrie.

Short Honeymoon
For Barbara Ann

OTTAWA (CP) — Barbara Ann Scott today said her wedding will take place the first week of September and be followed by a one-day honeymoon. Then rehearsals begin for her own Canadian ice show.

The skating star told the Ottawa Citizen by telephone from Toronto that she can't yet name the day of the wedding because arrangements with a Toronto Presbyterian church are not complete.

She said her husband-to-be, publicity man Tom King, will travel with her and manage the show.

Police Blotter

Crime continues at a low level in the city according to city police who reported little more than routine calls.

A Deseronto man, A. Lowen, was charged under a city by-law for using profane language. He was apprehended while using a pay phone at a telephone booth.

Traffic officers checked two motorists for speeding and a couple of drunks were picked up.

One minor motor accident was reported, the mishap occurring on Front Street. A lady motorist was attempting to back into a parking space when a passing auto clipped her fender and bumper, causing less than $100 damage to both vehicles.

Obituary

DR. DONALD G. MCULLEN
(Essex—Sidney)

There passed away recently at his home in Essex, following a two-year illness, Dr. Donald G. McCullen, in his 35th year.

Dr. McCullen was born in Sidney township, attended the local public school, S.S. No. 4; Belleville Collegiate Institute and graduated from Queen's University in 1914 with the degree of M.D., C.M. He interned at Belleville hospital for one summer and at Metropolitan Hospital in Windsor for a year and a half. Following his medical training he served with the R.A.M.C. being stationed in British Columbia for a time and then in St. Thomas as officer in command of prisoners of war. Following his discharge from the army Capt. Brien Branch McCullen served on the Discharge Board at Kingston.

Dr. McCullen decided to practise his profession in Essex and opened an office there in October 1946. He was a member of Essex United Church, of Essex Kinship Club, of Capt. Brien Branch of Canadian Legion; of Essex County Medical Society and the Ontario Medical Association.

Surviving besides his widow, the former Elvinda Billing, are a daughter, Elaine, and a son, Billy, both at home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril McCullen of Belleville, R. 5, and a sister, Mrs. Howard (Ferne) Hulse, of 237 Victoria Ave., Belleville.

Funeral services were held from the Dodson and Habkirk Funeral Home, on Tuesday, July 19th with Rev. D. A. Gray officiating.

The bearers were: Don Coultis, Dr. Charles Benson and Dr. Colin Markland of Essex, and Earl Fisher, Dick Waddington and Dr. M. E. Smith of Windsor. The Essex County Medical Society formed an honor guard.

Burial was in Greenlawn cemetery at Essex.

MRS. BERTHA MADIGAN

TRENTON (Special) — The funeral for Bertha Madigan, who died at Gardenvale on Tuesday, will be held Friday from the Weaver Funeral Home at 1.30 p.m.

Mrs. Madigan was 81. She was the wife of the late Fred Madigan. Mrs. Madigan's birthplace was Meyersburg township, in Prince Edward County. She lived in the locality most of her life.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. James (Glady) Mayes, of Toronto, and three sons, Clarence, Peter and William, of Carrying Place and Jack of Gardenvale.

Interment will be made in Carrying Place cemetery.

MRS. CLARA BOYD
(Marmora)

The funeral of Mrs. Carrie (Clara) Boyd took place on Wednesday afternoon. Service was held in the Wells Funeral Home with Rev. K. J. Crawford officiating. The casket was lined with mahogany and was adorned with the high respect in which the deceased was held. A comforting message was given the bereaved by the officiating minister. The flowers chosen from neighboring families were: William, Anger, Bruce Johnston, James Robertson, John Hunter, Fred Spry and Harry Keating. Interment took place in Marmora Protestant cemetery.

Suggestion Made
Queen Elizabeth
To Visit Moscow

LONDON (AP) — A suggestion that Queen Elizabeth visit Moscow has been made by Emrys Hughes, left-wing Labor party member of Parliament, who has long urged that Britain get on friendlier terms with Russia.

In an article in the Scottish Labor weekly, Forward, Hughes refers to plans of Russian statesmen to visit Britain, and then observes: "In due course we can expect to hear that Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh have been invited to the U.S.S.R. and have decided to go to Moscow."

"We may yet see pictures of Marshal Bulganin showing the Queen the stage coach, which is still on view in the museum of the Kremlin, which the first Queen Elizabeth saw as a present to the Russian czar of her day."

PLANE CRASHES

WALLACEBURG, Ont. (CP)—A small crop dusting aircraft crashed in nearby Gore township Wednesday night when it failed to clear a line fence during a takeoff. Pilot David Reid of Burford was uninjured.

Wide Variety
Produce Meets
Mild Trading

A light, but wide variety of produce met mild trading on the local market this morning. Clapp's Favorite pears, on the market for the first time, were offered in small quantity at $1 a six-quart basket. Watermelons and cantaloupes, mostly small in size, sold downwards from 35c apiece. Shiro plums were 75c a basket, while Montmorency cherries were $1 a basket, with stems. Apples continued in heavy supply with Melbas at 55c a basket; Duchesses 65c a basket and Astrachans 65-75c.

Tomatoes sold upward from 80c a basket and 15c a quart, while cucumber prices varied according to size, with dills 35-50 cents each and 50 cents a basket. Corn was 45-50 cents a dozen while cauliflower, in short supply, were 30-45 cents a head. String beans sold upward to 25 cents a quart box, while marrow were 15-20 cents apiece. Peppers were three for 25c, while beets were 10 cents a bunch. Large Spanish onions were 10 cents apiece. Potatoes continued at 50-60 cents a basket, $2.75 a bushel.

Eggs were up at 65 cents a dozen for Grade A large. Gladioli continued at 50 cents a bunch, $1 a dozen.

Trenton Youth
Given Jail Term

Pleading guilty to a charge of being in possession of stolen goods, Robert Pacey, 20, of Trenton, was given six months in the county jail this morning when he appeared in magistrate's court before Magistrate T. Y. Willis.

The Trenton youth, and his 17-year-old brother Gordon, were both charged with being in possession of tools stolen from a car at an air station parking lot, and both pleaded guilty to the offence. Gordon was given suspended sentence for two years and was assessed court costs of $17. Robert Pacey has a record and this was taken into consideration by the magistrate when passing sentence.

REMANDED FOR WEEK

Clinton Badgley, 28, of Belleville, was arraigned on a charge of being in possession of an outboard motor, the property of Jas. Dolan, which had been stolen. He was remanded for court appearance next Thursday with property bail being set at $1,500.

Police said Badgley was also charged with four other offences, one of which was being in possession of a stolen boat.

A total of 38 cases were listed on the morning court docket, eight of them for speeding offences.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Uranium issues to the stock market into a decline during first-hour trading today.

Industrials won scant attention and showed only narrow price changes. A press conference statement Wednesday by Trade Minister Howe apparently put the damper on uranium.

Gunnar lost 1/4, Consolidated Denison 3/4 on 20,000 shares while a long list of losses up to 40 cents went to other issues in the uranium group.

In industrials, fractional gains went to Chrysler, Stelco and Walkers. Distillers Seagram dropped 1/4 and Weston's a point.

Hudson's Bay and Geco added fractions in base metals. Easier were Granduc, International Nickel, Lyndhurst, Quebec Copper and Sherritt.

Gold joined the downward movement. McIntyre slipped 1/4, Preston East Dome 40 at 99 and Joliet, Quebec, Wednesday's "wonder" is now lost 17 at 78.

Western oils traded lightly, showing mostly small losses.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

62 Building Permits Issued In Two Months

Housing construction in the city, particularly in the east end, where vacant lots have been available, has had a good year according to Adam Stalker, acting city building inspector.

Best month of the year for 1955 for housing construction was June, when 22 permits for new housing units were issued at city hall with a value of $246,000.

During July a total of 40 building permits were issued, 16 of them for new housing units with a value of $137,500. Total construction value for the month was $226,300. Bringing the month's total up was a second permit for the construction of the new Jewish Synagogue. An earlier permit for $40,000 had been issued but certain alterations were decided on adding to the cost of construction and the second permit was issued by the building inspector.

British Freighter Bombed Near Red China Port

HONG KONG (Reuters) — The British freighter Inchewells was bombed and machine-gunned at the entrance to the Chinese Communist port of Foochow Wednesday, the Royal Navy announced here today.

One person aboard the 1,896-ton vessel was badly wounded and another slightly injured in the attack by planes presumed to be Chinese Nationalist. The navy announcement said the ship suffered slight damage and now is anchored in Foochow harbor.

The freighter was also bombed and strafed by two Thunderjet fighters on July 9 near the coast. Britain subsequently protested to Chinese Nationalist authorities on Formosa about the incident.

Large Measure Of Home Rule Given Tunisia

PARIS (AP) — The upper house of the French parliament early today gave final legislative approval to a plan giving a large measure of home rule to Tunisia.

The National Assembly, lower and more powerful house, had already approved the plan worked out jointly by the French and Tunisian nationalist leaders.

Under the new setup, Tunisians will have considerable control over their home affairs, but France will direct defence and foreign relations for the North African protectorate.

Two Golfing Brothers Lost More Than Stroke

DETROIT (CP) — Two golfing brothers lost more than a stroke when they drove into the rough on the ninth hole of the Birch Hill course Wednesday.

While Donald and William Fisher were looking for a ball near a fence surrounding the course, a masked man pointed a gun at them and yelled: "Stick 'em up. This is a holdup. Gimme what you've got!"

Donald handed over $8 from his wallet. When William said all he had was a golf ball, the holdup man demanded that William complied.

German Swimmer Taken From Lake By Police Order

HAMILTON (CP) — While Shirley Campbell stroked her way across Lake Ontario Wednesday night, a young German marathon swimmer was picked out of lake waters on police orders.

Saltfleet police chief Tom Gulliver ordered Harold Goebel, 20, of Hamilton out of the water after a harbor patrol boat had been dispatched to "rescue" the young immigrant.

He had covered approximately five miles when the harbor patrol boat caught up with him. He was swimming strongly and protested the police order.

Goebel was forbidden to practise long-distance swimming unless he had a boat or another swimmer with him. He said he had specialized in long-distance swimming before coming to Canada from Germany a few months ago.

Assault Charge Against Police Officer Not Heard

CHATHAM (CP) — A charge of assaulting a police officer was withdrawn against Harry Penfold, 32, a Gloucester farmer, when he appeared in court Wednesday as an aftermath of a near-riot in Tilbury, July 27.

Penfold and three other men were remanded for trial on other charges to Sept. 7.

Penfold is charged with obstructing a police officer. His arrest touched off the trouble in Tilbury when 200 angry townspeople threatened to break into the town jail.

George Harper, 34, William Williams, 21, and Eugene Planteur, 22, were arrested during the incident and charged with creating a disturbance.

Penfold, who claims he was beaten up by town police when he was arrested, appeared in court with his head swathed in bandages.

Retired CNR Baggage Man Will Take Extended Trip

TRENTON (Special) — Baggage man Bob Simpson, recently retired from the C.N.R., is taking the rewards of retirement after 45 years of railroading, which began on the Canadian Northern Ontario Railroad in 1910.

Mr. Simpson and his wife, of Marmora Street, Trenton, leave tomorrow for a two month extended trip to the west coast of Canada.

On Saturday a party was given in his honor with railway officials and old friends in attendance. Station agent Lloyd Blatherwick of Bannockburn was among the guests.

Mr. Simpson received a purse of money from A. R. Wilson, superintendent of the Belleville division, making the presentation on behalf of railroad acquaintances in the northern counties and Trenton district. Mrs. Simpson was presented with a bouquet of red roses.

Over the years, baggage man Simpson became a familiar figure in places like Picton, Maynooth, Rosedale, Parry Sound, Brockville, Belleville and Toronto during the close to a half a century employed first by the C. N. O. R. and later with the C.N.R. until his last run out of Belleville last Saturday. Mr. Simpson is one of the few remaining former employees of the now extinct C. N. O. R.

MADE STOPOVER
The Honorable Ralph Campney, Minister of National Defence, visiting in the Belleville area yesterday made an informal stopover at the Trenton Air Station prior to returning to Ottawa by air.

Brig. Eric Snow To Be Commander At Kingston Base

OTTAWA (CP) — Brig. T. Eric d'O. Snow, 50, of Saint John, N.B., has been appointed commander of the army's eastern Ontario area with headquarters at Kingston.

Army headquarters said today Brig. Snow will succeed Brig. Michael S. Dunn, 50, of Ottawa on his return from Italy where he has been serving with the international truce supervisory commission with the acting rank of major-general. He will relinquish this acting rank on assuming his new post.

A native of South Africa, Brig. Snow during the Second World War commanded the Royal Canadian Regiment and later the 11th Canadian Infantry Brigade in Italy.

TIRE RUNS WILD

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — C. R. Chism's encounter with a runaway tire Wednesday cost him $1,000 in damages. The 130 - pound tire bounced from a truck, bowled down the road for two blocks and into Chism's hardware store, where it wrecked display stands and knocked out a window.

Four Killed As Car Stalled On Crossing

CAP SANTE, Que. (CP) — Four persons were killed Wednesday night when the car in which they were riding stalled on a railroad track and was demolished by a Canadian National Railway passenger train.

Dead are Mrs. J. A. St. Laurent, 64, Mrs. Claude Lamontagne, 37, and her two sons, Jose, 10, and Guy, 7, all of Quebec City.

Tropical Storm May Have Hit Hurricane Force

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Tropical storm Connie, third of the year, whirled its winds over open Atlantic waters today 2,200 miles southeast of the U. S. mainland. The weather bureau at Miami said the storm may already have reached hurricane force and steamships were warned out of its path. A U. S. Air Force hurricane hunter plane was to wing toward it from Bermuda during the day to gather additional information.

The storm was moving westward or west-northwestward at about 10 miles an hour. Its early morning position was about 700 miles east of the French West Indies island of Guadeloupe.

Stock Volume Hits Record Level

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto stock exchange trading volume for the first seven months of 1955, at 1,038,208,000 shares, exceeded any previous full year's trading in the exchange's history. Value of shares traded in the seven-month period was $1,659,274,887, also well in advance of the amount in any previous full year.

The Channel Swimming Association has presented Marilyn, the youngest-ever channel swimmer, with the association's swimmer sign as its president, Lord Ebury.

"As a little girl I dreamed one day of trying to swim the Channel," she told members of the association at a celebration dinner, "but I never thought my dream would come true like it has. I still believe that swimming the Channel is the biggest thing in swimming."

She was also presented with an oil painting of the white cliffs of Dover.

Marilyn Will Visit Paris, Rome Before Returning

FOLKESTONE, England (AP) — Marilyn Bell, 17-year-old Canadian schoolgirl who swam the English channel last Sunday, said today she will visit Paris and Rome with her parents before returning home to Toronto.

THAT C.N.E. GRANDSTAND SHOW

Now is the time for all good editors to come to the aid of the C.N.E. grandstand show. It is a good time, possibly because absolutely nothing can be done to change this year's show barring an incident with the American Federation of Musicians or the American Guild of Variety Artists. But this year's suggestions might be tucked away for consideration along with the profit statement next September 11th.

Outside of the fireworks display the C.N.E. grandstand show is tackling entertainment for the masses in the wrong way. A TV master of ceremonies whose rigidity and almost talentless personal presentation provides an excellent foil for the hordes of talented people he chooses to introduce is a symbol of the wrong approach to mass, outdoor public entertainment.

Individual stars who have made their mark in night clubs, radio and in television, with rare exceptions, are not magnetic enough, or spectacular enough to charm 22,000 people a quarter of a mile away. Singers suffer from inadequate public address systems and competing noises; dancers are almost invisible, and animal acts, except for elephants, are insufferable. A gaily garbed guitar-strumming cowboy loses a lot of spangled sparkle at a distance of several hundred yards. The antics of his horse are even less glamorous.

Entertaining thousands in an outdoor amphitheatre presents a host of technical difficulties. One thing seems certain, however, and that is that outdoor entertainment must be a spectacle. Dependence on acoustics is nearly always fatal. With brilliant lighting systems turning night into day there is no problem staging a spectacle in the evening.

What, then, are the spectacles that have rivetted audiences for centuries? Ancient Rome staged contests between gladiators and put thousands of Christians at the mercy of wild beasts. Obviously an orgy of Roman brutality is out of the question today.

Circuses hold mass attention by spotlighting a performer whose unique contribution to entertainment may be standing on his head on a swaying pole, walking a tight rope, or somersaulting in space during a trapeze act. The individual performer is not only unique; he tricks unusual and often spiced with risk of injury, but he performs it high in the air where he is easily seen and free from the distraction of other performers and scenery. His scream, should he fall, is the only acoustical support necessary for the drama of performance.

Modern professional sport, be it soccer, baseball, football, or boxing, is staged as a spectacle, with a visual presentation being the main source of delight for the entire throng. The only attraction drawing thousands to outdoor arenas to watch the performance of an individual is bull fighting. This intense drama drives its fans to frenzy with a single man pitting a cape and courage against a bull that can, and often does, inflict serious injury and death.

Entertainment that has intimacy and appeal on radio, television, in movies and in clubs, is not capable, physically, of being successful on a mammoth stage with 22,000 customers a long way off expected to cheer the nuances of an aria or the grimacings of a comedian.

What the C.N.E. needs is a spectacle to accompany its spectacular fireworks display. A few more years of intimate reviews and staccato repartee and the C.N.E. may find the audience will not sit still for it.

CURIOUS ARGUMENT

Hon. R. H. Winters, Federal Minister of Public Works, has intimated that Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. will not reduce the prices of houses being sold to veterans. He said the government housing agency is trying to get back no more than the cost of the houses.

As most of these houses were constructed some time ago, the cost of construction, generally speaking, was lower than what it would be if these houses were built today. Claude Ellis, CCF member for Regina, advanced a curious argument in urging that prices should be reduced. He said that prices for seven-year-old houses in Regina are almost as great as the original construction costs. Since there has been a general increase in construction costs in the past seven years, this would mean that these houses are being sold below today's market price. But Mr. Ellis said that some of the veterans had already paid more than $2,000 in rents.

So what? They got good value for the rent they paid, did they not? They have had no municipal taxes to pay on these homes, did they? They were not required to maintain them, were they? Then why, in the name of common sense, should the rent paid in the past be applied to the purchase price?

If any person answers that the men buying these houses are veterans and that the country owes a debt to these veterans, the answer is that not all veterans can be given the opportunity to purchase government-financed homes at prices below present-day costs, and that if the government is too generous in dealing with a small group, this generosity must be paid for by the taxpayers of the nation, many of whom are veterans who are receiving no similar benefits from the government.

DRESS INSTRUCTIONS

I've a letter from the board
Which explains in phrasing clear
To each member when and lord
What to wear when they appear.
All the men are asked to note,
Though the mercury is high
In the dining room, a coat
And a neatly knotted tie.
Though the ruling may seem hard
And unreasonable, still Shoes with spikes downstairs
Are barred.
But permitted in the grill
Though as golfers we are sports
And in club and course take pride,
Fat men wearing gaudy shorts
Will admittance be denied.
There is nothing said of curls
Or of gowns with open backs,
But I want to tell you girls
You must not appear in slacks.
You must be a lady fair
In a swim suit keeping cool,
But if such a garb you wear
You must stay beside the pool.
With instructions for the men
As a member I'm concerned,
But I'm sure when I was ten
What was right to wear I learned.
With no letter from a club,
How to dress the way I ought,
When my face and hands to scrub,
By my mother I was taught.

40 YEARS AGO

August 4, 1915

Mr. Thomas Corbett of Calgary, Alberta, an old Belleville boy, who is home on a visit, rescued from drowning a lad named Boyle yesterday afternoon just east of the government dock. The lad became entangled with weeds and was unable to swim. Mr. Corbett heard his cries for help and went to his assistance and brought him safely to shore. This is by no means the first time that 'Tom' as he is known to many friends has rescued persons from drowning and he is ever ready when emergency arises to go to the rescue.

The greatest picnic in the history of the Belleville Club of Winnipeg was held recently. It was a regular old fashioned basket picnic which brought back memories of picnics at Massagosa Park, Twelve O'Clock Point, Glen Island, Glenora, Presqu'ile and other picnic grounds. About two hundred former Bellevillians were present. The success of the picnic was due to the energetic committee which was composed of Bert Wallace, Deb. Snider, Will Lennox, Walter Dobbs and Ed. Coulson.

Mr. Maurice Lynch of Chicago, Ill., is home on a visit to his sisters the Misses Lynch at their home at the corner of George Street and Victoria Avenue. Mr. Tom Lynch is also expected home from Chicago shortly.

Mr. Bert Lake and family of Minneapolis, Minn., left yesterday for their home after spending two weeks here. Mr. Lake is an old Belleville boy.

Mrs. S. R. Armstrong returned to her home in Peterborough yesterday. She was accompanied by her sisters, the Misses Richards, Charles Street.

Mrs. John Cummins and son, Oscar, of Chicago, Ill., are visiting relatives here.

Miss Ernestine Foley, who has been home on a visit, has returned to New York City.

A punt belonging to W. R. Vallance has been taken without permission from its moorings near the roadway leading to the bay bridge.

Mr. Richard A. Bull of the Bank of Montreal is absent from town on vacation.

This Is Hobby Worth While!

(Ottawa Journal)

A man who got into a spot of trouble with the police in Las Vegas, the gambling city of Nevada, turned out to be just innocent and misunderstood.

The police became interested in this man when he and a companion began playing the dice tables in the casinos with hundred-dollar bills. They searched the fellow's pockets and found there a tidy sum of $107,000, mostly in hundreds, stored up against a rainy day.

This hoard in large bills aroused some little suspicion in the mind of the constabulary, perhaps because its custodian could be described as an ex-convict, but they had no charge against him and had to let him depart — with his money.

The gambler defended himself with some effect. It was his money, he said, and in hundreds because for a couple of years he had been an avid collector of hundred dollar bills. It was his hobby, and that, we say without fear of successful contradiction, is a hobby worth any man's pride.

Hobbies take many and strange forms. One person will make his mission in life to collect baseballs signed by Babe Ruth, or silvers of famous rocks, or novelties of women who were hanged, or postage stamps, or sea and river shells, or old swords or moustache cups or body armor of the Tudor times.

But we can imagine the man's hobby is another man's rubbish.

But this avid collector of hundred dollar bills has hit on something of a positively universal appeal. He establishes himself at once as a sound fellow of the right instincts, whose lofty ambition never would be served by dollar bills or ten-spots or even twenties or fifties. But we can imagine the acquisitive gleam in his eyes at the sight of a lovely hundred, gleaming in color, neat in design, chastely printed, and the glee with which he adds it to 899 others of its kind.

And how much more satisfactory this hobby than the collection of worn-out chairs of colonial days or brass lamps from the earlier specimens of the famous model-T automobile!

Had to Get His Attention

(Atlanta Constitution)

A trader sold a mule to a farmer. "This is a fine animal," said the dealer. "He will work good if you treat him gentle."

In a few days the farmer went back to the mule barn. "You lied to me," he said. "I wanted the oats for that mule. I mugged him with a curry comb. I hedged him down at night. Yet he won't do a lick of work."

"Let me go out and have a look at him," said the dealer.

They went to the farm. The mule was standing there, hitched to a plow. He wouldn't budge. The dealer picked up a two by four and broke it over the animal's head.

"Now try him," said the dealer.

The farmer said, "Giddyap! The mule leaned to the collar and moved off."

"I don't understand it," said the farmer. "I thought you said you had to treat him gentle."

"You do," said the dealer. "But you have to get his attention first."

Learned His Lesson

(Aftonbladet, Stockholm)

The following dialogue was heard on a street corner in Stockholm where an overfilled bus had stopped. A young woman had just clambered up when the conductor motioned that he could take no more passengers. An older woman then shouted:

"But my daughter has got in, and I must go with her. You wouldn't part a mother from her daughter, would you?"

"Indeed, not," the conductor exclaimed. "I did that long ago, and I've been regretting it ever since. Climb in!"

Watering Lawn

(U.S. News and World Report)

The U.S. Department of Agriculture cites a formula for figuring how long to water your lawn to equal an inch of rain, which is enough moisture to keep grass green for as long as two weeks. Count the seconds it takes your hose to fill a 10-quart pail. Multiply by the number of square feet in your lawn, then divide by 240. That, in minutes, will be how long you will have to water. It is better to give your lawn infrequent, thorough soakings, the department says. Frequent, light sprinklings encourage shallow-rooted weeds.

Conceited!

(Edmonton Journal)

For sheer conceit in conversation, the man who is having good luck with his car is exceeded only by the man who thinks he has out-traded an automobile dealer.

Today's Talk

AN INWARD GOD

From the Greeks come these two words—"en theos"—meaning an inward God. From this we have our inspiring word—enthusiasm.

It may be said that anyone full of enthusiasm carries an inward God about with him. Is it any wonder that enthusiastic persons get along, and inspire others to put enthusiasm into their lives?

When work is a joy and a pleasure, and you feel you are contributing to the happiness and profit of others, you work with enthusiasm. Someone has said that nothing worth while was ever accomplished without enthusiasm.

By being enthusiastic you compel others to believe in you. The enthusiastic salesman, for example, sells himself before he sells his product; whether he sells or not, he leaves a trail of trust administration behind that will not be forgotten.

If you cannot entuse about your work, then you had better hunt out some work about which you can be enthusiastic. People take us at our face value, as the expression of our enthusiasm is an introduction to our heart, and what we represent in our heart, and we are his representative.

I believe in hero worship. The great deeds of the world put their soul into what they did, sacrificing even their physical strength but their enthusiasm for the cause they represented was unquenchable. Such men and women live for us today, and will always live for every generation that unfolds.

With what pride and joy we can look into the life of each new day, and into the face of all whom we may contact, and say, with the consciousness of the voice of our inner God speaking through us, we are inspired because I am mastered by the best that I am and have to give.

Letter to the Editor

Resident Seeks Relief Of Traffic Problem

(Ottawa Journal)

Sir: In reading your editorial on our roads around Belleville I wondered how long Dundas St. W. would stand up to the heavy traffic it takes.

Since the St. Lawrence works started the heavy loads of steel are immense. The large machinery loads of lumber, to say nothing of the great bulldozers and other heavy items, shake us all up. The pounding of the road and the noise are terrible.

Living in Dundas St. W. or on 2 highway, is really dangerous. Now that the tourist season is upon us, to get out of your driveway in the line of traffic is a problem. On Saturdays cars lined up two abreast waiting for the green light as far as the top of Murney Hill and I have seen them in the line of traffic for hours.

Is there any chance of the new road so much talked about ever coming or shall we have to wait until Dundas St. gives out before we get it?

Yours sincerely,
Resident of Dundas St. W.

Men Unmoved By Slow Ruin

(Hamilton Spectator)

It is peculiar of human nature that people are moved by the quick, passing calamities caused by an excess of water and yet remain stubbornly uninterested in the slower but more enduring results of a lack of it.

At this very moment drought and its travelling companion, fire, are visiting on Ontario a disaster much further-reaching than last year's Hurricane Hazel, and yet there is no consciousness of drama in the air as there was then.

In the North woods tired crews are fighting a losing battle with flames that are eating up an inestimable number of millions of dollars' worth of pulpwood and are creating broad areas of barren wilderness to last for a generation or more. Farther south, an inexorable sun is parching the soil; farmers, already using up the hay crop, have no more to feed their stock through next winter, are considering selling their stock. The federal Department of Agriculture already sets the loss from Central Canada's worst drought in more than twenty years at $85,000,000; the final figure will be much higher than that.

Flood and cloudburst produce a great upwelling of public sympathy and the will to help. Drought and fire should do the same. The smoke-grimed men battling disaster in the woods today and the farmers watching the livelihood scorched away by a less dramatic calamity deserve a place in the thoughts of every citizen.

IVANHOE

Neighbors, Friends Fete
Young Couple

IVANHOE—A large number of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Frost on Wednesday evening, to honor Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Ewald, popular newlyweds.

Mr. George Wood was chairman and Mrs. Keith Bray conducted a sing-song with Miss Bessie Fleming at the piano. The following numbers were given: piano duet, Karen and Barry Bray; reading, "The Ideal Man", Miss M. Wright; duet, "A Woman", Elaine Wickens and Judy Wood; trio, "This Old House" by Glen, Grant and Joe Hagerman; solo, "The Bride", Mrs. Keith Bray; solo, "Let the Sun Shine In" by Mary Ray.

An interesting number on the program was the showing of colored slides of Marjorie's wedding, also that of her sister, Mrs. Grant Brett.

Marjorie and Wallace were asked to take seats of honor and an address was read by Mrs. George Wood, in which was mentioned Marjorie's willing participation in all community and church activities. "Let the Sun Shine In" member of Beulah United Church choir, but also worked in the Mission Band and Sunday school. The presentation of a floor lamp was then made for which Marjorie graciously thanked all present and for the many kindnesses shown to her. Wallace also expressed appreciation and all joined in singing "For They are Jolly Good Fellows".

Plane With Five Aboard Overdue
In Rugged Area

VANCOUVER (CP)—An airline spokesman said here today he was not "unduly worried" for the safety of five men missing in a twin-engine amphibian in northern British Columbia.

An RCAF Otter float plane was to join forces with a flight of Pacific Western Airlines planes in the search for the Mallard amphibian reported overdue Wednesday night at Kitimat about 400 miles north of Vancouver.

The PWA spokesman said the crew, three engineers and two crew members, probably were down on a river or small lake in the Kitimat-Kemano area.

The three unidentified engineers, including one reported to be an official of the Aluminium Company of Canada, were making a survey of the 50-mile transmission line feeding power from Kemano to the aluminum smelter at Kitimat.

Capt. Ed Bell and K. R. King of Vancouver were pilot and co-pilot of the missing plane.

An RCAF spokesman said a high-level search would be conducted today if the Otter is unable to discover anything along the lakes and rivers in the area.

The PWA spokesman said the five men "would be in trouble" if their plane had strayed far afield because of the rugged terrain.

Canada Protests
Shooting Down
Of Airliner

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has associated itself with the British protest to the government of Communist Bulgaria over the shooting down of an Israeli airliner by Bulgarian planes.

Fifty-eight passengers and crew members, including four Canadians, were killed in the crash. An external affairs department spokesman said today that this country made no separate protest to Bulgaria but associated itself with that of Britain.

No claim for compensation was registered but the spokesman said assessing compensation probably would take some time.

PARKING PAYOFF

NEW YORK (AP)—New York city's 25,213 parking meters registered a total revenue of $4,388,383 in 1954, traffic commissioner T. T. Wiley announced in his report Wednesday to Mayor Robert F. Wagner. Wiley said 12,000 more meters will be installed on city streets this year.

Arm, Shoulder
Of Fergus Girl
Quite Painful

TORONTO (CP)—Shirley Campbell's spirits, which never gave out until she was dragged from the water, today were high as ever but her arm and shoulder which defeated the attempt were painful.

She awoke at the suburban Scarborough Golf Club six hours after giving up the swim and spoke cheerily with members of the family. She took a hot shower and called for breakfast.

Dr. W. W. Givins, who accompanied her across the lake in the pilot boat, described her general condition as "remarkably good" but said her arm will have to be kept in a sling for a while.

Minor Baseball

With Larry Soden hurling sparkling baseball, the KC's eliminated Point Anne in the bantam play-offs last night by a 5-0 score.

Soden tossed one-hit ball striking out 13 and walking five. He helped his own cause with a triple and single.

Jim Gannon, Point Anne hurler likewise hurled a fine game although he was touched for 8 hits. He whiffed 11 and walked seven.

The winners scored two runs in the fifth and three in the seventh in one of the best games seen here this season.

Doug Scrimshaw and Ron Pointer each had two hits for the winners Garry Hull hit the first ball pitched for a single, the only Pt. Anne clout of the game.

Mott's Pee-Wees
In Second-Place
Tie in League

Mott's Pee-Wee softballers pulled up into a tie for second place in the standing last night as they pounded out a 19-14 victory over Rotary in a scheduled Pee - Wee softball fixture played at the Mott's St. firehall grounds.

The game left both Rotary and Mott's tied for second position.

Ling toiled on the mound for the winners giving up eight hits. He fanned eight and walked the same number, while his teammates committed four errors behind him.

Gaffney looked after the pitching chores for the losers giving up seven hits, fanning four and issuing seven walks. His teammates came up with five errors.

Sercerchie with three singles was best at the plate for the winning nine with Fisher, Vance, Butcher and Simmons getting a single each. For the losers Gaffney knocked out a homer; Butcher came up with two singles and Tenhoop, Townsend, Woods and Wallbridge each had singles.

Thousand City
Children Visit
Coca-Cola Plant

In conjunction with the observance of "Playground Week" the Coca-Cola Company's branch here co-operated with officials of the Belleville Recreation Commission in a new departure from regular playground activities.

Upwards of 1,000 children of the city representative of the twelve playgrounds of the city, were taken on specially-conducted tours of the Coca-Cola Company's plant here. The tours lasted over a period of three days.

The children were taken by bus from the various playgrounds to the plant where they were greeted by Mr. Coe, his staff and recreation officials. They were given souvenir sun-visors and later treated to ice-cold "coke" through the courtesy of the company.

Under the supervision of Don Charlton, the kiddies were taken on a tour of inspection of the spacious plant during bottling operations. These operations besides others were carefully explained to the children who proved very interested spectators, many asking pertinent questions.

Following the tours the children were shown the highly educational film "Refreshment Through the Years". They watched the many interesting sequences with keen interest. They saw old-time bottling plants in operation, the manufacture of bottles, bottle-tops, harvesting of sugar, steel mills as well as the modern scenes which show the scrupulous care with which every detail of present-day manufacturing and bottling of soft drinks is carried out.

Accompanying the children were the respective playground supervisors. These included Marilyn Kennedy, Bayview; Barbara Payne, Queen Elizabeth; Suzanne Smith, Churchill Heights; Mary Patrick, Alemitie; Carol Poste, CNR; Joan Shoemaker, James McKenzie, Pat Roland, East Hill; Ardell Hunter, Marilyn Huddleston, Joyce Pirth, Jan. Genie, St. Paul Street; Josephine Hurst, West Hill, Ross Wamsley and Ruth Watson; Fire Hall, Francis Taylor; King George, Patsy Luck and Parkdale, Jean Frost.

Weddings

FOOTE-REID

Beneath an evergreen arch, mingled with pastel-tinted gladioli, on the spacious lawn of the bride's home, a lovely summer wedding was solemnized on Saturday, July 30, at 2:00 p.m., by the Rev. William Hynd, of Hamilton, when Blanche Clarissa Foote Reid, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Reid of Belleville, Ont., and the late Mr. Reid, became the bride of Alan Alexander Foote, of Roslin, Ont., son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Foote.

Mrs. Robert Reid, sister-in-law of the bride, rendered the wedding music. Mrs. William Craighead of Campbellford, soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Donald Rutherford, also of Campbellford, sang before the ceremony "O Perfect Love" and during the signing of the register "I'll Walk Beside You."

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Robert Reid, the bride was charming in her bridal gown of white imported embroidered nylon tulle over satin, fashioned with fitted, strapless bodice, with matching jacket having sheath-like sleeves ending in lily-poll length skirt, featuring three tiers of tulle over satin. Her fitting veil of tulle illusion was held by a matching Juliet cap, and she carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations, white mums, mingled with pink roses, tied with satin ribbon.

Miss Cora Reid of Belleville, sister of the bride, was the only attendant, attractively attired in a strapless gown of nylon tulle effect of cornflower blue in jacket effect with matching stole cascading around the waist to the back hemline of the bouffant waist length skirt, which featured a front panel of pale blue tulle shading into deeper cornflower blue. She wore a headress of small roses, and carried a nosegay of colored mums.

Mr. Donald Foote, of Belleville, attended his brother, while Mr. Frank Moore of Belleville, was usher.

Little Women Pack Rifles With Best of Men

TORONTO (CP) — Four little women packed big .303-calibre rifles with the best of the men Wednesday at the 74th annual meet of the Ontario Rifle Association at suburban Long Branch.

All the women placed within the upper third of the 170 contestants during several of the matches and keen-eyed Phyllis Narcott won a major prize in the City of Toronto match.

"Shooting always appealed to me," said Miss Narcott, 28, of Brockville and Ottawa. "My father is keen on hunting, but I don't think that has very much to do with my interest."

"When I started to work with the civil service commission at Ottawa four years ago I joined the national defence headquarters rifle association."

"This 90-degree heat bothered me for shooting though. I shoot much better in the cold," she added.

Other women competitors are Barb Carter, 23, and Jean Meyers, 30, both of Toronto, and Olga Dagrella, 31, a native of Georgetown, British Guiana. Miss Dagrella is working as a clerk in Toronto.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

ABSENCE MAY MAKE THE HEART GROW FONDER— BUT GO SLOW!

Dear Beatrice Fairfax: I am a 30-year-old divorcee, and childless. There is a young man two years older than myself whom I have known for several years. He too, was married and is now divorced. Since both of us have been free, we have seen quite a little of each other, and are very congenial. I am not sure that what I feel for him is love, but I am very fond of him. He seems to feel the same way, and somehow I think that in time we might come to love each other and eventually marry. The trouble is that he has taken a government job which requires him to go out of the country, and he will probably be away at least a couple of years. I would gladly wait for him, but how can I suggest such a thing to him — Mrs. R.M.

Dear Mrs. R.M.: If this young man goes away without asking you to wait for him, it would hardly look as though he were very deeply interested in you. Moreover, if he actually did have a real interest in you, what is there to prevent him from asking you to marry him now and taking you along with him on his overseas assignment?

Altogether, I'm afraid you have very slim evidence on which to build up a case for his wanting to marry you, and my opinion would be that you had better accept the fact that he looks upon you as someone he enjoys having for a friend and let it go at that. Disillusioning though the thought may be, it seems to me it would be smart to face squarely the possibility that he suspects your emotions are becoming more involved with him than his are with you, and that this might be the very reason why he sought a job that would take him away. Such a thing often happens, you know, when a man thinks it best to extricate himself from a situation that shows signs of becoming hard to handle.

On the other hand, of course, one doesn't forget that, in circumstances like yours, absence may well make the heart grow fonder, as the old saying has it. It may be that, after there are several thousand miles of distance between you, he may discover that he misses you greatly, and his feeling for you actually runs much deeper than he had realized. In such a case, he would probably lose no time sending you a message to tell you so.

While you're waiting to see whether it's going to be a matter of "Absence makes the heart grow fonder," or "Out of sight, out of mind," do all you can to increase your interests and your friendships and keep busy. Don't just sit around dreading and wishing and wondering.

This will be helpful to you in two ways. For one, it will keep you from narrowing your life in such a way that, if nothing more ever comes of your relationship, you won't have left yourself out on a limb. And for the other, it will provide you with a lot of interesting subjects to write to him about if a regular correspondence develops between you.

Don't though, be the first to write. Wait and see if a letter from him comes with reasonable promptness, indicating that he expects to keep in touch with you. If he doesn't, let the tone of your reply be guided by his own, and don't be sentimental or overintimate unless he has shown that he feels that way and takes it for granted that you do, too.

Be sure to watch yourself carefully here, for a woman in love—or tettering on the brink of being in love, if you feel that describes your own position more accurately—is all too apt to let herself read into what a man says, or writes, what she wants to believe is there, and respond accordingly. This, you might later regret, so take it slow and easy.

Good luck to you, now—and steer a wise course between your hopes and the facts as they reveal themselves. That way you might win in the end, or if you don't, you'll at least have avoided doing or saying anything you'll wish you hadn't.

Women's Institute

WALLBRIDGE W.I.

WALLBRIDGE — The July meeting of the Wallbridge W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Art Carleton with 13 members and two visitors present.

A letter from "CARE" was read, thanking for donations and explaining where the money goes. Programs were explained for the Institute holiday at Guelph, also at Kemptville, and a list of donations to Ceylon project presented. There was also some discussion on the exhibit at Belleville Fair, also a committee named for catering at the fair as follows: Mrs. M. Phillips, Mrs. A. Carleton, Mrs. B. Hinchcliffe, Mrs. J. Sine and Mrs. H. Phillips.

Mrs. O. Chisholm gave some interesting current events. Miss Pearl Tucker favored with a piano solo which was much enjoyed by all. The president thanked the hostesses for her kind hospitality.

Salad Salesmanship

By Mary Moore

If the men in your family eat the salads you prepare and like them right down to the last scrap of lettuce in the bowl one thing is sure—you have imagination and are a good saleswoman.

Good salads don't just assemble themselves out of thin air and get eaten automatically. We are a people who like meat and not vegetables, and on a great majority of our tables there is a vacuum where the salad bowl should be—or a dish of pickles.

I know I'm a health fiend and that I am striking at you while the heat is on—sitting the heat on as it were—but it is only for your own family's good, friends. Salad foods always have lovely appealing colors and textures in their favor, and there are as many salad dressing possibilities as there are salads.

A word to regular salad makers is that you can change your way of making the salad every day and hold the interest and admiration of your families season after season.

THE UNTOSSED SALAD

This little number is designed for choosy eaters who don't like mixed up food. Arrange about 5 or 6 well-cupped lettuce leaves on a shallow bowl or large wooden server. Each cup should cradle a pile or bundle of such colorful items as sliced cucumber (with fork-scored skin), tomato wedges, cheese-stuffed celery, radish roses, well-drained canned asparagus tips, rosebud beets (pickled or not) or tiny green onions. Put no dressing on any of them but have French Dressing on hand at the table. This way at least one or two of your items will tempt everybody present and some your he-man rabbit food lovers will sample all.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

CARE OF THE TEETH

One of the greatest beauty assets is an attractive smile—and what is a smile without pretty, gleaming teeth?

Care of the teeth is one phase of your beauty routine which is a health measure as well, for your toothbrush does a double job of keeping your teeth dazzling white and free of troublesome cavities. That is why it is so important to follow the best professional advice and brush your teeth regularly after every meal.

Most women—and men, too, for that matter—do brush their teeth morning and evening, but at noon. Well, for the working girl, particularly, it's something of a hit-or-miss proposition. The toothbrush may be in the locker ready for use but, all too often, the whole lunch hour has gone by and there's "just no time."

And no wonder—when it's so pleasant to sit dawdling at the table with your best friend and catching up with the latest gossip or even more fun to go on a shopping spree!

You don't need much time, though, to use dental floss. When

THE TOSSED SALAD

I'm not one who believes that tossed green salad should be limited to greens. Pop up green salads with colorful accessories like water-thin radish slices, shreds of carrot, thin slices of tomato and unpeeled cucumber. Even add tulip-shaped strips of ham, cheese (including the various exotic types), chicken, shrimp or any leftover protein. Occasionally get real daring and add paper-thin white onion rings from mild Italian onion.

Start with the greens which may be iceberg or leaf lettuce or crisp new cabbage or some of all of them. I like to tear rather than cut greens—all but cabbage that is. There is a little roller, like a disc-er on a tractor only about two inches long with ten sharp wheels on it that is ideal for chopping parsley. To be specific about one tossed salad tear the leaves from a head of iceberg lettuce half of them if you are serving four—almost all of it if you have six to serve. Drop into a wooden salad bowl which has been rubbed with a cut clove of garlic. Add three or four radishes sliced, water thin, 2-inch long strips from 1-4 of a green pepper, 1 medium tomato, peeled, and sliced so water thin you can see through it, 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley, and ever-so-thin slices from 1-2 medium-sized mild Italian onion—broken into rings. Put it in the refrigerator until the last moment before serving. Then toss it to the table unmixing. Stand it before father along with the crust containing plain or Roquefort or Parmesan French Dressing. Let him be the salad showman and salesman—tossing it like a prima donna. With this kind of fanfare there won't be one young or old member at your table who can resist it.

you visit the powder room for make-up repairs, it takes only another minute to whip the floss out of your bag (it comes in such handy purse-size containers), slip it between your teeth, and then rinse your mouth. In this way troublesome food particles are removed and, even if you haven't the time for that mid-day brushing, you've taken a good precaution against decay.

Follow the same procedure when you're out on a dinner date and the probability is that your teeth won't be brushed for hours. In fact, it's a good idea to use the floss even when you do use your brush since food particles often become lodged between teeth where it's difficult for the toothbrush to reach them.

The combination of toothbrush, dentifrice and dental floss will give you good protection if used faithfully, but don't forget your semi-annual visits to your dentist—and your diet.

In the matter of diet, both doctors and dentists agree that meat, poultry, milk and milk products, fresh fruits and vegetables form the basis for an all-around healthy diet which promotes strong, sound teeth as well as a strong, sound body. But even if your diet is right, don't neglect that three-times-a-day care. For these same doctors and dentists advise that most likely time for caries to develop is within the first hour after eating. It is then that acids formed by food particles remaining in the mouth begin to make their severest attack on tooth enamel, driving the endangering wedge for decay—and engendering your dazzling smile.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

MENUS AT WEDDING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman: My mother and my two dear aunts, my mother's very conservative sisters, are having a grand time planning my wedding with me. Everything about the church ceremony has been planned, and this was easy since a definite pattern really had to be followed. My wedding is to be a large, formal one, and I wanted to have a large reception, formal also but simple and as inexpensive as possible. I told them last evening I was quite sure I remembered that not so long ago I read in your column that nowadays, even when the afternoon wedding and reception are formal, and even when two or three hundred guests are invited to the reception, it is entirely proper, really "customary," to serve extremely simple foods. Am I right about this?

They think that the "large, formal wedding and reception" demands that, even at the late-afternoon reception, an important menu be served. Really the works. The sad part about this for me is that if such a menu is a "must," we will not be able to have any reception at all, or else have only a very, very few guests. Please set us straight about this, Mrs. Beeckman. And, if possible, give us suitable menu suggestions.—Janice T.

How happy I am to be able to be able to assure you . . . and your mother and your aunts . . . that at today's afternoon wedding receptions the menu usually served (and this is true even for the large, formal reception) is indeed extremely simple. The two musts are (1) the wedding cake, to be cut first by the bride and groom; and (2) the cold beverage for the toasts . . . champagne, punch, or whatever is the choice. Sandwiches may be served . . . very small ones, very thin, and with simple fillings. Or only small, open face sandwiches may be served. Or no sandwiches and only assorted hors d'oeuvres may be served. There may be little cakes, but as often the wedding cake is the only cake.

WHEN COLD SOUP IS FIRST COURSE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman: In these summer days, when the velop is within the first hour after eating. It is then that acids formed by food particles remaining in the mouth begin to make their severest attack on tooth enamel, driving the endangering wedge for decay—and engendering your dazzling smile.

Mother's Helper

HEALTHY newborn infants fresh from the walls of a hospital nursery aren't likely to be awakened by your everyday household noises. It'll be better for his future as a sleeper if you eliminate unnecessary "babbling" from the moment he comes to live with you.

first course of either luncheon or dinner is a cold soup . . . either a cold cream soup (vichyssoise, for example) or a jellied soup (madrillene, for example), is it proper to have the soup at the individual places when the hostess summons her guests to the dining room — Hostess-to-be

Yes. This is generally the procedure when there is no service or limited service. It's convenient, sensibly time-saving. (And, of course, when the first course is at the place, the folded napkin is put at the left of the forks.)

Wallbridge

WALLBRIDGE — Mr. and Mrs. Harold Garrison spent the past week with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Don Garrison at their cottage, Kamp Kennebeca at Arden, Ont. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Wana, Inaker and family were Sunday guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Miller Parks. Mrs. Albert Langabeer was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris a few days. They also spent the tea hour at Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pound's Thurlow, on Monday evening.

Mrs. Dorothy Wannamaker, Sharon and Allan spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Carr.

Farmers are busy with their threshing as the hot dry weather is ripening grain fast and rain is badly needed since gardens are suffering under the hot sun.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris, accompanied by a number of friends and relatives enjoyed a day recently at Amherst Island, taking the ferry at Millhaven.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Smith and children and the latter's father, children and Mrs. Smith's father, have returned home after spending their vacation at Presqu'ile Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller Parks and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Parks enjoyed a boat trip through the Thousand Islands one day recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ketcheson and family are holidaying with the former's mother, Mrs. Laurence Ketcheson and also spending some time at their cottage at Trent River.

The annual Sunday school picnic is to be held at Tweed's park on August 13. All are asked to bring lunch consisting of sandwiches, pickles and cookies. Every one is invited to attend the picnic.

The Rev. W. E. Dovey, Mrs. Dovey and children are on their month's vacation and there will be no services during this month. Congratulations to the Associated Bankers' course at Queens University, Kingston.

Royal Bank of Canada, Belleville, successfully passed his examinations for the Associated Bankers' course at Queens University, Kingston.

headway. Her arms were sore, her body bone-weary.

"I'll get there if I have to swim on my back or crawl on my stomach," she told her coach, Max Hurley.

HIT BY SHOWERS

Intermittent heavy showers splashed down on her. The waters became choppy. She appeared to get her second wind. Her rhythmic stroking returned to a steady 52, the shoreline was visible but Toronto's lights weren't getting any brighter.

Thousands of citizens jumped in their cars and headed for the waterfront. More than 50,000 persons were on hand to give her a boisterous welcome but there still was no sign of the boats following the game teen-ager who decided Tuesday night that her practising for the Sept. 5 lake swim was finished and that Wednesday morning was the time to "go all the way."

At 11 p.m. it was reported she was about three miles from her goal. If she could touch the breakwater by 1:43 a.m. she would beat Miss Bell's record. At midnight, she had an estimated 2½ miles to go.

SWAM ALONGSIDE

Brenda Fisher of Grimsby, England, here to train for the Sept. 5 swim, plunged into the water and swam alongside Shirley to keep up her spirits. The Ontario girl appeared to be swimming in circles and her coach decided she had enough.

Brenda tried to coax her into the boat at 2:10. Five minutes later she was pulled out, taken to the Toronto harbor police headquarters waiting ambulance and whisked to a hideaway, a golf course on the outskirts of the city.

"He face was chalk white and her eyes were closed," said a reporter who saw her carried to the ambulance. "She looked too tired to open her eyes."

That was the finish of her surprising challenge to beat the lake that had defeated even Florence Chadwick, world-famed long-distance swimmer, last September. The San Diego, Calif., mermaid previously had successfully negotiated every large body of water she had attempted but seasickness from the heavy swells forced her out after 13 miles.

WILL GET REWARD

Marilyn Bell, conqueror of the English channel last week-end, received world-wide acclaim and a big financial jackpot for her lake swim and Shirley now is assured of at least financial reward for her attempt.

Toronto citizens and business men telephoned newspaper offices and radio stations Wednesday night offering gifts of money and merchandise for Shirley.

There will be more for the girl who had been swimming, and winning, since she was six and who kept her lake plunge a secret. Even her widowed mother didn't know about her plans until she heard Wednesday afternoon that her daughter was in the water.

11 U.S. AIRMEN

The men were shot down on what the U.S. Air Force called a "routine leaflet-dropping mission over North Vietnam." The Red Chinese sentenced them last November as spies to prison terms ranging up to 10 years.

The U.S. declared the charges "trumped up."

BEFORE DISCUSSIONS

Peiping announced their release Monday, just before the opening of U.S.-Chinese negotiations in Geneva.

Capt Eugene John Vaadi told how they first learned they would be freed.

"Last Sunday night they came to get us. They told us they were going to have a party. They took us to a room and there they told us we would be released at once. An hour later, at 10 o'clock Sunday night, we got on a train at Peiping."

Airman Daniel C. Schmidt, whose wife had remarried in the belief that he was dead, heard no mention of it today. Correspondents were under strict orders not to let slip any hint, as doctors warned against possible shock.

Besides Arnold, Bauer, Vaadi and Schmidt the men are: Capt. Elmer F. Llewellyn, Lieut. Wallace L. Brown, Lieut. John W. Buck, Sgt. Howard W. Brown, Airman Steven E. Kiba, Airman Harry M. Benjamin and Airman John W. Thompson.

2 SUSPECTS HELD

Guards Stanley J. Klodzinski, 32, Kenneth A. Kemp, 31, and Clohessy drove up to the garage and vault with the Fort Erie receipts. They were met at the driveway by guard Edward J. Thompson. Clohessy stepped from the armored truck, driven by Kemp, and entered the garage through a side door. He then passed through four security lock doors to a turret, from which the main garage door is controlled.

Kemp drove into the garage, and as the heavy door was locked by Clohessy the others began to unload the six locked boxes containing the track funds.

BANDITS JUMP OUT

Before they had removed one box the three bandits, masked with silk stockings, leaped from behind one of the 13 armored trucks parked in the garage and covered the guards with a submachinegun, a carbine rifle and a pistol.

Police said the bandits had gained entrance to the garage through a rear window.

"All right, line up against the wall," one of the bandits ordered. "We mean business. We'll blow your brains out."

As the bandit with the machine-gun covered the guards, who had lined up against the wall, Clohessy opened the security turret door and was sent reeling back by a slug fired by the bandit.

Clohessy slammed the bullet-proof door and sounded an American District Telegraph alarm which brought police and private police agencies into action.

Working fast, two of the bandits showed two money boxes out of a window. They disarmed the captive guards and leaped through a window of the garage.

GUARDS ARM SELVES

As soon as they left, Clohessy opened the security turret and handed his gun to Thompson. Kemp ripped out a pistol from an arms locker, and Klodzinski picked up his gun which he had left in the truck.

When they reached the street they saw one of the money boxes lying on the sidewalk. They threw it into Klodzinski's car and began the pursuit. As they turned into Maryland street, they spotted a second box on the sidewalk, where it evidently had been dropped by the bandits.

The bandits commandeered a car owned by Michael Giglia, 55, who had just parked it at the curb in Maryland street near the scene of the holdup. The bandits had evidently fled that far on foot.

But Giglia's car wouldn't start, and the bandits then turned to an automobile driven by Edward Craven, 42, who had stopped for a boulevard stop sign. Craven was riding with his wife, Ruth, 41, and daughter, Eileen, 10.

One of the bandits told Mrs. Craven: "Don't worry lady, we won't hurt you. We need a car and we'll have it back to you in a little while."

The pursuing guards turned into Maryland street at this moment and opened fire at the bandits in the Craven car. They pursued it at speeds of 65 miles an hour and exhausted their ammunition.

It was at this point that a police car containing three patrolmen joined the chase.

In the exchange of gunfire, one of the bandit's bullets riddled through the passenger's side of the police car, narrowly missing two of the patrolmen.

The cars squealed into Trenton street near Carolina, where the bandits leaped out and scattered through the narrow street.

SURRENDER IN CELLAR

Pettinato ran into a back yard and asked Mrs. Angelo Alba to hide him. She refused, and fled into the house. The bandit went into her cellar, where he surrendered meekly after police burst into the house.

"Don't shoot," Pettinato cried from the basement. "It's me, Tony."

Mazella dashed into a basement on the opposite side of the street. He was flushed out with tear gas. Meanwhile, Sheridan fled down the street and around a corner. He entered the home of Mrs. Louise Sapienza and told her he had suffered a heart attack. He rested there for half an hour and then called a cab.

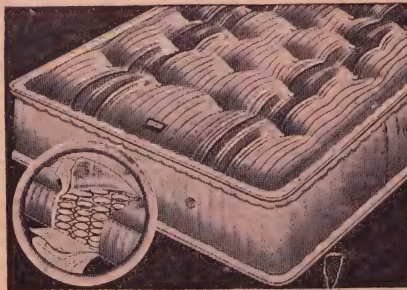

The cabbie, Melvin Weinstein, 32, told police his fare left the cab after travelling only a short distance. The cab driver said the bandit had a handkerchief wrapped around his right hand.

Bandits escaped with the largest cash haul in American history in another Brink's holdup at Boston Jan. 17, 1950. They fled with $1,219,000 in cash. None of the money was ever recovered and no convictions were obtained in connection with the holdup.

BRIEFS INVITED

THE ROYAL COMMISSION ON CANADA'S ECONOMIC PROSPECTS will commence public hearings in Toronto, 23rd of January.

Briefs are invited from organizations and associations wishing to express views on the probable economic development of Canada and on the problems to which it appears likely to give rise.

Specifically included among the subjects to be considered by the Commission are the following:

- anticipated developments in the supply of raw materials and energy sources;
- the growth to be expected in the population of Canada and changes in its distribution;
- prospects for growth and change in domestic and external markets for Canadian production;
- trends in productivity and standards of living; and
- prospective requirements for industrial and social capital.

Briefs must be in writing and should reach the Secretary of the Commission, Room 400, Daly Building, Ottawa, by the 28th of December. At least ten copies should be forwarded and more, if possible.

It would be helpful if organizations and associations intending to submit briefs could so inform the Commission's Secretary without delay.

YOU CAN WIN $3,000 THIS WEEK in the exciting DOMINION "Famous Brands" FORTUNE-HUNT!

Although 38 phone calls were made Saturday night in the Dominion Famous Brands Fortune Hunt no one answered with the correct words to win last week's puzzle "Dominion Stores Kraft Miracle Whip Salad Dressing". Consolation prizes of $100 went to Mrs. Margaret Brown, 541 Granite Street, Sudbury; Mrs. Agnes Campbell, 102 Hearn Avenue, Guelph, and Mr. David Pinder, 81 Division Street, Kingston. Ont. Calls were placed to St. Thomas, Toronto, Windsor, Aldershot, Port Perry, Ottawa, Belleville, London, Barrie, Port Hope, Sudbury, North Bay, Hamilton, St. Catharines, Sarnia, Stratford, Durham, Oshawa, Peterborough, Guelph, Kingston, Goderich, Brantford, Chatham.

You can win three thousand dollars this week in the Dominion Famous Brands Fortune Hunt. First find the Phantom Famous Brand listed on this page, but not illustrated. Next, if your telephone rings between eight and nine o'clock (EDT) next Saturday evening, do not answer hello or you will be automatically disqualified from an opportunity to win $3,000. Instead of answering Hello, say Dominion Stores and then state the name of this week's Phantom Famous Brand. If you do and it is the Dominion Fortune Hunt calling you will win the grand prize of $3,000.

$1,000 BONUS! If you win the Grand Prize and have in your home at the time a box top or label from this week's "Phantom Famous Brand" (or a reasonable facsimile) PLUS a DOMINION cash register slip dated this week and totaling $5.00 or more, you will qualify for a bonus prize of $1,000.

$100 CONSOLATION PRIZES! If the DOMINION FORTUNE-HUNT calls your telephone number and you make the mistake of answering HELLO, but can still name this week's "Phantom Famous Brand," you will qualify for a consolation prize of $100.

GRAND PRIZE MUST BE WON! If this week's Grand Prize is not won on Saturday night, it will be added to next week's Grand Prize of $1,000. This will be repeated if necessary until someone wins the accumulated Grand Prize.

Employees and agents of Dominion Stores Limited and their families are not eligible for this contest.

'Mack and Sine Family History' Received by Rawdon Resident

RAWDON — Mrs. Percy MacMullen received her copy of "The Mack and Sine family history" last week. It is dedicated to the late Rev. Henry W. Mack and his wife, the former Annie Sine, of Wellmans Corners. Rawdon township.

The book was published in Royal Oak, Michigan, U.S.A. by Edwin P. Mack. The compiler and editor was Dr. Harry W. Mack, and the last two years he has suffered several severe heart attacks which necessitated several weeks in hospital however, his valiant spirit kept him at his job whenever health permitted, and now he is reaping the reward of his labors with his book completed.

The book contains history of Brooks, Chard, Green, Hagerman, Hoard, Hubble Montgomery, Rosebush, Sines, Sine, Scott, Sharp, Vandervoort, White, Weaver, and Wescott families in the Stirling, Sidney and Rawdon district.

There are thirteen pages of pictures which includes the pioneers as well as those of modern days. The section opens with large portraits of the Rev. and Mrs. Mack, followed by one of their home at Colborne, Ontario, in 1891, the birthplace of Rev. Mr. Mack and their family in 1914 at Sine, Michigan.

There is a group picture of Chloire Chard White, and her nine grown children, one of whom was the late Philo White the writer's great grandfather who resided at River Valley, Carmel and Mount Pleasant.

There are pictures of the Sine School House in 1922; Hubble Hill Baptist Church; Wellmans School House; and several other familiar scenes in Rawdon Township all with members of the Mack families who had made pilgrimages at various times to their old haunts of younger days.

The book quotes from the Danish Philosopher "Life must be lived forward, but it can only be understood backwards."

The book opens with a message from the late Rev. Henry Mack, part of which reads, "Share your bread with little children, respect the nests of birds, rise to labor, so to rest in prayer, go to sleep in the unknown. Having for your pillow the infinite."

In 1913 Mr. Mack prepared a short family history. The name of Mack is of ancient Scottish origin and was originally used as a Christian name.

FACTS AUTHENTIC
Mrs. MacMullen received a letter from her cousin on Thursday, July 28th. He said the facts related in the book are pretty well authenticated, however he did regret the typographical errors as Dr. Mack was not well enough to give the necessary proof reading. He said he would have liked to relate a number of family stories related to his father's family, when they were children together.

On those winter evenings they all were gathered around the fire enjoying family conversations with refreshments of a pan of apples from their cellar or fresh popped corn. In those days, so families had time to enjoy each other. Then, too, each had time to read a book, time to learn their lessons, and above all, leisure time with mother and dad.

EARLY RAWDON
Another item of interest in the book is Rawdon township was first a part of the district of Mecklenburg of Upper Canada, later changed to Midland district, and then Victoria. In 1798 six townships were set apart: Thurlow, Sidney, Rawdon, Hungerford, Hunt- ington, and Tyendinaga. Although township meetings were held many years earlier, Rawdon township was not organized until 1880. According to the archives report the Village of Stirling was organized in 1838, and was named after Stirling, Scotland, from where in 1822 came a group of families who settled north of Belleville.

Previously this area had been known as Rawdon, later Seldon's Mills, and then about 100 years ago the village was named "Stirling".

Beldin's atlas of 1878 states that William White, (the writer's great, great grandfather) was a government scaler of lumber exported from the area in Sidney township located in the Trent River.

RUSSIA MAY MAKE RACE OF BUILDING EARTH SATELLITE

Copied from a Soviet magazine is this Red artist's conception of a space station idea which the Russians have been considering. It was described as a big cylinder assembled from "parts of rockets" which become satellites when released into space. It takes on particular interest in view of Washington report that a race to launch the first satellite might be expected after the U.S. announcement. (Central Press Canadian).

U.S., Red China Recess Talks On Release of U.S. Civilians, To Resume Parley on Monday

By MAX HARRELSON
GENEVA (AP) — The United States and China today called another recess in their closed-door talks without announcing any agreement on the release of 40 American civilians held by the Peking regime.
U. S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson and Chinese envoy Wang Ping-nan talked for an hour and a half on the question of the civilians, but neither would indicate what progress, if any, had been made.
An American spokesman announced only that they would meet again Monday on the same subject.

RUMORS PERSIST
This was seen as an indication that one or both of the ambassadors required instructions from his government. The two envoys had first discussed the issue of the civilians on Tuesday, and then recessed for 48 hours.
Despite the apparent failure of today's session to produce agreement, rumors persisted that the release of the American civilians would be expected soon.

Before today's meeting Johnson denied earlier reports that he and Wang had agreed in principle on repatriation of the Americans and of an indefinite number of Chinese, are detained by the United States.

LOOK FOR FORMULA
The Chinese have left the impression, however, that they are ready to free the Americans and are looking for a formula on the students which would save face for them. The U.S. has insisted that all Chinese who want to return to their homeland are free to go.
This morning's session was expected to deal primarily with a Chinese proposal reported to call for a third neutral country to check the students to see if they are being detained against their will.

Several countries have diplomatic relations with both governments, including Sweden, India, Britain and Switzerland. Some observers saw significance in the fact here earlier this week of India's roving envoy V. K. Krishna Menon, but Menon on arriving in Bombay Wednesday night said he had "not heard anything about such an idea."

RUMOR ROMANCE
Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld of the United Nations also had private talks Wednesday with both Johnson and Wang. The two could have been related to the Chinese plan.

Father Gives Up Fight To Get Children

KITCHENER (CP) — Robert Morrison, Kitchener father who put his two children in St. Agatha Roman Catholic orphanage, has given up his fight for custody of them. They now are with the mother in Toronto.
Stewart McBride, Mr. Morrison's lawyer, said Wednesday the husband and wife have entered into a separation agreement whereby custody of the children was given to the mother with reasonable access by the father.

He said the agreement was reached Tuesday, one day before the mother's action to get custody was to be heard in the Ontario Supreme Court.

Bags Two Holes-in-One,
One Counts
ENGLEWOOD, Colo. (AP) — Jack Warner of Denver bagged two holes-in-one Wednesday but only one counted on the Mountain View golf course here.
On the 112-yard 5th hole, Warner knocked his first shot out of bounds, then hit the next tee shot into the cup. The two stroke penalty, No. 3 because of the two stroke penalty, No. 3 on the 192-yard 7th he bagged a No. 3 iron shot into the hole for a clear-cut ace.

Summer's Blistering Heat Mixed Blessing to Farmers
OTTAWA (CP) — The summer's blistering heat, as it so often does, is proving a mixed blessing to Canadian farmers.

Under a scorching sun prairie wheat is ripening toward a near-record crop. The heat is blocking spread of rust that last year reduced the wheat crop to the lowest in 11 years and has enabled a start on some harvesting already.
But that same blistering sun is drying out profits of farmers in Ontario and Quebec. Some even and oats are shriveling. Many other fields are in such a critical state that only a great downpour of rain can prevent disaster.
Estimates of possible drought loss in central Canada run as high as $100,000,000.
The bureau of statistics reporting the loss of wheat crop in the west Wednesday on the Canadian crop scene said prairie crops are doing so well that above-average yields

Landlord Will Be Asked to Change His Decision

WINDSOR (CP) — Mayor Michael Patrick said Wednesday he will ask a landlord who allegedly ordered a Negro tenant to vacate his house on racial grounds to reconsider his decision.
The mayor was commenting on charges made Tuesday by Harold Johnson, executive secretary of the AFL-CIO labor committee for human rights, that some local landlords were discriminating against Negro tenants.
Mr. Johnson said a Negro, who recently returned from service in Korea, had been ordered to move the day after he entered his rented house because "the neighbors complained."

Contract Awarded
TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Hydro Wednesday awarded a contract for $1,680,800 to Dominion Bridge Company Limited, a Montreal firm, Dominion's bid was the lowest of seven received.
The contract is for the supply of 48 steel girders, bolts and embedded parts for use in the St. Lawrence powerhouse. Delivery of the equipment will be carried out progressively from Aug. 1, 1957 to Feb. 1, 1958.

31,000,000 SIGNERS
TOKYO (AP) — More than 31,000,000 signatures have been obtained in Japan to petitions for atomic and hydrogen bombs, sponsors of the year-old movement said Wednesday. The drive was launched soon after Japanese fishermen were burned by fallout from a hydrogen bomb test at Bikini in March, 1954. The campaign ends Friday, 10th anniversary of the bombing of Hiroshima.

Ontario Leads Cricket Tourney
VANCOUVER (CP) — Ontario took a stranglehold on the Canadian cricket championships here Wednesday when they defeated British Columbia 133-67.

It was the third win for the eastern side and the first loss for B.C. Alberta scored its first victory of the three-day tourney when they downed Manitoba 187-52.
B.C. plays Alberta for the second time today, while Ontario meets Manitoba again.
The fine bowling of Brian Christen, backed up by splendid fielding, was the downfall of the B.C. side. A fine lining by Ontario's Bill Gowd held give the western province a firm grip on the trophy they last won in 1952.
Bill Hendy came out with the best bowling for B.C., taking three wickets for 25 runs while Alan Stead and Peter Stead both had two for 17.

Golf Carnival Gets Under Way At Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — The Tam O'Shanter midsummer golf carnival, worth $121,000 in prizes, begins today as more than 220 men and women players tee off in the $30,000 All-American tourneys.
The 157 men shoot for the $3,420 first prize in the $25,000 All-American pro tourney, while 74 female pros gun for the $1,000 top swag in the $5,000 distaff side competition.
In addition, 24 men amateurs and 16 women amateurs also will join the 72-hole medal play melees, a four-ringed fairways circus which concludes Sunday.
The All-American, however, is merely a spritely curtain-raiser to Tam O'Shanter's two-day international matches, between the top eight United States and top foreign entries, next Tuesday and Wednesday, and the $100,000 cash "wednesday" meet, Aug. 11-14.

SUES M-G-M
WASHINGTON (AP) — Miss Donna B. Castello sued Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures for $5,000,000, Wednesday, claiming that the studio denied her material in the movie "Knights of the Round Table."
Miss Castello said she wrote a play entitled "Knights of the Round Table" 20 years ago, and charged that M-G-M used much of her original idea — including setting, atmosphere, action, groupings of characters, episodes and dialogue.

Toronto Officer Wins Trophy At Rifle Shoot

TORONTO (CP) — Lieut. L. H. Douglas of the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, Toronto, Wednesday won the Duke of Cornwall and York match in a tense, four-way shoot-off at the 74th Ontario Rifle Association annual 303-calibre meet.
The shoot-off for the first prize silver medal and $30 was called after 95 out of a possible 100 points were scored by A. Grundy, Windsor Sportsmen's Rifle Association; Sgt. N. Heffner, Royal Canadian Army Ordnance Corps, Fort Churchill, Man., and Phyllis Norcot, Brampton, of National Defence Headquarters, Ottawa.
Mr. Grundy placed second to win $25, Sgt. Heffner was third and won $20 and Norcot placed fourth for $15.
Fifty prize of $10 was won by Sgt. R. B. Cathline, Royal Canadian School of Infantry, Camp Borden, Ont., who scored 98 points.
In the shoot-off, the three were fired over 300 and 600 yards.

3-WAY SHOOTOFF
Lieut. A. L. G. Clements, National Defence Headquarters, won a silver medal and $30 in a three-way shoot-off for the City of Toronto match.
The three had the perfect score of 109 in the seven shots at 500 yards and 15 shots at 600 yards.
Second in the shoot-off was Maj. R. W. Hampton, Royal Canadian School of Infantry, who won $25 and a bronze medal.
Lieut. J. Boa, Toronto, 48th Highlanders, father of world small-bore champion Gil Boa whom he defeated Wednesday, said he was "too tired to go through the shoot-off" and was awarded third prize of $20.
The Ladies' Challenge Cup for the best team in the event went to the 48th Highlanders of Canada, Toronto, with 427 points of a possible 440. Members are: Lieut. G. Boa, Lieut. J. Boa, Capt. H. C. Hawes, and Sgt. F. H. Wallace.

Toronto Weekly Tabloid May Be Cited for Contempt of Court

By DAVE ROWNTREE
Canadian Press Staff Writer
VANCOUVER (CP) — Lawyers were expected to argue today whether the Toronto weekly tabloid Flash should be cited for contempt of the royal commission investigating the Vancouver police force.
Commissioner Reginald H. Tupper said at the close of Wednesday's hearing that consideration of a motion from T. G. Norris, lawyer for police chief Walter Mulligan, was the next item of business.
Det.-Sgt. Len Cuthbert — the veteran officer whose attempted suicide helped touch off the investigation of charges of corruption in the city force — stepped down from the witness stand Wednesday after three days of rigorous cross-examination.
Cuthbert flushed as Lyle Jesty, counsel for Supt. Jack Horton, chief of detectives, charged:
"You tailored your evidence to fit the published facts. It dovetails pretty perfectly with the evidence of Det.-Sgt. Archie Plummer and Robert Leatherdale and the Whelan brothers."
"I wouldn't accept that," Cuthbert said sharply.
Minutes earlier, Mr. Jesty had drawn an admission from Cuthbert that he had heard and read some of the evidence given by previous witnesses after testifying under oath he had not.
Mr. Norris, holding a statement Cuthbert had signed for uniform superintendent Harry Whelan shortly before shooting himself June 24, ended three days of questioning by saying:
"I suggest to you that when you signed this statement you were so lacking in moral sense that you were willing to go to your Maker leaving that statement, so false in sufficient detail as to injure innocent citizens and cause misery to their families."

Toronto Weekly Tabloid May Be Cited for Contempt of Court

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lawyers were expected to argue today whether the Toronto weekly tabloid Flash should be cited for contempt of the royal commission investigating the Vancouver police force.
Commissioner Reginald H. Tupper said at the close of Wednesday's hearing that consideration of a motion from T. G. Norris, lawyer for police chief Walter Mulligan, was the next item of business.
Det.-Sgt. Len Cuthbert — the veteran officer whose attempted suicide helped touch off the investigation of charges of corruption in the city force — stepped down from the witness stand Wednesday after three days of rigorous cross-examination.
Cuthbert flushed as Lyle Jesty, counsel for Supt. Jack Horton, chief of detectives, charged:
"You tailored your evidence to fit the published facts. It dovetails pretty perfectly with the evidence of Det.-Sgt. Archie Plummer and Robert Leatherdale and the Whelan brothers."
"I wouldn't accept that," Cuthbert said sharply.
Minutes earlier, Mr. Jesty had drawn an admission from Cuthbert that he had heard and read some of the evidence given by previous witnesses after testifying under oath he had not.
Mr. Norris, holding a statement Cuthbert had signed for uniform superintendent Harry Whelan shortly before shooting himself June 24, ended three days of questioning by saying:
"I suggest to you that when you signed this statement you were so lacking in moral sense that you were willing to go to your Maker leaving that statement, so false in sufficient detail as to injure innocent citizens and cause misery to their families."

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has increased the sales price of its 1954 storage butter to 58 cents a pound wholesale from 55 cents. Officials said Wednesday the increase applies only to Canadian consumers. Buyers from other countries can still get Canadian government butter at sharply reduced prices. Exports to Communist Czechoslovakia recently got 300,000 pounds for 37 cents a pound.

Survivors of Atomic Bombings At Hiroshima, Nagasaki Fear Health Permanently Damaged

(Editor's note: The most lasting and sensitive impression the survivors of the atomic attacks on Hiroshima and Nagasaki have today is an abiding fear that their bodies still are affected, that they may come down with "atomic disease" even now, 10 years after the bombings. Here's a report on the situation, including what American and Japanese doctors are doing about it.)

By GENE KRAMER
HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP) — Thousands who survived the atomic bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki 10 years ago live in fear today that their health is permanently damaged.
It is a fear subtly exploited by anti-American elements, but it exists.
Some Japanese say: "Years after exposure to the bomb you suddenly become ill and die of atomic or radiation sickness. It is happening every week."
Others—including some doctors—claim exposure to radiation has reduced their energy and probably will shorten their lives.

SCIENTISTS SAY NO
When a survivor of the Hiroshima or Nagasaki atomic blasts dies, even if the cause is old age, some people — and occasionally newspapers — chalk it up to the bomb.
The Atomic Bomb Casualty Commission, a joint United States-Japanese research project, says much of this is unfounded. The APCC, conducting an exhaustive statistical study of long-term health effects in the atom-bombed cities, lists as its basic findings so far:
1. Leukemia, the fatal blood disease, is more prevalent than normal among survivors of the A-bomb.
2. So are eye cataracts, or opacity of the lens, although no business has been produced. Forty per cent of those heavily exposed to radiation during atomic attack that their hair temporarily fell out have suffered this.
3. No genetic effects have been observed in the first generation of children born to mothers exposed to radiation.

LETKEMIA HIGHER
Dr. R. H. Holmes, director of the APCC, said that in examining 15,000 adults and 70,000 children of Hiroshima and thousands more in Nagasaki, "The critical area for radiation was 2,000 metres (1 1/4 miles) from the bomb's centre. For any practical purpose, anyone farther was not affected."
Leukemia has stricken one in 400 persons heavily exposed to radiation, compared to one in 5,000 outside the critical area. This is 12 to 15 times as much leukemia among A-bomb survivors.
Holmes said: "It is unlikely that genetic effects will be observed in subsequent generations. However, everyone familiar with the subject knows radiation is capable of producing mutations. If such mutations occur it is probable they would be so diluted in the future population so as to escape observation."

DETAILED RESEARCH
The APCC is interested in conclusive statistics and to get them it must examine thousands of individuals. Into its clinics, the finest medical facilities in Hiroshima and Nagasaki, it calls all survivors of the atomic code. Sponsored by the U.S. and Japan, the commission can find for complete dental, physical, blood and x-ray examinations.

Penn Adopts
New Fight Code
HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — A new state athletic code designed to clean up boxing in Pennsylvania won House approval Wednesday by a vote of 189-1.
The code would strengthen state control over everyone connected with the sport. It is the product of a new state athletic commission named by democratic Gov. George M. Leader and is the result of the May 10 Philadelphia fight between Harold Johnson and Julio Mederos.

Request Granted
SUDBURY (CP) — John Keller was granted his wish when he told Massachusetts W. F. Woodliffe he wanted to go to Kingston penitentiary for two years.

Keller, a former resident of Cornwall, was sentenced for accepting bribes from the Burwash industrial farm and told Woodliffe that if he was returned to Burwash he would try to escape again.
"I want to go to Kingston for two years. It's better than Burwash," he said.
His request was granted.

Proud smile on face of Dave Burroughs, 8, of Toronto's suburban Mount Dennis is explained by 42-inch, 16 pound nine-ounce muskie hauled out of Sturgeon Lake. David and his father took 10 hours to land the big fish. David was using a June bug and a worm for bait. (CP Photo)

Hiroshima A-Bomb Victim In U.S. for Plastic Surgery Recalls Blast, Pain, Horror

Editor's note: In one blinding flash, thousands died at Hiroshima. But there were thousands more, like Suzue, terribly burned but still alive. She because they were disfigured, they led cloistered lives. Now 25 of them are in the United States for surgery to correct the scars left a decade ago by the A-bomb.

By JOY MILLER

DARREN, Conn. (AP) — That morning in Hiroshima was clear and sunny. At 8 a. m., when the girls gathered in Hiyama Park, it promised to be a scorcher.

There was Suzue Oshim, 13 years old with smooth ivory skin and delicate features. There was Misako Kannabe, a lively 14-year-old. There were others, all high school girls.

Suzue remembers that people in Hiroshima were becoming jittery. They knew the big army base and industrial centre of 340,000 people was a prime military target. They knew that other cities had been bombed. They wondered when it would be Hiroshima's turn.

On this bright morning, even school girls' Suzue's age and younger were helping clear away the rubble of houses torn down to make fire lines. With severe scars that ran like irregular spokes through fan-shaped Hiroshima, the fire lanes were expected to localize any fires caused by bombing. For a week Suzue and her friends had been reporting to school every morning and then going off in work battalions.

LOOKED UP AT PLANE

This was Aug. 6, 1945. About 9:15 they heard a plane overhead. There had been no air raid warning and the girls stopped to look. Suzue remembers pointing up at it.

Then she saw the flash—"pika," she calls it. Far enough away, others heard the boom, called "don." Suzue, four-fifths of a mile from the blast centre, heard nothing. But like the others, she still calls the A-bomb "pikadon."

The next thing Suzue remembers was unbearable pain. Looking down through the boiling dust that made night out of the bright morning, she saw she had on only her underwear. Her wartime regulation slacks and blouse had been burned off in the flash.

In an instinctive effort to ease the pain she plunged into a nearby river. The same impulse had moved nearly everybody else. The rivers could scarcely flow they were so choked with the bodies of the living, half-dying. "There were lots of people dying all around, screaming. It was so horrible it's hard to tell about it."

Once Suzue slipped and reached out for support. The skin of the arm of the woman standing next to her slithered off in her hands.

GIVEN OIL FOR BURNS

Sometime in the afternoon someone came along and passed out oil for the burns. This was all the treatment Suzue ever got.

Later she managed to stumble and crawl to her home, where she found her grandmother fatally burned and her mother with a serious arm burn. The rest of the family were unharmed.

Her face swelled up so much that her eyes were closed shut. She can't remember how long this lasted. She can't remember when she learned that the bomb had wiped out 60 percent of her town, or that more than 75,000 people had died.

She can't remember when she learned that Japan had surrendered eight days after, and that the war was over.

But she can remember that for weeks she couldn't bear to move, so great was the pain. And that for six months pus came out of the burns.

BODY DISFIGURED

In about eight months Suzue went back to finish high school. A scar twisted the left side of her face. Her arms and legs were disfigured by red burns. In the months to follow her scared left thumb stiffened until it was rigid.

After high school Suzue went to beauty school, finally opened a beauty shop in her home.

For a while she didn't go out at all. She wore long-sleeved dresses whenever possible. And she tried not to think about anything but her work as the unscarred girls around her got married, one after another.

For the last several years, although a Buddhist, she went to racial meetings at Rev. Kiyoshi Tanimoto's Methodist church.

These girls, some of whom were more disfigured than Suzue and lived almost in hiding, had perhaps their only social contacts.

Mr. Tanimoto introduced them to Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review, on a visit to Hiroshima.

Through his efforts, and the sponsoring Hiroshima Peace Centre Associates, Suzue and 24 others believed most likely to respond to surgery were flown to the United States last May. The girls ranged in age from 17 to 30.

STAY WITH QUAKERS

While awaiting operations, the girls are staying with families of the Society of Friends (Quakers). It may be another month before they are called to Mount Sinai Hospital in New York City, which is contributing hospital facilities and hospital bed care for four girls at a time until the project is completed. This may take longer than a year, because each girl may need five or six operations.

Performing the operations without charge is Dr. Arthur Barsky, prominent plastic surgeon.

"I'm not expecting miracles," said Suzue. "But I know I'll be helped some. It would be nice to go back to Japan looking at least a little better."

Cree Indians Sent Home

WINNIPEG (CP)—Six teen-aged Cree Indians, the last of eight flown to Winnipeg with a strange malady during the last three weeks, left by air Wednesday for their home at the Shamattawa reserve north of The Pas, Man.

The strange disease, symtomized by violent convulsions and severe headaches, has been under analysis by doctors and virus researchers at the University of Manitoba for about three weeks, and as yet no conclusive report has been made.

Doctors said last week that the disease likely would remain a mystery if it did not recur and if the virus tests proved useless.

Rawdon

RAWDON—Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McConnell entertained last week, Shirley and Harley McCoy, Vestleton, Beth Bonstet, Bethany and Wayne McCoy, Eldorado.

Mrs. Milford Wrightman will be hostess to Mount Pleasant WMS and WA on Wednesday, August 10th, at 2 p.m., with Mrs. Blake Sharpe in charge of the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Jeffs and Robert, Oshawa, are holidaying with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jeffs and other relatives.

Mrs. Nancy Mangold, Belleville, spent last week with her sister, Mrs. James Menzies and Mr. Menzies.

Miss Marilyn Bailey is holidaying this week at Lake Chenons with the Misses Cora and Evelyn Bailey.

Mr. and Mrs. Sid Williams entertained on Sunday in honor of the birthday anniversary of her sister. The guests were, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Emerson and Bill of Moira, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Canning of Belleville.

Miss Norma Hoard, Trent River, spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bush and Jane, Trent River.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred McDonnell, Mr. and Mrs. Allan McDonnell, Myles and Shirley Ann, Stirling, R.R. 3; Mr. Arthur McDonnell, of Barrie; Mrs. W. Shortt, Centenary and Mr. Jared Hanna, Stirling, attended the centenary celebration and civic holiday at school section No. 9, Carmel, in Thurlow township. The young folks had attended school that area and all had an enjoyable day.

Messrs. Robert Hoard and Ray Sharp have arrived home having enjoyed a delightful holiday to the Pacific Coast, California and other points.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest White, Mr. Lorne White, and his sister, Mrs. Marguerite McMullen, visited Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fair, Wallbridge on Sunday.

Observers at Summit Talks Give New Twist to War Theme

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON (CP)—Here's a startling postscript to the "summit" talks — maybe Russia and the United States are getting a little too chummy!

Maybe, say two British observers, the time is coming when Americans and Russians—basically friendly, folksy types—will collide in a massive bear-hug of mutual admiration, Senator McCarthy and the late Joe Stalin notwithstanding. This new twist on an old cold-war theme comes from R. H. S. Crossman and Sir Robert Boothby, a couple of British politicians who have always hankered after the big job in the foreign office. They went to Geneva to cover the conference, and came back with the notion that the relationship of the two great powers may be slowly changing.

Discussing the idea in a BBC radio program, Sir Robert asked Crossman whether he didn't get the feeling, at times, that the two big nations had more in common with each other than with western European countries.

Crossman replied that he did indeed, and went on to quote a "very distinguished" United Nations official as saying:

"Now look out. Once those Russians and Americans, with Stalin out of the way, get together, they'll go places very fast. These men, once they're together, they'll like each other."

"You British, you French, they think you a bit stand-offish. Take care. If they ever click, they'll click in a big way."

Crossman, a left-wing Labor MP, writes in The Daily Mirror. Sir Robert, a Conservative who often takes an independent line, has a column in News of the World.

CENTENARY

Friends Honor Departing Couple

CENTENARY.—About seventy-five friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Woods to tender them a surprise party, Wednesday night prior to their leaving the community to take up residence in Belleville.

The gathering was called to order by W. J. Slavin who was chairman for the evening. Mrs. Lloyd Pearson led in several rounds of community singing, accompanied by Mrs. H. Hancock on the piano. Ruth Slavin gave a reading entitled "Home Town". Thelma Harder related the trials of "A New Father". Mrs. Percy Sutherland contributed a solo, "A Basket of Old-Fashioned Roses". Mrs. E. Hart gave a reading, "See Here, Young Lady". Miss Eileen Hancock rendered a piano selection, Mrs. M. Nokes read "A Rural Symphony".

Mrs. C. Carlton read an address of appreciation to Gordon, Alma and Dawn and they were presented with a telephone bench and cuckoo clock. Dawn received a piece of china from the choir.

All joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows", and wished them happiness in their new home. Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

Brine Found Near Neepawa Basis of Flourishing Industry

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
NEEPAWA, Man. (CP)—Back in the 1930s the hunt for oil reached this town 140 miles northwest of Winnipeg. The drillers didn't find oil but 1,500 feet down they struck brine.

Today that brine is the basis of a flourishing industry that adds thousands of dollars annually to the economy of this predominantly farming community.

From two wells the Canadian Salt Company Ltd., produces approximately 80 tons of salt a day, enough to supply all the needs of Manitoba consumers.

The plant, located on the northern outskirts of Neepawa, employs around 45 local men and women. The town receives annually $3,750 in realty taxes, $550 business tax and $1,000 in water bills. In addition the workers' salaries—estimated at approximately $145,000—are circulated within the community of 3,500.

Canadian Industries Ltd., erected the present plant in 1941. Ten years later the firm's salt interests were taken over by Canadian Salt.

Robert Kinnin, production supervisor of the Neepawa plant, said in an interview that between 4,000 and 5,000 gallons of brine are pumped from the two wells each hour.

"We don't know just how long the supply will last," he said. Several years ago the level of the brine underground dropped 33 feet but it has never varied since. The brine is brought from the underground by forcing 750 pounds of air into the deposit.

It is purified and filtered, then pumped into huge salt evaporators, or vacuum pans, which operate on the principle that the lower the pressure over a liquid, the lower the temperature at which it will boil.

The brine appears to be boiling hot but it actually is hardly warm. The vacuum pan yields a thick salt-and-brine mixture called slurry. The slurry is turned into dry salt in a rotary vacuum filter-dryer. The dry salt is scraped off by knife edges then sent to the packaging machines.

The Neepawa plant puts out packaged salt for the grocery trade compressed blocks, licks and tablets for the farm and bulk salt for industrial consumers.

Mr. Kinnin said about two pounds of salt are produced from every gallon of brine.

An important by-product is calcium magnesium chloride, a white flaky material used as ballast in tractor tires.

Police Say No Charges Will Be Laid in Drownings

MATHESON (CP)—A prank that started with a pretended drowning ended in stark reality Wednesday and claimed the lives of two men.

The bodies of Joseph Young, 21, and Harvey Kidd, 24, both of Matheson, were recovered from a nearby lake after provincial police dragged the bottom for more than an hour.

Police quoted Alice Jocelyn, 16, as saying she and Young were in the lake when they decided to pretend they were drowning. Young began to flounder around and in so doing slipped off a ledge into deep water.

Miss Jocelyn, now genuinely alarmed, called for help to Kidd who was standing on shore, fully clothed. He plunged into the lake and he and Young sank. Miss Jocelyn made her way to shore.

Coroner W. J. Grummett said the drownings occurred during horseplay and there was no question of charges.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

TOUGH LUCK!

A sudden windstorm that whipped waves eight feet in the air, a school of leaping porpoises out for a day's fun were some of the contributing factors to the inability of some fifteen swimmers to complete the recent Atlantic City swim marathon.

Bill McMurtter, who coached Tommy Pedder, lone Belleville entry in the ocean classic, shook his head sadly as he related the details of the gallant effort of the forty-year-old former weight-fighter who was taken from the water against his will by his coach and two husky American lifeguards.

Swimming strongly and eight miles out from the start-point, Tommy was in 17th position when the sudden windstorm ripped out of the southeast.

"It came suddenly and unexpectedly," Bill said. "The water piled up in huge waves—and Tommy is not a rough water swimmer. He took severe cramps in both legs and battled gallantly to kick them out. He refused to give up until the lifeguards and I literally pulled him out of the water. He felt very badly about it."

"Tommy trained hard for the race and I believe he felt badly about the people back home and what they would think after treating him so generously. He said the citizens' financial assistance had made the trip possible and was very grateful. But he did want to make a better showing."

Bill said fifteen of the entries were taken out of the water at this point. "To make matters worse," he went on, "the school of porpoises came from nowhere and leaped, cavorted and played in and around the swimmers and boats. They nearly caused collisions on several occasions."

Both Bill and Tommy believe it was the rough water that caused the cramps. Pedder has only been stricken with cramps once before in his swimming life. That occurred in Toronto when he was swimming in extremely rough water.

We are not trying to alibi Tommy's failure to finish. He would be the last one to do that. But in fairness to him, it must be said he should have had more training in salt water. Ocean water is much more buoyant than the fresh type. Besides there is the salt to contend with. Swimmers' mouths become caked with it. Ask Marilyn Bell. And a swallow or two can easily upset one's stomach.

Besides Tommy was swimming in valiant company. Park, Lumsden, the Egyptian are among the world's best marathon swimmers. Tommy had been swimming at the rate of four miles an hour when the cramp struck him. But he gave the best he had and that is all anyone can do. McMurtter said they were treated well by swim officials. The marathon was well organized and well operated. "But," said Bill, "prices were very high. Hotel rooms were ten dollars a day (for two). Food prices were high, as was everything else. But it was a fine experience — one Tommy can pass along to other swimmers."

SHOULD ROCK 'EM

That dashing young Argentinian, Antonino Rocco, exponent of the flying kick, whose educated pinkies have sent many a potent pachyderm down to defeat will make his second appearance in Belleville come Friday evening. He is matched with Karol Kalmikoff, the more ferocious of the brothers of that name in a "singles" match. Argentine, as he is known in wrestling circles, was an instant hit in his first appearance here, his speed, lithe, agile body and general ring showmanship installing him an immediate favorite. In the semi-final Ivaniski Kalmikoff, the second half of the brother act, faces strong Jim Dobbie, with Micky Gold and Harry Lewis opening the show.

BATTLE OF THE CATS

The inaugural Battle of the Cats has been scheduled for Friday night at the CNRAA Recreation Park starting at 6.30, so Chief Puss Robert Temple, master feline of the Bobcats, informs us. Heading the Polecats is Brother Paul, who has rounded up a bevy of softball chasers that might lose a mighty scare into the Bobs, at that. The series is a best-of-five affair but future dates have yet to be announced. However Paul's Poles and Robert's Bobs are at daggers drawn and not be surprised to see some fireworks before peace reigns again.

BASEBALL

And speaking of fireworks, some crackling might pop in the Belleville District Baseball League. Mr. Paul Haggis, sponsor of the Haggis Juniors is very unhappy about the state of affairs, he says. To begin with the Picton Lightfoots did not arrive in time to finish the seven inning stint the other night—and we are informed and corrected to the effect the game was no contest. We were under the impression that the league operated under OBA rules in that five innings constituted a game. Later we were informed the league made its own ruling that a game must go to a full seven frames—or else.

Haggis has a justifiable gripe in that the Picton team did not arrive in time to get the game under way. There should be some redress for the Juniors. It was not their fault Picton did not get here on time—and we are informed the game was played under protest. Secretary "Red" Doran said a meeting has been called for tonight to iron out the wrinkles and establish some sort of peace in the family.

Mike Garcia Four-Hits Yanks As Red Sox Wallop Chicago; Tigers Remain in Contention

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For a club that's just marking time, waiting for lightning to strike, those Cleveland Indians aren't doing bad at all.

The Indians haven't had a chance to catch fire yet, not with Bob Lemon, Al Rosen, Larry Doby and Vic Wertz in slumps, yet manager Al Lopez has his defending champs in a second-place tie in the brawling American League race.

Big Mike Garcia, after losing six straight, has won five of six decisions, including a dandy fourth job against New York for a 2-1 victory Wednesday. It moved the Tribe back into a two-way share of the runnerup spot with the Yankees.

With Boston thumping first-place Chicago 6-4, the Indians and Yanks are just one game shy of the White Sox. Boston is three games back.

TIGERS WIN

Detroit stayed 3½ behind Boston, beating Washington 3-0, Kansas City split with Baltimore, winning 5-1 after a 4-3 defeat.

Brooklyn went 1½ games ahead again in the National, beating Milwaukee 9-6. New York knocked St. Louis 5-3; Philadelphia whipped Cincinnati 8-4 and Chicago split with Pittsburgh, winning 5-4 in 12 innings after losing 3-2.

Garcia, the league's earned run leader in '54 who lost his touch at season's start, needed help from Don Mossi and Ray Narleski after Mickey Mantle led off the ninth with a single. But the two relief aces wrapped it up in short order to protect the decision that ex-Yankee Gene Woodling manufactured with his two-run homer in the fourth.

Bob Turley lost his 10th, giving three hits and striking out eight in his eighth frame, but again going wild. He walked eight, five of them in the first three innings.

DOUBLED TWO HOME

Boston three times battled back to the White Sox before Jackie Jensen delivered a two-out double for two runs in the eighth, Ted Williams, passed intentionally by reliever Millard Howell after Billy Goodman reached second on a single and error, scored all the way from first on the extra-base hit.

Minnie Minoso snapped his slump with two homers for the Chisox, but Chicago couldn't do a thing as Ted Hurd wrapped it up with 2-13 innings of one-hit relief.

Detroit remained in contention on rookie Frank Lary's two-hitter. He didn't give a hit in the last 6-23 innings, riding in on Fred Hatfield's homer and two RBIs by Frank House.

Gil Hodges and Don Zimmer each homered twice for the Brooks with Hodges' pair good for six runs. His grand-slammer in the first inning was the 11th of his career, one short of the league mark held by Ralph Kiner and Rogers Hornsby. The Braves, who lost Joe Adcock for the season Sunday, will be without Ed Mathews for three or four days. He cut a finger in an accident at his home.

SEVEN UNEARNED

The Phils banged across eight runs in the sixth seven unearned, after being blanked for 3-13 innings by Red leg pitching. Robin Roberts hung up his 17th victory. Bill Virdon homered twice for the Cardinals' runs, but they took their sixth straight defeat as New York scored four in the fifth on four singles and Don Mueller's double.

Hurry Chitt's RBI single with two out in the 12th gave the Cubs their nightcap decision after Jerry Lynch's pinch double counted two runs for the Bucs in the ninth inning of the opener.

Rookie Bob Hale came through with a pinch two-run double in the ninth for the Orioles, who pulled a triple play in their first game success. The As nailed three runs in the first inning to take the afterpiece.

Pitching—Mike Garcia, Indians, gave just four hits, one a lead-off single in the ninth, before giving up to relief in 2-1 victory over Yankees.

Hitting—Gil Hodges, Dodgers, belted two home runs for six RBIs, one a grand-slam clout that put him one shy of the league career record of 12 bases-loaded shots, in 9-6 decision over Braves.

SURPRISE CHALLENGER OF LAKE ONTARIO

With calm water and light winds in her favor, pretty Shirley Campbell made a surprise plunge into Lake Ontario in an unheralded bid to beat Marilyn Bell's time of 20 hours and 56 minutes. The 19-year-old swimmer from Fergus, Ont., entered the water at Youngstown, N.Y., for the 32-mile grind across Lake Ontario. Only her relatives knew of her plans to conquer the lake. Miss Campbell won the three-mile CNE professional ladies' swim in 1953, as well as numerous other CNE events. (Central Press Canadian Photo.)

Bobby Hunter One-Hits Frankford In Orfuns' 11-1 Win Over Merchants

Hurling sensational softball, Bobby Hunter sparked the Belleville Orfuns to an 11-1 victory over the Frankford Merchants at the CNRAA Park last night.

Hunter was in rare form. Only 31 batters faced him over the 9-innings route as he struck out eight and walked three. He had a no-hit effort in sight in the ninth when with one man out Dafeo scratched out a single to spoil the effort.

Hunter would have had a shutout but he eased in the fifth when he issued a walk, a hit-batter then wild-pitched the run home.

Johnny Batchelor was robbed of a home run in the fourth inning when the Orfuns pushed over four runs. Jones and Barclay got aboard on the former's single and an error then Soules blasted a three-bagger to score four runners. Hunter went out and Soules scored on Wardhaugh's sacrifice fly. Carr and Hull drew successive walks then Batchelor blasted his four-bagger. Hull, however, failed to touch third base and was called out with Batchelor being credited with a double.

Wannamaker started on the mound for the Merchants and lasted until the seventh after giving up ten hits and 11 runs. Rankin relieved him and held the Orfuns to a lone clout. Wannamaker struck out three and walked five.

Orfuns piled up a three-run lead in the third on a walk, a costly Frankford error and successive singles by Wardhaugh and Claude Carr. They struck for two more in the fifth after the quartet in the fourth. Jones' single pushed Locke who walked, to second. Barclay and Soules whiffed and Bobby Hunter cracked out a single scoring Barclay. A fielding error on the play scored Jones.

In the seventh Jones drew a free ticket and Barclay crashed out a single. That was the end of Wannamaker. Rankin came to the rescue. Jones scored on a centre field error and Barclay galloped home on an infield out. Rankin held the Orfuns scoreless over the rest of the route giving up one hit to Batchelor.

Doug Hull had a triple and single to pace the Orfuns with Batchelor being credited with a double and single. Soules hit first-inning three-bagger while Jones had a pair of singles.

The score
Frankford 000 010 000—1 1 4
Orfuns 003 420 20X—11 1 1

The teams:
Frankford: Rankin, Cook, Cosgrove, Dafeo, Rankin, Austin, Wickson, Gilmore, Moran, Ackerman, Wannamaker.

Orfuns: Wardhaugh, Carr, Hull, Batchelor, Locke, Jones, Barclay, Soules, Hunter.
Umpires: Williams (p), Townsend.

'Hurricane' Jackson Blows Down Ezzard Charles in Dancing Battle

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The Hurricane Jackson camp is singing "we told you so" and Ezzard Charles' managers are yelling for a rematch after Wednesday night's furious heavyweight scrap at War Memorial Auditorium.

Jackson, the 23-year-old perpetual-motion man from New York's Far Rockaway, showed the fans why they call him Hurricane. After the first three rounds, he poured punches at the former champion, flapped an annoying jab into his face and danced a jig between rounds to win a unanimous decision in 10 rounds.

Trim at 191½, Jackson was in the best condition of his 27-bout career. Charles, now 34, weighed 191½.

There were no knockdowns, although Jackson balanced perilously face down on the ropes in the second after being rushed by Charles.

Down the stretch, a tired Charles tried to concentrate on landing one final bomb. Jackson merely shook off the heavy punches and came back with his ever-ready left jab. "He told you so," said trainer Freddie Brown in Jackson's dressing room. "He was in his best shape because he listened to people and stayed in the country at training camp. How'd you like that jab? He always had it, but he wouldn't use it. Now he's grown up."

Charles said he underrated his opponent. "I heard a lot about him but I figured I'd be able to catch up to him. When I did catch up I couldn't get off. Next time I'll know how to fight a swarm of bees."

There will be a next time, probably in October if Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, agrees with his matchmaker Billy Brown.

Oshawa Blanks Terriers 2-0

GALT (CP) — With Wilmer Fields allowing but three hits, Oshawa Merchants defeated Galt Terriers 2-0 in an Intercounty Baseball League game Wednesday night.

It was the first full game Fields has pitched this year in the intercounty and he was in rare form, forcing the locals to pop the ball. He had only six strikeouts.

It was an odd game, with not an extra base blow. The victors had 10 singles. Both of Oshawa's counters were tallied after two were out, the first in the third on three successive singles, while the other counter in the fourth came on Ted O'Connor's single and two errors.

Don Lewandowski went the route for the Galt team.

A driving rainstorm Wednesday night forced cancellation of scheduled senior intercounty games between Brantford and St. Thomas.

Toronto Leads Lake Regatta

HAMILTON (CP) — Toronto yachtsmen maintained a point-to-point leadership and tightened their grip on two important cups on the second day of the three-day Lake Yacht Racing Association regatta here Tuesday.

Seventy yachts from Canadian and American clubs race around the two triangular courses again today in the final events of the annual Lake Ontario classic.

Tightest race Tuesday was in the dragon class, where the first three yachts finished within six seconds of each other.

The race, first of two run by the dragons during the day, went to Rajada of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club, Toronto. Six of the Genesee, N.Y., Yacht Club was second.

In the lightning class, Thermis and Flare, both from the Buffalo Canoe Club, were tied for leadership with 33 points.

Fourteen Canadians, Two Americans Enter 4th Round Amateur Tourney

By TED MOSER

Canadian Press Staff Writer
CALGARY (CP) — Don Bisplinghoff of Orlando, Fla., and Hobart Manley of Savannah, Ga., a pair of hot shot golfers who came through in the clutch, were the only two Americans remaining today in the Canadian amateur golf championship at the Calgary country club.

Both entered the fourth round today with 14 Canadians. The fifth round this afternoon will weed out the four top men to enter the 36-hole semi-finals Friday. The final, hole 36 holes, will be played Saturday.

Bisplinghoff faces Jerry Magee of Toronto, who downed Peter Bentley of Vancouver 7 and 5 Wednesday. Manley squares off against Bill McCool of Victoria. Manley almost left Bisplinghoff the lone stayer from south of the border Wednesday when he was extended to 24 holes by 31-year-old Bill Tait of Calgary, a member of the Alberta Willingdon Cup team.

The wise-cracking southerner, rated one of the longest hitters in the game, came out of a between-fairways stand trap beautifully on the 397-yard 24th to land on the edge of the green. A spectacular 45-foot putt gave him a birdie and victory.

'Scott Frost' Harness Glamor Wins Rich Hambletonian Classic

By ORLO ROBERTSON

GOSHEN, N.Y. (AP) — You'll have to pardon Hoot Mon, an 11-year-old stallion, if he holds his head a little higher. For his son, Scott Frost is the toast of the trotting world after winning the 30th Hambletonian.

But Scott Frost couldn't quite match his old man's 1947 performance as he whirled around Good Time Park's triangular-shaped track in 2:01.3-5 and 2:00.3-5 Wednesday for a straight heat victory in the glamor race of harness racing.

Hoot Mon himself won the 1947 renewal in two minutes flat, but Scott Frost's second-heat time was the second fastest in the history of the Hambletonian. And on top of that it is the first father-son combination ever to put together a double in the rich event.

SIRE FILLY

Hoot Mon also sired Helicopter, a filly who carried off the honors in the 1953 renewal.

Scott Frost's driver was Joe O'Brien, a Prince Edward Island farm boy from Alberton who drove his first race when he was 14. He now lives in Del Mar, Calif.

Scott Frost, purchased by Sol Camp of Shafter, Calif., as a yearling for $5,200, was the favorite of the crowd of some 16,000. He had trotted a mile in two minutes when he won the 1954 two-year-old title and matched that time this year.

And he didn't disappoint his fans. Using his somewhat awkward but powerful stride to get into motion, he took the first mile by half a length from Mrs. Charlotte S. de Van's surprising Leopold Hanover and then edged William T. Maybury's Galopahone by a head in the second heat.

Bisplinghoff stroked erratically Wednesday but had little trouble disposing of John Russell of Vancouver 4 and 3.

The six Canadians rated to give the two surviving Americans the stiffest contest for the title, last won by a Canadian in 1951, all stayed in the running with wind Wednesday.

Joe Leblanc of Montreal easily topped David Bohannon of San Mateo, Calif., 6 and 4. Lyle Crawford of Vancouver sidelined Dr. J. B. Marshall, Jr., of Wilkes-Barre, Penn., 3 and 1, and Doug Silverberg of Red Deer, Alta., triumphed 7 and 5 over Allan Doane of Halifax.

Doug Bates of Vancouver eased out Elliot Godel of Montreal 3 and 1, and Moe Norman of Kitchener, Ont., took an easy 2 and 1 victory from Ken Banks of Montreal. The other member of the six, Nick Westcott of Windsor, Ont., trounced Fred King of Calgary 5 and 4. The match ended on the 14th.

At least one of the six won't be in the fifth round. Crawford and Leblanc are matched against each other today in what should be one of the best matches of the open.

Osterhous Shellettes continued their unbeaten ways last night, defeating the Trenton RCAF lassies by a 14-3 score to rack up their 15th straight win.

Linda Wagg struck out nine and walked a pair in a neat mound effort besides slamming out a double and two singles. Thomas for the RCAF was nicked for 26 hits while her mates garnered 8.

Shellettes scored three runs each in the third and 4th, added four in the fifth and two each in the next two innings. RCAF scored two in the third and a single in the sixth.

Caroline Baker paced the Shellettes with five singles. Lois Batchelor had a homer and two singles; and Shirley Fox three singles. J. Thomas hit a double and single for the flyer girls with J. Mansell donating two singles.

The Shellettes meet Trenton Town here Monday night. Saturday they play an exhibition game with the Ameliasburg Maids on the latter's diamond.

CANUCK HORSE WINS

CHICAGO (AP) — Canadian-owned Guard Rail, ridden by Willie Shoemaker, raced to a four-length victory as favored and previously unbeaten Judy Rulph placed 10th in the $24,000 Mademoiselle Stakes at Washington Park Wednesday.

Guard Rail, owned by Mrs. Joseph Tomlinson of Toronto, easily stood off the stretch bid of Erecious, who placed second. Zipdeto was third.

Presenting Shakespeare on TV
Has Technical Difficulties

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Television, hunting omnivorously for new writers, might well take a closer look at a talented English dramatist who's scored some tremendous hits in London. His name is William Shakespeare.

A few of his works have been televised from time to time. He presents technical difficulties because he breaks so many theatrical rules. He crowds a stage with characters and action. Basically a poet, he writes in an infectious pentameter—a practice frowned on by our most successful producers.

Nicol Coward says no character's speech should be more than two lines. But young Shakespeare's characters sometimes speak a hundred. Shunning the modern situation, this Englishman reaches far back into history for his themes.

SUBLETTY LOST

Studio One (CBS-TV) presented one of his plays last Monday evening—"Julius Caesar." It's a study of political power and the ironic corruption of men who try to make any means justify their goals. It's a tribute to the playwright's power that, although the play is set in 44 B. C., its themes are as timely as today's newspaper.

This department was fortunate in being able to read the original London script before seeing the American television version. The original contained great subtleties of thought and characterization. In cutting a three-hour play to a one-hour television drama, Leo Penn sacrificed most of this subtlety.

But in losing subtlety, he did gain pace. To this viewer it seemed that pace and clarity of meaning were trying to achieve. To one who has heard of the English dramatist but never seen one of his plays, did acting and drama seem broad and flat to them? It's difficult to say. But it's also difficult to believe that anyone who saw the Studio One production could have any question concerning what "Julius Caesar" is about.

On the other hand, one might try to put himself in the place of those numerous televisioners who have heard of the English dramatist but never seen one of his plays. Did acting and drama seem broad and flat to them? It's difficult to say. But it's also difficult to believe that anyone who saw the Studio One production could have any question concerning what "Julius Caesar" is about.

NO MEAN SERVICE

If that was the purpose of Studio One, it is no mean service. Shakespeare himself has a sharp eye and ear for the audience; he insists that what he is saying be understandable to those who pay the cheapest admission prices. He has no desire to be taken up by a literary cult, though there are aspects of his work that may some day arouse academic and even esoteric interest.

In any event, it's good to see television recognize genuine talent. This Englishman is said to have many other excellent dramas in his trunk. The other day a fellow gave us an under-the-counter look at a terrific script of his entitled "King Lear." You ought to snap that one up, gentlemen.

Experiments with opening three bids are still going on among the many prominent bridge system mongers. Consequently, responders are as confused as their vacillating natures will allow.

We are discussing the deal shown here:

Some players will tell you that south has a good opening bid of three hearts. By some authorities it is too good a hand for such an opening. By others it is short a trick.

All will agree that it is far short of an opening bid of two hearts. All this, is except the latest inventory of weak two bids. And they will insist the hand is too strong for an opening of two.

All will agree without question that it has all the necessary requirements for an opening of one heart. It has more than enough. But not enough more to make it a bid of more than one.

The best rule is that if your hand has a sound opening one bid, never start it with a bid of three. If you are a visiting fireman, save my child and have this one rule for every partner you date.

You can then carry this rule home with you and spring it on your best friend or worst enemy without fear of reprisals. Because a partner who knows anything should know the responses to one bids.

Not so with responses to opening three bids. If you open with three your partner may not be sure whether it is strong or weak. He may figure it for weakness just when you intended it for strength.

If you open this south hand with one heart you can be sure a partner will not be in much doubt. He will not know you have more. But this you can tell him when you bid again.

What if he lacks enough to respond to one? Be glad. Because in that case your pair has not enough for game anyway.

Bids that are loose stick your neck in a noose.

Tigers Wallop
Calgary Stamps
By 39-2 Count

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats snarled and Calgary Stampeders dropped dead.

Whether from fright or the sheer overpowering might of the Tics' or the 90-degree heat to which the westerners are unaccustomed—is a matter of conjecture, but the score in Wednesday night's exhibition football kickoff was an overwhelming 39-2 in favor of Hamilton.

Tics threw a solid front line and what was described as their best running and passing attack in years at Stampeders before 14,000 shirt-sleeved fans at Civic Stadium. The Stamps crumbled and Hamilton rolled up six converted touchdowns and a field goal.

Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football Union threw their entire pre-season lineup at the inept Stampeders, who scored a safety touch in the third quarter only when Hamilton fumbled.

The West's Interprovincial Football Union club showed only rare instances of brilliance, and those were quickly ended by the strong Hamilton front wall.

Tic's touchdown scoring was handled by Hal Waggoner, Ray Truant, Ed Bevan, Lou Kussorow, Blackie Kincaid and Jim Philbe. Tip Logan converted 25 of the 26 points and booted a five-yard field goal. Steve Oneschuk kicked the sixth convert.

AT THE CAPITOL — Night Club Battle Royal. Going berserk, the featured performer in a Hollywood night club, releases a cage full of lions and battles them to a finish. A scene of unparalleled violence. John Ford and Merian C. Cooper's "Mighty Joe Young", starring Terry Moore, Ben Johnston, Robert Armstrong and Frank McHugh. On the same program and having its first Belleville showing in Technicolor, "Tall Man Riding", starring Randolph Scott and Dorothy Malone. Both hits open tonight at the Capitol Theatre.

Greatest Bands of Swing Era
Reunited for 1st Time in Years

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Drama makes this town the world's jazz capital this week.

Hollywood's jumping to some of the best swing music heard in 20 years—and no wonder. Two of the greatest bands of the swing era are reunited now for the first time in years.

The reunion is only temporary, but while it lasts some great music is being made.

Over at Universal-International they are making "The Benny Goodman Story" and most of the original members of that greatest of all swing bands are rocking the sound stages. Gene Krupa, Teddy Wilson, Harry James, Lionel Hampton and Goodman, the King of Swing himself, seem to be playing better than ever, if that is possible.

On tonight's "climax" show over CBS-TV, the original Bob Crosby Bobcats will be reunited. This band, one of the greatest of all Dixieland styles, will perform their old arrangements of "Muskrat Ramble," "Gin Mill Blues," "Little Rock Getaway," and other Dixieland classics.

The play "One Night Stand" will dramatize a true incident in the history of the Bobcats. Playing themselves will be such Dixieland experts and Eddie Miller, Nappy LaMarr, Matty Matlock, Bobby Haggard, Billy Butterfield, Charlie Teagarden and Crosby.

Listening to both of these great outfits rehearse, it's hard to believe that the world came close to the missing such great music. But it almost happened.

Krupa disclosed how Goodman once despaired of ever getting the public to buy his ideas in swing. "We all gave up good jobs to go with Benny when he decided to form his own band," the record and drummer recalled. "We all wanted to work with Benny because he was the kind of music we all wanted to play."

"However," when the band started on its first one-nighter trip west, often there were more musicians in the ballrooms than paying customers. Business was so bad that Goodman called a meeting to suggest that perhaps the band had better give up swing and stick to the commercial, Mickey Mouse-type music that was the rage then.

"We talked him out of that fast," said Krup. "We all told him that we could make more money elsewhere but that we were with him because of his ideas—not his commercial appeal."

So the Goodman band stuck with swing and finally the new type music hit. The rest is history, else U-I would not be making a movie about Benny Goodman.

The same thing, only in reverse, happened to Crosby and his Bobcats. He explained:

"We started out commercial—even to a fiddle for the 'Night and Day' music. Played a few rumbas, too. The boys liked to play Dixieland because most of them hailed from New Orleans and other points south, but the only time they ever got to play it was in jam sessions after the customers went home."

Then came a booking in Dallas, Tex.

"The night we were supposed to open, the manager gave us our two weeks' notice. He explained that the competition of the other hotels had been so rough that the hotel was forced to close its dance room."

"So I turned to the boys on the stand that night and said, 'What the hell, we've fired anyhow, let's play what we like.'"

The Bobcats let loose with Dixieland and the room stayed open after all. In fact, the hotel held the Bobcats on for 17 more weeks after the establishment's record and contribute to musical history.

Brantford Sox
May Quit
Intercounty Loop

BRANTFORD (CP) — Brantford Red Sox of the Intercounty Baseball League announce Wednesday they will be forced to drop out of the league Friday unless they get financial aid.

Co-owner Harry Mooradian said the club has lost $5,000 this season. Attendance at home games has been the lowest since 1948, he added.

"HUNGERS FOR" LIFE OF FOREST RANGER

Some 600 junior forest rangers have invaded Ontario's forests to help with job of spotting fires. The 17 and 18-year-old boys from high schools throughout the province have been posted to 17 forest lore. Cutting down trees is part of education and "hungering for it," here is Mike Hughes of Port Credit, who only too eagerly samples soup made by cook Bill Peters. (Central Press Canadian).

First Member
Of Chipewyans
Is Ordained

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—Sandy Clipping's fellow Duck Lake Chipewyans wanted to be on hand when he became the first member of his tribe to be advanced to the priesthood in the Anglican Church.

The ceremony was only Wednesday but some of them had been waiting here since spring. And they won't return home until the winter freeze-up.
The new Anglican priest, who is 54, has been an untiring worker among the Indians in northern Manitoba and dean to his people at the small Duck Lake trading post, 135 miles northwest of his Hudson bay port.
Some members of the Duck Lake congregation travelled six days by dog team to get here. They had to leave in early spring to take advantage of the hard freeze and have been camped near here ever since.

Rapids of the Caribou river make canoe travel impossible and the Chipewyans won't be able to return until the hard freeze of winter.

Rt. Rev. H. E. Hives, bishop of Keewatin, Rev. C. W. Mixer of Kitchener, Ont., Rev. H. H. Marsh of Toronto, Rev. H. S. Hughes-Caley Archbishop of Gillingham, Man., and Rev. L. H. Willis, host minister, participated in the Anglican rite of the laying on of hands.
Mr. Clipping attended morning prayer before the ordination. In the evening he presented several Chipewyan candidates for confirmation.

NEW ETNA ACTIVITY

CATANIA, Sicily (Reuters)—Explosive activity inside the north-eastern crater of Mount Etna, Europe's biggest active volcano, intensified during the night. This crater of the 10,700-foot mountain spewed forth lava last month, but the flow ceased after a few days.

RELEASE OF FLIERS OPENS U.S. RED CHINA TALKS ON OPTIMISTIC NOTE.

View of the conference room in the Palais de Nations as the ambassadors of the U.S. and Red China opened a series of talks in Geneva to ease tensions in the Far East. Meetings got off to an optimistic start when Chinese ambassador to Poland Wang Ping-nan, seen at left, announced to Alexis Johnson, U.S. ambassador to Czechoslovakia, and Ralph Clough, right, acting director of the U.S. state department's office of Chinese affairs, the release of 11 American fliers held as spies since their capture in Korean war.

15,000 Men Canadian Army Ready to Attack

CAMP GAGETOWN, N. B. (CP) — More than 15,000 men of the Canadian Army stood ready today for the weekend kickoff of Exercise Rising Star, Canada's biggest peacetime military manoeuvres.

For the scheme this 427-square-mile New Brunswick training centre has been split into two separate countries. They are "Philistia" to the north and "Blueiland" to the south.

Philistia represents a powerful nation which has been following a policy of aggressive expansion.

PRINTS OWN NEWSPAPER

The Philistia forces are massed on the border in corps strength under the command of "Lt. Gen. Goliath." Playing the part is the 2nd Battalion, the Black Watch, under Lt.-Col. R. M. (Dick) Ross of Ottawa.

Blueiland forces consist of Maj.-Gen. John M. Rockingham's 1st Canadian Infantry Division.

Actual editions of a newspaper called "the Blueiland Star" have been distributed among troops, emphasizing the grave and deteriorating situation existing between the two countries.

Blueiland has its military resources rallied to stem an initial attack and hold on until allied powers come to its assistance.

CAREFULLY CONTROLLED

The Philistia forces will operate as a controlled enemy and will function as directed by the control staff. Almost 500 officers and men will be employed during the exercise as umpires and control staff.

Participating in umpire and control duties will be the 1955 class from the Canadian Army Staff College in Kingston. Chief umpire is Brig. M. P. Bogert, commandant of the staff college.

Shapiro's New Novel Praised

NEW YORK (CP) — Canadian novelist Lionel Shapiro's new novel, "The Sixth of June," has won praise from New York literary critics for its portrait of wartime London.

The critics, however, were divided as to their opinions of the book as a whole.

Lewis Gannett of The Herald Tribune writes "The Sixth of June" is a "good war novel and a moving love story." Charles Poore of The Times says it is "a wonderfully true picture of life in second world war time London" laced "with an uncommonly pure three-cornered love affair."

Gannett, the most favorable reviewer, says the novel—also August's Book-of-the-Month selection—is "a deftly interwoven story of the big war that reached its climax on D-Day, June 6, 1944 and of the wars Brad Parker, a married American lieutenant and Valerie Russell, daughter of a British brigadier, have to fight."

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wiley are visiting in Niagara Falls, N.Y.

"I came out of the turret, and it was then I saw the three of them. They must have been hidden behind the trucks."

PULLED HIS GUN
"They didn't say a word. We were all so amazed, we stood frozen for an instant and then I figured 'This is it,' so I pulled my gun."

"I figured I was finished when I heard that machine-gun. It all came so suddenly. It was just like opening a closet door and having some joker say 'Boo.'"

"The slug hit me and threw me against the wall down to the floor. I lost my gun. I crawled for the door, got inside, slammed it shut with my foot. Then I made it back to the turret, called police and pushed the alarm siren."

GRABBED BOXES

"They lined the three others up against the wall. They said something, but of course I couldn't hear. They took their guns, and then started grabbing the money-boxes. They were rushing because they could hear the alarm and knew they didn't have much time."

"I ran back to the other office and grabbed a .38 from the weapons case. As I returned they were crawling out a side window. It was over almost as fast as it started."

"I opened the turret door and tossed my gun out to Thompson and he started after them and began shooting. Kłodzinski got another gun and followed."

"The next thing I knew I was in the hospital. . . . When I awoke my wife was there."

"She was crying. I told her to cut it out. I said I was sorry I hadn't made dinner. . . ."

HOWE EXPLAINS

He traced these developments in the government's uranium buying policy:

1. On March 16, 1948, the government said it would buy "all acceptable uranium concentrates offered under a published price schedule" for a guaranteed period. The published price schedule is now guaranteed until March 31, 1952.

2. It also said then that "in special circumstances consideration might be given to the payment of prices higher than those contained in the published price schedule."

3. In November, 1953, Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd., crown company designated as the government's purchasing agent, announced that "such special prices would be arrived at by negotiation in each case and would be related to cost."

Eldorado officials said later at a press conference that the price in the special contracts is secret but is "substantially higher" than the published price.

They said all uranium is now bought under the premium price, and not the published price. The reason was that in present conditions uranium cannot be produced at a profit under the published prices. The published price schedule provides for a sliding scale, depending on grade, to a maximum of $6 a pound for uranium in concentrates with a uranium content of not less than 10 per cent. In addition a development allowance of $1.25 a pound is paid during the first three years of production.

INVOLVES CONTRACTS

Mr. Howe said negotiation of the premium-price contracts involves a contract between the producer and Eldorado and a contract between Eldorado and the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission.

The formula used in negotiating the premium price contracts has been established by AEC, he said.

Mr. Howe said he wants to make "quite clear" that while the government is committed to buy all acceptable uranium concentrates under the published price up to March 31, 1952, it has no commitment to buy all uranium offered at prices higher than the published ones.

Eldorado now has contracts with three companies to buy uranium at the premium price: Gunnar Mines Ltd., in northern Saskatchewan's Beaverlodge area, and Pronto Uranium Mines Ltd., and Algom Uranium Mines Ltd., in Ontario's Blind River area.

Eisenhower Plan On Disarmament Still Being Studied

Bulganin Says Statement Misunderstood by Press

Law Changed, Can Throw Bustle Onto Highway?

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—City solicitor Abraham L. Freedman has announced completion of a two-year project involving codification of the city's ordinances from 1854 to the present.

Obsolete ordinances which would be eliminated now prohibit:

- Throwing bustles on the public highway.
- Smoking cigars in public parks.
- Girls under 16 from selling flowers, matches and newspapers in public.
- Trolley cars speeding over 12 miles an hour.
- Geese in the streets.

Jay Emery, 13, Drowned In Salmon River

Slipping into a deep hole as he was playing along the bank with his sister, Robert Jay Emery, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Emery of Wilkesville, N.Y., was drowned in the Salmon River Thursday, near Lonsdale, 20 miles east of here.

The lad was vacationing with his parents at a lodge, 15 miles north of Napanee, and was playing on the river bank with his 14-year-old sister when the accident occurred. He walked into the water and disappeared when he dropped into the hole.

The boy was pulled from the water by his sister but efforts to revive him failed although a Red Cross rescue team worked on him for over an hour.

Dr. D. C. McVicker, Hastings county coroner of Deseronto, pronounced the boy dead. Provincial police from Belleville investigated.

Four Escape $75,000 Fire

KITCHENER (CP)—A family of four crawled to safety through a second-story window early today in a fire that destroyed Barney's Dine and Dance on No. 7 highway, just east of the city limits.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney Strassburger and their three-year-old son and daughter, Barney and June, broke through a screen and crawled to safety on a marquee in front of the roadside restaurant. They dropped eight feet to the ground.

Damage to the building and contents is estimated at $75,000. Firemen fought the blaze for about four hours.

Firemen said the blaze started in the kitchen on the main floor.

Today's Chuckle

The man was facing trial and possible imprisonment. "I know the evidence is against me," he told his lawyer, "but I've got $50,000 in cash to fight this case."

"You'll never go to prison with that amount of money," the lawyer assured him.

He didn't. He went there broke.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP)—Synopsis: Southern Ontario endured another hot, humid night as temperatures remained in the 70s and the humidity ranged close to 100 per cent. Cooler, drier air now covers northern Ontario and is expected to push south of the Great Lakes Saturday, but no marked relief from the heat wave is expected before Saturday night.

TV LICENCE FEE OF $15 YEARLY BEING CONSIDERED

Would Be Solution To Money Problems

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Revenue equivalent to a $15-a-year licence fee on television receiving sets is suggested in some CBC circles as a possible solution to the money problems of the publicly-owned corporation.

It is highly questionable, however, that any politically-astute government would levy a fee from television-viewing Canadians, who now pay no licence fee.

Even the $2.50 radio licence tab, eliminated two years ago, was unpopular.

It is understood that the CBC has studied the question of TV licences and how much should be charged, but findings are secret.

OWNERS SHOULD PAY

The government and the CBC have said these who receive the national TV service should pay for it. That principle was cited as the basis for the present 15-per-cent excise tax on radio and television sets and parts.

The CBC believes revenue from that tax will start dwindling, and that it therefore must find a steadier source of income.

Where lies the answer to its financial problems is estimated at $10,000,000 or more deficit this year—the CBC will not say definitely.

A. D. Dunton, chairman of the CBC board of governors, has said the corporation could not operate its present services solely on commercial revenue.

Perhaps the answer will come from an investigating body on broadcasting that the government proposes to set up in the near future.

BAD FORECAST

Rising costs of television broadcasting is held responsible by the CBC for its unbalanced financial position forecast for next year.

Mr. Dunton has estimated it costs the CBC an additional $100,000 each time a new privately-owned TV station goes on the air. The CBC supplies private stations with more than 30 hours a week of program as part of the national service.

There now are an estimated 1,500 sets in use and revenue of $15 a set would bring in $22,500,000.

Revenue from the excise tax this year is estimated at roughly $19,500,000, about $4,000,000 less than in 1954-55. It will continue to drop, the CBC feels.

EXTEND EMERGENCY POWERS

PARIS (Reuters)—The French Council of the Republic (upper house) Thursday night approved a bill extending the state of emergency in Algeria for six months.

The National Assembly approved the bill July 29. The state of emergency, giving the authorities wide police powers, was introduced earlier this year as a result of terrorist attacks against French rule and virtual civil war in some areas.

Thundershowers Bring Only Short Breather From Long Heat Wave

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Thundershowers swept across widely scattered areas of Ontario Thursday. They brought a short breather from a month-long heat wave and helped firefighters in the northern bushlands, but claimed one life and caused injuries and property damage.

They did little to help the province's sun-parched farms, where drought losses are mounting high in the millions.

Mrs. Thelma Blakely, 24-year-old mother of two children, was killed when lightning struck the farm home where she was staying at Tinsley, near Hamilton.

A Buffalo, N. Y., boy was seriously injured when a bolt of lightning hurled him from the boat in which he was fishing with his father on Lake Huron.

Charles Edward Shadley, 9, was suffering from bruises and burns when he was taken from the water.

His father, C. E. Shadley, and their guide, Ed Brunner, were unhurt. Rains in the north helped extinguish 14 forest fires and officials described Thursday as "our best week yet." Another 136 fires were still burning, however.

Lightning slightly injured farmer Norman Shaver and his 18-year-old daughter, Joyce, at Cainsville near London. It interrupted electrical services at Brantford, struck two buildings in the Kitchener-Waterloo area and damaged two homes at Port Arthur, where 1 1/2 inches of rain fell.

Temperatures dropped sharply during the showers but climbed again during the evening and no relief from the heat wave was in prospect before Saturday night. Thermometers were expected to be back in the 90s Saturday.

Weather forecasters said cooler, drier air now covering northern Ontario is expected to push south of the Great Lakes late Saturday.

Tabloid Editorial in Contempt Of Hearing Commission Told

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—Reporter Ray Munro and officials of Flash, a Toronto weekly tabloid, whose articles touched off the royal commission investigation into Vancouver's police force, have been declared guilty of contempt of that commission.

The decision, handed down Thursday, named Munro, publisher Louis Ruby and editor Howard Somerville "alias Peter Dunsmuir."

Reginald H. Tupper, ruling after an afternoon of legal wrangling, said he considered "there has been a contempt here—and a serious one."

The discussion began after Det. Sgt. Len Cuthbert left the stand following six days of testimony and cross-examination.

Mr. Tupper earlier refused a submission by T. G. Norris and G. S. Cummings, counsel for police chief Walter Mulligan, to make an order for commitment against Munro, Ruby and John Blunt publications and Somerville.

He said he was ruling against it because there was "no service, no written application and no proof of contempt."

However, Mr. Tupper said he believed there had been contempt committed in a July 23 editorial in Flash and it was up to him, as commissioner, to decide whether punishment was warranted.

So far as a possible repeat of contempt by the tabloid is concerned, the commissioner said he believed the word of Willis Chitty, Toronto lawyer for Flash, "is better than my fine."

Chitty apologized to the commission for the editorial earlier in the sittings, both by telephone to Mr. Tupper and by a follow-up telegram.

It was Munro's first official appearance in court, but he did not speak. Counsel Neil Fleishman read his war record as a fighter pilot and mentioned different citations for news gathering the reporter has won—two from the present police commission.

Munro is under subpoena to testify later in the hearings.

Fleishman said Munro was "not responsible for writing the editorial of July 23."

"He was called to Toronto and asked to write it and refused. It was written without his consent or knowledge."

Sgt. Cuthbert was admonished at the end of the morning session when Mr. Tupper said that he did not fully believe the officer's testimony that he can remember which members of his 1949 gang-bling squad received graft.

Cuthbert's testimony, mainly confined to the six weeks in 1949 in which he led the squad, was featured by charges that:

1. He received graft from book-makers and split it with chief Mulligan;
2. He split graft with a fellow squad member who was exposed unless he made a statement regarding payoffs—giving him three choices, one of which he said was to "blow your bloody brains out";
3. He split gambling payoffs with some members of his 1949 squad but "can't remember" who.

CF-100s in Europe May Soon Be Withdrawn to Canada

By DAVE MCINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Equipping of four RCAF squadrons in Europe with the CF-100 long-range interceptor is looked on by some observers here as the initial move in eventual withdrawal of the squadrons to Canada.

As West Germany arms, Canada will be able to re-assess its policy of equipping 12 Sabre jet fighter squadrons in Europe, one official said. However, such a re-assessment was unlikely for some time.

Four of the dozen squadrons are to be equipped with the CF-100 next year in place of the Sabre short-range day fighter.

This will serve a double-barrelled purpose, Canada's European Allies are short of good night fighters, which the CF-100s are.

At the same time, these four CF-100 squadrons in Europe could be brought home in case of emergency to augment the Canadian interceptors of nine squadrons, not expected to be fully equipped until the end of this year.

CF-100 is Canada's chief home-defence weapon. With four squadrons overseas flying the CF-100, Canada will have a potential home fighter command of 13 instead of nine squadrons.

Beside West German rearmament, another factor in possible eventual withdrawal of part of the RCAF air division in Europe is the increased threat to North America by Soviet long-range bombers.

A senior official here said it would appear illogical for Canada to maintain air and ground forces in Europe and at the same time be unable to provide all the forces required for its home defence.

There are a number of ways in which this problem could be solved, he said.

One would be to withdraw Canadian forces from Europe. Politically, this appears unfeasible because Canada has long voiced its whole-hearted support of the North Atlantic alliance.

WORKERS OVERCOME

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—At least 100 workers here overcame a strike Thursday after dangerous fumes were accidentally released in a section of the plant, causing many of the workers to collapse. A company official said the workers were overcome by fumes which escaped when industrial alcohol, used for cleaning solder joints, was transferred from a large container into several smaller ones.

Canada Will Open World's Best A-Reactor

OTTAWA (CP)—The government says Canada next year will be operating the world's best experimental atomic energy reactor.

The new $40,000,000 NRU reactor, now under construction at Chalk River, is described in these terms in a new booklet published by Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., crown company in charge of atomic research in this country.

The booklet, released here Thursday, says NRU, code name for the new reactor, "will be the finest nuclear engineering test facility in existence."

It also discloses that NRU will be five times as powerful as the famed NRX atomic pile which went into operation in 1947 and has suffered two breakdowns since that time.

The booklet, outlining atomic research in this country, was prepared by the crown company for distribution at the international conference on peaceful uses of atomic energy in Geneva Aug. 8-10. The conference will be attended by 20 Canadian delegates.

The power at which NRU will operate and other well-developed research facilities will permit scientists to perform tests that cannot be duplicated by reactors in any other friendly country.

Trade Minister Howe told the Commons July 15 that Canada already has been asked to perform many new-type experiments on NRU for the United Kingdom and the United States.

The booklet says NRU, scheduled to go into operation in June, 1956, will have a power of 200,000 kilowatts. This compares with 40,000 kilowatts developed by NRX.

The booklet also discloses that NRU will use 43 tons of heavy water valued at more than $5,100,000. NRU uses 18 tons worth about $2,160,000.

Produced by a highly technical electrolytic process at the Trail, B.C., smelter plant, heavy water is used in atomic reactors as a control agent and a coolant. It does not absorb at a high rate neutrons given off in the atomic fission process. Such a material is needed because absorption of the neutrons would stop the pile from operating.

PLANE CARRIES 30 TO DEATH IN MISSOURI

Pilot Only Seconds Away From Landing

By RENE J. CAPPON

FORT LEONARD WOOD, Mo. (AP)—A pilot kept his crippled American Airlines plane aloft for more than 30 miles in a desperate bid for a safe landing on this army post Thursday, but crashed just short of his goal.

All 30 persons aboard were killed, including Donald Carr-Harris, 37, former London, Ont., industrial engineer.

"Just a little more and he would have made it," said an army eye-witness, Lieut. A. J. Brewster.

"The plane came in very low over a housing area, then banked steeply and headed for the post airport."

"One engine was trailing flame and smoke. Then, over a wooded area, the right wing fell off."

SECOND EMERGENCY

It was the second time within 10 months that the pilot, Capt. Hugh Barron of Tulsa, Okla., had bid for an emergency landing.

Last Nov. 9 he was credited with saving the lives of 40 passengers on another crippled plane in a wheels-up landing at Chicago.

Most of the bodies in Thursday's crash were burned too badly for quick identification.

Army soldiers dug a pass through the hilly, wooded terrain to the wreck scene. Over this makeshift road army ambulances shuttled back and forth for several hours, bringing out the bodies.

Pte. Beverly Streeter, a WAC, said she saw the plane over the housing area seconds before the crash.

SWEPT BY FIRE

"Flames were pouring from the engine and the whole underside of the ship seemed swept by fire," she said. "It was terribly hot, and it was headed for the airport and we thought it might make it."

"Then there was a series of muffled explosions. Sparks fell from the plane and it disappeared behind the woods."

Army officials said the plane, headed from Tulsa to Syracuse, N.Y., had been making a perfect approach to the field's north-south runway when it disintegrated.

The dead included eight women, two children and a Roman Catholic priest, Rev. George Krock of Maryknoll, N.Y. Father Krock, 47, recently returned from Guatemala.

The tragedy was the second within five months on this route. An American Airlines Convair crashed near Springfield, Mo., on March 22, killing 13 persons and injuring 22.

The investigators declined to speculate on the cause of Thursday's crash.

Supt. H. Whalen Shoots Self In Vancouver Home

Second Officer to Be Shot Since Inquiry Opened

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police superintendent Harry Whalen, a key figure in the royal commission inquiry now under way into charges of corruption in the Vancouver police force, was found shot to death at his home here today.

Full details of the shooting were not immediately available, but it was learned the veteran officer's wife heard a shot and rushed into the living room to find her husband's body on the chesterfield. His service revolver was beside the body.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital from a bullet wound in the heart.

Whalen is the second member of the force to be shot since charges of graft and corruption were leveled against the department several weeks ago.

The royal commission investigation was ordered June 24 a few hours after Det. Sgt. Len Cuthbert shot himself in the chest in an attempted suicide. Cuthbert recovered from the wound.

POPULAR OFFICER

Father of two sons, Whalen once held the post of deputy chief constable but was demoted to patrol superintendent. He was one of the most popular officers on the force and with newspaper reporters, a wide departure from his usually friendly manner.

Whalen appeared before the opening session of the commission July 14 to give evidence concerning notes he took in a series of interviews with Det. Sgt. Cuthbert.

The superintendent said Cuthbert had told him about spitting gambling payoffs with police chief Walter Mulligan.

BROTHER OF GAMBLER

Whalen had stepped down before being cross-examined and was scheduled to reappear before commissioner Reginald H. Tupper late this month.

He is the brother of former detective Jack Whalen, now a gambler, who has made, with Cuthbert, allegations of corruption against the force.

HAND OVER FLAME

HOBOKEN, N. J. (AP)—Mrs. Frances Prester, 32-year-old mother, was charged Thursday night with holding her eight-year-old daughter's hands over a flame as a punishment for stealing $30 from the apartment and spending it on clothes for herself and friends. The child suffered severe burns, which went unattended since the incident occurred Tuesday, police said.

Fifteen Planes To Join Search For Five Men

VANCOUVER (CP)—Fifteen planes were to take off into clearing skies early today to scour the coastal wilderness of British Columbia in a stepped-up search for an amphibian aircraft missing since Wednesday night with five men aboard.

RCAF search officials said low-hanging cloud stymied air search Thursday for the Grumman Mallard, which disappeared on a 50-mile flight from Kemano to Kitimat, 460 miles north of Vancouver.

Meanwhile, construction and power plant workers fanned out into the jagged mountain belt in three well-equipped ground parties.

Aboard the missing Pacific Western Airlines plane were three prominent Vancouver businessmen and the pilot and co-pilot.

They are David Milton Owen, 42, a partner in the law firm of Defence Minister Campney; Lt.-Col. Margaret Macintosh, 58; Albert Gorman, 43; pilot Edward Bell and co-pilot Kendall King.

MISSING BOAT SOUGHT

RCAF officials directing the search said four of the five RCAF planes expected to take part today will be diverted from an unsuccessful search for a fishing boat missing off the west coast of Vancouver.

A fifth air force plane, along with fishing boats and pleasure craft, was continuing that search.

RCAF Corporal Killed, 2 Hurt Near Cobourg

COBOURG (CP)—An RCAF corporal was killed here Thursday night when his car crashed into a moving van.

Police said Cpl. A. Clark, 30, of the Avrocar RCAF station, was killed and two companions, Robert Pethick and Douglas Traynor, both 19, were badly injured when Clark lost control of his car on the dangerous cemetery curve near here.

Of the moving van, said he tried to swing to avoid the car but did not have time to steer his van off the highway.

Pethick and Traynor were taken to Cobourg General Hospital.

Three Climbers Die in Alps

ALBERTVILLE, France (Reuters)—Two French girls and a priest were found dead today at the foot of a 65-foot crevasse on the nearby Peak of Thorens, where they fell during a mountain climb.

The girls were among a party of eight that set out in three groups Thursday to explore the 9,500-foot mountain under the guidance of three priests. The climbers in each group were roped together for the ascent.

Slipping on an icy slope the first two groups—five girls and two priests—fell into the crevasse.

CONGRATULATIONS AND CONDOLENCES

Marilyn Bell's conquest of the English Channel proves once again that in deep water this little girl knows how to keep her chin up.

Considering the treachery of wind and tide and the difficulty which men and women have experienced in swimming the strait between England and France, Marilyn's success as the youngest swimmer ever to make the crossing takes on new lustre. That she should threaten the women's record for the swim is remarkable in the extreme. Had she not been caught by an ebb tide and held away from the beach for more than three hours she most certainly would have set a new record. As it is she is credited with a crossing in the excellent time of 14 hours and 36 minutes.

Marilyn's swim was not the first nor will it be the last by either a Canadian or a woman. Because of her amazing feat of swimming Lake Ontario a year ago, her success was almost a foregone conclusion. The possibility of her setting a new record added excitement.

Marilyn Bell will go on swimming short and long distances for years because she likes to swim. There may be more dangerous swims in the world than across Lake Ontario, or longer swims such as down the Mississippi, but Marilyn's fame is secure because she was the first to complete that long, arduous swim. Others may swim it in years to come but the honor of being first will be her's forever.

Marilyn has endeavored herself to thousands not only by her accomplishments but by the eager, youthful good spirit and uncommon common sense with which she has accepted acclaim. She has also shown admirable persistence in the tedium of study by successfully completing her fourth form high school work despite an exhausting schedule of personal appearances at everything from sportsmen shows to the opening of supermarkets.

Marilyn's latest feat will also be memorable in the newspaper industry because her sponsors, The Toronto Telegram, were scooped by two whole days on the accounts of victory despite preparations that included overseas coverage by staff photographers and reporters and a guarantee of $15,000 that made the whole venture possible.

Congratulations for Marilyn, at least by newspapers, must be tinged with condolences for the Telegram.

NO REVENGE — NO REMORSE

The Vancouver Sun comments on the public opinion poll held by the London Daily Mirror, which found a cross section of the English public voting two to one in favor of the abolition of hanging.

The Sun says that the poll "leaves something to be desired." It notes that it was held "almost coincident with the hanging of the blonde murderer, Ruth Ellis," and adds that "the reaction after a case of this sort is usually toward remorse."

This observation touches on the very heart of the controversy over capital punishment.

There is no adequate defence for the execution of a human being in the spirit of revenge.

But if there is no spirit of revenge, then there will be no remorse.

Those people who, after an execution, vote against capital punishment in a spirit of remorse are true judges of their own attitude towards capital punishment. It is wrong.

But there are those citizens—and they may well be in the majority among those supporting capital punishment—who never are gripped by a vengeful spirit.

To them, a murderer is a nuisance, an intolerable nuisance. There are other nuisances, but they can be tolerated, because the damage they do can often be repaired. But nothing can be done to restore the life which the murderer takes. The only thing to do with an intolerable nuisance is to get rid of it. The imprisoned murderer may be pardoned or paroled; or he may escape, or he may kill people in an attempt to escape. There is only one certain way of getting rid of a murderer. That is to execute him—or her.

Those who regard capital punishment in this light never feel remorse—and will support it just as staunchly after the hanging of women like Ruth Ellis as they did before such an execution.

FAST WICKET!

Probably you never heard of C. B. Fry.

It is all right to make that confession on this side of the Atlantic. But do not repeat it in England. Cricket enthusiasts there would view the statement with the same jaundiced eye which would greet you here amongst a gathering of baseball enthusiasts if you inquired as to the identity of Honus Wagner.

C. B. Fry has known the acclaim of the crowds at Lord's, the wild acclaim, the hands that clap and, here and there, the occasional extrovert acclaiming "Oh, well hit, Sir."

But today, at Lord's, he holds no influence. He has written to a London paper denouncing the appearance at Lord's of women clad in bikinis. The response has not been gratifying.

Perhaps C. B. has forgotten that many cricket spectators have always got their biggest thrill out of watching clever work in the slips—and isn't there a middle off (there should be, for there is certainly, if memory serves us rightly, a mid-on.)

And the bikinis are guaranteed to interest more people than even the most spectacular square leg!

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

August 5, 1935

Bass are coming in from deeper water with the advent of cooler weather and guide, Joseph Goyer, states that the fish are biting readily in the Bay of Quinte at almost any bait offered. Almost every angler is getting his limit of six bass without difficulty.

From our file copy at this time in 1915: The work of constructing the Murray Canal is progressing as rapidly as such a tedious undertaking makes possible.

Mr. Arthur Woodhouse, of New York City is visiting his brother, Mr. Alfred Woodhouse, Emily Street.

The old Albert College buildings on College Street are being wrecked by the present owner Mr. Harry Smith. He will dispose of all material which is suitable for further service in the erection of houses or other buildings. The building is 78 years old.

Mrs. W. F. Ashley has returned to her home here after being the guest of Mrs. T. B. Smith at her cottage at Oak Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. V. P. Hunt left today to spend a vacation at Quebec, the lower St. Lawrence and the Saguenay.

30 YEARS AGO

August 5, 1925

Many visitors and former residents are here for the Old Boys' Reunion and more are arriving daily.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Welsh and son of Detroit, Mich., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Austin, Cedar Street.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Covert of Rochester, N. Y., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred R. Symons, Sinclair Street.

Mr. Harold Coppin is home from Ottawa for the reunion.

Mr. Greer Roberts is home for the reunion and is stopping at his old home on George St.

The Hon. Robert Cooke was a visitor in town today.

Mr. Walter E. Wiggins of Bancroft, warden of the county, is spending a few days in town and is stopping at Hotel Quinte.

Mr. Everett Liddle and family are here from Hamilton to attend the reunion and are the guests of Mrs. Liddle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fairman, Everett Street.

Mr. James L. McCrudden of Buffalo, N.Y., is home for the reunion and is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. B. McMurray, West Barge Street.

Dr. Cronk, and family are spending a vacation at Loughbow Lake.

Mr. Jack O'Brien of Regina is here for the reunion.

Mr. Joseph C. Lessard of Winnipeg is here for the reunion and is stopping at Hotel Quinte.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack McCabe and son of Toronto are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward O'Rourke, Pinnacle Street.

Mr. and Mrs. "Toots" Holway are home from Brockville for the reunion.

Mr. Hoyt Thompson is home from Montreal for the reunion.

Mr. Arthur Bird, Toronto, is home for the reunion.

Inspector Jack Phillips of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, is home for the reunion.

Mr. William Johnson is here from Toronto for the reunion and is stopping with his brother, Major Arthur L. Johnson.

Mr. James Johnson is expected home from Boston shortly to join in celebrating the Old Boys' Reunion.

40 YEARS AGO

August 5, 1915

For thirty nine years the steamship Alexandria has plied the waters of the Bay of Quinte and has touched at this port during all those years. The 'Alex' first came through here in 1876 in command of Capt. Smith, who was captain for many years. In the old days she put in at the wharf of the W.H. Campbell Company. Last year the popular old steamer was condemned and she is now engaged in carrying freight between Toronto and Montreal.

Yesterday she was in the Belleville harbor and took on thirteen tons of freight being shipped by the Belleville Vinegar Factory. The Alexandria was well known to residents of Belleville, who have in past years enjoyed her trips on Lake Ontario and down the St. Lawrence River to Montreal.

50 YEARS AGO

August 5th, 1905

Messrs. Stanley Carman, Percy Allen, V. Hyman and Capt. W. Conger spent yesterday in Wellington.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Clarke are spending a few holidays with friends in the country.

Miss Alice Adams has returned home from Toronto where she spent a vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Bullen have left for their home in Chicago, Ill., after visiting relatives here.

Mr. H. Bart Lake and family, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Davey Diamond, Foster Avenue, have left for their home in Minneapolis, Minn.

From our file copy at this time in 1895: Dr. R. Tracy, medical health officer, advises citizens to boil all drinking water as there are several cases of typhoid fever in the city.

The water in the wells is very low at this time of year.

The Lehigh Portland Cement Company of Allentown, Pa., has closed for the purchase of 10,000 acres of limestone and clay lands east of the Belleville Portland Cement Company's plant. The Lehigh Company's representatives, Mr. Charles A. Matchem, general manager, and Mr. Alfred Thorn, representatives for Canada, are in the city to close the transaction. A large number of hands will be employed.

Mr. Thomas Harris has left here to reside in Rochester, N. Y.

WHY UTOPIAS NEVER COME TRUE

Most Utopian schemes designed to transform society have failed because among other things they did not take into consideration certain basic facts about human nature.

Utopian schemes—and most modern liberal measures for that matter—proceed on the basis that ignorance is the cause of most of the world's troubles and if man is enlightened, he can be depended upon to do the right thing. This of course is not true. Most of us know what is right, and most of us in the face of that knowledge turn right around and do the opposite. The thing which we know are perhaps unwise or definitely evil. A friend of mine, a nationally known heart specialist, has probably told thousands of his patients that they must not under any circumstances shovel snow; yet he himself, nearing sixty years of age, went out with a snow shovel one day and got himself a coronary.

Our folly and evil is the result not so much of a soft head as of a weak will. The reason why science for human betterment frequently do not work is because they have such poor material to work with. They have to deal with you and me. Granted we may be lacking in intelligence—our greatest lack is will power and moral purpose. We need something more than a knowledge of the truth; we need the power to put this knowledge into operation.

And that is why religion does not work. True religion gives us the power to do the things that we must.

Three Clocks Count Years

(Written for UNESCO by Gerald Wendt)

The two fundamental units of time are both set by the earth itself. It rotates on its axis once a day and revolves about the sun once a year. Man's clocks and calendars are built to keep pace with these two motions. But counting the years that pass, the years that gather into centuries and then into millennia, is a task for man. Nature cannot count.

The art of writing has provided records that conveniently date the recent past. To count the thousands of years of man's existence and adventures before he learned to write his history, there are many devices of the archaeologist and the geologist. They include the annual rings of tree-growth, the annual deposits of gravel and sand from melting glaciers, the presence of fossils in the sediments of the rivers and seas, and the slow advancement of man's culture revealed by artifacts and ornaments buried in ancient ruins. But these devices are approximate and relative, and most of them are local. There has been no absolute time-scale to fix each date precisely, which would be valid at every point on the earth.

Now there is. In fact, there are three. One counts in years, another in thousands of years, the third in millions. All are accurate, independent of man's interference, and independent also of the accidents and cataclysms of nature. They record the passage of time and nothing else. They have been used to determine the age of the earth, the age of a particular skeleton or human home, the date of a prehistoric feast, the age of underground waters and even the age of a raincoat. And they are not new; they have been silently recording the years since time began. What is new is man's ability to read these clocks and calendars of the past.

That ability is the result of very recent advances in the understanding of the atom and especially of radioactive atoms. It is one of the many innocent and precious uses of atomic energy in the pursuits of peace which are the subject of discussion at an international conference called by the United Nations this August in Geneva.

The three clocks that count the years are radioactive atoms of uranium, carbon and hydrogen. Such atoms disintegrate into ordinary, stable atoms and in the process eject an electron—called a beta ray—or some other easily detectable ray. The radioactivity of the material that contains these atoms turns into inactive ones.

Because of the decay, or the loss of atoms that disintegrate per second, is different from each type of atom. When a large fraction of all the atoms disintegrate per second, the entire process may be over in minutes, or even in seconds. When the fraction is small, the radioactivity may last for years, or even centuries. But for each type of atom the rate at which they disintegrate per second is definite and unchanging. If, for instance, half the original quantity decays in a year, then half of the remainder decays in the second year, and so on, until only a fourth of the original amount is left. This is cut in half, hence to one eighth, in the third year. Every year the amount present, and its radioactivity, is cut in half.

The time required for the radioactivity to sink to one-half value is characteristic of each type of radioactive atom and is called its half-life. The half-life of radioactive hydrogen is 12.5 years; that of radioactive carbon is 5,600 years; that of uranium is 4.4 thousand million years. It is the reliable rate of decay that makes these radioactive elements such excellent time-keepers.

Radioactive carbon is the most interesting and useful. It is produced in the earth's atmosphere by cosmic rays from outer space collide with atoms of nitrogen. This has been going on for many millions of years at a steady rate. The amount of carbon in the air does not increase indefinitely because it begins to decay as soon as it is formed. It accumulates only so long as the rate of decay and the rate of production are equal. Since this happened millions of years ago, there is now steady balance. The amount of radioactive carbon mixed with ordinary carbon is small but it is definite and gives rise to about 16 beta rays per minute for every gram of total carbon.

This is true not only of the carbon dioxide in the air but also of all living vegetable and animal matter. Plants use the carbon dioxide to build their structures so that the sugars and starches, the cellulose and lignin, all have the same small proportion of radioactive carbon. When animals eat the plants their fats and proteins, in turn, acquire the same proportion of radioactive carbon. This does not change during the life of the plant or animal because any carbon compound that is used or excreted is excreted as a radioactive measure of the amount of time that has elapsed since any organic material ceased to live. Thus it is possible to determine the age of wooden beams in ancient houses, of charred materials found on prehistoric hearths, of bits of food and bones, and even of organic materials found in the soil.

By this method a whole series of peoples who successively occupied two caves on the banks of the Caspian Sea near Behshahr, in Iran, have been identified and have been placed on a time scale that runs from 12,000 years ago until recent times. The earliest traces of granaries and an agricultural economy have been found at Jarmo, in Iraq, and are almost 7,000 years old. Until recently the oldest date for human life fixed by this method was thought to be that of remains found in the Lascaux Caves in southwestern France, which were about 15,000 years ago. But this year Dr. Willard F. Libby of the University of Chicago—who was one of the pioneers in this method of dating—found that some charcoal animal bones at a camp-site near Las Vegas in Nevada (USA) was at least 23,800 years old. This is the oldest evidence of human life found by this method of dating.

However, the oldest animal life dated by this method goes back to the 28,000-year-old mammoth found frozen in the ice of Alaska, which was about 13,000 years old. The "radioactive clock" has also revealed that the last great ice age, when glaciers covered all of northern Europe, Asia and America, occurred only 11,000 years ago. Even the circulation of the water in the ocean has been measured by the age of its organic material. At the surface of the Atlantic, the proportion of radioactive carbon is normal. But in the Arctic the cold water sinks and flows southward along the bottom of the sea. Measurements show that the organic material from the depths of the Atlantic opposite Newfoundland is about 1,500 years old. Thus the flow from the Arctic is very slow.

Radioactive hydrogen disintegrates much more swiftly and reaches half-value in 12.5 years. But combined with oxygen as "heavy water" it can be used to measure the flow of water and of water containing water. This is a new discovery and its application is difficult because the radioactivity is very faint. The method has already been used to show that water evaporated from the ocean stays in the air about nine days before it falls as rain. In one study of the water from deep underground wells it was found that the water had been underground at least thirty years. Further studies are expected to prove that much irrigation water used in the arid lands has been slowly accumulating under the surface for many decades and, once used, will not be replaced for many more.

The longest half-life known is that of uranium: 4.4 thousand million years. This is actually long enough to be used as a measure of the age of the earth itself. When uranium disintegrates it forms lead, and thus lead in uranium ores can be used to determine how much uranium was originally present. The relative amounts of lead and uranium indicate that if the uranium was formed at the same time as the earth, then the earth is at least 3.5 thousand million years old.

Scientific experience with these three natural clocks is only beginning today. By providing an accurate measurement of time without any possible interference by man or by nature they will undoubtedly bring many more revelations as they are developed in coming years.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE DEBTS WE OWE

The money debts we owe from month to month are not the only debts we owe. There is an accumulative number of debts we think about, all too little—and they are not all obligations to individuals or concerns. These debts we owe are to earth, and to God for His endless blessings.

It is impossible for us to go anywhere, or to look upon anything that doesn't hold some interest for us, but what costs us nothing to repay. All of Nature's gifts on display—and at no cost, beyond appreciation.

We owe a debt to our parents that nothing material could ever repay. And a big debt we owe to our friends who have been so kind and inspiring to us over the years. We are in debt to those who live right live in the world. We are in debt to those who have given of their time and strength, as well as skill, in searching for means to conquer dread diseases. We are in debt to artists and writers who have helped to add richness to the mind.

What are we giving to others for all they give to us? How much it means to have been born and reared in a free land. How much we owe to those teachers who taught—something far more important than mere book knowledge.

Oh, what a debt we owe to the hundreds and hundreds of authors whose books have been a source of joy and enrichment over the years. I am sure this is the same debt millions owe. Next to the same debt we owe to the Montaigne, the great French essayist, used to tell people that, if they wanted to know him, all they had to do was to read his Montaigne wrote but one book—his Essays—but it is one of the great books of the world. It is one of these debtless books, like Basil's Dr. Samuel Johnson. The entire world is indebted to these two authors.

Mystery of Balanced Diet

Ask the brisk businessman of medicine — a tripe specialist — "the clinic" racketeer — to define "the common cold," and you will learn that everybody (meaning by word or manner the charlatan) implies that you must be nutty to ask such a silly question, and advises you to keep well under the covers and be careful not to take a cold. Just relax, take a balmy diet of nourishing but easily digestible food and sufficient aspirin or barbiturate to dull your sense of discomfort or danger, you fatted.

It sounds impressive when a doctor talks about a "balanced diet," but it is useless to try to find out just what he means. It sounds scientific, sort of, and the leading exploiters of popular credulity have been getting away with it for donkey's years. In fact it is nearly as useful as another imposture, the "low resistance" phrase that occurs constantly in medical literature — "lowered resistance".

To half-formed wisecracks it may seem reasonable enough that a vagrant draft, or wet feet, or a change of clothes would rob the individual of any immunity he might have against what shall we say, pneumonia, diphtheria, measles, influenza, scarlet fever, influenza — you name it. Buy for the life of me, I can't understand how a physician with a fundamental knowledge of pathology can maintain an accurate in such an idiotic notion. It would seem that the doctors who use the expression so boldly feel confident they can get away with it for many years, because the laity is pretty dumb.

"I have never been sure what a 'balanced' meal is, but it appears to be one consisting of such a large number of foods that a dab of most of the body requires books of one time — to me is supplied at one time. To me is concept of such a meal seems wrong, nutritionally and otherwise. Large meals are expensive

Some years ago a medical friend (believe it or not) persuaded me to attend a symposium on diet and nutrition arranged by the medical staff of a hospital. At one point a young woman rose and spoke briefly but effectively — and her modest remarks made the doctors who had hemmed and hawed tremulously seem absurd.

I learned that a consulting physician, but a consulting nutritionist, Adelle Davis, A. B. M. S. I still give another of Davis' "Let's Eat It Right" (same publisher — "lowered resistance"). ## THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When you go on a holiday, your heart doesn't.

That was the remark of an eminent heart specialist to me. As a matter of fact, your heart never gets a holiday. It takes a day off, an hour off, a minute off, indeed, no matter how many years you carry the old pump around with you, it never takes more than a second off. And when it does, you rush for the doctor.

When you take a holiday, your heart most likely has a harder job than in your workaday year. On holidays, you indulge in all kinds of fancy gymnastics: swimming, diving, rowing boats, hauling boats, yanking outboard engine starting cords, dancing, staying up late, whooping her. You go on canoe trips and stagger over rough portages with canoes or tents on your back. You drive interminable distances on crowded highways, under steady nervous strain that rouses you a heart and causes it to operate in deep undergound wells. You hoist cartons of provisions, carry ice from the ice house, drag piles of water up to the cottage kitchen, remove shutters, climb on roofs, dig worms, chop down trees, saw and carry it. Since the vast majority of those who take holidays are city and town dwellers — farmers never get holidays — it is a certainty that the holiday is a harder day for the heart than the rest of the humdrum year put together. So when your holidays are over, just say thanks to the ugly old clump that clanks away inside of you, and wish it a pleasant year's head.

There is another aspect of the heart in relation to holidays. There has been a rumor, for the past few years, that the heart is the seat of the tender sentiments. When you take your heart on a holiday, besides having the muscles yanked out of it, it is likely to get involved in some sort of amorous mixup. An old body of my acquaintance, who has been keeping statistics on our summer resort for the past fifty years, informs me that engagements entered into at summer resorts result in more happy marriages than all other engagements combined, including city, town, village, harbor, ocean liner and parked motor car.

Scientific experience with these three natural clocks is only beginning today. By providing an accurate measurement of time without any possible interference by man or by nature they will undoubtedly bring many more revelations as they are developed in coming years.

Canadian Economy Expanding At Such a Pace Officials Fear Another Round of Inflation

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian economy is expanding at such a pace that some federal officials now are becoming concerned over the possibility of another round of inflation gripping the country.

At the moment the situation is not considered serious. Federal authorities said in a statement although Britain, the United States and a number of other countries have taken steps to curb inflationary trends, similar action is being contemplated for Canada at the present time.

However, Canadian policy-makers are watching the situation closely.

The government generally has been following a policy of making it easier for Canadians to borrow money and buy goods on more generous credit terms. Interest rates have been reduced.

Now the economy is expanding at a record pace. Bank loans are at or near an all-time high. Some activities in metals have developed and prices have increased. Indications now are the gross national product—value of all goods and services produced—will rise this year to a record of more than $25,000,000,000 compared with last year's $24,000,000,000.

Capital investment for 1955 has been forecast a peak $5,954,000,000, up from $5,507,000,000 last year. Exports have increased substantially.

All this activity places pressures on the supply of materials and labor. Many unions have made demands on management for higher wages. The cost of higher wages sometimes is passed along to the consumer in the form of higher prices.

Last February Britain boosted bank interest rates to curb inflation. Wednesday the United States took anti-inflationary action which had the effect of increasing bank lending charges. Similar action was taken by West Germany and Belgium.

But Canada is still holding the interest-rate line, though there have been some increases in charges on short-term government borrowings. The Bank of Canada's interest rate on bank loans was reduced to 1 per cent from two per cent last February and still remains at the low rate. There are no indications the bank plans to increase the rate at this time, but it is known that bank officials are watching the lending situation carefully.

All-Canadian Gas Pipeline May Be Started Early in '56

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal authorities are hopeful that both federal and Ontario government financial aid will be provided to start the proposed all-Canadian natural gas pipeline in 1956.

They said Thursday that under a new scheme now gaining increasing federal support, the Ontario government would be asked to step in by providing a subsidy or putting up a crown company to lower the commercial price of the gas shipped from Winnipeg to Toronto.

If Ontario was willing to provide such aid, they said, the federal government would do its share by eliminating duties and other federal charges on pipeline and other equipment used in constructing the Winnipeg-Toronto leg of the Alberta-eastern Canada line.

The central government also would be willing to remit about 60 per cent of the duties on pipe and equipment used in constructing the line from Alberta to Winnipeg.

The 2,200-mile, $330,000,000 line, planned by Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., has been stalled by company financing difficulties. The board of transport commissioners has given the company a six-month extension until Oct. 31 to show it is financially able to build the line. Trade Minister Howe recently said the company will get further extension of the deadline.

Mr. Howe, who left Thursday on an extended holiday, recently conferred with Premier Frost of Ontario.

Cottage Owners Incensed Over Nude Bathing

ORILLIA (CP)—Cottage owners at nearby Bass lake are forming a nude bathing and drinking parties which they say have become commonplace at the lake this summer.

A depiction of cottagers this week appeared before township council and was told "no parking" signs would be erected on either side of the road to prevent it being jammed by cars in which the residents say bathers undress immediately.

The cottagers also are asking additional patrolling of the area by provincial police. They say children are endangered by broken bottles left after drinking parties and by cars moving in and out.

One cottager said he turned car and house lights on in efforts to disperse a nude swimming party. The naked bathers retreated far into the lake and pelted his home with stones until the lights were switched off, he said.

Other residents said they have been mocked by the offenders when trying to order similar groups away.

Will Egg Hatch? $64 Question

VANCOUVER (CP)—Zoo keeper Alan Best is sweating out the 64-day question: Will the first king penguin egg ever laid in North America hatch successfully?

The egg arrived at the Stanley Park zoo Wednesday night, falling silently onto the rubber-padded floor of the penguin quarters.

Best, who found the egg on a tinial round with the watchman, said:

"A courtship had been going on for quite awhile. I had put rubber mats on the concrete floors of the penguins' shelter so that an egg would not break when laid."

Penguins do not nest in nests of any kind, he said, and the male does most of the work during the 64 days of incubation.

The egg itself is about four inches long and nearly round. It is incubated by the penguin placing it between his feet and lowering a fringe of feathers around it.

GAMBLER BURIED

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A crowd of more than 1,000 closely surveyed by police, attended funeral services Thursday for Tony Cornero, prohibition runner, former operator of a fleet of gambling vessels and at his death head of a Nevada casino hotel. A soldier capped the services in a mortuary chapel by singing Wabash Cannon Ball, which Cornero had deemed his lucky song.

RCMP Patrol Boat 'Cutknife' Handsome Addition to Regatta

A sleek touch of blue-hulled officialdom slid quietly into a berth at the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club Wednesday afternoon. From her stern staff fluttered the burgee of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

This newest addition to the RCMP flotilla of patrol craft is the "Cutknife II" a trim beauty that was the cynosure of the eyes of yachtsmen and landlubbers alike.

Gleaming in her blue hull of solid mahogany, her teak decks and oak frames, the "Cutknife" was launched on July 12. She is a member of the RCMP detachment class patrol boats.

The craft is named after an original detachment of Canada's famous police force. As her name implies she is the second of her particular class.

Fifty-feet in length with a beam of 13 feet, six inches, "Cutknife" can sleep six. She carries a regular complement of four nautical "Mounties."

SGT. ROBERTS SKIPPER

In charge is the "skipper," Sergeant N. C. Roberts of Kingston. Other crew members are Constables L. King, P. A. Awalt and M. Welsh.

Sergeant Roberts has 19 years service with the government, six of which were served with the Royal Canadian Navy. During the other 13 years he has seen service with the nautical branch of the RCMP.

The "skipper" talked with newspaper men aboard his trim craft yesterday. He said the "Cutknife" had been built under his supervision. He commanded the "Chilcoat II" a prototype of the "Cutknife" prior to taking his present command. The "Chilcoat" was commissioned last November.

He took the newsmen on a tour of inspection of the spotters craft. He showed them the twin 350 horsepower Scripps V-12 engines. Asked about the speed, Sergeant Roberts, with a twinkle in his eye, remarked, "she can do over 30 miles an hour."

Below decks the "Cutknife" is a homemaker's dream. The shining chrome and brass; the gleaming white of walls and the immaculate appearance of furnishings, all nautically arranged.

There is a well-stocked electric refrigerator; a homelike dinette can be changed to sleeping quarters for two at a twinkle of an eye. A spotless toilet. The "bath" is over the side. Soft lights gleam down on the quarters.

There is an automatic lighting system which recharges its own batteries. There is a stainless steel sink. The "skipper's" office is trim and neat. A portable typewriter sits at his elbow. There is hot and cold running water.

An automatic gasoline fumes detector is located near the bridge. It detects fumes immediately in any part of the craft. There are automatic fire extinguishers. Twin gasoline tanks hold a collective 400 gallons. There is a battery "charger."

SHIP-TO-SHORE RADIO

Lightning Bolt Knocks Boy Into Water

OWEN SOUND (CP)—A lightning bolt hit a nine-year-old boy as he was fishing from a boat Thursday and knocked him into the water.

Charles Edward Shadley of Buffalo, N.Y., was rescued by his father and a guide from the waters of Lake Huron at nearby Tobemore. He suffered burns and bruises and was reported to be responding favorably in hospital Thursday night.

His father, C. E. Shadley of Buffalo said he was steering for land when the bolt struck. He said he felt the shock but guide Ed

Two Injured Near Napanee

NAPANEE (CP)—Two men were injured Thursday in a car crash near here which caused damage estimated at $1,200.

Carl Rajamets, 40, of Preston suffered chest bruises when his car crashed into the rear of a car driven by Vincent Aquino, 50, of Flushing, N.Y., on Highway 2 police said.

A passenger in Rajamets' car, H. Pent, 49, of Toronto received medical attention for a cut over his eye. Aquino and his wife were unhurt.

Brunner was unhurt and the two of them saved the injured boy from the water.

Minor Baseball

Vics, behind the one-hit pitching of Darnold defeated the Y's Men bantam baseballers by a score of 24-2.

The Vics had a field day at the plate crashing out 21 hits, seven of them doubles. Kellar's homer was the lone Y's Men hit. The winners had a 7-0 lead going in to the fifth when they exploded for 17 runs. The losers' two runs came in the seventh off the homer.

Dickey was the losing pitcher, giving up 21 hits for 24 runs. Plaine relieved him in the 6th.

Hunter for the Vics had three doubles and a single; Locke had two doubles and a single; Aquino and G. Smith two doubles and a single and Moxon four singles.

Weddings

ROSS-FERGUSON

Balderson United church, Balderson, Ontario, was the scene of a pretty summer wedding on Saturday, July 2, at 3:00 p.m., when Mr. R. J. McNaught united in marriage, Helen Jean Ferguson, of Perth, R.R. 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Ferguson to Douglas Harry Ross, of Corbyville, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton M. Ross. The church was beautifully adorned with white Shasta daisies, chrysanthemums, gladioli and ferns.

The traditional wedding music was furnished by Mrs. R. A. D. McTavish, church organist, who accompanied the soloist, Miss Jean Blair, in her rendition of "The Lord's Prayer," and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. George Ferguson, the bride was radiant in her floor-length bridal gown of embroidered net with applied satin roses. Appliqued roses also enhanced the scooped neckline of the fitted bodice with its short puffed sleeves. She wore a veil and headpiece. She carried a bouquet of pink and white feathered carnations, roses and stephanotis.

Miss Joyce Clarke of Smiths Falls, attended the bride, wearing embroidered blue nylon in ballerina length with scooped neckline, blue and white accessories with matching headpiece and carried a hand bouquet of

City Residents Mark 50th Anniversary

Last Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Adams, 133 Chatham St., celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

This special event was highlighted by a dinner party at Maplehaven, Trent Road, attended by special friends and close relatives, among whom were their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Norman J. Adams of Hamilton, and their two children. Also present were, Mrs. A. Goodfellow of Toronto, a sister of Mr. Adams, and Mr. C. A. Tompkins of Brighton, a brother of Mrs. Adams, and Mrs. Tompkins, who were wedding guests 50 years ago.

Mr. Norman Adams acted as master of ceremonies.

A toast to the bride and bridegroom of 50 years ago, was proposed by Mr. F. G. Cregegan and responded to by Mr. Adams.

Congratulatory telegrams were read from distant friends, one being from the Hon. Leslie M. Frost, premier of Ontario.

Mrs. Adams was the former Clara Tompkins of Brighton. She was united in marriage to Mr. Frank Adams of Oshawa, by the late Rev. A. H. Foster of Smithfield.

For the early part of their married life, they resided in Lindsay, where Mr. Adams was a member of the grocery firm of Adams Bros. In 1930 they moved to Belleville and operated a grocery business at 185 Bridge Street East.

Retiring in 1939, they settled in a home on Chatham Street, where they still reside.

They have one son, Norman J., of the Income Tax Department, Hamilton branch. Their elder son, Earl, was drowned in Lake St. Louis, near Montreal, 23 years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams were the recipients of many lovely gifts and beautiful flowers as well as numerous cards of congratulation from friends far and near.

pink and white carnations.

Mr. Glen Ross of Corbyville, acted as groomsmen, and Mr. Ronald Davis and Mr. Fred Bayliss as ushers.

The reception was held at the home of Mrs. Andreasen, where the bride's mother, attired in powder blue crepe with insets of lace, and pink accessories, received the guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore navy blue crepe with pink accessories.

For the wedding trip to the Maritimes, the bride donned a pale blue linen suit with navy and white accessories. Upon their return they will reside on Perth Road.

Guests attended from Seven Islands, Quebec; Detroit, Michigan; Port Credit, Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa, Artfield, Quebec, and Belleville.

Women's Institute

RYLSTONE W.I.

The August meeting of the Rylstone Women's Institute was held at the Sunday school room of Zion United church, on Wednesday afternoon. The hostess for the day was Mrs. Don Kerr. There were 12 members, 23 children and one visiting lady present. The meeting opened with the president, Mrs. Wilfred Spencer in the chair.

A letter from Miss Ethel Chapman re the Extension Service, in April, was read by Mrs. Ellis Jones, in the absence of the secretary. This "Short Course" will be held in the Sunday school room of the Zion United church, Petherick's Corners.

Mrs. Emma Linn, a visitor from Kimberley, Saskatchewan, told about the "Homemakers" organization, which is the Prairie version of the Women's Institute.

As this was the Girls' meeting, Mrs. Arthur Brick, Girls' Club leader, was the convener for the following program: report of the girls' club during the past year, by Enid Petherick; piano duet, "High School March," by Enid and Nona Petherick; reading, "Worth Remembering," by Margaret Wilson; vocal solo, "Galway Bay," by Caroline Wright, with Nona Petherick at the piano; piano solo, "Bridal Wreath," by Fernie Reid; piano solo, "Somebody," by Miriam Rutherford; vocal solo, "Beautiful Brown Eyes," by Earline Kerr with Beverly Linn, accompanying at the piano; piano solo, "Marching Thru Georgia," by Beverly Linn as commentator; piano solo, "Sunshine of Your Smile," by the Western visitor, Mrs. Harold Linn; contest, "Jumbled Names from the Bible," put on by Donald Kerr and won by the July-September group.

Mrs. Spencer thanked Mrs. Brick for her splendid work with the Girls' Club during the past year, and for the past six years in which she has been leader.

Mrs. Fred Barnum also moved a vote of thanks to the girls for the good program they put on.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by the lunch committee, consisting of members of the Girls' Club.

Silver spoons were to have been presented to the Girls' Club members, all of whom finished their projects, this year, but the spoons did not arrive on time.

The September meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Roy Fry with Mrs. Alf Akens as convener. Each member is to bring a pot-holder, to be sold afterward. Each member is also to bring a current event.

Mrs. E. Dunlop Guest Soloist At Concert

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Evelyn Dunlop, elderly wife of Education Minister Dunlop of Ontario, made her television debut as a singer Thursday night. She was guest soloist at a Promenade Symphony Orchestra concert televised at Varsity Arena.

Mrs. Dunlop, a contralto, sang four songs, including Divinites du Styx from Alcibiades, by Gluck. She received long applause.

Starring with Mrs. Dunlop was the department of education's 400-voice summer school choir directed by Dr. G. Roy Fenwick, director of music for the department. The orchestra was under guest conductor Alexander Bratt.

Mrs. Dunlop, an accomplished soloist, says her singing led to her first meeting with her husband at their parish church, St. Paul's Anglican, where she has been soloist for 20 years. They were married in 1905.

She also has performed with the Ottawa Choral Union and Hamilton's Bach-Elgar Choir.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

OF COURSE YOU CAN "LIVE DOWN" A MISTAKE, HOWEVER SERIOUS

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Do you think that a girl can ever really live down the disgrace of having a child out of wedlock? And as for the child, won't it be practically ostracized when it grows up?

I would like to know, too, if you think a child should ever be told the facts about its birth, and if not, how can the absence of a father in the home be explained? Does the mother of such a child have to lie to it? — Mary T.

Dear Mary:

You have asked some very complicated and difficult questions, as I am sure you know. I will try to answer them as best I can.

The first one is not so difficult, and the answer is that of course a girl can "live down the disgrace" of bearing a child out of wedlock just as she can live down any other serious mistake. It all depends upon herself, and what sort of person she decides to make of herself. If she thinks and acts for the rest of her life in such a way that she grows into a woman of fine, steady character, she will win people's respect no matter what she has done previously.

It would be a dreadful thing if all of us were to be forever judged by our past mistakes, for there is no one whose past is completely clear of them. We wouldn't be human if we never made any. What we must do is to put the past behind us and, in the present and the future, live the way we know is right and best.

As for your second question, children born out of wedlock are "ostracized" only by the ignorant and the unintelligent. Most adults today will understand that it is not the child, but the parents who are "illegitimate," and we would never dream of condemning him for what his parents have done.

Then your question about telling such a child the facts about his birth or lying about it. I would say the answer here must of necessity be only a sort of yes-and-no affair. I do not think any general rule can be laid down.

For, as I see it, whether or not a child is to be told that he was born out of wedlock, and when he should be told if he is to be told at all, would depend entirely upon the individual circumstances of the case. Some children, if they were told the facts wisely, might suffer no basic emotional harm; others might be so damaged emotionally that their whole lives would be ruined.

It seems to me that the only thing the mother of such a child could do would be to wait until the child seems to be of an age when he can think, and reason, and be helped to understand. Then she should go to the family doctor, a clergyman, or a child psychiatrist and discuss the advisability of telling the child, and if he is to be told, how the matter should be presented to him. I do not believe any mother is sufficiently well equipped to take upon herself, without the most expert advice she can get, the responsibility of breaking such news to a child. There is infinitely too much at stake to go at such a thing without the most careful preparation.

You might like to read a book called "Out of Wedlock," by Leontine Young, which deals with the problems of the unmarried mother and her child. While the book was written primarily for the use of doctors, lawyers, ministers, social workers and any others whose work brings them into contact with unmarried mothers, there are a few little anecdotes in it which might help you in working out your own problem. You should be able to find this book in your public library.

ARE BUFFET PARTIES EARLY OR LATE?

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

Is it considered correct to give a buffet party at any hour of the day, or are only buffet dinners and suppers correct? — G.M.

A buffet party may be given at any hour of the day or evening. As a matter of fact, in the summer, Saturday and Sunday, particularly on buffet luncheons, are extremely popular. And very popular too are Sunday buffet breakfasts, or the combination of breakfast and lunch "brunch," so easy and simple to give, so delightfully informal and leisurely.

BREAD-AND-BUTTER LETTER NECESSARY?

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

To settle a discussion between my girl friend and me, will you please answer this question, which is very important to us: If, when you are leaving after a weekend visit you thank your hostess and host and then when you return home you send your hostess quite an important and expensive gift with a card enclosed on which you write, "Thank you for a wonderful visit," is it still really necessary to write a bread-and-butter letter? — A and H

Yes. Regardless of thanks expressed when you leave and no matter how important and expensive the guest-gift you send, you must write a bread-and-butter letter to your hostess as soon as possible after your return home . . . within two or three days.

SHOULD BRIDE'S MOTHER WEAR CORSAGE?

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

Would you say that it is absolutely a "must" for me, the bride's mother, to wear a corsage? Actually I have never been to a wedding where the bride's mother did not wear a corsage. But I have never liked to wear one on any occasion. As a matter of fact, I think that most women in their forties and fifties are definitely apt to look like a "hick" wearing a corsage. My daughter, the bride-to-be, knows how I feel and she says she doesn't mind at all if I don't wear a corsage. What do you agree with me? — A.H.K.

Since you don't want to wear a corsage, feel this strongly about it, and since the bride isn't urging you to wear one, I advise you not to wear one. A corsage is not at all a "must" for the bride's mother. I do agree with you that too often the wedding corsage that a mother is to wear is chosen with little or no artistic and good taste. Many times not enough thought is given to whether the flowers and the color and the design are appropriate for, and becoming to, the woman who is to wear the flowers. Often the corsage is too large, often flamboyant, too often is "all dressed up" with leaves or ferns or ribbons that should have been omitted.

Something for you to consider: If your daughter's bridegroom might be disappointed if you don't give him the honor of sending you a corsage, as he is sending one to his mother, it would be gently considerate of you not to mention wearing the corsage he chooses, on your purse, as today many mothers-of-the-bride do.

IS EVENING WEDDING FORMAL OR INFORMAL?

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

My son and his bride-elect told me yesterday that they are planning to have a simple church wedding in the evening, next month. They are planning to wear street clothes, their "going-away" clothes.

Memorial Electric Organ Dedicated At United Church

MOUNTAIN VIEW. — On Sunday evening, a large congregation gathered at Mountain View United Church for the evening service. During the service a new electric organ which had been donated by Mr. Stanley Barber and family, in memory of his grandfather, the late Mr. S. S. Potter, was dedicated by the Rev. H. H. Hillis.

The minister, Mr. Farrow, was in charge of the remainder of the service, consisting mostly of musical numbers, with Mr. Robert Barber presiding at the organ. Solos were rendered by Mr. Ted Gerow, Miss Joan Wood, Mrs. M. Davidson and Mrs. G. Fox (nee Marilyn Barber), great granddaughter of the late Mr. S. S. Potter.

Ivanhoe

IVANHOE — Miss Fern Vardy who underwent Hospital is convalescing at her home here. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Melville, of Havelock, and Mr. Vernon Melville, Toronto, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Pollock.

Mrs. James Martin is spending a few days in Belleville. Mr. and Mrs. Jud Day and children, of Toronto, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Haggerty.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Van Buren, Durand, Mich., and baby Kathleen are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Philip McAvoy.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Reid and Mr. and Mrs. Walton Reid and family spent Monday at the Sand Banks.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Laskin, of Sudbury, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh MacMillan.

es, and each is to have only one attendant. I told them that I had always thought that an evening wedding must be formal. Who is right about that? — Groom's Mother.

Your son and his bride to be are quite right in planning to have an informal evening wedding. An evening wedding, like a daytime wedding may be either formal or informal.

HOW TO WRITE TITLES ON INVITATIONS

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

My fiancée is a doctor (M.D.), and, naturally, many of his friends on his list for our wedding invitations and announcements are doctors. In the envelopes to them, should I write the title as "Dr." or "Doctor" . . . "Dr. and Mrs." or "Doctor and Mrs."?

Lee

Whenever space permits, write the title in full . . . Doctor John Hill, Doctor Arthur Williamson, Doctor and Mrs. Henry Clark, for engraved invitations and announcements. (Incidentally, it is also best form to spell the title in full in the salutation of a social letter: Dear Doctor Bryant.)

QUESTION:

I am . . . wondering if you could send me some jam and jelly recipes made with liquid sucaryl and saccharin. I am also on a salt-free diet and use a salt substitute . . . have you any cucumber pickle recipes in which this salt substitute could be used? — Dorothy J.

ANSWER:

In my recipes for sugarless jams I am using sucaryl tablets so that a minimum amount of liquid or moisture of any kind is added to the jams, for the object is to achieve jam consistency without the addition of sugar, which is quite a trick. I am giving you the recipe for Black Currant Jam here. I hope you saw the recipe for Red Currant Jam week of July 18.

SUGARLESS BLACK CURRANT JAM

Wash 4 cups choice fully ripened black currants. Drain well then mash them in flat-bottomed saucepan. Simmer gently 15 minutes. Add 18 sucaryl tablets, 6 tablespoons glycerin (omit if doctor says so) and 1-2 teaspoon certo crystals. Stir over low heat until juice is slightly thickened, then immediately pour into sterile small sealers and seal. Store in refrigerator.

I do not have any pickle recipes without salt. If any readers see this and know of any method of making pickles without salt or with a salt substitute I would be most grateful to hear from them. I have mailed you a release written for readers on salt-free diet.

QUESTION:

I would like to see some recipes for Chinese food—Chow Mein, Chop Suey and other Chinese dishes with rice. . . your column is a great pleasure to me.—Lena W.

ANSWER:

CHICKEN CHOW MEIN

One cup each diagonally cut celery, Chinese greens (Bok Toy), Chinese pea pods, cut in halves diagonally, 1-2 cup Chinese water chestnuts, peeled and cut in thin slices, 1-2 lb. mushrooms, sliced, 2 cups fresh bean sprouts (canned may be used), 1-3 cup peanut oil, 2 cups raw chicken meat (1 lb. when prepared) cut in 3-inch flat narrow strips. Heat oil in deep frying-pan and saute chicken strips 6 or 7 minutes turning constantly — do not brown. Cover and steam gently 5 minutes. Add all other ingredients and cook uncovered over medium heat 5 minutes, stirring with forks. Sprinkle with 2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 teaspoon white seasoning (MSG) 1 or 2 tea-

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

EARLY MORNING GLAMOUR

Most of us think of glamour as pertaining especially to evening. Speak of a "glamorous woman" and you immediately visualize her in an elegant evening gown, her hair in the latest coiffure, her make-up dazzlingly beautiful and her surroundings right out of a Hollywood set.

But the idea of glamour should not stop there. Every woman should try to look her radiant best at every hour of the day. And she should have the zest for living which goes hand-in-hand with such beauty at all times, too. Sometimes, however—especially on hot and humid days—even the most glamour-conscious woman finds it difficult to live up to the picture of the lovely woman she wants to be. The spirit is willing but the flesh is weak.

However, she can achieve her dream of all-day loveliness if she'll combine her glamour-consciousness with a consciousness of fragrance that can do more than anything else to lift a woman's spirits and inspire her to look her best. And the best time to start is in the morning.

Make it a point to get up a little earlier on warm and humid days (it's easier to do so in summer, anyway) and encourage a serene and happy frame of mind with a leisurely, fragrant bath. Put a delicate bath oil in your tub, then let the water rush in pell-mell. In a moment the room will be filled with a spirit-lifting fragrance. After a few moments of relaxing in the tub, cleanse every inch of your body with a quick lathering, sweet-smelling soap. Then, after your rinse, thoroughly dry yourself with a luxuriously soft bath towel.

Slather toilet water or cologne all over your body, for it serves a double purpose: forms the foundation of your aura of fragrance and helps to close your pores—a preventative against annoying summer colds. Then luxuriate in bath powder until your skin feels silky smooth. You'll feel like a new woman as you don your fresh, sachet-scented lingerie.

And now, the final touch to your sense of glamour comes through the use of perfume. Use your scent wisely, but well. Apply enough so that you will really enjoy it. And

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THE MAN SPEAKS

Don McNevin, sponsor of the Belleville senior "B" Glen Ross, is a man of purpose. When he undertakes some undertaking he does not swerve unless something of a serious nature comes up.

Recently, out of a blue sky, he volunteered to sponsor the city senior "B" entry at a moment when things looked very dark for such representation.

Later Don attended a meeting of the senior "B" moguls in Kingston at which Cornwall, Belleville, Whitby, Kingston and Brockville were represented. Peterborough did not put in an appearance, nor were they represented by proxy.

A stormy discussion ensued, the main bone of contention being the percentage of club contributions to the regular group pool. In other years it has been ten per cent. Last season the clubs split a fifteen per cent melon; five per cent of which was earmarked for transportation expenses.

After long and sometimes bitter discussion, peace settled temporarily over the meeting when Belleville, Cornwall and Brockville voted in favor of a motion to set the club donations to the pool at fifteen per cent of the clubs' net take, instead of the gross as before. Kingston refrained from voting, stating they would have to submit the proposition to the sponsoring executive. Whitby first voted in favor, then through Wren Blair, its representative, reversed the decision and went on record as voting against the motion.

Since that meeting, it has been learned that Whitby and Peterborough have, through press dispatches, voiced strong argument against the proposed 15 per cent, with the Peterborough management coming out flatfooted with the statement that it would not enter a team in this group if last year's club arrangements were changed. That, coming from a club which tossed in a handful of dough and came out with a barrel of flour, is a statement, indeed.

Later reports have it that Whitby and Peterborough are thinking seriously of entering another senior "B" group, consisting of Newmarket, Stouffville, Orillia and their respective squads. In fact this reporter was informed by a Whitby source personally that the meeting was set for last night. "But," he added cautiously, "that is, if it materializes."

Mr. McNevin, learning of this has risen in righteous wrath. In fact so much so that he forwarded the following letter to Lorne Cook, OHA vice-president, Kingston. Here it is verbatim:

"As you know at the meeting in Kingston I seconded the motion that all clubs would pay fifteen per cent of the clubs' split of the gate receipts into the pool. Since that time I understand Blair of Whitby, has called a meeting to try and form a group between Whitby, Peterborough, Stouffville and Orillia.

"As far as I'm concerned now, I am not interested in paying fifteen per cent into the pool.

"As I understand it Cornwall's hockey club is operated by the arena manager; also Brockville the same way. As you know I have offered to operate the Belleville Glen Ross as a private sponsor. I do not think that I should be helping to pay the expenses of the teams operated by the municipalities and as far as Peterborough and Whitby are concerned if they cannot operate a hockey club without the financial assistance of the other clubs they shouldn't be in the league.

"I hope you do not think that I am too harsh in anything I have said. I know if I should lose five or ten thousand dollars I have no municipality to pay the bills. I have no executive to go to and ask for assistance, but would be paying it directly out of my own pocket.

"As I said before, I was willing to go along with the fifteen per cent, but if Blair of Whitby and Ellis of Peterborough think I am going to be used as a second fiddle if their league does not materialize up there, they do not know me near as well as they should."

ROCCA TONIGHT

The Kalpikoff Brothers, bearded tovariches of the wrestling mat, won't have each other to rely on tonight. For Karol, grad, is matched with none other than the elusive Argentine Rocca, a sturdy senior from South America who can do more with his feet than an octopus with its tentacles. Rocca, hailed as a world champion, is lightning swift in ring action, and his work is good to see. Meanwhile Karol's brother, Ivan, will match his cunning with Jim Doble, with Mickey Gold tangling with Harry Lewis.

SOFTBALL

Point Anne and Orfons will play a best-of-three series for the league top spot. The first game is slated for the CNR Park Monday night starting 8:15. The second is set for Tuesday, and the third, if necessary, the next night. Meanwhile, don't forget the Battle of the Cats at the CNR Park tonight at 6:30.

Blast Bombers in 6-3 Win Red Sox Wallop Chicago 7-3; Banks Bangs Trio of Homers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The surging Cleveland Indians, battling to retain their American League title, were only two percentage points back of the pace-setting Chicago White Sox today after attaining their highest rating since they held the lead on May 20.

Meantime, New York Yankees, much like the boy who stuck his hand in the jam jar when mamma wasn't looking, have only themselves to blame for the mess they're in now.

True Casey Stengel's operatives, seeking their sixth pennant in seven years, are only one game out of first place. But, since July 4, they have been marching steadily backward while the other contenders have been advancing in near-perfect unison.

On the morning of July 4, Yanks had a 6½-game lead. Today, in third place, they not only are looking up to White Sox and Indians but have only a one-game bulge over the fourth-place Boston Red Sox and ½ over the fifth-place Detroit Tigers.

Cleveland's 6-3 victory over Yankees Thursday left the New York team with a sickly 1½-day record since U.S. Independence Day.

Red Sox, who started Yanks' slide with a doubleheader victory on July 4, have a 20-9 record since then after a 7-3 romp over White Sox. Jackie Jensen, discarded by Yankees in 1952, drove in four runs with a triple, single and sacrifice fly.

Despite the loss, Chicago has a 20-12 record since July 4, while Yankees are 20-11 and Detroit 21-13, even though they gooped Thursday by dropping a 9-6 verdict to Washington.

Adding to Stengel's cup of woe, ex-Yankee Ed Lopat whipped Kansas City 8-1 in his first start since leaving New York.

THREE HOMERS

Most of the noise in the National League today came from the booming bat of Chicago shortstop Ernie Banks, who walloped three home runs in Cubs' 10-1 victory over Pittsburgh. The outburst, good for seven runs batted in, left him tied with Brooklyn's Duke Snider for the home-run lead with 36 and third in runs batted in with 87.

Catcher Roy Campanella relieved Snider of the home-run hitting burden as he walloped a three-run homer that brought Brooks an 11-10 victory over Milwaukee and a lead of 16½ games over Braves, their biggest margin of the season.

Relief pitcher Joe Nuxhall of Cincinnati Redlegs started a double play with the bases loaded to preserve a 4-3 victory over Philadelphia and Tom Poholsky of St. Louis stopped New York on only four hits for a 3-0 victory.

Vic Wertz put over the crusher for Cleveland with a three-run home run while Al Rosen blasted four hits in as many times at bat. Mickey Mantle of Yanks took the league lead in the ninth inning with his 24th home run.

RELIEF COUNTS

Jimmy Piersall, the third man in Boston's outfield with Jensen and Ted Williams, contributed a home run, double and single, while Norm Zauchin also had a homer.

Relief pitching made the difference in Washington, where Chuck Stobbs of Senators pitched two perfect innings to pick up his second victory.

Lopat, however, needed no relief as he carefully spaced eight Kansas City hits. The only one that hurt was Joe Astroth's sole home run.

Campanella's homer was only one of six in the Brooklyn-Milwaukee melee. Don Zimmer and Carl Furillo also honored for Brooklyn, while Braves got circuit blasts from Bobby Thomson, Johnny Logan and Andy Patko in the 25th inning, which saw eight pitchers called into action.

EIGHT HOME RUNS

Eight home runs were hit in the Chicago-Pittsburgh game, which had 30 hits. Eight pitchers toiled in that game, too. Banks won it with his last homer, which came off Dick Littlefield.

Nuxhall's pitching and fielding gave Redlegs their regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

Fort Erie Grass Strip Breaks Record

FORT ERIE (CP)—Turf course racing has proved to be the most popular innovation in the recent history of the Canadian thoroughbred industry. Last Saturday when the $10,000 Niagara Stakes was run over the new grass strip, Fort Erie attendance and betting records were broken.

E. P. Taylor, the man mainly responsible for the introduction of turf course racing in Canada, returned to Fort Erie from England Thursday morning for the $5,000 Achievement Stakes on Saturday afternoon.

Queen's Plate favorites, Ace Marine, Baffin Bay, Senator Jim and Loyalist are entered.

Mr. Taylor visited many English race tracks. His purpose was to study the English methods of building and maintaining their turf courses.

VICTORIA (CP)—Marlene Stewart, four-time Canadian women's close golf champion, led the field today into the second round of the 54-hole championships after blazing a record two-under-par 75 Thursday.

The defending champion from Fonthill was four strokes ahead of her nearest rival—Rae Milligan of Jasper, Alta.—at the start of the 36-hole inter-provincial team matches after gaining a one-stroke lead over Quebec with 350. British Columbia counted 344.

Miss Stewart's performance set a record in women's tournament golf for the tough, tree-line 6,263-yard Royal Colwood course.

Meanwhile, Ontario took the lead in the second round of the 36-hole inter-provincial team matches after gaining a one-stroke lead over Quebec with 350. British Columbia counted 344.

Following that will come the first round of the new 36-hole junior championships and the second round of the 36-hole junior inter-provincial matches, which Manitoba leads with 157.

Miss Stewart said she will try to beat her own close record of 236, set at Sunningdale Golf Club at London, Ont., in 1950.

It appeared Miss Stewart was getting off to a bad start as she sliced her second shot into the trees. She recovered with a two-over-par six over the 398-yard fairway, the only time she was over regulation figures.

Then she turned on the heat and blazed a succession of birdies and putts to finish at the ninth with a spectacular 30-foot putt.

Fate robbed her of a birdie four at the 18th when her approach shot was stopped at the green by an obstruction. Her long putt stopped an inch from the cup.

NOT SATISFIED

Miss Milligan, Ontario and Alberta champion, far from satisfied with her game, was two-over-par 39 in the first nine and par 40 in the second.

Behind her was Marlene Wach of

Four Canadians in Links Battle For Amateur Golf Championship

By TED MOSER

Canadian Press Staff Writer
CALGARY (CP)—For the first time in four years a Canadian will win the Canadian amateur golf championship, and unless Norman McEwen of Vancouver comes through, the champion will be from Vancouver.

Three of the four golfers who tee off this morning to start the grueling 36-hole semi-finals are Vancouverites—Lyle Crawford, Doug Bajus and Bob Kidd.

The last Canadian to hold the crown, Walt McElroy, also was from Vancouver. He won at the Royal Ottawa in 1951.

Crawford plays Kidd today in one match, and Norman and Bajus tour the Calgary Golf and Club in the other. The winners square off in the 36-hole final Saturday.

Norman went 20 holes with Ebert Manley of Savannah, Ga., a lowball hitter, before winning the 20th when the American went over par.

Bajus sidelined Doug Silverberg of Red Deer, Alta., 4 and 2, in the only fifth-round match completed without extra holes, and Bob Kidd of Vancouver took the measure of Nick Weslock of Windsor, Ont., in a 22-hole duel. The defeat of the two Americans took out the last of the 12 original U.S. entries.

Blasinghoff was one up on the 17th but lost his lead when he missed an 18-inch putt.

Norman had to fight with Manley all the way to win his match. The lead swung back and forth between the two, with Norman one up going into the 18th. Manley evened the match with a spectacular 80-yard wedge shot that came to within three inches of the hole for a birdie three. Norman missed a 12-foot putt that would have saved him the extra holes.

Both halved the 19th hole in one-over-par sixes. On the 145-yard 20th Norman got down in par three while Manley fell short on his tee shot, overchipped the cup by 10 feet and missed the putt.

Bajus, rated unofficially as the top Canadian amateur in 1954, scored a rare eagle two on the 405-yard seventh to go two up on Silverberg.

On the par-three eighth, Silverberg sliced his drive out of bounds to go three down. The remaining holes were halved until it ended on the 18th.

Kidd looked like he would lose the 22nd to Weslock when he pushed his drive to the right. His second shot clipped a branch and stopped 50 yards in front of the green. His chip shot hit the cup and rolled a foot past for an easy par four.

Kings Take Two From Columbus; Leafs Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wily old Connie Marrero tossed Havana to a second-place tie in the International League with a no-hitter Thursday night as Sugar Kings swept to their 10th and 11th consecutive victories.

Marrero and Pat Scantlebury blanked Columbus through 16 innings. The 40-year-old native Cuban won the second game 1-0 after Lefty Wilson breezed to a 9-0 triumph in the seven-inning opener.

Archie Wilson got Toronto back on its winning ways, slamming a home run and two doubles in Lefty's 9-3 triumph at Rochester. The big leftfielder's three RBIs gave him a league high of 102 and a lead of eight over Montreal's Rocky Nelson in that department.

Nelson and Royals were rained out at Buffalo. In the only other contest, Richmond upended Syracuse Chiefs 11-3.

Carl Duser matched Marrero practically pitch for pitch. The game was scoreless for eight innings with each side having only one hit—singles by Jet Dick Rykloski and Havana's Ray Noble.

A FAST SWITCH
Then in the last of the ninth, Pompeyo Davallito singled and took second on a wild pitch. Nino Escalera's hit got him to third and when Duser uncorked another wild one, that was the game and Havana was back in the runner-up spot for the first time since June 23.

It was also the 12th double-header sweep for Kings and the pair of shutouts raised their team total to 19.

A seven-run outburst against Columbus' Lou Sleater and Charlie Haag wrapped up Scantlebury's four-hit triumph. It was his second victory in 24 hours, as he also beat Lefty in relief in the winning game Wednesday.

Noble, who caught both ends of the twin-bill, socked his 10th homer.

Toronto, holding a 1½-game lead over Kings and two over Montreal, rolled to a 5-0 lead in the first four innings and coasted the rest of the way. Sam Jethroe shared hitting honors with Wilson.

The fleet centerfielder drove in three with a two-run homer and a single. Allie Clark accounted for all the Red Wings scoring against Arnie Landeck, who hurled his fifth victory in nine decisions.

Shows Officials Plans For Huge Stadium

MONTREAL (CP)—President Leo Dandurand of the Montreal Alouettes football club said Thursday night he has approached Mayor Jean Drapeau with plans for a 40,000-seat stadium in east-end Maisonneuve Park.

Mr. Dandurand said architects plans already drawn up for the stadium would provide room for expansion to a 78,000-seat capacity should the need—in the form of some future Olympic games or similar event—ever arise.

Officials of the Montreal entry in the Big Four Football Union approached Mayor Drapeau to ask that the city guarantee a bond issue to finance construction of the stadium. The proposed size of the venture would mean a strong Montreal bid for future Grey Cup finals.

Whitby, Petes May Join New Five-Club Senior B Group

By GEO. H. CARVER

(Sports Editor)

Five clubs at a special meeting held in Peterborough last night indicated their willingness to form a new senior "B" hockey group.

Represented at the meeting were Whitby, Peterborough, Orillia and Stouffville. New market delegates were not present, but sent word of their willingness to become a member of the five-team set-up.

But—nothing definite was laid down. Whitby and Oshawa withheld a definite decision until after the September 11th meeting of the Eastern Ontario senior "B" group, slated for Kingston.

However, Whitby and Peterborough delegates told the meeting that if the eastern group financial arrangements such as club pool percentages were not satisfactory, they would play in the newly-proposed group.

That is the thing in a nutshell. The Whitby and Peterborough delegations received a warm welcome from Stouffville and Orillia. For some time the hockey life of these two centres depends on the formation of the new five-club group. Stouffville has threatened to withdraw if the three-club set-up of last year again operates.

Orillia has been "shopping," seeking entry in the newly proposed Georgian Bay senior "B" group and casting her eyes to the south.

Paradoxically, Wren Blair, writing in his Whitby sports column said yesterday: "The Whitby Hockey Club stockholders will hold its initial meeting on Thursday, August 18 and the problem of the reduction in the eastern group pool will be outlined and if the directors approve the change the Dunlop senior "B" group, slated for Kingston.

While Whitby and Peterborough can now, figuratively, "hold the gun" at the heads of the eastern teams through the newly proposed set-up, it is doubtful if it will have any effect on the rest of the down-east clubs. It is this writer's opinion that the proposed withdrawal of Whitby and Peterborough clubs will not have any bearing on the feelings of the rest of the eastern group's representatives as far as financial arrangements are concerned.

Former Coach Says Shirley 'Ill-Advised'

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail quotes a former coach and trainer of Shirley Campbell as saying she was ill advised to attempt her punishing swim across Lake Ontario.

Bert Crockett of Victoria, B.C., was quoted in a telephone interview from his home in Victoria, B.C., as criticizing Shirley's advisers for letting the Pergus mermaid try the swim Wednesday when the carefully supervised Canadian National Exhibition swim was so near.

The CNE is sponsoring an across-the-lake swim next month. Miss Campbell was pulled from the lake early Thursday less than two miles from the Ontario shore.

The Globe quotes Crockett as saying that once the advisers decided Shirley should try the swim "they should have entered her in a 'conditioning' race beforehand, the Atlantic City swim, for example. I would say she was badly advised."

Boxing Bosses Suspend Robinson

BOSTON (AP)—The Massachusetts boxing commission has suspended Sugar Ray Robinson and three of his managers until they reimburse the Callahan Athletic Club for expense money in a March 5 cancelled bout, scheduled for Boston Garden.

The commission took action Thursday. The expenses totalled $2,500 when Robinson made a last-minute withdrawal from a match with George Smal of Brooklyn. The managers are George Gairford, Ernie Bracca and Vic Maarsala.

Though Robinson said he was ill when he cancelled the commission doctor said he found no evidence of sickness or injury.

Miss Stewart, who started badly with a two-over-par six at the first hole, went on to make a record-breaking two-under-par 75 for the course.

After the round she gave the dime back to Mr. Salter and asked him to "keep it for me, I'll need it."

The marker is used on the greens to mark the place of a ball picked up to clear the way for other players.

Young Fielder Joins Yankees

NEW YORK (AP)—Billy Hunter

New York Yankees part-time short stop, was sent down to Denver Bears of the American Association Thursday to make room on the American League team's roster for Bobby Richardson, a 19-year-old clubbing second baseman.

Hunter was one of the big names in the 18-player deal between the Yankees and Baltimore Orioles last winter. Of the nine players received by the Yankees, only pitcher Bob Turley has been able to stick all season. Pitcher Don Larsen is back with the club after a session with Denver.

Richardson joined the Yankees Thursday. At Denver he was hitting .302 and led the American Association in triples with 10 and runs scored with 90. He was with the Yankees during spring training.

Hoad Benched, Hopman Names Rex Hartwig

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP)—Australian captain Harry Hopman

benched Low Hoad again Thursday and named Rex Hartwig to face the Japanese today in opening singles of the inter-zone Davis Cup match at the Nassau Country Club.

Hoad, reported to be sulking because his bride of a few weeks wasn't permitted to accompany him to America, was given the brushoff in Montreal last week, playing only after the series had been clinched.

In the draw made Thursday, Australian champion Ken Rosewall was sent against Atsushi Miyagi, the 23-year-old Japanese titleholder in the first match. Hartwig was drawn against Kosei Kamo in the second.

Canadian Football Roundup

CLEVELAND (AP)—Paul Brown, head coach of Cleveland Browns football team, testified Thursday that he had agreed to pay Bobby Freeman $12,000 a year with a $2,000 bonus but did not know that the quarterback had previously signed a contract with Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

His testimony was given at a hearing before federal Judge Paul Jones on an injunction suit filed by the Winnipeg club against the Browns and two players—Freeman and centre Jack Locklear, formerly of Auburn.

Judge Jones gave attorneys for both sides until next Wednesday to file additional briefs.

Brown testified that Al Sherman, coach of the Canadian club, had not informed him that Freeman and Locklear had signed contracts in Canada last Jan. 8, under which Freeman was to receive $7,500 and Locklear $8,000 for the 1955 season.

Asked by Judge Jones if anyone had asked the two players if they had signed with anyone else at the time they signed with the Browns, the Cleveland coach replied: "To my knowledge—no."

Coach Brown declared in an affidavit filed for the hearing that Locklear is under treatment for a physical ailment at his home in Birmingham, Ala., and may never be able to play professional football.

He charged the Winnipeg club "repeatedly has induced players under contract to American professional teams to break their contracts and play for Winnipeg."

Matha Scott Best Narrator For Afternoon TV Shows

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—One new category that television has added to the ranks of show business is the narrator who stands between some dramas and their audiences. As graceful a figure as can be found in this spot is Matha Scott, currently the narrator of "Modern Romances," an afternoon show (NBC-TV). From Monday through Friday she smiles into the camera, says: "This is Matha Scott," and then goes on to bring the week-long serial up to date.

The business of being oneself instead of playing an assigned role is, she believes, a tough assignment for any actor and actress who has tackled the master of ceremonies type of job so popular on TV.

Miss Scott's Broadway successes are legion—"Our Town," "The Voice of the Turtle," "The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker" and many another. Her first love was the stage, and it's doubtful if she ever leaves it for long. Yet she likes TV and believes it good for every actor because it's technically demanding. The mountain has come to Mahomet or Mahomet to the mountain—or something. In any event, Louis G. Cowan, creator of "The $64,000 Question," joins CBS-TV as a producer. AUK 15. His private production company meanwhile will continue in being. Cowan is one of the cleverest thinker-uppers in television and radio.

His ideas have set many new programming trends. For example: "Kay Kyser's College of Musical Knowledge" in the 1930s and "Quiz Kids" in 1940. He masterminded the first transcribed disk jockey show, "The Tommy Dorsey Program," which was heard on four continents. This season he won a Peabody Award for his new radio series, "Conversation."

Phil Silvers, of "Top Banana" and "High Button Shoes" fame, launches a weekly situation comedy over CBS-TV Sept. 20. Called "You'll Never Get Rich," it stars Silvers as a sergeant who keeps the army perpetually off balance as he pursues his private operations.

Talent Scouts Always Looking For Another Temple or Cooper

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Margaret O'Brien, a neat trick of 18, is posing for cheesecake now. Besides making all of us feel older, that news accentuates the fact that the movies haven't really had a box office child star since little Maggie won an Oscar in 1944.

From Jackie Coogan onward child stars have stood with western and sex as Hollywood's most profitable merchandise. A check of the various studios discloses that talent scouts are always looking for another Temple or Jackie Cooper, but the pickings are mighty slim.

"Kid actors nowadays are too wise," one studio executive said. "Audiences will laugh at a wise-cracking kid, but he won't sell tickets." Time around. One studio is really hopped up over a child actor, though. That's Universal-International, which just put nine-year-old Tim Hovey under contract after his rave debut in "The Private War of Major Benson."

"For the first time in years," confides one U-I executive, "we are looking for story properties to star a child."

Hovey has all-important elements for stardom. He's nine but looks six. Also, like Miss O'Brien, he is not the little monster that many a child actor has been. Maggie O'Brien's mother, the slightest trace of becoming a movie star, he's going to be yanked right out of pictures and sent back to average living.

Maggie O'Brien V probably the best advertisement for a Hollywood upbringing. She is a high school graduate although she never spent a day of her life in a regular school.

"I don't feel any different than other girls my age," she reveals. Margaret, one of the most talented of all child stars, is back before the cameras again at RKO where she's making "Glowy."

Does she do her specialty with the tears?

"I won't cry anything like I did in 'Journey For Margaret' when I bawled for the first five minutes of the picture. I just sniffle a little in this one. After all, I'm grown up now."

Sam Snead's Golf School

Now... use your hands!

Week-end golfers, as a rule, don't get their hands into the game sufficiently. I suspect the reason is that the rest of the time they never lift anything much heavier than a pencil, so they haven't the strength and muscular hands that pros have. But if you make certain that just before impact, as pictured here, you get those hands into the shots vigorously, and straight distance. If you are slicing your shots, try consistently to get that whip-lash hand action in, and at the bottom of the stroke, more firmly. Your slices probably come because your hands are ahead of your clubhead at impact. If they are you tend to draw the club face from heel to toe across the ball imparting a right spin to the ball. Presto—slice! Put your hands into your shots!

ADVISED TO QUIT

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP)—Ailing Dave Williams, 27-year-old second baseman for New York Giants, said Thursday night he is quitting baseball on advice from doctors at the Mayo Clinic here.

Williams said the doctors told him he would be endangering his health to continue in baseball. The physician informed Williams he was suffering spinal arthritis and there is a possibility he has a slipped disk.

Williams said he had telephoned Giants manager Leo Durocher about his decision.

You may be in rebellion over the fetters of bridge rules. But you are not fenced in by them to the extent that you dare not kick over the traces. And this applies in defence or attack.

We are still hovering over this deal:

Start of the bidding was by south with an opening of one heart. Next to say was west. He came into the act with a bid of one spade. This non-jump defensive bid is known as a simple overcall.

Now, a simple overcall of one may become the final contract. If it does, the player must come home with seven tricks. This he must expect to do with what he turns up in the hand of partner.

The general expectancy in partner is two tricks. So, a simple overcall of one promises the other five. In them he admits to a sure trick among two high cards; and a long biddable suit.

Thus, the simple overcall of one spade by west is in the rule groove, with a little to spare and there except in tricks. Any bid higher than one here would be exceeding the rule limit.

Of course, there are players who exceed the rule limit in many a defence bid. The ones can do this profitably. Because they know when it pays to take a sacrifice loss, if necessary.

After west comes north, responder to an opening one bidder. He has a definite guide to work from. With not more than two tricks he should pass. He should bid something with three tricks or more.

So far as this north is concerned he can ignore any defence bid he has heard in west. North has enough stuff for several bids if he is pushed far enough. The first of these is a takeout to two clubs.

Up to this point the bidding was as it should be. From there on the south and north players got a little fancy. I'll tell you how.

When rule bids are sounder I can't see why partners should start to get fancy.

THE BABE IMPROVES

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Dr. S. R. Snodgrass, personal physician of Mrs. Babe Didrikson Zaharias, said Thursday the woman golfer is not scheduled for further surgery.

Snodgrass said the Babe will probably be released from hospital in about a week if she continues to improve from a June operation on her spine.

His statement countered reports from John Sealy Hospital here that a second operation was being considered to relieve discomfort caused by the first operation.

Doctors have emphasized that the present illness has no connection with a 1953 operation in which a malignant growth was removed from her rectum.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, August 6, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)

Generally favorable rays. Clean up week-end duties quickly but thoroughly. Catch up on community and family affairs. Maintain an even pace whether at work or play.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)

Be careful not to overdo either mentally or physically. Though demands on your energies may be heavy, proceed sensibly. Avoid recklessness, taking chances, wild-cat schemes.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)

Public recreation, relaxation with friends, civic activities sponsored now. Enjoy yourself. Frame your efforts with a wholesome, happy outlook. Travel is a possibility - but take care.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)

Watch for an opportunity to move forward. Be alert. Show your initiative when the need arises. Those who step out and promote their interests will reach their goals more quickly.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)

You may have to make an important decision today. Don't treat lightly. Give all the time and consideration due them. Don't neglect essentials.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)

Excellent indications for personal and family interests today. Friends and old acquaintances are in a position to aid you now. Seek their advice and encouragement.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)

He who hesitates may let achievement slip through his (or her) hands. But avoid over-speculation. Take care of unfinished tasks; prepare for those ahead.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)

Some things indecisive.

Do not lose ambition, however. Rather expend some additional effort and get ahead. Then restful relaxation is in order.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)

A grand day to tackle a hobby, engage in healthy sports, improve a talent. Also a time for good reading. Be mindful of what is going on around you. Don't be an ostrich.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)

Progress in worthy and sensible endeavors in the favored column. Maintain your high standard of performance and success will crown your efforts. Be cognizant of favors.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)

Don't invite misunderstandings or indulge in day-dreaming. Promote sound progress, good relations with others. Get as much pleasure and leisure out of your day as you need for health's and incentive's sake.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)

Be your self. Don't make work a drudgery. You can do your best when happy. Peace of mind essential. If time permits, a bit of travel will broaden your outlook.

You born today have a vibrant, buoyant personality; are ever ready and willing to do something worthwhile, you are big-hearted, but sometimes balky. You are capable and can handle efficiently a position of trust and importance.

You folks are usually active, easy takers, can sense public needs and know how to sell. Some of our really great actors are and were Leo born. You may have to subdue tendency to dominate, even though you are naturally a progressive leader. Take due orders in stride, also suggestions. We can all learn and improve. Birth-date: Alfred Lord Tennyson, English poet; Daniel O'Connell, Irish statesman.

Russians Offer to Establish Relations With W. Germany With No Strings Attached

BONN (AP) — The Russians have offered to establish diplomatic relations with West Germany with no strings attached.

This was disclosed today with publication of the Russian answer to the Bonn note asking for clarification of the conditions under which Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's visit to Moscow for talks with Soviet leaders would take place. Adenauer is now regarded as certain to go next month.

The Soviet note, delivered Wednesday, said:

"The Soviet government assumes that the establishment of diplomatic, trade and cultural relations between both countries naturally will not be made dependent by either side on any pre-conditions."

The note said the Soviets had no objection to the Bonn suggestion that the Soviet and German ambas-

Sunday School Lesson:

Faith in Tough Times

By ROY L. SMITH

Tough times will do two things for a man's religion. They will either prove to him whether or not he has any good religion, or they will demonstrate the fact that nothing else is quite sufficient. The man who has spent no time or effort in developing a working faith when times were good will find himself sadly lacking in the one thing that times often demand.

WHEN LIFE CLOSES IN

The Hebrews were in a desperately difficult position. Their little kingdom had collapsed, their king was in chains, their beloved capital was in ruins, and their temple had been completely reduced to rubble. They, themselves, were in exile in a strange land with no hope of ever again being an independent people. Moreover, they were compelled every day to endure the taunts of their captors.

The Uniform Sunday school lesson for August 7: "The Exiles in Babylon," Psalms 137:1-6; Jeremiah 29:1-14; Daniel 3.

"Sing us some of your native songs," the people said to them, as if any people could sing in captivity when their hearts were breaking. Perhaps the request was no more than a friendly curiosity. Perhaps it was a cruel way of reminding them of the fact that they were exiles in a strange land where the humiliation was almost unbearable. All day long they could be seen crouched alongside the irrigation canals of Babylon, weeping for their lost liberties and their lovely land.

In their distress, however, they discovered two things: (1) if they resented their loyalty it had the effect of increasing their confidence, and (2) the faith they had neglected was the one thing which gave them courage now.

KEEP LIGHT BURNING

For almost a hundred years, with the exception of an occasional revival, the Hebrews had been neglecting their altars. For long periods of time they had flirted openly with paganism. Under the leadership of highly secular rulers they had assumed a "broad-minded" attitude, and had tried to blend the worship of Jehovah with the word of pagan deities, with the result that when they found themselves at last in exile they had nothing more than a remnant of a faith. A few individuals here and there—psalmists and prophets—labored earnestly to maintain the morale of the people but they had so very little to which an appeal could be made. They had turned out their own lights.

No man ever serves himself better than when he takes time away from the routine of life to build up his faith in the things that are eternal. It is better to lose all of one's fortune than to come down to one's dark days a spiritual bankrupt.

REDEPTIVE MINORITIES

Time and again we have thrilled to the stories of the three Hebrew youths who stood firm, even in a fiery furnace, in defiance of a pagan monarch and in defense of their own faith. But it must be remembered that there were only three such young men among the Hebrews. The vast majority collapsed under the pressure of

Govt. Moves To Tighten Credit On Bank Loans

Fears Economic Boom May Cause Inflation

Carmen Miranda, Suzan Ball Die in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Death, in two guises, has taken two Hollywood actresses whose passing the screen capital mourned today.

A lingering death from cancer claimed the life of Suzan Ball at 21.

A sudden heart attack proved fatal to 41-year-old Carmen Miranda.

Miss Ball, a striking, dark-haired, dark-eyed actress, had suffered from the disease which caused her death since 1953, when she slipped and injured her knee in a dance rehearsal.

Her right leg was later amputated, and valiant Suzan went on to marriage and a resumption of her screen career before the malignancy returned—this time in her lungs.

She died Friday at her home in Beverly Hills.

SPENT DAY DANCING

Miss Miranda also died in her Beverly Hills home—but after a strenuous day spent singing and dancing with the dazzling energy which won her the name as the "Brazilian Bombshell."

Miss Ball's husband, actor Richard Long, had been told by doctors that death was near. But Miss Miranda's husband, producer David Sebastian, had no idea that tragedy was close at hand.

"I never knew before that she had heart trouble," he said Friday. "But now that I look back, there were little things..."

One of these "little things" happened the night before her death, when the tiny, fiery Latin was running through a comedy-musical sequence for a television film with Jimmy Durante. At one point she dropped to one knee, out of breath.

"That's ok, Carmy," said Durante, as cameras continued. "I'll take the line."

An NBC spokesman said no decision has been made as to whether the filmed TV show with Durante will be telecast this fall.

IMPROMPTU PARTY

After the film was completed in time to beat a Santa Barbara strike deadline, she entertained the cast at an impromptu party at her home. Then, after the last guest had gone home, she collapsed.

Miss Ball was already ill from the disease when she and Long became engaged. When they were married in Santa Barbara, Calif., in April, 1954, she walked down the aisle on an artificial limb.

Later she starred in a movie and a live television show, and, with Long, played a song-and-dance act in night clubs in Palm Springs, Calif., Tucson, Ariz., and her native Buffalo, N.Y.

Holding Four Men

TORONTO (CP) — Police in suburban Scarborough said a man was shot and wounded during a disturbance outside the Scarborough House Hotel early today.

Police said the man, unidentified, was taken to hospital where he was undergoing surgery. It was reported provincial police in Dunlop are holding four men in connection with the shooting.

BITTER CLIMATE

PARIS (Reuters) — Both houses of French Parliament adjourned late Friday until Oct. 4, Pierre Schmitter, president of the National Assembly, told deputies before they left. "The climate of respect and tolerance brought about recently allows us to consider the future with confidence."

Today's Chuckle

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopses: The leading edge of the slightly cooler air moving over the province this morning now has become stationary along the lower Great Lakes.

A developing storm in South Dakota will move east and again bring hot, humid air into southern Ontario on Sunday.

TWO-DAY RAIN CHECKS FIRES IN ONT. FORESTS

Storms Lash Province, Heat Wave Continues

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The government, apparently fearing Canada's economic boom may cause inflation, has moved to tighten credit and make it a little tougher for Canadians to borrow money.

Its monetary advisers, the Bank of Canada, Friday night ended its six-month "easy money" policy by boosting its interest charges on loans to chartered banks and other institutions to two per cent from 1½.

While the chartered banks are not frequent borrowers from the central bank, changes in the Ottawa rate usually have a psychological effect on the general money market.

SIGNAL FOR LOANS

When the rate goes up, it is a signal to the lending institutions to tighten up on loans to customers. When the rate goes down, general interest rates drop and lending activity increases.

Thus, the chartered banks whose total loans rose to a near-record $2,250,000,000 on July 29, may reduce lending activity by turning down borderline requests or by increasing lending charges as was done in the United States.

For example, the banks on their own initiative have reduced interest rates on insured mortgages to give 5 per cent from 5½. They can increase the rate if they so desire or reject some applications to reduce the overall loan volume.

PERSONAL LOANS

However, banks have found this a desirable business and it is more likely that cuts may be in the field of personal loans by consumers who borrow to buy goods on time. Federal officials said consumer credit rose sharply in the April-June period of 1955, though figures for this quarter have not yet been published. They said the main rise was in purchases of automobiles on time.

The U.S. took action to curb credit by increasing bank rates last Wednesday. Belgium and West Germany took similar action. Britain, with a booming economy, placed caps on credit seven months ago.

Canadian officials have been watching the situation closely. They say the possibility of inflation in Canada is not imminent, but they are concerned lest the economy, rising too steeply and too suddenly from its 1954 recession, in light of excessive pressure on goods and labor, resulting in price jumps.

ACTOR DROPS DRUGS

NORWALK, Calif. (AP)—Actor Bela Lugosi left Metropolitan State Hospital Friday after three months of treatment for drug addiction. "I'm not going to disappoint those people," said Lugosi, referring to the "new-found friends" who had written him during his period of rehabilitation. Lugosi, once star of horror films such as "Dracula," said he starts work this month on a new movie role.

'Canadian Navy Yet!' Says Mother Of Girl Stowaway on Destroyer

HILO, Hawaii (AP) — Police today reported a new element in the story of an attractive 16-year-old girl who slipped aboard the RCN destroyer Athabaskan and now is cruising to Long Beach, Calif., with 150 Canadian sailors.

Joyce Joan Pilipil, five-foot-five high school senior of Port Huron, Mich., left a farewell note for her parents in Paipalua about July 28.

"Folks, I can't stay here any longer so I'm going away with Bill," it read. "So don't worry."

Police reported this postscript: "Bill wants to take care of me and the baby, so let us do it together."

Joyce's mother, Mrs. Fremelin Pilipil, said she didn't know Bill except that he "worked on one of the ships somewhere."

In Ottawa, a spokesman for the Royal Canadian Navy said the girl followed aboard during a "green house" function. She was discovered in a stern compartment when the destroyer was at sea with her sister ship, the Cayuga.

"As far as we know, no member of the crew of the Athabaskan assisted the girl to conceal herself aboard the ship," the spokesman said. She was placed in "suitable accommodations" and will be turned over to United States officials Sunday at Long Beach.

He expressed belief that Joyce is the first stowaway ever to board a Canadian warship. The two ships are on a summer training cruise.

Mrs. Pilipil commented: "My daughter always wanted to join the service — either the woman marines or the WACS."

"I never the Canadian navy! I really didn't have any idea she had gone so far. Imagine, Long Beach! And the Canadian navy yet! I'll help her all I can, but it's not up to me to repay her. I hope I'm leaving it up to police. I hope she won't want to traipse around again."

Mrs. Pilipil said Joyce is the most spirited of her six children and hardest to control. Joyce's father is a sugar plantation worker.

Short, Vicious Gale Causes Heavy City Property Damage

A short, vicious gale snapped through Belleville yesterday hurling down tree limbs and causing extensive damage in residential areas and momentarily cutting power supplies to sections of the city.

The wind, which registered up to 60-mile-per-hour force in Trenton, whipped through city streets shortly after 2 p.m., hitting the business district during the rush hour.

Sand, picked up somewhere west of the city, was carried along by the gale, turning streets into a swirling dust bowl and sending rush-hour crowds scurrying for cover.

Hydro lines were snapped in several city streets while some thoroughfares were blocked to traffic by fallen tree limbs and power wires.

Most of the damage was sustained in the city's East Hill section.

At 23 Chatham St., residence of Mrs. J. Clarke, a heavy limb crashed down on the front of the house, bringing with it the veranda, roof and damaging the rest of the building itself.

Further north on the street Mrs. Gladys Graziadei, resident of 87 Lingham St., her nine-year-old daughter Gladys and her mother Mrs. Gladys Jones, narrowly escaped serious injury when a heavy branch crashed down on their parked automobile.

"We had just got out of the car and had just got up into the hall when it happened," Mrs. Graziadei, who was leaving her home at the time later recounted.

The Cochrane and Kapuskasing streets were hit by a heavy limb at the corner of Breckley Ave. and Bridge St. East, the centre was a busy hive of activity, preparing for last night's carnival, when the wind struck down.

One youngster had a narrow escape when he tried to pull his bicycle out from beneath a heavy tree as the wind hit. He made his escape seconds in front of a falling limb. The bicycle was totally wrecked.

Supervisors and city recreation director Lloyd Doran headed the youngsters into safety in the centre of the grounds, away from the trees.

Police battled flares behind a sprawling barricade of fallen tree limbs and hydro wires at the corner of George and Bridge streets.

Closest escape was had by Mrs. J. Kilfedder, 88 East Moira street, who missed possible death by seconds when the TV antenna was torn from the roof and fell across a 4,000 volt hydro line outside the door.

The fish was seen even by children playing in the river at the rear of houses.

"We are just lucky to be alive, I guess," stated Mrs. Kilfedder. "I had just turned the television set off and had only time to take two steps toward the door when the TV aerial went down across the hydro wires."

"Our television service man told us that we could have been electrocuted. When I called him and told him what had happened he told us not to touch any metal object and to get the kids out of the house."

There were two major hydro breaks in the city, one at the corner of Pine and Charles streets, and the other at the corner of Catherine and St. James street. In both instances the main line leading from sub stations were put out of commission as the lines were disrupted by falling trees and limbs.

Power was off in much of the west end of the city until the break in the lines at Catherine street was repaired.

Mr. O. H. Scott, utilities commission manager, said other breaks in the city were only local, merely affecting households in the immediate area of the breaks.

REALLY A TWISTER
"It really was a twister while it lasted," Mr. Scott said. "It is surprising what damage can be done by a five-minute wind."

No. 231 John street had a narrow escape from damage when a tree on the collegiate lawn on the east side of the street was sliced by the gale, sending a heavy log onto the front garden of the house and straddling the street with hydro lines. A few yards of lines strained by the gale snapped off the top of a hydro pole.

In a field on Sidney street near the MacFarlane Woodmenware premises, cattle grazed peacefully in a field while a few yards away the lines snapped off the top of a hydro pole.

At the corner of Catherine and Cedar streets a big soft maple on the front lawn at the Winnifred Leslie residence was uprooted and crashed down on the roof of the house, causing a lot of damage to the kitchen and the front of the house.

ARMY, AIR FORCE WRANGLING OVER MISSILE CONTROL

Senior Dept. Officers Refuse to Comment

By DAVE MCINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The army and air force are wrangling, at least in the lower echelons, about two aspects of their future operations. One concerns ground-to-air guided missiles and the other an airborne supply line for the 1st Canadian Infantry Division.

Only guarded references have been made to this under-the-surface squabble at the defence department and none at all by senior officials.

All Defence Minister Campbell has said on the subject is that alternative methods for control of ground-to-air missiles are under consideration and will be studied for some time to come.

JUST ARTILLERY
The army viewpoint apparently is that missiles are just another form of artillery and therefore are the proper responsibility of the army.

The RCAF argument is understood to be that the air force must be responsible for all air defence, whether that be interceptor planes or ground units firing ground-to-air missiles.

In the controversy concerning planes for the army, the soldiers want transports and helicopters to move supplies from rear dumps to the front lines and they want army pilots to fly them.

Some RCAF officers are casting a suspicious eye on this scheme, apparently fearing that the army's new move would be to get into tactical air support for ground troops.

TRAINS A FEW
The army now trains a few pilots as artillery spotters to help force planes transport the army's three-battalion mobile striking force.

In the ground-to-air missile field, the army appeared to get the jump on the air force by sending about 60 soldiers to Texas for training on the American Nike.

These soldiers also participated in cold-weather tests of Nike at Fort Churchill, Man., last winter.

Army officers are understood to feel that anti-aircraft defence has been primarily an army responsibility and that the army should maintain this control in any future war. Some of them fear that if ground-to-air missiles are outside their control army units might not be afforded sufficient protection from air attack.

One of the RCAF's arguments for air force control of ground-to-air missiles is that missiles are radar-controlled and it has a lot of radar operators.

UN ACCUSES REDS
PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP)—The United Nations command has accused the Communists of "innumerable acts of inhumanity toward man" by floating anti-personnel mines to South Korean shores.

Maj.-Gen. Harland C. Parks made the charge at a 90-minute meeting of the Allied-Communist military armistice commission. He said at least six Koreans have been killed and seven wounded by Communist mines.

"I get the best advice I could," Mr. Thompson said. "I went to the attorney-general."

It was the second time Mr. Wismer's name had come up at the hearing. Several days ago Det. Sgt. Archie Plummer testified that Cuthbert told him chief Mulligan had "everything fixed in Victoria."

He said later he was confident he did not mention Mr. Wismer by name and the former attorney-general has asked to testify.

That then Attorney-General Gordon Wismer have the 1949 Cuthbert charges investigated was denied by Wismer who suggested "it was a job for the RCMP."

The RCMP declined, Mr. Thompson testified, and an appeal to Justice Minister Carson in Ottawa was also turned down.

Parsloe, Mr. Thompson said, was hired "on Mr. Wismer's recommendation." The former officer was a security officer with the Port River Co., a post he still holds.

Smuggled Dope Worth $1,000,000 Seized by Police

Arrest of Three Probably Breaks International Ring

TORONTO (CP) — Police believe they cracked an international drug ring operating between European cities and Toronto with the arrest Friday night of two men and a woman and seizure of narcotics valued at about $1,000,000 on the black market.

RCMP and Toronto police said they found five pounds of heroin and one pound of raw opium in a suitcase when they raided a midtown Bathurst street house shortly before midnight.

RCMP Supt. R. S. Carroll said he believed the drug seizure to be the largest in the history of Toronto. Insp. Bert Mac of the Toronto police department estimated it was one of the largest in Canada in 50 years.

The three persons arrested were charged with conspiring to traffic in narcotics. Police identified them as Jacob Rosenblatt, 52, a furniture salesman; Jack Goldhar, an auto salesman; and Hannelore Rosenbloom, 23, a housewife, all of Toronto.

Police said two men rented a room in the house and the drugs were brought there Friday. The supply was earmarked for shipment to drug agents in large Canadian cities, police said, and was to be cut down, diluted and made into thousands of capsules for retail sale to addicts.

Supt. Carroll estimated that the drugs sold in capsule form would bring $100,000.

Police got on the trail of the ring nine months ago when undercover agents discovered that Toronto and Montreal drug addicts were being serviced by a new organization.

Until then all narcotics smuggled into Canada came from Mexico and the United States. Sources of the drugs for the new organization were traced to France and Germany.

Working in cooperation with the international criminal police commission agents of the RCMP went to Europe and picked up the trail of the traffic.

The investigation covered cities in France and Germany and police said the drugs were bought from agents in those two countries who smuggled into this country within the last few years.

The European-Canadian international ring, believed by police to be the first in this country, is reported to have been operating for nearly a year.

NEW COMMANDER
OTTAWA (CP) — Group Capt. B. D. Richer, 44, of Ottawa, has been appointed commander of the air force's No. 1 auxiliary group headquarters in Montreal.

He succeeds Group Capt. F. C. Carling-Kelly, 43, of Toronto, new director of ground training at RCAF headquarters.

Group Capt. Carling-Kelly is a graduate of Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont.

13 FEARED DEAD
LUCKNOW, India (Reuters)—Thirteen persons, mostly women and children, are feared to have been killed in the flooded Amri river near Gorakhpur in East India. They were among 32 persons in a boat that overturned in the fast-flowing river Thursday.

Cuthbert has told of taking bribes and, he says, spilling them with police chief Walter Mulligan, who is on leave of absence pending completion of the hearing.

The superintendent's brother, ex-detective Jack Whelan, corroborated his story by "telling all" the superintendent knew of alleged corruption in the police force.

"My brother left me with a job to do, and I'm going to do it," he said when he learned of his brother's death.

"He had a lot to tell and, believe me, he told it all. It would have been things wide open."

"But I'll tell it," he added. "I'll take the stand and tell it all."

Mrs. Whelan said her husband had been restless all Thursday night after receiving a "mysterious" telephone call.

FALSE ALARM

Changing water pressure which set off the fire alarm took firemen on a false run to J. and J. Cash Company factory Friday night. The exact cause of the false alarm was not determined but firemen said apparently a drop in the water pressure had touched off the alarm bell calling out the reels.

Home Squadron Wins Second
Trophy in Power Regatta

Belleville's power boat regatta neared its close here yesterday with the home squadron winning the Rochester Consolation Cup — its second triumph of the four-day event.

Jack Marshall, skippering his "Jay Gee", came through the test of plying with a total 73 points out of a possible 800 to win the event. Second place honors also was scooped by the home squadron by Dr. J. H. Forrester's "Jane", skippered by Frank Leach. "Jane" had 581 marks on the credit side.

Third was "Marita II", a Toronto entry, skippered by Reg Reid, with a total of 540 points.

The big prize of the regatta, the Van Valkenburg trophy, was taken by an U.S. entry, "Philmor" from Ithaca, skippered by Ed. Latham.

"Philmor" cruised back into harbor yesterday afternoon with 745 points to its credit, while close behind was R. Moser's Buffalo entry, "Bobcat", with 743 points.

The 29-foot "Jane" came third, to take a slice of the honors for Belleville, with Dr. H. Forrester himself steering his craft to a score of 700 points.

Fourth and last in the race was Dr. Brown's "Chaldean", from Toronto.

Yesterday's sudden early afternoon gale caused an hour-long postponement of the run for the Rochester trophy. "Jane" was already out in the bay when the gale struck it at Point Anne, forcing it to turn back.

The race was continued as scheduled after all danger of a squall had passed.

Novelty of the day was a race staged by the distaff side of the regatta entries. The event was won by "Bateau" Clinic, skippered by Lennie Holcombe of Grand Island, N.Y.

Second was "Marita II", skippered by Marie Reid of Toronto, while third was the work horse of the entire boating meet — "Jane" — skippered by Mrs. Jane Forrester.

The regatta comes to an end with the running for the Clayde trophy.

The race started at 11 a.m. today and is open to members of the Canadian power squadrons only.

Entries in the race were: "Martini" of Toronto; "Jane" of Belleville; "Chaldean" of Toronto; "Flamingo II" of Toronto; "Ebb Tide" of Belleville; "Jay Gee" of Belleville; "Jo" of Toronto and "Philmor" of Belleville.

All trophies of the four-day regatta will be awarded at a cruise dinner here tonight.

YPU Softball League Had Good Season

With Holloway and Centenary as representatives of their respective sections, the finals in the South Hastings District Young People's Union Softball League will get underway on the Centenary diamond Monday evening in the first game of a home-and-home series to determine the league championship. The second game will be played Thursday evening on the Holloway diamond.

Twelve teams entered the Y.P.U. softball league this year, the teams being divided into two sections representing the eastern and western sections of the district. Scheduled play got underway June 20th and semi-finals have now been declared with Holloway as the eastern section winner and Centenary winner in the western section.

Teams comprising the Y.P.U. league this year were: Eastern section: Holloway, Plainfield, Bethel Zion, Carmel, Foxboro, Bridge Street, Belleville, College Hill and Bethany. In the western section were King Street, Trenton, Scotts, Centenary, Rawdon Circuit, North Trenton and Stirling.

It was Holloway all the way in the eastern section, the Holloway nine finishing on top in the regular schedule and defeating Foxboro and Plainfield-Bethel-Zion in the semi-finals.

In the western section Rawdon finished on top, won over North Trenton in the first semi-final round and then lost out to Centenary in the semi-final.

Y.P.U. executive members who did an excellent job in planning and organization of the league included Gordon McInroy as chairman, with Evelyn Emerson, Ruth McMullen, Gary Cranston and Ralph Johnson.

Japanese Mark Anniversary
By Bell Tolling

HIROSHIMA, Japan (Reuters)—The bells of Hiroshima rang out in unison this morning over a hot, dusty city to mark the 10th anniversary of the first military use of the atomic bomb.

At 8:15 a.m. monks and priests tolled the bells and beat the drums of Buddhist temples, Shinto shrines and Christian churches throughout the city, marking the precise time of day that an American bomber detonated its atomic weapon in the skies above.

Hiroshima's citizens prayed in silence, wherever they were, and 300 pigeons, released by Mayor Tadao Watanabe, fluttered over a gathering of 10,000 persons attending a memorial service held by the city government.

The service was held in the Hiroshima "Peace Park" around a memorial tablet bearing the names of 58,500 known victims of the explosion of Aug. 6, 1945. The tablet carries the inscription "Rest in peace, for we shall never repeat the mistake."

The monument bears the names only of those known victims of the bomb. Estimates of the total dead vary from the American figure of 170,000 to a Japanese claim of 280,000.

After the ceremony, some 5,000 persons flocked to the new peace centre building to open a world conference against hydrogen and atomic bombs.

Produce Meets
Quick Demand
On Local Market

Abundant produce, offered on the local market this morning, met quick demand, while prices mostly continued steady.

For the first time melons and canteloupes were offered in heavy supply on the market. Canteloupes and melons sold from 10-15 cents, according to size. Blueberries continued at 50 cents a quart, $2.75 a six-quart basket. Apples were 75 cents a basket for Transparent while Melbas were 55 cents and Astrachans sold upwards from 55 cents.

Plums brought 75 cents a basket and 25 cents a quart for Shiros. Blue raspberries were 50 cents a quart, while Everbearing strawberries were 35 cents a pint. Missouri transplants were 30 cents a quart while cherries continued at $1 a basket for Montmorencies, without stems.

Tomatoes were down to 50 cents a basket on one or two stalls, but popular price was 75 cents a basket. Corn sold between 30-35 cents according to size and quality. Cauliflowers were 30-35 cents apiece while cabbage sold upwards from 10 cents a head. Cucumbers were up to 60 cents a basket, according to size, while dills were 40 cents to $1.25 a basket. Pepper and pepper squash were 10 cents apiece, while onions and beets continued at 10 cents a bunch. Marrows were 10-35 cents apiece and carrots 15 cents a quart, 50 cents a basket. Potatoes were 50 cents a basket, $2.75 a bushel. Beans were 15 cents a quart.

Gladioli were $1 a dozen. A small offering of fresh, dressed whitefish was 45 cents a lb. On the inside market, egg prices hit a new high at 75 cents for extra large, 70 cents for large and 60 cents for medium. Poultry prices were steady at 50 cents for fowl and 55 cents for spring chickens.

Pilot Credited With Saving Lives of 68

CHICAGO (AP)—Skilful piloting was credited with saving the lives of 68 persons in a Northwest Airlines plane accident last Friday.

The pilot, Capt. George A. Stone of Minneapolis, had just landed his four-engine strato-cruiser at Midway airport when he noticed that his propellers would not reverse. He worked the brakes frantically but their power was insufficient to halt the big plane, normally slowed by the propeller reversing mechanism.

"When I saw the rigid arrow markers, landing lights and gasoline stations at the corner of the field," Stone told a reporter, "I applied full left rudder."

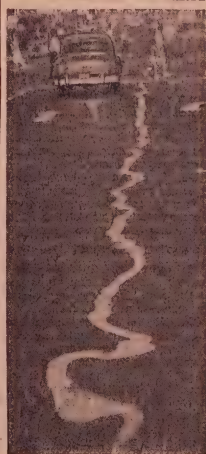

The big plane veered from the runway, drove through a steel wire fence which served to partially stop it, and rolled into the middle of Central Avenue, narrowly missing a car.

The 62 passengers and crew of six were evacuated quickly, some through emergency chutes extending from the plane.

Capt. Ralph Gray of Minneapolis credited Stone's actions with averting a possible major tragedy.

Little relief from the most sustained drought in Eastern Canada in 40 years is held by the weatherman. The next 30 days promise only more heat for most of the B.C. border. Southern Ontario crops have already wilted along with citizens and the rainless weather may spell ruin to thousands of acres of grain and vegetables. Even the prairies which enjoyed a good early growing season is expected to feel the full force of drought and heat.

Babe Zaharias Starts New Cancer Fight

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Babe Didrikson Zaharias, woman athlete of the century, has developed a second cancer but "firmly expects to return to golf."

George Zaharias, her husband, Friday night said doctors at John Sealy Hospital here found a "small cancer lesion" on the right side of the sacrum (posterior of the pelvic girdle). X-ray treatments have been started.

Zaharias quoted the doctors as saying the treatments will stop the pains she has been suffering in her right hip and leg in about 10 days. No surgery is contemplated at the time.

Mrs. Zaharias underwent surgery for rectal cancer in 1953. Her athletic career, which has spanned more than two decades and included just about every sport in the books, then appeared at an end. However, the operation was believed to have completely removed the cancer and the Babe returned to the golf tournament trail. She won several tournaments, including the national Open last year.

Since 1953 Mrs. Zaharias has been reporting here for periodic checkups. Earlier this spring she complained of pains in her back and legs, and entered the hospital in May. She was found to have a ruptured spinal disc and underwent corrective surgery.

The surgery failed to stop the pains, and doctors started looking for new causes.

The big ex-dresser's voice softened as he told of breaking the news to his plucky wife.

"She never flinched when told she had another cancer," he said. Then he said she added:

"This is my greatest battle."

'Sashay' Wins Freeman Cup Race
As 10 Yachts Run Aground in Fog

PRESQU'ILE POINT (Special)—The "Sashay" of the Youngstown Yacht Club, won the annual Freeman Cup Race for the fourth consecutive time Friday as it led 38 starters across the finish line here.

The race, which started off Burlington pier Thursday noon, was laid over a course from Burlington to Port Dahousie to Presqu'ile.

Ten of the starters went aground off Presqu'ile early Friday morning in dense fog and did not figure in the final tabulations. Navigation in the fog and without the aid of the Scotch Bonnet light which had been out for three days, was extremely difficult. Flares from the 60-foot lighthouse of Rochester, which had to be towed off a shoal by an RCAF launch, were credited with warning several other boats away from shallow water.

Skipper E. L. "Bud" Doyle and his crew sailed "Sashay" over the 122-mile course in 16 hours, seven minutes and 51 seconds on corrected time for a new record.

Last night skipper Doyle received the coveted Louise Freeman trophy at a reception given by the Presqu'ile Yacht Club at Jack Wilson's summer home on the lakefront. Mr. Doyle's boat is an Owens' design and competes in the C.C.A. Division I class.

WELL IN FRONT

The race went well until darkness fell and fog blanketed the lake in the region of Scotch Bonnet at the approach to Brighton Bay.

However, trouble never really brewed until 2:30 a.m. Friday when John Van Voorhis' 60-foot yacht the "Metina" went aground. The Rochester boat was well in front at the time. Except for an accident it appeared that Judge Van Voorhis would be the new Freeman Cup holder.

Fale had other ideas as the Metina caught hard and fast on a hidden shoal hidden in the pea soup fog and darkness.

Although he lost the race Judge Van Voorhis is credited with saving three other craft from a similar fate. He could see silhouettes of opposing boats through the fog in the moonlight. He sent up red flares warning them away from shoals. They turned in time to miss the underwater obstruction. Nine other craft not in range of the signals fouled on bottom and failed to finish.

A spokesman for the Lake Yacht Racing Association reported that part of the trouble was believed to be due to yachtsmen being unable to locate Scotch Bonnet light not in operation for three days. In addition the Presqu'ile lighthouse's low intensity beam was observed to be burning but was not seen by most of the racing boats.

Wheat Acreage
Lowest in West
Since 1943

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's western wheat farmers this year may reap a better-than-average crop although the amount of land sowed to wheat is estimated as the smallest in 12 years.

The bureau of statistics estimated Friday that the 1955 area planted to wheat is down to 21,504,000 acres, the lowest since 1943. The total compares with 24,286,000 planted in 1954 and the 24,953,000 average for the 1944-53 decade.

However, officials here say farmers may harvest a better-than-average crop because of anticipated above-average years.

The bureau said that while wheat acreage is down there has been a major swing to coarse grain plantings. Rye acreage is estimated at the lowest in eight years, but the barley area is placed at an all-time high, and there are sharp increases in acreages of oats and flaxseed.

This accent on coarse grain production should make considerable quantities of cattle feed available for central Canadian farmers hit badly this year by drought.

COME TO THE SAVIOUR

Come to the Saviour, make no delay:
 Here in His word He's shown us
 the way:
 Here in our midst He's standing
 today,
 Tenderly saying, "Come!"
 "Suffer the children!" Oh, hear His voice,
 Let every heart leap forth and rejoice,
 And let us freely make Him our choice,
 Do not delay, but come.
 Think once again, He's with us today:
 Heed now His blest commands, and obey;
 Hear now His accents tenderly say,
 "Will you, my children, come?"

A Lift For Living Pure Motives Are Rare

By DR. RALPH W. ROCKMAN

It is hardly true to say that family life is motivated purely by love. A young woman once said to me that when her ministers talk about mother love as ideal and unselfish we are picturing a situation unreal and unknown to her.
 Family ties are woven of several strands — love, comfort, convenience, security, fear. A few years ago the English novelist A.S.M.
 Hutchinson in his book, "This Freedom," portrayed a wife who felt that her husband had married mainly for a home where he could have his comforts, his books, his possessions — a place he could escape to. He on his part, felt that his wife had married to have a place she could step out of — with a securety her unmarried women competitors in the careers did not possess.

And what are the motives which lead to our friendships? Some people we almost instinctively like.
 Others we like to be seen with.
 Some of our companions we choose because we can help them, and some because they can help us.
 The golden bonds of friendship contain in all these motives.

MIXED MOTIVES

And why do we come together in our community associations?
 Again our motives are mixed. Most of us have an instinct for neighborliness. We join in neighborhood activities in order to escape loneliness, to find recreation, to support welfare organizations. Often we organize in our communities to protect property values, to keep out bad influences, and sometimes to keep out undesirable newcomers.

And consider our associations as citizens of our nation. We believe that party government is essential to preserving a free society. Hence we join political parties which express our convictions. But when we analyze our party affiliations, do we not have to admit that sometimes we are prompted not by sincere desire for what is best for the country as a whole, but by what promises best to serve our own group's interest. Many of us simply vote with the party to which our family and friends belong.

What about our motives in international relationships? Are we working for a new world order out of desire for security, out of fear of some foreign foe, out of hatred of some nation, or out of sympathy for the distressed and displaced peoples of the earth?
 Why do we join together in churches? Is it for fellowship, because in church friends can be more safely shared than in other circles? Is it for comfort, because the church has the divine keys of consolation? Is it for security, because the church helps to safeguard our society from subversive influences like communism and promises salvation for the life to come? Is it for the opportunity of service, because the church is the longest and strongest lever for lifting the burdens of a distressed world?

As we look at our own reasons for forming our associations, we see that our motives are very mixed.
 What then?
 Danger tests us.
 Danger tests and sifts the mixture of motives which prompts our actions. Danger reveals a fear based on self-interest. When the odds go heavily against us we grow frightened, and each seeks to save his own skin. Fear which stems from self-interest fails to hold men together.

Fear has a legitimate role to play in life. Like pain, it is a sentinel which warns of danger. But when fear moves into the seat of command it heightens the danger.
 Fear makes us so self-conscious that we cannot see objectively.
 Fear crows the conscience and per-verts moral judgments. Fear weakens our efficiency, even our health, through prolonged anxiety. A year if the meeting of the leaders proves to have changed the international climate it may fear to trust. We hope and pray it will be so.

Also, you and I had better hold a conference at the summit — that is, with God. And here are the words to open it: "Search me, O God, and know my heart. Try me and know my thoughts."

Who Was This?

By A. A. M.

What was the name of the Israelite whose eleven brothers feared him because he was a powerful Prime Minister in Egypt, and they thought he might get even with them for the injustice they had done to him as a youth? Their father had just died, and the brothers said one to another, "It may be that our brother will hate us and pay us back for all the evil which we did to him."
 They sent a messenger to this Israelite, saying, "Before he died, our father commanded, 'Say to your brother, Forgive the transgressions of your brothers and their sin, because they did evil to you. Now, we pray you, forgive our transgressions.'"
 This Israelite wept when his brothers spoke thus to him. They came in and fell down before him.
 In Eastern style, bowing low, and saying, "Behold we are your servants."
 Then this brother replied, "Fear not, for I am in the place of God.
 As for you, you meant evil against me; but God meant it for good, to bring it about that many people should be kept alive, as they are to-day." In these words he referred to his own wise planning under God's direction. He had grain stored in Egypt in the years of plentiful harvest, which could be used in the years of famine.
 Then he repeated, "So do not fear: I will provide for you and for your little ones." Thus he reassured a and comforted his brothers.
 He lived to be a hundred and ten years old and saw his children and his children's children and the third generation grow up around him. When he died his body was embalmed. His parting message to his brothers was,
 "I am about to die, but God will visit you and bring you out of this land which he swore to Abraham, to Isaac and to Jacob."
 Find this man's name and read this story in Chapter 50 of Genesis, Verses 15 to 26.

For Parents Only

Avoid Sun Burn And Poison Ivy

By NANCY CLEAVER

The poet may write of "the kiss of the sun", but a mother wants to protect her child from sunburn.
 Play in the sunshine is valued by parents because they know that the ultra-violet rays of the sun provide the cheapest form of vitamin D.
 This vitamin prevents rickets and builds up resistance to colds and other infections.
 But fair and red-haired children sometimes receive a bad sunburn when on a holiday, and a brunette can get an uncomfortable burn. A few precautions are important, especially for the very small child acquiring a sun-tan. The sun's rays are strongest during the hours in the middle of the day and on very hot days a child should be kept out of the direct sunshine at that time.
 Some protection for the head — a cap or hat of some kind, should be worn.

TAN GRADUALLY

It is best to acquire a tan gradually, starting with a short period in the sun and lengthening the time by a few minutes each day. Even on a cloudy day, a child can get a burn. There are various soothing preparations which may be comforting and helpful to a burned skin, but "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure". Cream, vaseline, or sun-tan oil rubbed into the skin before exposure help to conserve the natural oils in the skin and prevent sunburn.
 Poison ivy infection is no joke!
 Some children are extremely sick with it. The rash covers their body and they have to be kept in bed.
 Others suffer from itching and inflammation on the part of the skin which has been affected. The oil on poison ivy is on all parts of the plant all year round. Poisoning can result from touching shoes rugs or even a dog which has been in contact with poison ivy.
 The first sign of infection is a reddening of the skin and an itchy feeling. In a day or two small water blisters will appear, which gradually swell and break. The liquid from these sores may transmit the poisoning to another person unless great care is taken with this last stage of the infection. The general health is upset to a greater or less degree for a time by ivy poisoning.

AVOID POISON IVY

Every child should be taught to recognize and avoid poison ivy, and also the less common poison sumac (or poison oak) and the bright scarlet leaves in the Autumn). Stinging nettle, although troublesome, is not as serious in its effect as poison ivy. Poison ivy may climb as a vine on trees or fences or stand erect in the fields or woods. The leaves are sometimes large, sometimes small, but they are always in groups of three smooth leaves, mostly ovate, pointed entirely or with a few irregular points. The green is bright above, with a waxy appearance and pale and hairy underneath. In the Autumn it changes to a rich red color. The small, inconspicuous flowers appear from April to June, are white or green and are hidden beneath the leaves. The hard, greenish white or cream berries stay on the plant all winter.

TREATMENT

If exposed to poison ivy, treatment should begin at once. Wash the affected parts in running water with a thick lather of strong laundry soap. If rubbing alcohol is available, wash thoroughly with it after the soap treatment. A five per cent solution of ferri-chloride dissolved in water and glycerine in equal proportions is also recommended for immediate treatment. A weak solution (three per cent) of potassium permangan-ate dabbed on the exposed parts is also a good idea. The stain from this on the skin will disappear in a few days and is much to be preferred to ivy infection.

A first aid kit is an asset and in addition to a solution for poison ivy, the following articles are useful contents of such a cabinet: 1 oz.
 pkg. absorbent cotton, 1 pkg. sterile gauze dressings, 1 roll 1" adhesive tape, 1 roll 2" bandage, 1 roll 1" bandage, 1 bottle antiseptic solution, 1 kidney basin, 1 pair socks, 1 pair pajamas, 1 box baking soda, table salt, 1 cake of laundry soap, 1 glass tumbler, 1 doz. paper towels, 1/2 doz. paper bags, 1 dozen paper cups.

Bulletins From Birdland

SIMILAR EYELIDS

Birds' eyes are of many more colors than ours. They may be black, white, brown, red, gold, and so on. The eye rings vary too, some being quite fancy looking,
 and even the eyelids of a few birds are curiously colored. Cuckoos are good examples of this last attribution: the yellow-billed has yellow and the black-billed has red eyelids.

This black-billed cuckoo and the killdeer plover are very, very unlike, but they have three points in common: red eyelids, similar coloring of plumage, and loud, carrying voices. The cuckoo is an 11 1/2-inch song bird, with silky, clinging feathers, olive brown on top, and whitish below. Its extremely long, beautiful, grey-brown tail is trimmed with small, white scallops.
 The flight of a cuckoo is characteristic — it seems to sink noiselessly from the thick foliage of one tree to the inner branches of another. Heavy shrubbery is preferred, and so we see it more seldom than we hear its loud "kew, kew,"

"kew," call, or the lengthy "kuk, kuk".
 Cuckoos begin quite naked, but in less than a week the black skin is hidden under what appear to be bristles. These are pulled out by the tiny bird itself, and fluffy feathers can be seen. Although unable to fly for some time, two or three days later it is able to climb about the branches of its home bush.

FAVORITE HAUNT

The killdeer plover is classed in with shore birds, although it does not necessarily live on a shore. Its favorite haunts are plowed farm land, pastures, and barrens. Stony ground suits it well because its large, blatched eggs are then "hidden in plain sight" — the look just like the stones, and are laid in a hollow in the ground. A spot near some conspicuous object is often chosen such as particularly large stone.

The special charms of this brown, 10-inch bird are the two dark bands about the neck and chest which show up clearly on the white underparts, and the large orange patch of feathers on the lower part of the back and top of tail. A long trill, given at breeding time and a vociferous "kill-dee" call of alarm often give away its location.
 Killdeer infants are equipped to run around as soon as they break

EMBRACING ANTIQUITY

A recently published "Quick History of Canada" begins in the year 1,000 A.D. Herjulf, a Norseman sailing from a Norse colony in Iceland to pay a Christmas visit to his father in Greenland, got off course in a fog and sailed on to sight some unidentified part of the Canadian coast," reads this "quick history."

It is not pertinent at this time to comment on the excellence of Herjulf's navigation or the density of North Atlantic fogs. However, either Herjulf was a dreadful navigator, or North Atlantic fogs were dreadfully thick at Christmas time in 1,000 A.D. for a stalwart Viking to aim at Iceland and discover Canada.

This history continues by stating that Herjulf did not land "but fellow countryman Lief Ericson heard of Herjulf's experience and later crossed the Atlantic to spend a winter at a place he called Vineland, probably Nova Scotia."

The next entry describes John Cabot's landing on Cape Breton Island in 1497 leading to the speculation that Lief's countryman may have heard of his winter in Canada. Descriptions of Canadian winters by early settlers were such that one can believe it might take nearly 500 years for its account to fade from national memory of even such hardy souls as Vikings.

This tendency of Canadian historians to invest Canadian history in a mantle of Norse legend has become stronger in the past few decades. As Canada rushes rapidly forward to new wonders in this age of science and progress her history is rushing backwards to embrace an antiquity that is tenuous at best.

Herjulf and Lief Ericson are semi-historical characters in Norse sagas. Their deeds of daring-do are as well authenticated as the seating arrangement around King Arthur's round table. No physical evidence remains of any visit to Nova Scotia by Lief Ericson. The fact that Norsemen had colonies in Iceland in the year 1,000 A.D. lends substance to supposition that they might have ventured beyond Iceland to the Canadian shores.

For many years there has been an attractive theory that Norsemen penetrated North America to Minnesota by way of Hudson's Bay hundreds of years before French and Portuguese fishermen began using the Canadian coast as a base for summer fishing expeditions. This enchanting fable has been supported by an allegedly authentic Runic stone found in Minnesota. Maps outlining the course which such early explorers might have taken bring them to the heart of the continent easily. Drill holes in stones which might have been used to moor the Norsemen's boats have been the object of intensive searchings.

There is no good reason why the honor of discovering Canada should not go to the Norsemen except that at the moment there is not enough evidence to prove they did. Jacques Cabot's reward for discovering Canada for Henry VII was £10 and a place in history. There is little that can be done at this late date to recover King Henry's £10 but until something more concrete than a vague reference in a Norse saga establishes Herjulf's and Lief Ericson's claims to fame, Cabot should not be denied the honor of discovering Canada, even by a "quick history."

NUISANCE TAX FOR NUISANCES

Saskatoon city council is debating the issue of licensing cats.

It is presumed the debate is on the amount of the proposed licence and not on the merits of licensing versus extermination.

So far suggestions have been in favor of a $2 licence for females and a $1 licence for males—a discrimination that can be explained only if one realizes that a majority of the Saskatoon council is male.

Licensing cats is an eminently sensible idea. Dogs have been licensed for years even though the thought of licensing "man's best friend" seems incongruous. Why should cats escape the registration that plagues dogs and gives the dog catcher a list of telephone numbers?

It may be argued that a cat licence is merely a nuisance tax. Well, cats are a nuisance so why not tax them? Indeed, cats are such a nuisance that it is a wonder they were not taxed long before this. No dog, baying at the moon and grieving for lost savagery in the days when dogs tore cats asunder, or barking that, chased them up trees, is ever the nuisance that a lovesick tom is serenading his lady loves from the back fence at 2.00 a.m.

Cats also kill birds—which may or may not be a mark against them depending on what you think about birds. Cats are also very sly things that slink along hedges threatening nestlings. Usually they are so well fed on special cat foods and, in cases of less majesty, on table scraps, to bother with mice and rats. Goldfish, canaries and delicate potters are in constant danger in an atmosphere haunted by cats.

Fitting cats on a leash is a practice that has not enjoyed general favor because cats are usually more strong willed than their owners. That, of course, does not detract at all from the soundness of such an idea, except that cats are reluctant to promenade when attention might be diverted from their charm and beauty to the holder of their leash.

However, with a leash, a tag—preferably a large heavy one—and a bell to warn birds, cats would be extremely vulnerable to long swims over deep water.

Cats probably have their admirers and it would be well to dispense with violent means of control. Licensing, as a non-violent means of keeping cats in their place, is about as good a method of controlling them as any.

WHAT SHE LEARNED

Of course I didn't know when we married years ago that his hat upon a chair every evening was his thing, that his paper on the floor would be left for all to see, and so much of picking up after him would fall to me.

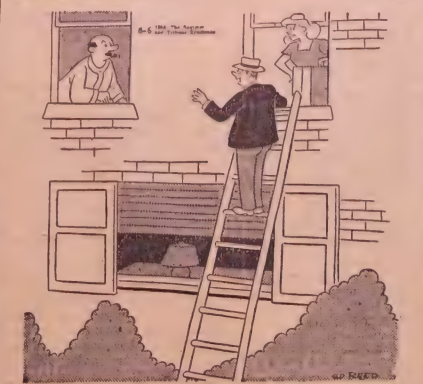

I didn't know back then, when I took him for a spouse, I'd be married to a man who is useless round the house.

But I've followed him about, putting things where they should be.

I've hung up his hat and coat; I've kept the bathroom fit to see. I've late to change him now. We are both a bit too old; I wouldn't even try, for his chuckle when I scold.

Belleville Market Prices: Eggs, No. 1 grade, 20 cents to 23 cents per dozen; pullet eggs, 17 cents to 18 cents per dozen; butter 23 cents to 25 cents per pound; chickens 60 cents to $1.10 per pair; broilers 60 cents to 70 cents per pair; chickens per basket 50 cents to 70 cents; raspberries per box 10c to 15c; gooseberries 10c per quart; huckleberries per quart 15c; red currants per box 15c; lake salmon per pound 16c; pike per pound 8c to 9c; mudcats per pound 12c; white fish per pound 16c; new corn per bushel 15c to 20c; new potatoes per peck 15c.

From our file copy at this time in 1885: Pictures have been taken of the interior of Christ Church as it appeared when decorated for the service of the Thanksgiving Service which was attended by many of the officers and men who had returned home at the close of the Northwest or Riel Rebellion. The Rev. E. W. Sibbald is the rector of the parish.

Mr. Kent Chadwick of Toronto spent the week-end at his home here.

Miss K. Daly of Saint John, N.B., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Woodley, Catherine Street.

Miss Violet M. Osier has returned home from Montreal where she spent her vacation. The Stockdale Old Boys and Girls Reunion which was held on Monday was a great success. It is estimated that the attendance was close to four hundred. On Sunday the United Church was filled and a large number of former residents were present. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. J. F. Lane. An excellent dinner was served at noon on Monday by the Women's Association of the United Church. And the same organization also served a most enjoyable supper. Old timers attending the reunion made speeches at the dinner and supper. Visitors were present from Toronto, New York City, Buffalo and other places in the United States and Ontario and, of course, from communities in various parts of the country.

30 YEARS AGO

Mr. E. F. Benjamin of Chicago, Ill., is visiting relatives here during the reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McCourt of Chicago, Ill., are here for the reunion.

Miss Stella M. Ford, secretary of the Daily Intelligencer, is spending her vacation at Crow Lake.

Mr. Frank Collins of Peterborough is a visitor here for the reunion.

Mr. William McGie is home from Ford, Ontario, for the reunion.

Mr. John T. Hemery of Saskatchewan, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hutchinson during the reunion.

Dr. Alex. Embury of Old Bedford is here to enjoy the Old Boys' Reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lynch, Church Street, can claim the greatest number of relatives here for the Old Boys' Reunion; they number fifty and although they cannot entertain all at one time under their roof, they have done so in instalments.

Many of the old boys have visited Sask., the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Roy at his home and they have greatly enjoyed talking over old times with him. Mr. Roy is a real old Belleville boy.

Mr. Howard Holden of San Francisco, California, is visiting his sister, Mrs. J. O. Hagerman, Trent Road.

Mr. Sam J. Mills, who is well known here, has been appointed assistant general manager of MacArthur Bros., contractors, Chicago.

Says Marlowe Wrote Plays

(Hamilton Spectator)

When midsummer comes around we know that Shakespeare's plays are packing theatres, and festivals are flourishing, someone always comes along with a theory that pretends to show that the Stratford-on-Avon malt merchant and debt collector did not write the plays that bear his name. This character assassination has been going on for almost a century.

The controversy began in 1856 when Sir Francis Bacon was the candidate, but since then the names of other Elizabethans including even Queen Bess herself have been proposed.

For many years the Baconians suggested that their hero was a species of Tudor Rosicrucian who had littered the plays and sonnets with secret ciphers. To many, however, this was a far-fetched theory.

Others seemed to be like stretching a shoe to fit a foot, while the supposed interpolation of phrases in certain plays intended to convey a message to other members of a Rosicrucian order, seemed far-fetched.

One of the most persistent investigators of the Shakespeare puzzle is G. K. Hunter. He seems to jump into the headlines every summer with his theory that the plays and sonnets were written by Christopher Marlowe, the brilliant Elizabethan poet and playwright who, history tells us, was murdered in a tavern brawl in Deptford in 1592, four months before the first of Shakespeare's plays was produced.

Marlowe had, at short time before, expressed strong views on religion contrary to those held by Elizabeth. Mr. Hoffman believes that he was not really murdered but was smuggled away to France, where he later returned to the country home of his patron, Walsingham, to write in rustic seclusion. During this time William Shakespeare was paid for the use of his name and for keeping the secret, so the theory goes.

Mr. Hoffman believes that the original manuscripts of the plays may be lying in the tomb of Sir Francis Walsingham at St. Dunstons Park in Kent and he is hoping to get permission from the present rector to open it. The previous rector was resolved to oppose opening the tomb, but he died recently and the new rector is thought to be more favourable to the idea.

Mr. Hoffman is an American author and theatre critic who has devoted many years to research on the subject. He has built up a massive array of evidence, convincing that the inquest on Marlowe was sketchy and futile.

While all this is academically interesting, the destruction of a legend will not alter the magnificence of the plays. The evidence that Shakespeare actually wrote them is so strong that the fact that they have always borne his name is a sketchy. Ben Jonson was Shakespeare's friend and there are touching lines he wrote on the playwright's death and the fact that he said he had never seen Shakespeare "blot alone" (though this may be proof that Jonson did not know a fair copy when he saw one). But Marlowe is a more likely candidate than Bacon. Marlowe's poems have a passion and lyrical eloquence that the brilliant intellect and cold, Saturnian heart of Bacon could not have composed, unless he had a split personality and nothing in his career suggests that he did.

Mr. Hoffman hopes to get permission to open the tomb during the next week-end. We do not know whether it will contain any surprises.

The Healing of Varicose Ulcer

One who has swollen, enlarged, prominent, dilated varicose leg veins, or any tendency thereto, as may be indicated by fatigue and leg ache, just such ache, not painful cramp, with swelling of feet and ankles late in the day, had better take steps to prevent the occurrence of varicose ulcer.

Take steps, literally, that is, before we quarrel about that, let me suggest a prophylactic which is beneficial for almost anybody who has begun to drag his or her legs:

Every hour in the day lie on your back and ride an imaginary bicycle upside down for a minute or less. If that's beyond your capacity, then just lie on your back with your legs elevated and resting on or against something, for a minute or less every hour.

Well, then, if even that's beneath your false dignity, just lie on your back and do three or four inflations, while your feet rest on a level higher than your head.

Infusions as in the Belly Breathing exercise, that is, What? You don't know how to do it? How dumb... oh, well, it's never too late to learn.

When you take steps make 'em brisk. Don't stroll saunter, but let's little better than long sitting or standing. Step along briskly as though you were enjoying the walk. If you don't enjoy it, perhaps it is too much for your feeble powers.

On the other hand don't overdo the briskness or liveliness of your walk. A brisk walk pumps stagnant blood out of the overfilled veins of the legs—rhythmic contraction of the leg muscles massages or squeezes the veins, pressing the blood upward, and valves in the veins prevent backflow of the blood between steps.

It is when long sitting or long standing, without enough rhythmic exercise particularly enough walking, permits the leg veins to become overdistended with stagnant blood, that the valves become incompetent, and stagnation (stopping) of blood occurs.

After the vein valves have lost competency the treatment required, aside from prophylactic measures here described and some other measures described in the pamphlet, may be (1) suitable elastic stocking, (2) obliteration of one or more veins by chemical injection, or (3) surgical removal of portions of one or more veins and ligation (tying off) of one or more veins. Which of these methods of treatment is a question the patient's own physician is best qualified to answer.

After varicose ulcer is a consequence of varicose weakness of the veins, successful treatment of ulcer depends upon the effective closing up of treatment of the veins. A piece to follow will describe some practical home remedies for varicose ulcer.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Now that the first gay flare of new cars in their orchid, puce, soup pink, amethyst, blue green, inflammation red and cream combinations is over, and the public has grown accustomed to them, it is time to worry about what next year's cars are going to look like.

It looks to me, a driver of any car so long as it is all dull green or dull blue, as if the designers of those celluloid toilet sets that you used to get as prizes at fair and amusement parks, were to throw rings over the wooden pegs, had got employment with automobile industry. Remember? If you threw three balls and hit the right targets, you got a prize of a beautiful celluloid toilet box, all beautifully designed in the liveliest combinations of celluloid colors, pale, contrasting and slightly nauseous yellow. Even the designs of lines and curves, the contrasts, were exactly like these new two and three tone cars. I bet the celluloid boys have wormed their way up into the automobile industry. And are they ever at home?

Apparently the dealers have lost all pride, all shame. They'll give a customer anything he asks for. Up until a year or so ago, the rule in the automotive industry was that the customer is never right. Take it or leave it. You're lucky to get a car. And you'll take what we've got, see?

But something basic, something critical has happened in the great industry. It looks, from the color of things, as if the customer has got the act of the automobile industry. Yesterday, I saw what doubtless was a beautiful new car. It was a rich buttery cream below, and a sort of tomato soup pink above, and the lid was daffodil yellow. Ten cars later in the stream that passed me (in my dull grey job) came another hot rod hot off the $4,000 assembly line, done up in a color scheme of vermilion and daffodil yellow, with a white top. Zip, zip, zip, they passed, toilet sets, celluloid prizes, all witnesses of the fact that the automotive industry has come to the plight of the automobile industry. And are they ever at home?

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ORDER

It's order that gives perfect movement to the Universe. Look into the heavens at night and imagine what would happen if each star, planet, or other object in space, should suddenly decide to have its own way, and move as it pleased. How long do you suppose it would, or could, move?

The world's safety and peace depend upon order. If a busy man has to assign every hour of his working day to clients, then all must be prompt and help him to fulfill his object of an orderly day. Promptness is highly important.

Amiel, the famous author of Amiel's diaries, once wrote: "The lack of order which makes us slaves; the confusion of today discounts the freedom of tomorrow."

The unmethodical worker has a harmful effect upon every other worker in an organization. Order may well be expressed as the first law of the Universe. It can well be come the first law of each one of us. The whole world with a plan, and who works it out in orderly fashion, comes to the end of his working day with satisfaction and personal pride.

There is strength and economy in order. There is no confusion. To begin the work of the day promptly at the hour assigned means order for the entire day. Tardiness of a few has an evil effect upon all.

To quote Amiel again: "Order means light and peace, inward liberty and free command over one's self. Order is power."

So much rests upon the individual. I am a slave with the way of the stop-lights, regulating traffic in a city are obeyed. It means order to do so, but it also means perhaps your own safety, you who drive a car, or move on foot. Order affects us all to some important extent. A harmful habit messes up the working of the mind by confusing it and defeating its natural order. Order saves so much.

BUILDING UP CHARACTER

There is a way in which practically everything we have in life is given to us. We did not create the sunshine or the atmosphere. We lay up treasures for ourselves to the extent that we are able with firmness to say No to what is evil and to say Yes to what is good. Self-denial and faith constitute the currency by which we buy our place in the realm of the ethical.

It takes positive and negative electricity to produce a current. It takes faith and self-control to produce moral character. What God gives us and what we buy with our self-control our souls to be what they are.

But it is also necessary for us to remember that although most of life's good things are given us, it is also true that everything has a price mark upon it. We get as much education as we are willing to work for.

Australian's Reminder

(Montreal Star)

"Too often the thoughtless give voice to the question, 'Of what practical use is a Bachelor of Arts degree?' The answer ought to be obvious, but it requires people like Sir Douglas Copland, Australian high commissioner to Canada, to remind us from time to time that a broad curriculum embracing literature, history, philosophy and the like is an essential in an increasing technological world.

To the arguments that the cost to many students is too high and that, anyway, life is so short, Sir Douglas has the answer. He has never been impressed by the argument that we cannot afford the costs of an educational process appropriate to the demands of our world. No country in the Western world is spending enough on education."

Specialization, yes, but built on a knowledge of good works with ample room for fostering faith "in a world of doubt."

Canadian Currency Tough on Counterfeiters

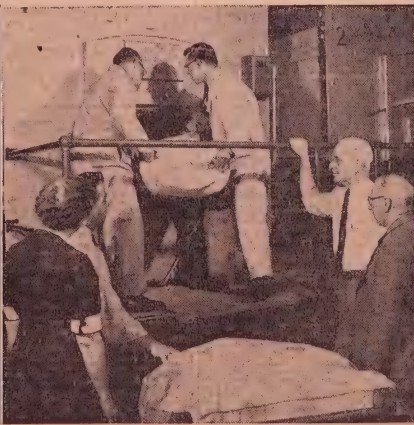

Crisp bundles of five-dollar bills, signatures added, are put through an electronic note-counting machine by Bank of Canada employee, Norma Day (left). Bank of Canada handles issue of all Canadian currency, Government bonds and securities.

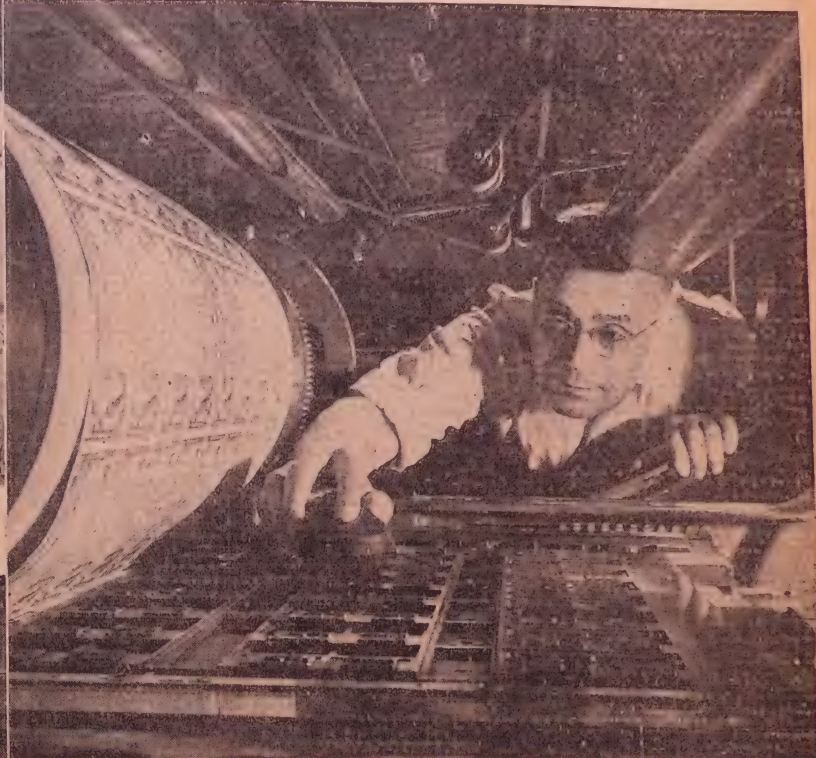

Currency division of Bank of Canada destroys old and damaged bank notes, which are withdrawn from circulation and burned. Average life of one dollar note is 8 months. Here, tellers count out stacks of $50,000 to be destroyed.

Gold delivery is checked into the Bank of Canada's sub-basement vaults, which also hold coins, notes, as well as bonds and securities. Prior to Bank of Canada's establishment in 1935, chartered banks issued their own currency.

One and one-half million dollars of old currency withdrawn from circulation, are thrown into incinerator. Utmost security surrounds the two daily burnings when an average of $3 million dollars in redeemed bank notes go up in smoke.

Though many European countries lay claim to the introduction of paper currency, the forerunner of today's dollar bill dates back to the early Chinese. To spare merchants from carrying heavy sacks of gold and valuables, a Chinese emperor, 600 years B.C., came up with the idea of crediting them with the value of their assets on pieces of paper.

Today, the folding money in your pocket has developed from an easily forgeable slip of paper into the almost impossible-to-duplicate modern bank note. In the unceasing war against counterfeiters, design, engraving, intermingled colours, even the distinctive "crackle" of the paper itself, have been put there to foil the efforts of would-be bogus-money makers.

Canada's most recent issue of bank notes is considered to be among the toughest to counterfeit of any in the world. Simplicity of design and the "feel" of the new notes are two safeguards... though others designed to protect against "phonies" are still kept secret. The bills are printed under strict security by two Ottawa firms (the British American and Canadian Bank Note Companies) on instructions of the Bank of Canada.

The new designs are almost free of ornamentation. Old-style type-faces have been exchanged for simpler characters. Using two-color offset lithography and printing from engraved steel plates, the new notes get their distinctive feel from being printed dry on special paper under heavy pressure. To duplicate them, the amateur money-maker would need large, expensive custom-built presses along with the skills of engravers, printers and lithographers.

Though the bills, printed 24 to a sheet in bundles of 500 sheets, make an imposing sight, they're not legal tender until, as a final step (above), the Bank of Canada adds the signatures of its governors, J. E. Coyne and J. R. Beattie.

Was Not Person Who Paid Fine Says Breithaupt

MIDLAND, Ont. (CP)—Lieutenant-Governor Breithaupt of Ontario said today he isn't the person who paid a $1 parking fine here Thursday.

A man representing himself as Mr. Breithaupt called on police chief William Nicholas about a parking ticket issued Friday July 29.

He said he was the lieutenant-governor. Asked for identification, he said he hadn't any. The police demanded and got the $1.

From Penetanguishene today Mr. Breithaupt telephoned he has been holidaying in northern Ontario, weeks and is embarrassed by the inaccurate reports.

The tag was made out to licence plate No. 1002, a blue Chrysler four-door sedan.

The registrar of motor vehicles' office said in Toronto the lieutenant-governor has three vehicles, tagged respectively 1001, 1002, 1003.

Farmers Face Prospect Of Buying Feed

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Many western Ontario farmers face the prospect of having to buy hay for cattle feed this winter, an agriculture official said Friday.

Glen Johnson, assistant agriculture department representative for Middlesex County, said farmers expecting to take off a second crop of hay this summer are going to be seriously short of winter feed for cattle.

Continued hot weather has burned hay fields so that in many cases a second hay crop has been destroyed, Mr. Johnson said. Normally farmers cut a field twice for hay.

Chrysler Plant May Shut Down

WINDSOR (CP)—A small group of skilled trades workers at the Chrysler Corporation of Canada plant will meet Sunday to consider what action they will take in a long-standing contract dispute which may force a shut-down of the 10,000-man plant.

The workers, numbering about 700, have threatened to halt work after Aug. 14 unless their special contract demands are resolved to their satisfaction.

Meanwhile, the company Friday announced shipment of new passenger cars for the first seven months of the year have broken all previous corporation records.

A corporation statement said 61,449 new cars were shipped from Windsor from Jan. 1 to July 31, an increase of 12,424 over the 49,025 cars shipped during the entire year of 1954.

Sales during the first six months of this year showed an increase of 83.9 per cent in new car registration over the same period in 1954.

Calls for Tenders

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Hydro-Electric Power commission Friday called tenders for the supply, construction and delivery of structural steel required for the St. Lawrence power project powerhouse at Cornwall.

Closing date for tenders is 4:40 p.m. EDT, next Aug. 23.

Required delivery dates: Anchor bolts not later than May 1, 1956; all other material for the erection bay and administration building not later than Sept. 1, 1956; all other material for the switchgear structure not later than April 1, 1957.

Child Plunges From Gangplank At Vancouver

VICTORIA (CP)—Stuart Swan, a 2½-year-old Ontario boy who plunged 22 feet from a gangplank at the Canadian Pacific Steamships dock here Thursday, was reported in fair condition Friday after undergoing a four-hour brain operation.

Stuart, the son of Rev. and Mrs. Carl Swan of St. Catharines, suffered a serious skull fracture in his fall. The parents, Stuart, and a second child, Graham, 5, were disembarking from the CPR passenger ship Princess Marguerite when the accident occurred.

Family Plan Boosts Tourist Trade

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

It's a wry answer Miami Beach hotel men give when asked what they're going to do about all the maraonism competition. We heard it over lobster salads from Robert Leggett, who is resident manager of one of the beach's hostels.

"About 25 years ago there were only two hotels on the beach," he said. "When the owners heard that someone was starting a new 100-room house, they summoned each other to an 'emergency' meeting to discuss how they were going to cope with the competition."

If an emergency meeting were called every time someone started a new hotel in Miami Beach these days, the city probably would be in a state resembling martial law.

During a two-week sojourn there with the kids this summer, we saw several new models progress from steel skeletons to open-for-business signs. A 99-year lease at $60,000 a year was signed for another motel site, and work progressed steadily on no less than three new super-luxury hotels determined to out-legend what has already become the world's youngest living legend, the palatial Fontainebleau.

All this in midsummer, no less, when Miami Beach resort hotels used to be haunted houses. What's going on?

FABULOUS LAND
The simple truth is that Miami Beach pretty well lives up to its own advertising as America's most fabulous resort land, particularly for those who prefer other than a vacation of suspended animation.

It's more by weight of numbers than by any single attraction that this is accomplished. The weather is a little overdone; it is often too rainy in summer. And Miami cold in winter and too hot and or Beach may be too trashy and gaudy for some folks' tastes. Florida's delightful west coast has both a more consistent climate

Parkdale W.I. Enjoys Picnic

There was a good turnout for the July meeting of the Parkdale W.I., which was held in the park. Beginning at 3.30 p.m., there were races for the children with each child receiving a prize. There were also three novelty races for the ladies with Mrs. W. Fargie, Mrs. F. Rodgers and Mrs. H. Brown taking home the prizes.

Some of the members and their families enjoyed a picnic supper at six o'clock. Mrs. W. Fargie and Mrs. F. Rodgers were in charge of the refreshment booth. Many thanks to Mrs. J. Simpson, Mrs. V. Allen, Mrs. A. Reid and Mrs. W. Fargie for their donation of popcorn which helped to make the booth a success. Ice cream and soft drinks were sold during the ball game.

Conveners for the picnic were Mrs. R. Ralston, Mrs. W. Cone, Mrs. J. May and Mrs. D. McLaughlin.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. C. Keeble, ing at Sugar Island.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. McFadden and daughter, are enjoying a holiday at Kanata Beach.

LADY CUBMASTERS

Three lady cubmasters arrive for the Eighth Annual Jamboree of Boy Scouts at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont. Left to right: Enid Beidle, Yeovil, Eng.; Marjory Hayes, Ottawa, and Olive Pain, Leovill. More than 10,000 scouts from all over the world are expected to attend the jamboree. The cubmasters are among 250 women who will assist camp operations. (CP Photo) both sides of the street, stretching from the ocean, across the beach's main drag, Collins Ave., all the way to Biscayne Bay.

With a private beach, salt water pool, fresh water pool, wading pool, a n d free supervised playground for children, it understandably fills up year 'round with everyone from the free-spending luxury hotel guest to the tightly-budgeted family that wants to do its own cooking.

With accommodations like these becoming more plentiful all the time it's little wonder the endless lines of Cadillacs that used to make the beach's landscape almost monotonous are now more conspicuous by their absence most of the year.

Room rates are lowest in the spring and fall, not because of the weather but because of the people who won't vacation in those delightful months. Summer still is cheaper than winter, but not so spectacularly as it used to be.

GLAMOR MOTELS

Motels are more flexible on rates, but most of the really fine ones (glamorous enough to be called the finest hotel in town in most places—the line between hotel and motel is sometimes indistinguishable) charge as much as the fine hotels and base their appeal on the availability of your car at the door and comparatively limited tipping.

As for rooms and swimming facilities, they're superior even in second-rate places. Air conditioning is taken for granted.

Speaking of air-conditioning, if you visit Miami don't try to refrigerate yourself every time you come out of the hot sun or you'll spend your holiday in a hospital instead of a hotel. Keep your cooling system turned down at least until you become used to it.

The Florida sun can also do you more harm than good if you don't watch out. Thirty minutes in it the first time out can be like all day back home, and that's no exaggeration.

A tip on tipping: There are probably more restaurants with continental-style service in Miami than anywhere in the country outside of New York. Remember that where you have a waiter captain (he's the one in the tuxedo) and a waiter, each gets tipped separately. The waiter a little heavier than the captain. This is assuming the captain served you personally; if he didn't, he expects no tip.

If you're wondering how we

30 P.C. Women Believe Cancer Is Incurable

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian women's knowledge of cancer varies widely, it was shown in an all-provinces survey released Thursday by the Canadian Cancer Society.

Thirty per cent of the women believe cancer is incurable. The percentages varied from 11 in Prince Edward Island to 55 in Quebec. Elsewhere, figures were: Alberta, 12 per cent; British Columbia, 14; Saskatchewan, 16;

Newfoundland, 31. Exact percentages were not available for the other provinces but were around 20 to 22.

Emphasizing early diagnosis and treatment, a society official said many types of cancer are often completely cured by radiation or surgery or a combination of both.

W. H. Budden, president of the society's Quebec division, said women living in areas "where an active educational program has been carried on have better knowledge of the simple facts about cancer" than those where educational efforts "are less active or almost non-existent."

A CROSS SECTION

The society's survey was conducted among 3,000 women. They represented a cross section of the female population—different age and income groups in both highly

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU'RE RIGHT, GIRLS—AND MAYBE YOUR PARENTS ARE RIGHT, TOO

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

My girlfriend and I are both 19 and we find ourselves facing the same problems.

We are both going steady. In fact, it's really an engagement without a ring, since our boyfriends are in the service and will be until next year.

We have dated these fellows for two years, we love them very much and we each know there is no one with whom we would rather spend our lives. They have personality, character, ambition; they're thoughtful and considerate, and they both have the nicest families ever.

But—we don't want to get married yet, and this our families can't understand. They say that if we love the boys, why don't we want to get married as soon as they're out of service? But we want to wait long enough until both fellows are settled and know what they're going to do. Neither of them know now; they just want to be married next year, as soon as they're out, but we want to wait.

Then too, it seems to us that after we have spent so much time just sitting home waiting for them, we'd like to have a little fun before settling down, without having to worry whether or not the five dollars we spend on an evening shouldn't have gone into the bank. That may be the wrong attitude, and that's what I'd like to know. Is it? After all, we have all our lives to be married, why be in such a rush? We just don't feel as though we're quite ready to accept the responsibilities of marriage.

Every time we try to explain this to our families, they say it's true we're not ready and we're also not in love. We never doubted that we loved our boyfriends until our families talked this way. Now we don't know if we're coming or going.

And one more thing. Every time my boyfriend's mother gives me something for my hope chest I feel awful. I don't want her to give me things yet! Why do I feel this way? S.I.

You girls are right—and your parents may be right, too! That is, you're right in realizing that you're not ready to take on the responsibilities of married life, and that it's better to wait awhile before you do. But your parents may also be right in thinking that perhaps you're not really in love. Maybe you are, and so you'll know it when the right time comes, and if you're not, you'll find that out when the right time comes, too, and be glad you waited.

You don't have to make any decision now. So stop getting yourselves all worked up and worried about it. Give yourselves a rest from thinking about it, and stop arguing with your parents about who's right and who's wrong. In the first place, the boys won't be home until next year, and you may be seeing things a whole lot clearer by that time. And in the second place, if you'll just be content to accept the fact that you don't see them clearly now, instead of keeping yourselves in a turmoil trying to figure out just why you don't, the confusion will disappear sooner.

The reason you "feel awful" when your boyfriends' mothers give you something for your hope chest is because it simply unites, for that moment, even more desires that confusion; makes vivid and uncomfortable.

So, as I say, make up your minds you'll let it all ride awhile. It may well be that a good part of the trouble is that, as you say, you've been "just sitting home waiting" for the boys, and by so doing depriving yourselves unreasonably of recreation you normally should have. To be starved for fun and good times would make any young person feel the way you do.

I suggest you consider this carefully and see if it wouldn't be wise to have a more active social schedule. Boredom, and a feeling that you're missing a lot and being left out, maybe all that's really ailing you.

By TRACY ADRIAN

Pat Blake, young Hollywood starlet who made her screen debut recently, likes to get plenty of sunshine in her hours away from the cameras.

Today she is modelling a play outfit that consists of a bra top and well tailored shorts. Both are made of fine wale corduroy. The bra is of the halter variety and the little pants have a change pocket and are neatly cuffed.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

EYEBROWS AND LASHES

Feminine eyes, like pictures, need pretty frames. Which is why both eyebrows and lashes should always have the most fastidious grooming.

As a rule, most eyebrows are in perfect line with the bony arch of the eye socket. It is this natural curve that gives the face much of its individuality and charm. It is a mistake to distort it, as some girls do when they overdo the tweezing process. Stray hairs should be pulled, of course, since the edges of the eye-brows must be neat and even. But the exaggerated thin line is as out of date as high buttoned shoes.

Before removing a ny of the strays, bathe the areas with hot water. Remember to pull the stragglers in the direction they are growing. You will find, at cosmetic counters, a little gadget that will give more speed and efficiency. It is a tweezer with little handles like a small pair of scissors. After plucking use cold water freely.

Do you wonder what is the life-span of these tiny shafts? A month? A year? Five years? Well, it takes ten weeks for an eye-lash to reach its full growth, after which its normal life-span is from three to five months.

Lashes grow in two or three irregularly placed rows, not in one naturally lovely arch. If the growth is healthy, new shafts immediately appear to take the place of fallen ones. To promote this pleasant state of affairs, to insure against thinning, apply a lash cream that you will find at any cosmetics counter.

To darken lashes, use mascara, which is more effective than the crayon that was designed for use on the eyebrows only. Select a dark brown, if you are a blonde, black if a brunette.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BECKMAN

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

Our late-September wedding is to be in church at four o'clock in the afternoon, a quite large reception following at my bride's home. It is to be what my bride-to-be calls "semi-formal," and she is to wear a white wedding dress (no train, she says), and I, as the groom, a tuxedo. I had taken it for granted that my attendants (best man and four ushers) and I should wear cutaway coats, striped trousers, and the customary appropriate accessories, and I am about to consult with a very good friend here about renting all the attire from them.

I regret to say that my best man and I are shorter than the four ushers, and neither of us looks well in a cutaway coat. Last evening, when he and I were talking over the correct attire, we wondered if it would be all right if, for this not-awfully-formal-type of wedding, for men in the wedding party to wear Oxford jackets instead of cutaways. What do you think? If we did, would this make any difference in the accessories we should wear?—Groom-to-be

Since your bride-to-be definitely describes the wedding she is planning as "semi-formal," I think for you and your attendants to wear grey Oxford jackets might be appropriate to the type of wedding she has in mind. However, you must talk this plan over with her, to be certain that she approves. Oxford jackets are becoming to many men, and today they are quite often worn instead of cutaway coats, for weddings that aren't strictly formal. With the Oxford jacket, you wear dark, striped trousers; the same type of four-in-hand tie you would wear with a cutaway coat; white shirt with turned-down collar; grey waistcoat; black oxford and black hose; Homburg hat.

EXPLAINING TO HOSTESS ABOUT VISITING SICK FRIEND

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

I am going for a visit for several days to the country home of friends of mine. They are very good friends, though not really close friends, and this is my first visit with them. About this visit I have a very important question, important because I want to be "just right" in whatever I do.

It so happens that in a town quite near their town I have a dear long-time friend who some months ago had a stroke. Since I am employed in the city, it is very difficult for me to be able to go to see her, but I would so very much like to go to see her while I am on this visit. Do you think I would be proper for me to mention this to my hostess and see if this visit could be arranged? Or do you think they would consider this out-of-order?—Reader

Indeed I urge you to explain to your hostess the circumstances of your dear friend and your wish to go to see her while you are so near her home. Of course your hostess will understand; of course your request will be entirely proper; and of course your hostess will graciously and understandingly cooperate in making the arrangements. You would suggest transportation according to circumstances; that is, if your hostess's car might be in use, you should ask about ordering a taxi or other "transportation."

Readers' Saturday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

... would you have a recipe on how to candy pineapple? I make a lot of Christmas cake and for the candied pineapple slices so expensive I would like to try and candy some for my own use.—Mrs. L. G.

ANSWER:

The commercially processed candied pineapple that you buy goes through an exacting process, which it would be difficult to reproduce in your kitchen. I would advise you to start with canned pineapple slices as follows:

HOME-MADE CANDIED PINEAPPLE

Drain the slices from a 28-ounce tin of canned sliced pineapple. Drain the pineapple well and measure the juice. Make the juice up to 2 cups by adding water. To this juice add 4 cups sugar and bring gently to boiling point, stirring until sugar is dissolved. This syrup should be in a large flat-bottomed kettle. Add the pineapple slices without crowding and bring to boiling point and gently boil for 20 minutes. Stand off the heat and let stand overnight. In the morning remove pineapple slices and bring syrup to boil again, being sure it does not burn. Return pineapple slices to it and gently boil 5 minutes. Dip out slices and drain on waxed paper, not touching, and allow to dry thoroughly for two days. Be very careful where and how you store this. It should be in a dry place in single layers between sheets of parchment, not stacked. I would advise you to candy the pineapple only about 1 week before you are ready to use it in fruit cakes.

I am glad you brought the subject up. No I did not make a mistake in the amount of water but I did not warn readers not to double the recipe. You cannot double this recipe. And furthermore it took me 25 minutes of heating on the electric heater yesterday to make it even stiff enough to spread—let alone stand on peaks. However it was 87 deg. Fahr. So I think when the temperature soars that high we had better not try the fluffy frosting. I am very sorry and thank you for being so patient.

QUESTION:

I hope I am writing to the right department. My problem is I have a nice dresser, old style. The mirror is partly clouded. It is the plate glass type. Can I have it removed so that it will be clear and where? Or can I do it myself.—Mrs. E. L. L.

I telephoned a plate glass and mirror company and the manager said that it was commonly done—re-silvering mirrors. You live in a small town and I think your nearest large city would be Calgary. I will try to learn the name of glass dealers there and mail them to you.

QUESTION:

How come your foolproof fluffy frosting was not foolproof? I am cooking 45 years and found your foolproof icing anything but foolproof. I presume you made a double recipe then gave us single recipe and you made the mistake of saying double for the water. I looked with suspicion on that 1/2 cup water, so to make a double recipe I had to use 1 cup of boiling water. The icing would not stand. It was a very hot day.

I was glad to see a fluffy frosting that I did not need to stand over the stove with. The party luckily was cancelled, that I had to take the cake to. I would have been in a fix if I had had to take that cake to a party. I was interested in your double ring cake. I may get a chance to make it some day. Always somebody getting married. I would like to know if you make a mistake with the fluffy frosting.—Ms. Wm. S.

Tailenders Pull String, Send First-Place Brawl Into Three-Way Tie

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

ANY TALKERS?

We cannot recall the names and dates, but a baseball story sticks in our mind.

It happened when a major league manager was being subjected to all kinds of "friendly advice" from a rabid fan.

The fan called the plays. He managed and coached the club. He was in his own alcoholic mind the epitome of Casey Stengel, John McGraw, Durocher and Huggins. Shucks, he was "it."

He said so in no uncertain terms. Finally the manager of the club, I think it was the New York Giants, stroled over to the stands.

"Listen, buddy," he said in a quiet voice: "Where do you live and what do you do..."

The fan, flattered that his tonsillar tirade had made some impression, gargled his name and business address.

"Okay," said the manager. "I'll be up at 9 a.m. tomorrow."

"What for?" asked the befuddled one.

"Just for this reason," said the manager. "You've been running my business for the past two hours. Now to give you a rest, I'll be up tomorrow morning to take over your business, okay?"

The story has a moral. So many people are under the impression they can operate another person's business so much better than the guy himself.

This department has had that experience. There are some guys in this village, mostly well-meaning, but poorly-informed, who think that armed with a press pass, they can do wonders. Most of them are not so hot in their own jobs. How can they expect to be experts conducting the work of another fellow?

So here is an open invitation. On August 17 we leave for a vacation. This year we have inaugurated a "guest" column system. A number of sports-writer friends and sports luminaries have submitted their columns. There will be a few days left. These we have delegated to the armchair, rink-side and gas-experts—these self-appointed critics.

Here is your opportunity, boys. It is your chance to blow your top. The only difference is, this time you must sign your name. Previously your blaring tirades were sent anonymously. We will gladly publish your criticisms—if you have the guts to sign the statement. And don't say you were not given the chance to get your name in the paper.

BASEBALL

Seems like some of the baseball playoffs will be settled over the week-end. The Haggis Juniors have been advised their game with Picton the other night has been tabbed "no contest" which leaves the "Spaniards" with a record of one win. The teams clash at the Fair Grounds on the "week-end" starting at 2 p.m., which might mean the elimination of the Kelleher Krew. The series in both semi-final brackets are two-of-three. This was decided at a meeting held by the league officials Thursday night. In the meantime Johnny Mowatt's Wellington being of baseballers had a couple of wins tossed out when a Wellington hurler was declared ineligible. This puts the Mowatt crew one game up. The teams clash in Marmora on the "week-end" and a win for Wellington will eliminate the northern villagers.

SOFTBALL

What looms up as a sizzling series gets under way Monday night at the CNRA Recreation Park when the Point Anne crew tangles with the Belleville Orfuns in a best-of-three series. The teams finished even-steps at the top of the loop after the schedule was completed and this series will decide who remains on the top perch. It should be a dilly of a series. The Ox Pointers are riding high on the crest of a winning streak and have wiped out a four-game deficit to tie the mighty Orfuns. However, the Spafford crew is a chips-down squad and some rare old battling should take place before the top spot occupant is decided. The series resumes at Point Anne Tuesday night and back here Wednesday, if necessary. And remember, all games start at 6:15 sharp.

APPRECIATION

Speaking of softball, here's something that should make the Orfun management and players feel proud. It is a letter from the "Inmates of the Kingston Penitentiary" and which speaks for itself. Here 'tis:

Quote:—"To the manager, coach and players of the Belleville Orfuns softball team, a note of appreciation and thanks from the inmates of Kingston Penitentiary for the many fine games they have provided over the summer week-ends. The calibre of the "Orfuns," both in ability and sportsmanship, is of top-drawer quality, and we take this opportunity to express our wish for their success both on and off the baseball diamonds. "The Inmates of Kingston Penitentiary." Unquote. H. Reid, Recreational Director.

Orioles Chirp Over Chisox As Senators Veto Indians; Yanks' Yogi Homers Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baltimore and Washington, reluctant tailenders, have made the American League race as tight as a cork in a bottle. The Orioles and Senators, supposedly the soft touches who were to go to Chicago and Cleveland, edged on their eastern swing, pulling the string last Friday night and sent the first-place brawl into a virtual three-way tie. Baltimore topped the White Sox 2-1 in 11 innings and Washington rallied the Indians 7-5 while New York moved up from third place with a 3-0 decision over Detroit on Yogi Berra's 200th home run. Sixth-place Kansas City knocked off fourth-place Boston 5-2. The White Sox still hold the lead, but by a mere two percentage points over the Yanks and Indians. Boston is two games away.

ERRORS FIGURED

Chicago errors figured in both Baltimore runs as reliever Millard Howell muffed Willie Miranda's slow roller with the bases loaded. Until the last of the 11th, it had been a pitching duel between Jim Wilson, poison for the first division, and ex-Oriole Harry Byrd. The Sox had the bases loaded with none out in the 10th, but Wilson, who gave up the Chicago run in the first inning, worked out of it with a double-play and George Kell's infield out.

At Washington, the Nats gave Sal Maglie a rude howdy to the AL. The veteran right-hander, belted by the National League so much the New York Giants sold him to Cleveland last Sunday, gave up five runs in the first two frames.

Dean Stone tamed the Tribe on four hits until the Indians broke out for their five runs in the ninth.

JOINS SELECT COMPANY

Berra, joining Bill Dickey, Gabby Hartnett and Roy Campanella as the only catchers ever to slug 200 or more homers in the major leagues, belted a 3-1 pitcher in the fourth inning after tiger rookie Jim Bunning had issued his only two walks.

Kansas City snarled the Red Sox with Gus Zernial's two home runs and a double, and the relief work of Tom Chatterton. The victory saved Vic Raschi's fourth victory by allowing just one run after coming on in the eighth with the bases loaded and none out. Frank Sullivan, Boston's 14-game winner, lost his ninth in the first inning as the National League, Brooklyn led to Chicago 10-8, but held its 15th game spread as Pittsburgh bumped off Milwaukee 8-5. New York beat Cincinnati 12-9 and Philadelphia defeated St. Louis 7-4.

SEVEN HOME RUNS

Ernie Banks clubbed his 37th home run for the Cubs, but Duke Snider smacked two for the Braves to regain the undisputed homer lead with 38. The two clubs combined for seven home runs.

Pittsburgh blasted Warren Spahn for five runs in the first inning as ex-outfielder Dick Hall held the Braves in check until Dino Donoso had to put down a four-run rally in the eighth. The Giants had four three-run spurts, then had to hold off the Redlegs in a four-run ninth. Wayne Terwilliger, New York second baseman, was hit over the left eye by one of Johnny Klippstein's pitches and was taken to a hospital for observation.

Four walks and an error gave the Phils a three-run seventh to beat the Cards. Bobby Morgan and Del Ennis homered for the Phillies.

Petes Clinch Lacrosse Title

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Peterborough Trailermen clinched the Ontario Lacrosse senior "A" title for the fifth straight year Friday night by trimming a short-handed Hamilton club 17-2.

Petes led 6-1 in the first and 12-1 to end the second period of a clean, slow tussle. Hamilton will finish the series, Jim Heffernan was top sniper with four goals, as Bobby Allan and Bob Curtis each led the target three times. Two goals each went to the Hildebrand, league-leading scorer, and Curly Mason, as Lou Nickle, Bob Thorpe and Carl Brioux had one apiece. The Hamilton tallies were by Joe Kelly and Leo Teatro. Despite the score, Joe Teatro's shot turned in a starry effort in the losers' net.

Chiefs End Kings' Streak; Richmond Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Richmond still has a chance to climb out of the International League cellar. If they made it, a 6-10 to Lou Ortiz.

The second sacker's pair of home runs led the Virginians to a 9-8 triumph over Columbus Friday night. He has sparked the usually tranquil Richmond offense with a late season drive that has brought him over the 300 mark in batting. The victory, combined with Buffalo's 4-1 loss to Rochester, left the Vees three and a half games behind the seventh-place Bisons. Havana's 11-game streak came to an end when Thornton Kipper of Syracuse shut the Cubans out after they had pounced on Jim Owens for five runs with none out in the first. The Chiefs won 9-5.

RAINED OUT

Toronto and Montreal, one and two in the standings, were rained out and will play a doubleheader tonight.

It looked like another runaway for the Cubs who routed Owens, the Chief ace, before he retired a batter. But Kipper squelched the rally and scattered six hits the rest of the way while his mates supported Raul Sanchez, loser of Vince Amor, Julian Ladera and Emilio Cueche for 10 hits and nine runs.

Italians May Pull Surprise In Davis Cup Tennis Play

By WILL GRIMSLEY

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP)—The overall Davis Cup picture reached such a state of confusion today that the big question appeared to be not who will win the tennis trophy this year, but who will lose it.

And lurking darkly in the background ready to pounce on any misfortune which might befall either of the two major tennis powers, Australia or America, was a band of audacious Italians, in a position to pull the upset of the decade.

These were the developments: 1. Australia's Ken Rosewall and Rex Hartwig looked anything but impressive in winning opening singles matches from the Japanese at the Nassau Country Club here. Rosewall, playing the poorest tennis seen of him in this country, turned back Atsushi Miyagi 6-4, 6-4, 6-4. Hartwig was forced the Italian in the inter-zone finals at German town, Pa., next weekend. The winners challenge the U.S.

East-West Canadians Duel For Amateur Golf Bauble

By TED MOSER

Canadian Press Staff Writer
CALGARY (CP)—East and West in the persons of Moe Norman of Kitchener and Lyle Crawford of Vancouver battle for the Canadian amateur golf championship today.

They tee off on the first half of the 36-hole final at 9 a.m. MST (noon EDT) and start their second half over the Calgary Golf and Country Club course at 2 p.m. MST (5 p.m. EDT).

It promises to be a tight duel all the way. The 22-year-old Vancouver car salesman led the British Columbia Willingdon Cup team to victory a week ago with a pair of record three-under-par 67s over the same course.

Norman trounced Doug Bajus of Vancouver 7 and 6 and Crawford whipped Bob Kidd, another Vancouver amateur, by the same score in the 36-hole semi-finals. 5 UNDER PAR
Norman tossed the links Friday with a sensational five-under-par 65 in the first round of his semi-final. This was only two strokes more than the course record of 63 held by Henry Martell, an Edmonton professional.

Crawford ousted Norman in the quarter-finals of the amateur last year, but the Kitchener shotsmith has staked his game since then. He will be a hard man to beat. This is the first all-Canadian final since 1951, when Walt McElroy of Vancouver downed Phil Farley of

Thomson Rips Seven Off Par To Lead Rich Golf Tourney

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP)—Peter Thomson, 25, reigning British Open champion from Melbourne, Australia, ripped seven strokes off Tam O'Shanter's par for a 65 and a halfway lead of two strokes in the $25,000 All-American golf tournament today.

Thomson's great round left him eight under par for 36 holes with a 136 total.

Rudy Horvath of Windsor, Ont., shot a 69 Friday to share 11th place with five other golfers at 141. Stan Leonard of Vancouver, with a 73, finished with a 143 total but was way down the list.

Thomson, who opened with a 71 Thursday, fashioned a scintzing 31-34 round against Tam's 36-38 to just miss the $10,000 reward for breaking the course record of 63.

Winner of the British open title this year and last, Thomson had eight birdies and two one-over-par holes in his sparkling round over the parched course which was aided greatly by a morning rain-fall.

Two strokes behind Thomson at the 36-hole mark in the quest for the $3,420 first prize were 1955

U.S. PGA champion Doug Ford and Al Menger, runner-up in the 1952 U.S. amateur, each banded his second straight 69.

The field was whacked to 80 players for the final two rounds, today and Sunday, with 147 being the qualifying limit. This knocked out, among others, 1955 U.S. open champion Jack Fleck, who had a second-round 72 for a 149. Others brushed aside included Chandler Harner, Pete Cooper and Johnny Palmer.

Thomson's chances for grabbing the $10,000 for a course record edged today and Sunday, with 147 being the qualifying limit. This knocked out, among others, 1955 U.S. open champion Jack Fleck, who had a second-round 72 for a 149. Others brushed aside included Chandler Harner, Pete Cooper and Johnny Palmer.

The chase for the $1,000 top prize in the concurrent $5,000 All-American women's pro tourney found Patty Berg moving into a seven-stroke lead with a second-round 71, one under men's par, for a halfway total of 146.

'Sashay' Wins Freeman Cup

PRESQUELE POINT (CP)—Bud Doyle's Sashay of Youngstown, N.Y., captured the Freeman Cup Friday as she crossed the finish line at Presquele point in a dense fog.

The fog, which followed a sudden westerly squall Thursday, caused 12 of the 36 yachts in the race to run aground on or near Presquele point near Belleville.

One of the yachts, the Milena of Rochester, with Newton Castle and one other person aboard, was pulled clear by RCAF search and rescue units Friday.

The 125-mile race started Thursday at Burlington, Ont., in good sailing weather. The squall hit a few hours after the start and sent the boats scudding by way of Port Dalhousie, Ont.

Second to the Sashay was the six-metre yacht Joan sailed by Ken Purdy of the Queen City Yacht Club, Toronto.

League Entry Turned Down

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Tom Rowdon, secretary of the Ontario Baseball Association, said Friday night the application by the Bruce County Baseball League for affiliation with the OBA has been turned down.

Rowdon said that at a meeting of the OBA executive in Hamilton Thursday he was authorized to return the application. The executive said the only way Bruce League teams can take part in the OBA playoffs this year is to work through the Western Ontario Athletic Association.

All teams from Owen Sound were given permission to affiliate direct with the OBA.

Bobcats Claw Polecats 10-4 In Opening Game Int. 'AA' Playoffs

The Bobcats treed the Polecats at the CNRAA Recreation Park last night by a score of 10-4, but they were a shaky pack of ball-chasing felines before the last out.

The cat-pounce resume hostilities next Tuesday night in the second of their best-of-five series to decide OASA "AA" representation.

The Bobs caught the Poles with their claws sheathed in the first two innings when they showed over a trio of runs in each frame to take a commanding 6-0 lead. They added singles in the fourth and sixth and after a rhabur or so tucked away two more in the ninth to clinch the verdict.

With Chief Puss Robert Temple of the Bobs glaring defiance at Chief Tom brother Paul of the Poles, who eventually got the heave-up from the officials, the Poles whittled away at the lead scoring singles in the third, fourth, seventh and ninth.

Junior Day went the route for the Poles and was nicked for ten clouts, one a two-run homer off the bludgeon of Bobcat Bone. He struck out four and walked six. The Bobs started Holmes with a double and one third innings before giving way to Allen. Dick Catted his way to the seventh with one out and in went the Ole Bearcat Al Adams. He put out the fire but in the final frame was nicked for a double by Polecat Pukanski.

I'm sure you have heard of Lake Pend Oreille in Northern Idaho. This huge natural reservoir picks up and holds spring run-offs from a vast watershed in northern Idaho and Montana.

In addition, Lake Pend Oreille is famous for its big Kamloops rainbows and Dolly Vardens. Locally, however, it is better known to the rank and file of anglers for its bountiful supply of Kokanee, the little landlocked sockeye salmon of the northwestern states.

This fish is so prolific that the legal limit is fixed at 50 a day. To have a clearer idea of its importance, both economical and recreational, let me say here that in 1953 anglers took over 1,200,000 kokanee 55 per cent of the kokanee anglers were state residents. The other 45 per cent came from other parts of the country.

The kokanee is a late fall and winter spawner congregating in rivers and creeks and also along the lake shores where they are sandy and gravel beaches. For a good 80 days after the eggs are deposited, any fluctuation in water level can have serious results.

Now that accumulated water in Lake Pend Oreille often is drawn off in the fall and winter months to build up the flow in the Columbia River for the benefit of hydro-electric projects such as Bonneville and Grand Coulee.

On March 4th of this year, a date which fell within the 90 day period of four years with the kokanee. Like all Pacific salmon, the fish dies after spawning. How much damage has been done to the kokanee supply in Lake Pend Oreille only time can tell.

Back in 1935, when my son, Dick, was a first-class scout, he acquired a Fishing Merit Badge. There were, in both clubs and scouts, 150 boys in all. Not only was Dick's Merit Badge the only one of its kind issued during his scouting career—also, his casting examination ended by him giving his Scoutmaster a lesson in the use of both fly rod and casting rod.

Now, Sport Fishing Institute reports that merit badges in conservation and outdoor sports have taken a large jump. In 1953, 5,934 Fishing Merit Badges were awarded to boy scouts. In 1954, there were 22,855 Fishing Merit Badges awarded.

Every day I spend on lake or stream, watching older anglers wield their equipment, convinces me that these men, when they were Boy Scouts or Boy Scouts, could have profited by the teachings of a qualified scout master in some of the finer points of freshwater angling.

Pistol Matches Feature Meet

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP)—Competitors face a heavy day today in the national small-bore rifle and handgun championship meet at this army camp 14 miles west of Ottawa.

Four pistol matches are scheduled and rifle competitors will have six events—four previously scheduled plus two postponed Friday by rain. They will be on the firing line from 8 a.m. EDT until well after 6 p.m.

The annual meet is sponsored jointly by the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association and the Canadian Civilian Association of Marksmen.

Major awards for the three-day matches, which began Friday, are the Canadian open and closed small-bore championships and the Canadian open and closed handgun championships.

Three singles in the championship aggregate, and a single action in the Sportsman award, an elimination event which Friday's top 15 contestants will shoot off Sunday.

angling. Always, we are after the big boys—the tackle busters. Last April, I had this fallacy brought home to me rather forcibly. Mistakenly, I decided to see if I could break the fly-rod record on tarpon. That record then stood at 100 pounds. It still does.

I went out on Florida Bay and hooked eleven big tarpon, using a six-foot flyrod, a single action reel and a Knighthawk bucktail streamer. I landed one of these, a fish that weighed sixty-four pounds.

To land a grown-up tarpon on any kind of tackle, it is necessary to keep constant pressure on him. Otherwise, he will have a chance to rest and prolong the fight. Maintaining a constant pressure of from four to five pounds is a large order with such light equipment as a flyrod.

It took me one hour and three minutes to bring that fish to gaff. The muscles and tendons in my arms and back ached like toothache. Right there I crossed king-size tarpon off my list.

During trout season here in Pennsylvania, I found that it was rather dull sport to land small fish. The little fish didn't make much of a fight. So I cut down my leader diameters to 6x and finer. I found that it required very little as much skill where I had picked up a trophy head-line leader at it did to land that tarpon on twelve-pound terminal tackle. As much skill, without the back-breaking effort.

This summer, try the same reasoning in your ponding. See if you can land a half pound panfish on a 6x leader. Using ultra-light tackle makes big ones out of little ones. Believe me, the risks of broken tackle are just as great as using a rhabur and proportionately heavier gear.

After all, fishing is comparative. Panfish are fun if you use light gear and it is great fun to make the odds more even by using tackle that can break unless care is used.

GOOD BASS FISHING

In a column of this sort I feel it is part of the job of the writer to keep his readers posted on important news and happenings in the outdoors. Not the least of these, I think, is a hint now and then on finding better sport.

My son, Dick, has just returned from a six-weeks trip to south Florida where he had picked up story material and enjoyed a vacation while doing so. In his travels, he stumbled into some truly excellent bass fishing.

Moore Haven, Florida, is near Lake Okechobee and a few miles from town is a camp called Sportsman's Village, managed by Mr. William Jesse and his wife. The accommodations are beautiful, the food is reasonable and the food excellent.

Fishing out of this camp, with Calvin Whidden as guide, Dick was surprised fishing for Florida largemouth bass on only flyrod and bass bug, his average daily catch was sixteen fish running from two to six pounds. On a Knighthawk bass bug, he landed a husky nine and three-quarter pounds.

So there you have it. Good bass fishing in these days of crowded conditions is not only coming to this spot, but also for a while, seems to be sure-fire.

No Financial Aid For Farmers Likely

TORONTO (CP)—Agriculture Minister Thomas (Cutter) Flett said there is little likelihood of federal financial aid being granted to the province's drought-stricken farmers.

The minister denied earlier reports that aid had been offered by Ottawa and said there is no precedent for such assistance being granted.

He said it will be several months before the extent of drought damage to Ontario crops can be assessed.

Boxing Will Be Given Another Going-Over in New Picture

By BOB MYERS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Boxing, the dead end kid of sports, may as well brace itself for another going-over from Hollywood.

"The Harder They Fall," a book that was a striking indictment of at least one phase of boxing, is going to be put on the screen.

"I don't think boxing is a sport in any sense of the term," says Philip Yordan, who is producing the picture and writing the screen play.

Yordan's sentiments erase any thought that the movie version will soften the blows punched out by the author of the book, Budd Schulberg.

"The Harder They Fall" is supposedly fiction, but it parallels the boxing career of Primo Carnera. The era of Carnera—the fantastic and phoney buildup of a hulking giant who was anything but a champion fighter, and the gangster atmosphere that dominated the spectacle from its origin to its finish—is indeed a vulnerable one for boxing.

Yordan obviously does not intend to miss any chances to jab and gouge where it will hurt. Yordan said he does not anticipate the warmest co-operation from the fight people when actual filming gets underway, with Humphrey Bogart as the star.

He hopes to shoot scenes in New York's Madison Square Garden, and Stillman's Gym, rusty-musty training site for the fighters as well as some of the pubs along Eighth avenue where the Gotham boxing crowd gathers.

NAIVE AND INNOCENT

He indicated he will not be floored with surprise if the international boxing club proves to be reluctant in granting use of the big arena.

And he has had difficulty acquiring movies of some of Carnera's fights. Once they were easy to obtain.

The character to play the giant boxer has not been selected.

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Sitting pretty is the opening bidder who has had a free response from partner. The opener can then almost predict the future contract of the pair and very nearly tell his partner so.

South opened with a heart. West stuck in an overall of a spade. North made a response of two clubs and east passed. This was correct first round bidding in the deal shown here:

 ♠ 5
 ♥ A 2
 ♦ 3 2
 ♣ A Q J 4 2

WEST
 ♠ A J 10 9 8 2
 ♥ K Q J
 ♦ 7 6
 ♣ K 10 8 3

SOUTH
 ♠ K 6
 ♥ A Q J 10 9 7 3
 ♦ A 6 3
 ♣ 5

By this time south has learned that his north partner has more than two tricks. With seven tricks of his own, and a heart suit he is proud of, opener is jolly well headed for game in that suit.

A signal for announcing this is the one-jump to three hearts; a promise of eight tricks with a rebiddable suit. A partner who would pass such a bid has nothing but swamp in his veins.

But south has only seven tricks. So, the one-jump signal is not correct here by rule. A non-jump rebid of two hearts might discourage partner. A double-jump to game of four hearts may be tolerated.

The double jump to game has the disadvantage of shutting out possible new information from partner. The non-jump seems too weak. The one-jump misleads partner as to the number of tricks.

With an objection to each, south chose the one-jump rebid of three hearts. Sure enough, north read it as eight tricks in south and launched on a probe for slam. A danger to be considered.

North could then have said four hearts with the support he had. But the seed of a slam idea had been sown in him. So he bid clubs to extract more information from south.

Over the north four club bid, south simply said four hearts. If north had quit there, this story would never have started. It was the bidding thereafter that fruited the coming outburst.

AT THE CAPITOL
"The Eternal Sea"

"The Eternal Sea," Republic's smash success opens at the Capitol Theatre Monday for its first district showing, and is based on the thrilling career of Rear Admiral John M. Hoskins, whose life story was featured in Life Magazine with a full-page photograph of Hoskins on the cover.

This great naval hero, who returned to active duty after suffering a crippling injury when the aircraft carrier Princeton was bombed by Jap planes at Leyte Gulf, is portrayed in "The Eternal Sea" by Sterling Hayden, with beautiful Alexis Smith in the role of Mrs. Hoskins, whose inspiring devotion to her husband provides many of the heart-warming scenes in the picture. Co-starring with these two is Academy Award winner Dean Jagger as Vice-Admiral Thomas L. Sempke, close friend of the Hoskins.

"The Eternal Sea" filmed with the complete approval and co-operation of the United States Navy, was directed by associate producer John H. Auer from a screenplay by Allen Rivkin. The original story was written by William Wister Haines.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, for

SUNDAY, AUGUST 7, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) —

There's no time like the present to get things done, as you have heard before... But so often we hear, and repeat, wise sayings, but do what about them actually? Start the day at church.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) —

This is a day for some serious reflection... not worry or anxiety but, sincere, thoughtful reflection upon habits, attitude, etc. Use that good Taurus head.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) —

The strength of this Sign, its verve and zest for life is an inspiration. Be sure today you do not forget the spiritual side, prayers, church services. Your best foot forward for the new week.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) —

Some people are a pleasure to speak with, some things a delight to enjoy. Today offers these pleasures but many must be uncovered, and you will be missing a lot if you don't seek the truth.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) —

Time for allocating matters properly may be a problem of sorts now. Calm, righteous and dignified procedure will achieve much.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) —

Man has a brain, but sometimes he behaves badly, as though he'd left his brains elsewhere. Don't let it be said of you that you acted first and thought afterward. Check the budget.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) —

Imagination, vitality, truly constructive thinking power may not be at a peak today, but everything worthwhile has its off days. You maintain harmony, order and optimism.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) —

Interruptions, delays? Cannot seem to get anything done? If you don't have them today, feel lucky because many others are experiencing them, conscientiously go about your tasks.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) —

Emotions, sentimentality may be strong; you be sensible and control feelings, remarks; stabilize wherever you can, even in the smallest matters—it will strengthen your whole life.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) —

"Do not publish people's defects." These are guides for today (for any day, eh?) Keep wearing your smile, and pray the while.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) —

In a time of stress or strain, the more quiet the word, the stronger, more effective. Take someone to church with you; at least don't fall your own soul. Day's rays should further progress.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) —

Great spurts of energy can be effective, but in the long run steadiness counts most. Plan, pray, prepare for new week.

You Born Today: The bright star Regulus, seen at best in early summer, is the outstanding luminary of the Constellation Leo...

Your Sign: Your idealism, exuberance and kind-heartedness are strong. Ever bright and on the go, you may at times wear down your fine energies. Be sensible, set yourself rules for health... and keep them. You can meet adversity with true courage, and this has made great leaders in times of need. Don't indulge amusement, food or liquor beyond reason; heed well-sounded advice in this matter; your own judgment might be biased. Pray always for God's guidance.

Lack of Available Weather Information Underlying Cause Of Crash Killing Saunders

OTTAWA (CP)— Lack of available weather information was an "underlying cause" of the Jan. 14 plane crash which took the life of 51-year-old Robert H. Saunders, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

A federal board of inquiry, appointed by Transport Minister Marler, said the pilots of the plane failed to obtain last-minute weather information before taking off from Windsor, Ont., on a flight to Toronto.

The board, which investigated the crash at a hearing in London, Ont., Feb. 22, presented its report to Mr. Marler about two months ago. However, the report was not made public until Friday.

Mr. Saunders died from injuries received when a twin-engine amphibian, owned by Ontario Hydro, crashed near London shortly after taking off from Windsor. The plane crashed after becoming heavily laden with ice.

Two passengers also were injured in the crash. The two crew members, pilots Lambert J. Rogers and Ralph Edward Torgerson of Toronto were not hurt.

The board said the two pilots did not obtain the latest weather information from Toronto, the plane's intended destination before leaving Windsor. It said failure to obtain this information was an infraction of Canadian air regulations.

"This information would have informed residents and folks in the River Valley area who travel the Stirling-Frankford Road No. 33, a distance of over eight miles were delighted to receive the news that tenders had been called to resurface this stretch of highway."

Mr. John L. Good, principal of King George High school, has purchased a lot on Annis street, (the former Scott property) owned by McIntosh and Wells. Mr. Good plans to erect a new residence next year.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Finkle, Nancy and Jacqueline are moving this week to their new bungalow on Church street. Mr. Finkle plans to complete his home this autumn as he finds the necessary time.

Mrs. George Heasman and Mrs. P. Conley, leaders of River Valley 4-H Sunshine studies garden club, are planning to attend Achievement Day on Friday, August 12, in Stirling community hall.

There will be 11 clubs competing in this South Hastings event under the leadership of Miss Fay L. Irvine, home economist, and Messrs. A. O. Dalrymple and J. A. Francis of the local agricultural office.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Warren, of Kingston, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Warren of town, enjoyed a holiday in New York State.

Joe Jean, 12-year-old grandson, was scalded fatally Friday night by a steam jet he was using to clean a truck motor. McBain apparently passed out, possibly from heat prostration, and the steam nozzle dropped on his chest.

WELLINGTON PARK
It seems like a bit of the country
Nestling within the town,
With its trees and flowers and fragrance
Away from life's fret and frown;

Touching the lake's blue waters
With the music of waves on the shore,
A retreat for the warm and weary
Whose hearts are heavy and sore.

The children find here a haven
From the busy, noisy street,
With slides and swings and merry-go-round
It makes a safe retreat;

The travelling tourist finds here
A place of quiet and rest,
Soothed by the lake's soft murmur
And the dash of the wave's white crest.

You who are worn and weary
And long for quiet and peace,
Rest awhile from life's turmoil
And gain a sweet release;

For here by Nature surrounded
From dawn to evening dark,
The spirit of peace will unfold
In beautiful Wellington Park.

Your Car Air Cleaner Is Engine Life-Saver

By EUGENE MILMOE

It's easy to see why the carburetor air cleaner is an engine lifesaver. Without it, abrasive dust and sand would be drawn into the engine causing rapid wear of cylinders, pistons, valves, etc. It also muffles air intake noise and functions as a safeguard against possible fire when your engine backfires.

When a neglected air cleaner becomes clogged with dirt, an over-rich fuel mixture or even mild flooding may result, and the car owner will wonder why his mileage is so poor. For top efficiency the air cleaner should be removed and cleaned regularly—how frequently depends on where your car is usually operated. Under average conditions, servicing at 5,000-mile intervals is recommended.

D.S. asks: What causes the engine oil to foam?
(A) Water in the oil, usually, a head gasket leak or excessive condensation is probably to blame. L.R. writes: The overdrive on my car is very unpredictable lately. Sometimes it will just not cut in, and often it refuses to disengage. A mechanic checked the electrical system and said it was OK, but he cannot put his finger on the trouble. Have you any idea of the cause?

(A) According to your description of the symptoms, I have a strong suspicion that too much mainshaft end play is causing these troubles. GEARS CLASH

Plant Now for Early Perennials

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Early August is a good time to plant seeds for next year's border. Of course, they can be planted earlier, but they cannot be planted later this season if you want sturdy plants which will survive the winter and be ready to bloom come spring. There are many good perennials to choose from. Pick the best ones for the main attractions, but try some of the newer ones for special interest.

Three general favorites are the hollyhock, delphinium and the lupine. Pansies seem to be especially beloved. Their plentiful little faces, velvety texture and faint fragrance endears them to everyone.

You may choose the lovely blue Ullswater, a gentian blue with dark blue, firebreath, a bright red to orange-red, and the Swiss jacks. They are a mix containing ruffled and bicolors.

Pansy seed is expensive. Why not go 50-50 with a friend and divide all your perennial seeds. Sharing the cost and the expense will add to the interest of the project and enable you to have a wider variety of plants.

The seed bed in a semi-shady place. Work the soil to a fine texture. Pansies like a slightly acid soil so mix a generous quantity of peat moss with the soil. This also acts as a sponge, retaining moisture to be released as the plants require it. Soak the soil and allow it to stand for several hours before planting. Sow the seeds thinly—pansy seed is very fine like pepper.

Press the seed into the soil with a short piece of wood. Do not cover with soil. Cover seed bed with damp burlap until the seed has germinated. Shelter from sun and keep damp. In late fall mulch with straw and cover with planks. Lift in March take off the planks and loosen mulch. Pansies can stand severe frosts. Transplant in March or April.

Delphiniums make a lavish display for the back of the border. It is the queen of all blue flowers. Wrexham, or hollyhock, has long tapering spikes of blue, or lavender and are very free-blooming. Chineses hybrids bloom all summer, make fine cut flowers and keep color in the border long after the other delphiniums have finished blooming. Then there are the Blackmore, and Langdon strain. These are old favorites from England. The Pacific hybrids are the giants of the border. Their stems are strong and woody requiring no staking. The flower spikes are immense and each flower measures two and a half inches across, and the strain is almost mildew proof. However, they do not germinate as freely as the other types.

If you have a portion of the cold frame reserved for delphiniums be sure to protect them from afternoon sun. They do well planted in an open row in the garden if given some protection from sun and strong winds. Grown in flats they may be placed under a hedge for shade, but care must be taken that they do not dry out.

Plant seeds one inch apart and cover with a thin layer of soil, or vermiculite. Do not water late in the day. Cool damp conditions at night encourage damping off. Fresh seed will germinate quickly, but packaged seed will require 15 to 20 days to germinate. When the

After that, they work all right when the car is used during the rest of the day. Why should this happen?
(A) A lubricant that is too thick when cold will cause this type of trouble.

P.R. asks: Several weeks ago my car overheated while on a trip. A mechanic who found the cooling system and engine in perfect condition blamed it on a strong, steady tail wind. I haven't had any trouble since, so I am beginning to think he was right. Perhaps other readers would be interested in this unusual experience.

(A) This, of course, is not a common occurrence—but it can happen especially if your car is on a long haul pull up a hill. With a strong tail wind under such conditions, there is not enough air rushing in to cool the radiator, and overheating may result.

(A) Water in the oil, usually, a head gasket leak or excessive condensation is probably to blame. L.R. writes: The overdrive on my car is very unpredictable lately. Sometimes it will just not cut in, and often it refuses to disengage. A mechanic checked the electrical system and said it was OK, but he cannot put his finger on the trouble. Have you any idea of the cause?

Marmora S.S. Loses Contest, Hosts to Victoria

MARMORA—As a result of the three months' Sunday school contest between Marmora and Victoria (Belmont township) Free Methodist Sunday schools, a picnic was held in the park at Havlock on Tuesday afternoon. The Marmora school, as losers, had to play the role of host to Victoria. The contest ending a few weeks ago, was conducted with enthusiasm and good natured rivalry, its aim being to increase Sunday school attendance by embracing those who were not attending a Sunday school, that the youth of the area might be more served in their spiritual needs.

CLASSES WELL ATTENDED
The classes for young people and adults were well attended and proved enjoyable as did also the children's classes. In the first half the score contest, Marmora took the lead and sustained until the last few Sundays when Victoria forged ahead to deservedly win.

At the peak of the contest, Marmora had an attendance of 124, while Victoria's attendance numbered 135. Both Sunday schools profited immeasurably and Christian fellowship between them was enhanced.

Although there was no enumeration it is believed that well over 100 participated in the picnic. Prizes were given for races and games and contests made up an entertaining program with refreshments being served in cafeteria style.

A ball game between the young people ended in Marmora's favor with the score of 9-7.

CONGRATULATES WINNER

At the picnic closed, Russell Wells, superintendent of the Marmora school, spoke briefly congratulating Victoria on its win of a good contest.

In reply, Floyd Steenburg, superintendent of the winning school, remarked on the good spirit of the contest and thanked Marmora for the good entertainment provided for the occasion. The Rev. W. Lohnes of Cordova, offered prayer. Ken Sinden of Marmora, read the rendition of a few choruses and the Rev. P. O. Miller, of Marmora, dismissed the gathering with the benediction.

MARMORA—Mrs. Clifford Jones has left Kingston General Hospital and is convalescing at the home of her son, Jack, and Mrs. Jones in Belleville.

Mrs. Thora Moffatt is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Gordon Pratt and Mr. Pratt in Warwick.

Miss Ruth Fleming is a patient in Belleville General Hospital. Mrs. James Moffatt, Marmora's oldest resident, attained her 95th birthday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lewis Phillips, on Thursday.

She is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Bailey, pioneer settlers in Marmora township, about five miles north of the village. All her life has been spent in the district. For one of her years she is enjoying fairly good health.

Mrs. C. Clarke, of Peterborough, visited her mother, Mrs. Cynthia Henderson, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O'Neill and family of Ottawa, are occupying Mr. F. D. Marett's cottage at Crowe Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McFarlane and daughter Doris, visited the former's sister, Mrs. Leslie May, and Mr. May in Orillia this week and attended the McFarlane-Sager wedding in Oshawa last Saturday.

The Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Robinson of Belleville, are occupying Mrs. S. E. Morton's cottage at Crowe Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Davern, of Peterborough, spent the week-end with their daughter, Mrs. Donald Marett, and Mr. Marett.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Smith and family of Belleville, are occupying Mrs. J. F. Baker's cottage at Crowe Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Pinner of Toronto, visited friends here on Thursday.

No. 1746 Massachusetts Ave. Centre Of Canadian Activities in Washington

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP)—No. 1746 Massachusetts avenue is becoming one of the better-known Washington addresses.

Any taxi driver can take you there without seeking direction and the men on the sightseeing buses point out the dignified grey-stone building as one of the capital's points of interest.

The fashionable home of a Washington society leader in the 1920s, it still looks like a comfortable family mansion until you spot the small brass plate bearing the words "Canadian Embassy" beside the door and see the RCMP constable who greets visitors when they enter the wide entrance hall.

CENTRE OF ACTIVITIES

The embassy is the focal point of Canadian activities in Washington and an establishment whose growth has kept pace with the vast post-war strides in Canadian economic and industrial development. Its staff numbers approximately 100, including those on the so-called diplomatic list and officials representing government departments at Ottawa, and its activities reflect the broad sweep of Canadian interests abroad—diplomatic, commercial, agricultural and cultural.

On the diplomatic side, the embassy serves Canada as a vital listening post, reporting back to the external affairs department a steady flow of behind-the-scenes information picked up in this key world capital. At the same time, A. D. P. Heene, Canada's amiable ambassador to Washington, and his aides keep on even balance the close relationships between Canada and her great southern neighbor.

Embassy attaches keep a close finger on the economic pulse of the U.S. and inform Canadian farmers and business men through Ottawa, about new trends and developments in their respective fields. They help Canadians to find markets here, keep watch on tariffs and other trade barriers and provide Americans with information about trade possibilities with Canada.

EMPHASIS ON TRADE

With total trade between the two countries running at more than $5,000,000,000 a year and the Canadian economy acutely sensitive to changes in that of the United States, the commercial aspects of the embassy's work perhaps overshadow its other activities.

The closer cultural ties produce many inquiries from Americans about Canadian art and literature. Mrs. Heene, the wife of the ambassador, is keenly interested in art and personally arranged the exhibition of Canadian art in the U.S. last year.

Canada has been represented in Washington since 1918, when a temporary Canadian war mission was established here and maintained for some years after the First World War. After that, an agent for the external affairs department occupied an office in the British embassy until 1927, when Canada established a legation. Now Hon. Charles Vincent Massey, now Canada's governor-general, as first Canadian minister.

In those early days, Mr. Massey had under him a staff of half-dozen. When he came to Washington last year on an official visit as governor-general, it took him 25 minutes to meet and shake hands with all the Canadian government employees in Washington.

Airlift of 1,000 U.K. Scouts Under Way

OTTAWA (CP)—Airlift of 1,000 United Kingdom Boy Scouts to Canada for the eighth world jamboree at Niagara-on-the-Lake started Friday.

The United Kingdom information office said Thursday the airlift, in 14 separate flights by chartered aircraft, is the largest ever undertaken for Boy Scouts. The jamboree is scheduled for Aug. 18-28.

Money for the airlift — $385 — was raised by the U.K. Boy Scouts Association, district groups and the scouts themselves.

The first flight leaving today will bring scouts from Bedfordshire Huntingdonshire, Middlesex, Bristol, Devon, Jersey, Somerset and Wiltshire.

Joining the Aug. 15 flight will be 17 South African scouts. The last flight Aug. 16 will stop at Belfast to pick up Northern Ireland scouts.

All flights will end at Toronto, with seven starting from London and others from Manchester and Prestwick, Scotland.

range a showing of Canadian paintings here last winter. The embassy provides American universities and other groups with information about Canada and Canadian literature and loans films depicting Canadian life and culture.

A few blocks up the avenue from the embassy is the imposing $2,000,000 Canadian joint staff building. Here, under command of Rear-Admiral H. G. Degout of Ottawa and Bedford, N.S., officers representing the three Canadian services work in close liaison with their U.S. counterparts on plans for joint continental defence. Some work in the joint staff building, built by the Canadian government and occupied last January, while others have offices in the Pentagon, the giant U.S. military headquarters across the Potomac river from Washington.

In numbers, the Canadian military staff outranks the embassy. Its staff totals nearly 250, including officers, other ranks and civilians. The Canadian department of defence production, with offices in the same building, employs another 50.

HAS STEADY GROWTH

There are no official figures available here to indicate the growth of the embassy force since the 1930s, but officials say its activities have increased steadily over the last 10 or 15 years.

Canada's Canadian embassy ranks high among the diplomatic missions in Washington. Only Britain, Russia, France and Japan boast larger staffs. Among Canadian diplomatic posts abroad, the Washington embassy is second only to London. However, when the eight Canadian consulates operating in the U.S. are taken into account, the U.S. mission becomes the largest in the Canadian service. The consulates, all of which report to the embassy, are in New York, Boston, Detroit, Chicago, Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles and New Orleans.

Canada has been represented in Washington since 1918, when a temporary Canadian war mission was established here and maintained for some years after the First World War. After that, an agent for the external affairs department occupied an office in the British embassy until 1927, when Canada established a legation. Now Hon. Charles Vincent Massey, now Canada's governor-general, as first Canadian minister.

In those early days, Mr. Massey had under him a staff of half-dozen. When he came to Washington last year on an official visit as governor-general, it took him 25 minutes to meet and shake hands with all the Canadian government employees in Washington.

Boston Reports 271 Polio Cases

BOSTON (AP)—Health officials today advised parents not to bring children to Boston now, but disputed a federal government report that the city's polio outbreak has reached epidemic proportions.

"There is no epidemic," said Joseph Reardon, epidemiologist of the Massachusetts public health department, "and the situation will not be declared an epidemic."

Dr. Reardon's statement came after Dr. C. C. Dauter, who compiled the public health service's weekly polio summary, said in Washington Thursday that the Massachusetts situation "could be described as having reached epidemic proportions."

Up to today, 271 cases of polio had been reported in Boston this year, most of them affecting children and teenagers. Many of that number have now gone home from hospitals.

Along Canadian Trails Raiders Stole Key to Fort

By LEONARD L. KNOTT
(Illustrated by David Ranson)

Almost 250 years ago a band of New Englanders sailed up the Atlantic coast to what is now Nova Scotia, attacked and captured what was believed to be a very strong fort and went back to Boston with the key.

Then, in 1710, the place where the fort stood was 105 years old. Both before and after the visit by the New Englanders, battles were fought there. This year, it is 350 years old, the oldest white community in all Canada, older even than St. John's Newfoundland, or Quebec City.

In 1604, Samuel Champlain, the first French explorer, discovered a little sheltered bay on the eastern coast of what is now Canada. He liked the bay and liked what he saw of the countryside. He called it Port Royal and the next year he came back to build a fort there and the first French settlement in the New World was founded.

Eight years later, a fleet of British ships from Virginia sailed into the bay, captured the fort and destroyed it. But the French won it back again and in 1710, the allies of France flew bravely over the historic site. That was the year the men from Boston came and it was the last year of French occupation. Boston, and New England, then belonged to Britain and the fort was then taken over by British troops and renamed Annapolis Royal.

TROPHY OF VICTORY

Returning in triumph to Boston, the New Englanders carried the key to Port Royal as a trophy of their victory. Almost 60 years later, the descendants of these same New Englanders revolted against England and Boston became the capital of the State of Massachusetts, one of the United States of America. The key to what was now a British possession remained in the hands of a people who no longer had the same government or loyalties.

Meanwhile, the story of Port Royal and Annapolis Royal, as it had become, was forgotten in Canada. No longer were there troops stationed there. The walls of a 17th-century building had crumbled and fallen. There was no longer a door for the ancient key to open. Then, back about 35 years ago, steps were taken to rebuild the old fort just as it had been in the days before the New Englanders came. Acadian workmen put old stones together again and a new building the walls, the shops, the guardroom, the storeroom and the living quarters were all restored.

Here was probably the most historic spot in all Canada, the first settlement, the scene of brave battles and great victories. All of it was complete, except for the key.

MADOC Bride-to-Be Honored By Friends

MADOC.—A pleasant event took place on Wednesday night at "Richmond", Oakwood, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rick, uncle and aunt of Miss Helen Lane, of Madoc, bride-to-be of this month, who was pleasantly surprised with a party-shelf shower by her cousins and friends and her parents, the Rev. J. F. Lane and Mrs. Lane.

Music and games were enjoyed throughout the evening and old friendships renewed. Most delicious refreshments were served by the ladies.

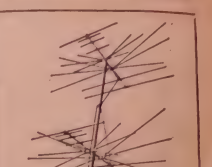

On Friday evening, Mrs. Dave Richardson entertained for Miss Lane, when neighbors and girl friends presented her with a magnificent shower. The event was held in Trinity United church parlors.

A program of readings, music and contests was enjoyed followed by an address read by Mrs. Eric McCoy, passing along the good wishes of her friends. Miss Lane thanked all for their gifts. Dainty refreshments were served.

Mrs. R. J. Munro of Calgary, who has been visiting her cousin, Mrs. Albert Empey and other relatives in the district, has left for her home.

The Rev. J. F. Lane, Mrs. Lane and Miss Helen Lane spent Sunday afternoon with friends in Frankford. Mr. Lane was the guest speaker at the Centaph service held in the afternoon in connection with centenary celebration.

In 1922, the descendants of the New Englanders of 1710, returned the key to old Port Royal. The fort is complete, even to the key that was stolen almost two and a half centuries ago.

ALCIDE COTE, 52, POSTMASTER GENERAL, DIES

Stricken With Heart Ailment in February

ST. JOHNS, Que. (CP) — Postmaster-General Alcide Cote died Sunday, the first cabinet minister to die in office since 1950.

The 52-year-old lawyer-politician died of a heart ailment at his St. Johns home. He was first stricken Feb. 1 and, except for a couple of weeks in June, had been away from his Ottawa office ever since.

At his summer home in St. Patrice, Que., prime minister St. Laurent said he was "greatly shocked" to hear of Mr. Cote's death.

"Although my colleagues and I realized from the start the serious nature of the heart attack which the postmaster general suffered some months ago, I strongly expected that his constitution and his buoyant character would enable him to make a satisfactory recovery."

PUBLIC SERVICE

Mr. St. Laurent paid tribute to Mr. Cote's devotion to public service, especially from the time of his entry in Parliament in 1945 as Liberal member for St. Jean-Baptiste-Napierville, and added:

"In the House of Commons his industry, his wide knowledge of social matters, his genial character and his colorful eloquence quickly made him a popular and influential member and he joined the government as postmaster-general in February, 1952."

"A host of friends throughout the country, and more particularly in his own native city and province, will share with the members of the government our deep regret at his early death."

A state funeral probably will be held Wednesday in St. Johns, where Mr. Cote will be buried in the family plot.

4TH TO DIE

Mr. Cote was the fourth cabinet minister to die in office in recent years. The others were Defence Minister Norman Rogers and Justice Minister Ernest Lapointe, who died early in the Second World War and Labor Minister Humphrey Mitchell who died in 1950.

All three were given state funerals as was former prime minister W. L. Mackenzie King who died in 1950 after retiring.

Knights Templar Given Toronto Civic Welcome

TORONTO (CP)—In white capes and full regalia, 300 of Canada's Knights Templar paraded downtown Sunday for a civic welcome preceding the opening of a three-day convention.

Joined by city fathers, Frederic G. Mann of Peterborough, grand master of the masonic order, placed a wreath at the cenotaph. A guard of honor with drawn swords stood to attention.

Tourist Couple Sought by Police

TORONTO (CP)—Police through-out eastern Canada have been asked to help locate a Pennsylvania couple believed holidaying in eastern Ontario, Quebec or Nova Scotia.

Thomas B. Shallcross of Belleville, Pa., asked police to inform his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl S. Orr, that their granddaughter, Susan, has died and that Mr. Shallcross wishes them to get in touch with him immediately.

Mr. and Mrs. Orr are driving a 1952 green Dodge sedan, with Pennsylvania licence plates 309ZG.

WASHED INTO LAKE

CAPE VINCENT, N. Y. (AP)—A Syracuse physician was washed overboard and lost Friday when a dragon-class sloop was caught in a sudden Lake Ontario squall.

Missing is Dr. Joseph G. Reidel, 37, who was sailing with Dr. and Mrs. William W. Hall of Watertown, N. Y. The others threw life jackets to Reidel but the wind-whipped waves carried them away.

Woman With Two Hubands Moves Off by Herself to Make Decision

NEVADA CITY, Calif. (AP)—Una Schmidt-Fine took her little boy and moved off by herself today, trying to decide whether she wants to remain the wife of a returning prisoner of war or of a logging tractor driver.

A slightly built, brown-haired woman of 20, she says the married lodger Alfred B. Fine in the belief that her husband, Airman Daniel C. Schmidt, was dead. He and 10 others in a B-29 were shot down Jan. 12, 1953, during the Korean war. They were freed only last week.

Una had separated at least temporarily from the lodger.

At Tokyo the airman told reporters he would not discuss his marital affairs until he has had a chance to talk with Una face to face and work out this personal problem with those intimately concerned.

At Portland, Ore., Mrs. Nellie Peters, mother of the airman, talked to her son Sunday night and said he "sounded very hurt." But she said he indicated he would try to work back Una. Fine has said he hopes she will stay with him.

New Chrysler Offer Averts Crippling Work Stoppage

WINDSOR (CP)—Threat of a crippling work stoppage at the Chrysler Corporation of Canada plant was averted when a small group of skilled workers voted Sunday night to accept a new contract.

The workers voted by show of hands to accept a company offer giving an improved wage progression scale, promise of more than 500 wage adjustments and revised seniority conditions.

The company, however, turned down a union demand for a 10-cent hourly raise for all skilled trades workers.

About 150 of the 700 skilled workers attended the meeting. The workers are all key maintenance men, without whose services the plant cannot operate. The men had threatened to leave their jobs next Sunday if their long-standing contract dispute was not settled.

They had closed the 10,000-man plant for three days last June when they refused to work to draw attention to their demands.

Charles Brooks, chairman of the Chrysler unit of Local 185, United Automobile Workers Union (CIO-CCL), which represents the skilled workers, said wording of some of the clauses in the new agreement is still subject to final approval by both sides, but he expects it will be signed shortly.

The agreement provides for automatic pay raises up to 15 cents an hour to come within 180 days of a worker being hired.

The present basic wage rate of the workers was not announced. Brooks said the changes in seniority mark a great improvement in skilled trades workers' relations. The company agreed that during indefinite layoffs, seniority will be on a plant-wide basis. For short periods, seniority will apply on a department-wide basis.

Supt. Had Mystery Visitor Minutes Before Shooting Self

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police were checking a new development in the death of Supt. Harry Whelan as the royal commission into the Vancouver police department sat again today following a weekend adjournment.

The inquest into the officer's death, originally set for Tuesday, has been postponed indefinitely.

RCMP officers said the postmortem followed a report that Whelan had a mysterious visitor minutes before he was found shot to death Friday morning.

Whelan died just three hours before he was to have returned for cross-examination before the commission sitting under R. H. Tupper. City police said he killed himself.

RCMP took over the investigation into the shooting Saturday, an unusual move ordered by Attorney-General Robert Bennett at the request of Vancouver coroner Glen McDonald.

Neither force would make an official statement on the new development, but it was learned that two officers in a patrol car saw the visitor arrive at Whelan's home shortly before the shooting. They did not see him leave, but it was learned he was not in the house at the time of the shooting.

Whelan was found with a bullet wound in his chest and his service revolver nearby, in the front room of his home.

He was to have appeared before the commission for cross-examination before the coroner's inquest.

Cuthbert had left a signed statement that he accepted underworld payoffs and split them with police chief Walter Mulligan.

Cuthbert attempted suicide but the bullet missed his heart and he lived to become a key witness.

Rain Ends Torrid Heat Wave, Douses Some Forest Fires

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hard work, rain and a break in the heat wave combined to bring new victories during the weekend in Ontario's long fight against forest fires.

Ninety-nine fires still raged across the province Sunday but the total was the lowest for four weeks. At one time last month it stood at more than 150.

Fifteen fires were out of control Sunday. One 600-acre blaze, north of Lake Nipigon, was reported endangering an inactive camp of the Albitri Pulp and Paper Co.

Heavy rains that swept the province and heralded the end of a month-long heat wave helped check nine fires in the Sault Ste. Marie, Chapleau and central areas.

The long-awaited low temperature helped firefighters to greater efforts in the Cochrane-Kapuskasing area, where a quarter of the fires were located, six of them out of control. Two RCMP helicopters placed a wreath at the cenotaph. A guard of honor with drawn swords stood to attention.

Cool weather with 20-mile-an-hour winds is predicted for the province for the next three days. A high of 75 is forecast for most of southern Ontario Tuesday. Windsor may have a high of 80.

The district lighting rating was still high to extreme but many big fires were reported checked. Firefighters expect to shorten the fire lines if lightning storms hold off.

One man's intensity beat one new fire. A forest ranger fighting a blaze on a long narrow lake in the Chapleau area Sunday noticed a jump fire on the other shore. The new fire was four miles away by land but only a quarter of a mile by water.

12 Guinea Pigs Get Big Lift To Aid Science

FORT FRANCES, Ont. (CP)—A gondola carrying 12 live guinea pigs and lifted 115,000 feet into the air by a stratosphere balloon Friday, landed in a flax field near Sherwood, N. D. Saturday.

The balloon was launched from International Falls, Minn., just across the border from here, and then headed over this town and went back into the United States.

It released its cargo about 400 air miles west of here.

The gondola, set free by radio equipment, parachuted to earth in 25 minutes.

The balloon was one of a series being launched to test effects of cosmic radiation at high altitudes.

Experts in Dark, Reporters Told Military Secrets

ACTRESS DIES

WASHINGTON, Conn. (AP)—Actress Janet Beecher, 70, known to players and movie fans for four decades, died here Saturday at the home of her sister. She was last seen on Broadway in 1943 and 1945-46 in the plays "Slightly Scandalous" and the hit show "The Late George Apley."

NINE AMERICANS GUARDING TRUCE TEAM INJURED

Mob Demonstrates Against Commission

SEOUL (AP) — Nine American soldiers and four Koreans were reported injured in new rioting at Pusan Sunday night as South Koreans continued mob demonstrations against the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission.

Police said the 13 were hurt in a stone-throwing clash between demonstrators and United States servicemen guarding quarters of the NSNS truce-inspection team.

Police said 30,000 Korean laborers and war veterans milled through Pusan streets during the night.

U. S. 8th Army headquarters at Seoul denied reports that American army guards had bayoneted five Koreans in rioting at Pusan Saturday.

The South Korean government had protested to U. S. officials against the use of bayonets and tear gas in subduing the riot.

A U. S. army release quoted an unnamed U. S. army officer as saying a "uninformed Korean agitator on a truck shouted at military police 'go ahead and stick me.'"

"When the MPs refused to use bayonets, he pulled out a knife and slashed his own arms and face."

He flared Sunday at Taegu, midway between Seoul and Pusan, at Kusan on the west coast and at Kangnung on the east coast.

South Korea has warned all four powers on the inspection teams to leave South Korea by next Saturday, a government source said.

The Koreans have charged the Polish and Czech members with acting as spies, but also want the Swiss and Swedish inspectors to leave.

The United Nations command has responsibility for guarding the teams.

Sat in Old Chair

ST. DAVID, Wales (AP)—The Queen sat in a chair Sunday which had been waiting for her and her ancestors for about 350 years.

It is a seat in the royal pew of St. David's Anglican cathedral. Authorities of the cathedral installed it in the reign of King Henry VIII, early in the 16th century, hoping that some time they might have a royal worshiper.

No sovereign came until the Queen arrived Sunday, with the Duke of Edinburgh to attend a service conducted by the Bishop of St. David's, Dr. W. T. Havard.

The Queen and the duke are making a three-day tour of Wales.

Drowns at Sudbury

SUDBURY (CP)—Stanley Spratt, 42, former Copper Cliff baseball player was drowned in the Vermilion river near Creighton Friday. His body was recovered Sunday.

Spratt and Emilie Brunelle, both of Waters township, were in the river when their sailboat overturned. Brunelle was towed to safety.

'It Was Wonderful' Says Girl Who Stowed Away With 150 Soldiers

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—"It was wonderful," said 16-year-old Joyce Lynn Jopliff of her stowaway trip from Hawaii on a Canadian destroyer. "I'd like to do it again—only legally."

She patted a short, boyish-haired cat and added: "I had it cut especially for me back to Hawaii, but I'll send me back to Nauala, but I'll send me back to Nauala."

Joyce's trip caused naught but confusion after her discovery in the aft wing locker of HMCS Athabaskan.

The FBI formed a reception committee for her upon arrival in the United States Sunday, and she was taken to juvenile hall in Los Angeles. Today she was to be arraigned on stowaway charges.

Four Are Dragged To Their Deaths In Rescue Effort

Other Three Drowned While Holidayers Frolic on Beach

WASAGA BEACH, Ont. (CP)—Seven bathers, including four attempting to rescue a little girl, were dragged to their deaths Sunday by an undertow made treacherous by winds that churned Notawasaga bay into a boiling sea. The girl was saved.

Five men and two youths, exhausted from fighting against the currents and rolling waves, were carried into the bay from the Notawasaga river. It was the worst multiple drowning ever to hit this popular resort area about 90 miles north of Toronto. Notawasaga bay is part of Georgian bay.

As the bay began to yield its dead today there were reports of a further five persons missing in the district. But reeve Wilbur Nash of Wasaga Beach said he had heard only of the seven confirmed drownings and police said they believe this is the complete toll.

All five bodies so far recovered were washed into shallow water along a one-mile stretch of beach. None was immediately identified.

Six men answered the unidentified girl's cries for help as she was being slapped by the four-foot waves. Only two of those who plunged in returned to shore. The others were lost.

The three other drowning victims had gone down within a four-hour period shortly before that as thousands of holidayers frolicked on nearby beaches, not knowing the tragedy that was unfolding in the bay.

Provincial Police Cpl. Harry Barker and Constable Al Cockburn investigated.

Provincial Police Cpl. Harry Barker and Constable Al Cockburn investigated.

Predict Customs Crackdown After Drug Seizure

TORONTO (CP) — A customs crackdown on Europeans entering Canada is expected to follow the arrest of three persons on drug charges and the seizure here of $1,000,000 worth of narcotics.

The opium and heroin was seized Friday in the biggest haul in Toronto's history. Police said they think the narcotics were smuggled into Canada by Europeans, and as a result stricter inspections may be made by customs officers at all Canadian ports of entry.

Charged with trafficking in drugs were Jacob Rosenblatt, 52, Jack Goldhar, 48, and Mrs. Hannelore Rosenblum, 23, all of Toronto.

They were remanded in custody until Aug. 12.

FOLLOWED RAID

Their arrests followed a police raid on a two-story east-end street near a house which yielded a suitcase containing a pound of heroin and five pounds of opium, enough to provide 166,000 capsules of diluted heroin at $5 a capsule, the market price.

Undercover work by police agents and RCMP officers in Canada and Europe over a nine-month period led to the Toronto raid, which police believe may help smash an international drug ring.

The drugs, police said, were bought from agents in Germany and France, smuggled into Canada and brought here for transshipment to Vancouver. Other arrests may follow in Canada and Europe.

Meanwhile, Vancouver police said the seizure of the drugs should cut heavily into the supply of narcotics for Vancouver addicts, who were reported buying up all available heroin capsules following the Toronto raid.

Today's Chuckle

The conceited bachelor was invited to a dinner party by a lady and did not attend. A few days later he saw her on the street and in his best manner:

"I believe you asked me to dine with you last week."

She looked at him thoughtfully, "Why yes, I believe I did," she said brightly, "and did you come?"

Four-Loaded Railway Cars Are Derailed

Four loaded railway cars which went off the end of a siding near the station at the west end of the yard stirred up the parking area at the Canadian National Railway depot early Sunday morning.

Railway officials said that three of the most heavily loaded cars had been set back on the track with another less heavily loaded still to be replaced.

The mishap occurred at five o'clock yesterday morning when the string of cars was being shunted. The brakes failed to hold and two coal-laden cars, one loaded with steel rails, and a fourth car went off the track. The auto parking area almost to the station flower bed was dug up as the cars came nearly to the depth of their wheels.

'Jane' Captures Claydee Trophy In Regatta Final

Dr. J. H. Forrester Saturday captured the 29-foot cruiser "Jane" to win in the Claydee Trophy piloting contest here in the final hours of Belleville's first power boat regatta.

The intrepid "Jane," which turned out to be the workhorse of the four-day regatta and was entered in nearly every race, came through the contest to win the title from last year's champion, the "Capitol," owned by Stan McRoberts, of Montreal. Third place was taken by Kurt Link of Toronto in Fleming 11.

The Claydee piloting contest was open only to members of the Canadian Power Squadron.

Knights of Black Preceptory Observe Derry Day in City

The world's first D-Day was hailed here Saturday.

The 26th anniversary of Derry Day, annual commemoration of the abortive siege of the Orange stronghold of Derry by Catholic forces in 1688, knighthood together in Belleville, Knights of the Royal Black Preceptory from across Hastings County.

Knights from Marmora in the north to Havelock and Frankford in the west, together with members of the brother Loyal Orange Order, gathered at the Fairgrounds to mark the day with a big parade and speechmaking.

Despite the onslaught of the week's heat wave the Knights did right nobly, everything going according to schedule for the order's biggest day of the year.

The parade started on its jaunty course through the sun-baked streets of the city shortly after 1:30 p.m. and did not return to the Fairgrounds until 2:30 p.m.

Led by the skirling lulls and swirling kilts of the Quinte Pipe Band the procession wended out of the grounds behind parade marshal Jack Botting of the Belleville preceptory.

Stolidly treading behind their individual preceptory banners the Knights made a splash of color along dusty city streets in their tashes and aprons of office. Interspersed amid the marching line were four file and drum bands and the Havelock Pipe Band.

A note of preparedness was struck by the presence of an ambulance bringing up the rear of the parade, prepared for any mishap. Its services were not required, however.

After showing their colors to the city the marchers returned once more to the Fairgrounds, where the non-marchers were waiting to greet them. Several of the preceptories received applause from the onlookers, while a special ripple of handclaps greeted the appearance of the while-dad preceptory, Havelock Crystal Chapter No. 36.

With the parade dismissed the members scattered over the grounds to refreshment booths, while the various bands dallied to call an impromptu music session before the speechmaking commenced.

Under the wide-open eye of a blazing sun the various speakers took their seats on the platform, decorated with the Union Jack. To hear them up in the grandstand gathered men in straw and women in light summer dress.

by Mr. J. Bentley, Worshipful Preceptor of Belleville Preceptory, and Joseph Shortt, past Worshipful Preceptor, the speakers confined themselves to concise addresses.

Increased interest by members of the order in civic affairs was urged by Rev. J. V. Mills, Toronto, a Most Worshipful Brother of the Orange Order's L.O.L. 137.

In particular, he stressed the necessity of increased attention of Ontario taxpayers to the destination of public funds.

In this respect he held, 80 per cent of the province's taxpayers "don't care a hoot—and they do very little about it."

Roman Catholics are well trained in the period before marriage regarding this and if their property is assessed "... they make very certain it goes to the private schools, known as Separate schools, in Ontario."

Drawing an analogy with the closing of the gates of Derry in the face of the Catholic enemy forces in 1688, he earlier said: "We have enemies among us today and it is necessary for us to be on the alert so that we also, in a very real way, close the gate and keep it closed."

"Protestants are not against something, they are for something. That is what 'pro' means. The Orange Order is not against anything except disloyalty to the flag and the British throne," he reminded them.

Ritual Worship Grand Master of the Royal Black Chapter, John Robertson told the Knights: "Certain people tell us that we are a bunch of radicals but that is not so."

"I feel on the upholding of the Protestant religion and the British Empire we are well worthy of the success we have achieved so far."

ORANGE EDITOR HEARD

William Armstrong, editor of the Orange newspaper, the Sentinel, told the gathering of freedom enjoyed by it today stemmed from the Battle of the Boyne, but linked to that was the heroism behind Derry's walls.

"Without their stubbornness not to surrender there would never have been any battle of the Boyne."

"One of the greatest heritages of the revolution of 1688 was that it gave to the British people and the people of the world the British Bill of Rights (guaranteeing Protestant succession to Britain's throne) and that was all centred round the little city of Derry."

Introduced from the platform were: Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A., Hastings West and Roscoe Robinson, M.L.A., Hastings East.

The Knights were officially welcomed to Belleville by Alderman Bram Humphreys, while the other speakers included: Fred Bateman, Stirling, past Grand Master L.O.L. Ontario East; Arthur Holden, Peterborough, past Grand Master Royal Black Chapter; Keith A. Bergman, past Preceptor of Crystal Chapter of Belleville, No. 34, and Pearl Holmes, Right Worshipful Grand Auditor, Ontario East L.O.B.A.

Preceptories marching in the parade were: Forest Mills RBP 944; Royal Black Knights of Ireland, Marmora 631; Frankford RBP 631; Trent Valley RBP 878; Havelock Crystal Chapter 36; Havelock RBP 946, and Belleville RBP 856.

New Constitution For Belle Haven Club Drafted

Recently the Belle Haven Club held its monthly meeting at the Moose hall where, in spite of the torrid heat, the chairwoman, Mrs. McMurray, had the pleasure of welcoming a representative number of members.

The first part of the evening was devoted to the adoption of a revised constitution. It was finally decided that the members would receive individual copies of this document and that a final vote would be taken at the next meeting.

The remainder of the evening was devoted to a study of the financial report and the club's new workshop on Station St.

Friends will learn with regret that Mr. Ackerman, the original founder of the club, has been forced by illness to retire from the club. As Mr. Ackerman's activities included the co-signing of cheques, the members decided that this important office would be filled by the chairman and the secretary.

The best wishes of the club accompany Mr. Ackerman in his enforced retirement.

General Believes There Will Be No Atomic War

CAMP GAGETOWN, N.B. (CP)—Maj.-Gen. John Rockingham says he firmly believes there will not be an atomic war.

At the same time, the chief of the 1st Canadian Infantry Division says the atomic bomb is a practical tactical weapon and Canadian troops must know how to take counter-measures against its possible use.

Gen. Rockingham made these comments here Saturday night. He said he foresees a time when paratroopers will no longer be required in the army. Such troops would be lifted by helicopter. Because helicopters could hover, there would be little danger to them from fast jets. But there would still be a big danger from ground fire.

Gen. Rockingham said the army wants its own helicopter force eventually, owned, operated and controlled by the army.

Gen. Rockingham said he feels no country is prepared to undertake atomic war because of the ghastly consequences, especially for cities and civilian populations.

In an atomic war, the front-line soldier might be in the safest position because the enemy would not use A-bombs if at close quarters with opposing forces.

Gen. Rockingham said the army has formed a pattern against atomic attack but that much study still has to be given to the problem.

Senior Citizens Enjoy Outing At Crystal Beach

The second annual picnic of the Senior Citizens of Belleville club was held on Saturday; those attending travelling by bus to Crystal Beach, Mead.

The day was perfect and the location all that could be desired.

All kinds of competitions and games were carried out and were entered into with fine spirit by the "Citizens." Perhaps the one causing the most enjoyment and excitement was the men's blindfold obstacle race, where the competitors were coached how to negotiate over the different barriers.

Games and winners were as follows: "What Would You Do If," Mrs. Hilton and Mr. Savage; polon stik, J. Thomson; men's blindfold obstacle race, E. Wilson; kicking the shoe, Mrs. Thorn; footpunch and lifesavers, L. Field; driving nails (ladies), Mrs. Sam; patch sew, Mrs. Graetrix and P. Cooke; shopping spree, Mrs. Samain, and a special prize was won by Miss L. Reid.

Supper was enjoyed on the grounds at one long table, and to end the day the game of "Cootie" was played. The "goodnight" handshake was carried out before leaving.

Popular songs were sung on the trips each way and there was never a dull moment during what everyone expressed as being a splendid outing.

Mr. L. H. Field, the president, was ably assisted by Mrs. L. Moutt, Mrs. M. Drummond, Mrs. J. Thomson, Mrs. Samain, Fred Cooke and John Thomson, in carrying out the program for the outing.

Power Failure Slows Traffic Over Bay Bridge

Highway traffic over the bay bridge between Belleville and Prince Edward county was slowed over the week-end with a power failure making hand operation of the swing bridge necessary.

The bridge tender said today that Friday afternoon's storm had blown out electric transformers serving motors for the operation of the bridge and since then the swing bridge had been operated by hand.

At one time during the peak of Sunday's highway traffic 258 cars were tied up when the bridge had to be opened to allow boats to pass.

Hand operation of the big swing bridge is a lengthy and arduous task, which has been complicated by the fact that one of the wedges lining up the bridge has been broken.

Highway officials at Fort Hope have been notified of the trouble but at 11 o'clock this morning no repairs had turned up to rectify the trouble.

Sunday evening 16 power boats visiting the city for last week's regatta, and a coiler passed through the bridge in a group.

The passage of the boats, together with the time taken for hand operation of the bridge tied traffic up for close to three-quarters of an hour.

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I. (CP)—injured Saturday when their motorcycle plowed into an automobile here, Able Seamen T. E. Kinsey of Preston, Ont., and M. V. Nickerson of Woodstock, N.B., were flown to hospital at Halifax by the RCAF Saturday night. Each suffered head injuries.

Buffet Dinner, Presentation Of Awards Conclude Regatta

Turkey, horseshay, prizes and partying Saturday night wound up the week-long regatta of Canadian and U.S. power squadrons at the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club.

Close to 200 local and visiting power boat enthusiasts attended the buffet turkey dinner and took part in the regatta-closing festivities.

Following the dinner, which was convened by Commander Kaye Smith of the Squadronettes and served with the assistance of the ladies of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club, B. of Q. Power Squadron Commander, Jack Tatham paid tribute to all those responsible for the success of the regatta. He saluted the efforts of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club, the Squadronettes, the mayor and city council, the harbor commission, Arthur Keegan, chairman of special council committee, the RCMP, the Sea Cadets, and a quartet of water skiers, Barry Kells, Ron Sprague, Barbara and Linda Keel, who put on an exhibition of water skiing preceding the cruise dinner.

Trophies were awarded winning skippers of the main events in regatta competition. Trophies and winners were: National Yacht club Trophy, Phil Kane, in "Fill-buster," of Belleville; Lake Yacht Racing Association Gold Cup, Lawrence Smart, in "Happy IV" of Buffalo; Van Valkenburg Trophy, Ed. Latham in "Philmor."

Other skills included "Davy Crockett's Harem," by men of the Buffalo squadron dressed as women; enactment of a poem on Belleville's virtues by members of the Toronto power squadron; and the presentation of tiny cups by ladies on the "Bobcat" to the "Bob Kittens" ... male members of the boat, who staged a dinghy race dressed as women.

Commander Tatham came in for congratulations as winning skipper of a challenge race in Y-flyers. A U.S. crew captained by Adam Eby, of Buffalo, and sailing Bill "Y-flyer" was defeated by Commander Tatham who sailed Lennox Smith's boat.

A party and social evening followed the formal and informal presentations at dinner.

Blaze in Waste Paper on Truck Sets House Afire

Fire in a box of paper picked up by a waste paper collector set fire to the collector's house at noon today causing a run for city firemen.

Walter Asselstine, 146 St. Paul street, had been making his regular morning rounds picking up waste paper and decided to return home for lunch before taking it to the city dump.

He parked his truck at the corner of the house and a few minutes later was surprised to see flames through the back window. He rushed out, kicked the burning box of paper out of the truck and moved the truck to safety but the corner of the house had already taken fire.

The blaze scorched the insular brick, damaged the eave of the house and smoked up the interior. On the whole firemen had a rather busy week-end although several of the calls were for trouble other than fire.

Two of the calls were for branches falling on hydro wires, while another was to get a woman into her house after she had locked herself out.

Hurricane Connie Keeps Out to Sea

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Connie, larger than ever but confining her 135-mile-an-hour punch to the open seas, gave indications today of turning to a more northerly course.

Early today she was centred roughly 400 miles off the east coast of Florida and 300 east of Nassau, Bahamas. She was moving at 15 miles an hour on a course that would keep her east of the Bahamas where winds should be no stronger than gale force.

Forecasters said it was too early to tell whether she would strike the United States coastline.

Jas. D. Whitley, 96, Trenton's Oldest Resident Dies of Stroke

James D. Whitley, 96, Trenton's oldest resident, was laid to rest here today after a vigorous, active life, spent most of the time in the community of his adoption.

Mr. Whitley, who lived to see his grandchildren span five generations, died late Friday, when he was stricken by a stroke.

Earlier today his casket was conveyed to St. George's Anglican Church where it was opened until the service at 3 p.m. Afterwards interment took place in the church cemetery.

Mr. Whitley was born in Oxford, England, and embarked on a new life in Canada when he was 28. He came to this country aboard a sailing ship. His first job was with the Frankford Paper Mills as a millwright. Later he entered the building trade and among his town's structures connected with his work is the present post office building and the Bank of Commerce.

In his flowing white beard he was a familiar figure to the town. He enjoyed pipe smoking and, despite his years, had a boundless zest for life. Last year, at 95, he flew to England to refresh his memory with the scenes and incidents of his younger days before his immigration to Canada.

He raised eight children and saw his son Billy, become mayor of Trenton in his centennial year, 1953. Of his family seven still survive; his son Thomas died 26 years ago.

He now leaves three sons and four daughters, all residents in Trenton. They are: Richard, Ernie and Rolly, Mrs. Charles (Beatrice) Bowman, Mrs. George (Elizabeth) Miller, Mrs. Everett (Ethel) Walt and Mrs. Lucy Morey.

He was predeceased some years ago by his wife.

Mr. Whitley leaves almost 150 grandchildren, extending into five generations.

Two Members Tilbury Police Force Resign

TILBURY, Ont. (CP) — To members of Tilbury's three-man police force have resigned following the events of a near-riot here July 27 involving 30 provincial police officers and 200 townspeople. The resignation of chief R. D. Chisholm and constable Jack Murray were announced Sunday by Mayor William Cowley.

Chief Chisholm has headed Tilbury police since last November. Both he and Murray were controversial figures in the trouble that saw four men arrested and townspeople threaten to break into the jail.

Mayor Cowley's statement quoted the town council as saying the resignations, effective last Saturday, had "nothing to do with the July 27 incident."

The trouble rose to a head following the arrest of Harry Penfold, 32, a Genesee farmer on a charge of obstructing.

When townspeople threatened to free Penfold, mayor Cowley read the Riot Act. Three other men were charged with creating a disturbance.

Penfold with George Harper, 34; William Williams, 21, and Eugene Phancut, 22, all of Tilbury, are scheduled for hearing in Chatham Sept. 7.

Mr. John A. Massingberd has been appointed district manager of eastern Ontario for the O'Keefe's Brewing Company Limited according to an announcement by Mr. H. E. Dalton, general sales manager of the company.

Mr. Massingberd joined O'Keefe's in 1954 having wide experience in the retail and wholesale fields prior to his joining the company. He succeeds Mr. D. J. Delaney who has been appointed manager of O'Keefe's Montreal branch.

Hand and Foot Badly Seered By Hydro Wire

TRENTON (Special) — Showing a group of young men how easy it was to climb a hydro pole with regulation spurs Lloyd Baggeley, 70, of Castleton, during the week-end was knocked to the ground below, when his hand touched a wire above the transformer carrying 4600 volts. He received emergency treatment at the Cobourg Hospital and then was rushed by ambulance to the Toronto General Hospital suffering fourth degree burns. His right hand and foot were badly seered.

FELL OUT OF CAR

Little Harvey Robinson, three-and-a-half years old son of Harvey E. and Mrs. Robinson, 24A Middleton Park, suffered only pavement burns on the face, when he fell out of his parents' moving car on highway No. 2 during the week-end. The family seeking relief from the heat was out for a drive when the accident happened. An older brother told young Harvey to get out in a hurry when they stopped. The child apparently misunderstood and opened the door, while the car was still in motion.

Dr. Duncan Campbell examined the little boy and permitted him to return home with his parents.

RAIN WELCOMED

The government experimental sub-station west of here reported that .07 inch of rain, less than a half an inch, fell in the district Sunday.

While more rain is needed the downfall yesterday will help to moisten corn and late apples. Rainfall came too late to do anything for the early fruit crop, the raspberry crop in particular.

Carrier Topples, Gunner Killed

CAMP GAGETOWN, N. B. (CP) — One gunner was killed and three others injured during the night when a Bren-gun carrier rolled over.

The casualties were the first in exercise Rising Star of the 1st Canadian Infantry Division. The exercise started Sunday night in a driving rain and lightning storm. The man killed was a member of the 4th Regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery.

Names were not released pending notification of next of kin.

14-Year-Old Bride Must Go Back to School

FLINT, Mich. (CP) — A probate judge Saturday ordered a 14-year-old bride separated from her 19-year-old husband and said she will have to return to school until she is 17.

The girl, Hazel Sexton, was married to Edwin Burnette in South Carolina last February, with the consent of her parents.

Judge William Dorn said Saturday Michigan would not recognize the legality of the marriage, and said Burnette would be prosecuted for contributing to the delinquency of a juvenile unless he leaves the girl alone.

POPULATION UP

CANBERRA (Reuters) — Australia's population is climbing toward 10,000,000, official figures show. By the end of March it had reached 9,149,477, S. R. Carver, Commonwealth statistician estimated. In the quarter ending in March the figure was up 58,000 compared with a 44,000 increase in the previous quarter.

Ginette Phillion, 5, Takes First Steps After Operation for Heart Condition

Ginette Phillion, five-year-old granddaughter of Mrs. H. M. Bryant, 15 Everett Street, took her first steps the other day thanks to a miracle of modern surgery.

A "blue baby" with roses in her cheeks for the first time in her life ran to join her two brothers and two sisters following a delicate heart operation in Montreal's Children's Hospital.

Ginette is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Phillion, 27 St. Etienne St., Hull, P.Q. She was born with a congenital heart condition that made the slightest exertion impossible.

Her parents wept unashamedly when telling an Ottawa Journal reporter of the joy that filled their hearts when their daughter came down the hospital corridor towards them after her operation.

She had been in and out of hospital since birth. At home she used to sit all day on a table top.

Then, last May, on the advice of an Ottawa specialist, she was sent to Montreal for the operation. Yesterday, she and four other Canadian children with similar disabilities, were released from hospital and allowed to return to their homes across Canada.

The other children treated at the hospital were: Alfreda Bears, 10, of Brooklyn, P.E.I.; Dennis Middleton, 5, of Broadview, Sask.; Florence Eloquin, 15, of the Magdalen Islands; and 10-month-old Eileen Dunbar, of Newington, Ont.

Doctors at the hospital said many heart abnormalities were considered inoperable only a few years ago are now curable because of modern techniques of diagnosis, anesthesia, surgery and rehabilitation.

A "blue baby" was a fairly common occurrence at the hospital, the doctors stated, but the trick was to find out which of a number of possible malformations was causing the condition.

Meanwhile, in Hull today, little Ginette was trying out her new legs, a little unsteady at first, perhaps, and tucking in hearty meals with an appetite she has never known before.

Her father, Paul Phillion, is 39, and works at Morrison-Lamothe Bakery in Ottawa.

25 Persons Die In Flaming Crash Of Russian Plane

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda today published news of one of Russia's worst known air disasters in recent years—the fiery crash of a Soviet airliner which claimed the lives of 25 persons, including 10 Norwegian women.

It was the first time in years the Soviet press had reported such an accident. The Communist party organ said the tragedy occurred Saturday near Voronezh, 290 miles southeast of Moscow.

The women were members of Norwegian political parties who had accepted a Soviet invitation to visit Russia. The remaining victims were Russians.

The foreign ministry extended "deepest regrets" to the Norwegian charge d'affaires, and said Russia would pay indemnities for the loss of the Norwegian lives.

Tass news agency said the plane was "making its usual trip from Stalingrad to Moscow" when it "caught fire in the air and crashed."

Smart Ad Libbing Brightens TV Show at Luxury Hotel

By JAMES BACON
BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Conrad Hilton put up the $16,000,000 but it took columnist Hedda I. Hopper, with some of the choicest ad libbing heard on television, to really launch the new Beverly Hilton Hotel.

Hilton let the people take a TV look at the most luxurious of hotels on the NBC Variety Hour Sunday night.

Hedda's job was to table-top with movie stars, but before the show was five minutes old she almost walked in front of the camera when she wasn't supposed to. Realizing her predicament, she started crawling on her knees out of camera range, pulling her hand microphone with her.

This feat pulled all the glasses off one table and almost knocked Edger Bergen and one of his dummies off the air. Ventriquist Bergen, speaking through dummy Effie Clinker, said, "Get up Hedda, we know you're there."

Hedda got up gracefully and walked to her next camera spot, a seat between Shelley Winters and Terry Moore—both bosomy and wearing low-cut gowns.

"I see you're both abreast of the times," the columnist quipped.

Hedda next moved to a table where sat buxom Marnie von Toren. The platinum blonde was wearing a dress that showed more than the FCC likes displayed. Fortunately, a minute before camera time a stage director had made her dress from it. It didn't make much difference as Miss Hopper ad libbed:

"I see you're dressed for television—was so afraid you'd be indiscreet."

The new Hilton establishment, with 450 rooms, is billed as the "most luxurious hotel in the world." Fortunately it is located in the heart of one of the few cities where millionaires outnumber poor people.

Old Red Patch Back in Action At N.B. Camp

By DAVE MCINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CAMP GAGETOWN, N.B. (CP)—The old red patch was back in business for the first time since 1945.

The 1st Canadian Infantry Division has worn the red rectangular patch, or Somme patch, as its distinctive badge since the Battle of the Somme in the fall of 1916. More than 12,000 troops, described by their commander, Maj. Gen. J. M. Rockingham, as the best fighting men in the world, wore the patch proudly today as they took off on a week-long "exercise Rising Star."

It is the first peacetime divisional exercise in Canadian history and the first time the 1st Division has operated as a unit since it stood victorious on the Grebbe line in The Netherlands more than 10 years ago.

THROUGH HEAVY RAIN

Hunched down in ponchos, the groups sloshed through heavy rain and mud to take up defensive positions against a supposed three-division attack from the north. The part of the three enemy divisions is being played by the 2nd Battalion, the Black Watch, and "C" Squadron, Royal Canadian Dragoons.

The 1st Division had orders to hold a fort about five miles wide in wood-covered country. It will first withdraw and then launch a counter attack.

For purposes of the exercises, 430-square-mile Camp Gagetown, still under construction, is divided into two mythical countries—powerful, aggressive Philistia in the north and weak Blueiland in the south.

WANTS FREE PORT

Philistia wants the free-port port of Saint John, about 45 miles to the south. The Blueilanders will have none of this and have told their army it must hold at least seven days before help can arrive from friendly countries.

Though no living ammunition is being used in the exercises, most of the sights and sounds of battle were the same. British-made Centurion tanks clanked over Bailey bridges and churned desperately at muddy ground, the artillery pounded away and the infantry dug into the sodden ground.

This is a non-atomic exercise. The troops finished with that phase of their training at brigade level before Rising Star began. Gen. Rockingham said just before his men began moving off that the atomic bomb was a practical battlefield weapon and Canadian troops had to know how to deal with such an attack.

Epidemic?

KINGSTON (CP)—Jim Edmunds, 51-year-old physical training instructor training for an attempt to swim Lake Ontario, Sunday swam 22 miles across Loughboro lake from Inverary to Battersea near here.

Edmunds covered the distance in 16 hours and 40 minutes. A big crowd was on hand at Battersea, a village about 15 miles north of here, as he reached shore.

Edmunds, an instructor at Collins Bay penitentiary, plans to enter the across-Lake-Ontario swim sponsored by the Canadian National Exhibition and scheduled for Sept. 5. Only one person, Marilyn Bell of Toronto, has conquered the lake.

Edmunds said he felt in "fairly good" condition after Sunday's grind.

This is the first photo to be released by the Israeli commission showing wreckage of the El Al airliner shot down over Bulgaria with a loss of 55 lives. The Bulgarian Communist government has admitted that two fighter planes brought down the big Constellation, and has promised to punish those responsible and pay compensation to families of the victims. As the picture shows, the Israeli flag and plane identification are visible on tail section.

Minor Baseball 1 Killed, 2 Hurt As Car Rolls Over

The TPT bantam baseballers won their second straight game from the Orfuns on Saturday, defeating them by a 3-1 score. They took the first 15-7 on July 30.

TPT scored in every inning, exploding for a dozen runs in the fourth. Larry Phillips, the TPT hurler, held the Orfuns to three hits. Turner started for the Orfuns and gave up five hits for 19 runs. Wood relieved him and was touched for 18 hits for 15 runs.

For the winners Tracey hit a homer, triple and double; Lupinette got four singles; Mulhead a double and three singles; Pearce a double and two singles; Ward a triple and Gilroy and Allenby each a double. Duguid hit a double for the Orfuns.

Labor Editor Of Spectator Dies Suddenly

PORT MAITLAND, Ont. (CP)—James Barrie, 44-year-old labor editor of the Hamilton Spectator, died here Sunday. He is believed to have suffered a heart attack after swimming near this Lake Erie community.

Born in Kilsyth, Scotland, Mr. Barrie went to Hamilton with his family at an early age. He went back to Scotland in 1927. He later became a reporter with the Kemsley newspaper organization in Scotland and in 1939 he returned to Canada to join the editorial staff of the Vancouver Sun. The following year he moved to Hamilton and was appointed labor editor of The Spectator.

An avid fisherman, Mr. Barrie was the author of a book on the subject. He also wrote numerous articles about fishing for newspapers and magazines. Surviving are his widow and two daughters.

Former Publisher Mail and Empire Dies in Quebec

CASCAPEDIA, Que. (CP)—Izaak Walton Killam, who started out as a newspaper boy and became the publisher of the old Toronto Mail and Empire, died at his fishing camp near here Sunday. He was 70.

Mr. Killam once sold newspapers in his hometown of Yarmouth, N.S., and bought The Mail and Empire in 1927 after having established himself as one of Canada's outstanding financiers. He sold his interest in the paper to the late George McCullagh in 1936. The Globe and The Mail and Empire later were amalgamated and became the Globe and Mail.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been announced. At his death, Mr. Killam was president of Royal Securities Corp. Ltd., International Power Co., Boilivian Power Co., the Demerara Electric Co., Monterey Railway, Light and Power Co. and Venezuela Power Co.

WAS BANK CLERK

The financier took his first job at 17 as a clerk in the Halifax Union Bank. At 20 he went to work as a salesman for Max Aitken, later Lord Beaverbrook, at Royal Securities.

At 21 he became managing director of the company. Soon after Lord Beaverbrook left for Britain and his young deputy became president. He began a fast rise as a figure in the pulp and paper industry.

The First World War saw him a victim of financial disaster. The Riordan Company, which Mr. Killam bought and promoted, collapsed. It was sold at a loss to the International Pulp and Paper Co. But Mr. Killam recovered from almost complete business oblivion to win the acclaim of financial men.

Cooler Weather Did Not Help To Cut Fatalities

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Eastern Canada's blistering heatwave ended during the weekend, but the cooler weather did not help cut down the number of accidental deaths. The count stood at 47 today.

Drawings, heavy during the recent hot weeks, decreased slightly to 21 but traffic mishaps, took 23 lives. Three persons died from various other causes, a Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. EDT Friday to midnight Sunday showed.

Ontario's toll was 26—more than half the total number of deaths. Fourteen were drowned, seven within a few hours at Wasaga Beach, a resort area 90 miles north of Toronto. Eleven died on the province's highways, while one man was killed when he severed an artery with a power saw.

Quebec's count was 18, five water deaths. It reported the same traffic toll as Ontario—11. One man died when he dived into a river and struck his head on a rock and another was gored to death by a bull.

The Maritimes reported three deaths, one each in Nova Scotia, Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island. A woman was crushed by a truck in Nova Scotia, while P. E. I. and Newfoundland, had one drowning each. No deaths were reported in New Brunswick.

Striking Workers Will Ignore Ultimatum

MONTREAL (CP)—Maurice Vaasart, organizer for the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor, said this weekend that workers on strike at the Belgo mill in Shawinigan Falls, Que., will ignore an ultimatum to return to work by Tuesday.

The company last week notified persons engaged in a work stoppage since early June that if they fail to return by Tuesday they will lose their pension and seniority rights and will be rehired only as new employees.

Hussein spokesman said there was no way of gauging until Tuesday the extent to which the ultimatum will be accepted.

EDMONTON OFFICER INVENTS BETTER FLAME-THROWER

Major Henry Sorensen of Edmonton is seen here (upper left) receiving a cheque for $5,000 for his part in the invention of the new Incoque Flame Thrower. In the awarding of the cheque, the largest award of its kind ever to awarded an armed forces officer, it was cited that the eight years of work put into the development of this weapon has given the Canadian army a flame thrower that is 50% better in most all respects to that of its predecessor, and is probably the best in the world. The cheque was presented to Major Sorensen by Dr. G. O. Langstroth, chief superintendent of Suffield experimental station.

Political Changes Shake Pakistan, Premier Ali Out

KARACHIE, Pakistan (Reuters)—Hussein Shabeh Suhrawardy, 64-year-old leader of Pakistan's Awami League, today accepted an invitation to form a government following Sunday night's resignation of Prime Minister Mohammed Ali.

The political upheaval which has shaken Pakistan during the last 24 hours has seen the following developments: 1. Replacement of Governor-General Ghulam Mohammed, 60-year-old "strong man" reported seriously ill, by Interior Minister Maj. Gen. Iskander Mirza, sworn in on a temporary basis Sunday.

2. The ousting of Ali, 46, as head of the Muslim League parliamentary party and his replacement by Finance Minister Chaudhri Mohammed Ali, which in turn led to: 3. Resignation of the prime minister and the naming of the opposition Awami League chief, Suhrawardy, to succeed him.

Muslim League leaders rejected Sunday an attempt by Mohammed Ali to remain in his post through a deal with the United Front party, an East Pakistan alliance which controls 16 seats.

REBELS, TROOPS CLASH

ALGIERS (AP)—A reconnaissance force of French infantry was ambushed by Nationalist rebels 25 miles southwest of Batna in east-morocco Saturday night. Two non-commissioned officers were killed and 11 soldiers wounded in the French party. Moroccan troop reinforcements were rushed to the scene and four of the rebels were killed.

Bowling News

A Belleville rink of Claude D. Tice, Fred Harper and G. B. Hyde as skip was in the money at the Senator Hardy Rose Bowl tournament held at Brockville on Saturday. The rink won the fourth three-game high score with Geo. Cox winning the trophy and silverware. W. Bowman of Ottawa was second with W. S. McCauley of Carleton Place, in the third slot. Jim Duncan and his rink from Kingston, won the two-game high score while another Brockville rink, skipped by "Lucky" Smith won the one-game high count. The Belleville rink defeated A. E. Berry, of Ottawa, 13-5 in the first game. Ralph Hinton of Kingston, 13-8, in the second and Eddie Denison 17-5 in the final contest. The greens were in good condition.

The games in the district for the right to compete in the Governor General Trophy at Ottawa will be concluded next Monday evening when Kingston and Belleville hook up in what may be the deciding game. Four districts will be represented at Ottawa and how the tournament this year will be played has not been officially decided. The tournament, for years, has been run on a knockout basis, but some of the clubs feel it is too far to travel for probably only one game and an effort has been made to have a round robin with points deciding the ultimate winner. A decision likely will be handed down in the near future. Belleville won the district last year but were defeated by Brockville in the first game by only one shot.

Charged With Theft

TORONTO (CP)—Edward C. Moore, 21, of St. Thomas was arrested Sunday and charged with theft of a truck and its contents from the St. Thomas Dairy and the Moore Tire Co. of St. Thomas. Police said the truck was loaded with 35 new and used tires.

BRIEFS INVITED

THE ROYAL COMMISSION ON CANADA'S ECONOMIC PROSPECTS
will commence public hearings in Toronto, 23rd of January.

Briefs are invited from organizations and associations wishing to express views on the probable economic development of Canada and on the problems to which it appears likely to give rise.

Specifically included among the subjects to be considered by the Commission are the following:

- anticipated developments in the supply of raw materials and energy sources;
- the growth to be expected in the population of Canada and changes in its distribution;
- prospects for growth and change in domestic and external markets for Canadian production;
- trends in productivity and standards of living; and
- prospective requirements for industrial and social capital.

Briefs must be in writing and should reach the Secretary of the Commission, Room 400, Daly Building, Ottawa, by the 25th of December. At least ten copies should be forwarded and more, if possible.

It would be helpful if organizations and associations intending to submit briefs could so inform the Commission's Secretary without delay.

Weddings

McFARLANE-SAGER

A wedding of local interest took place at 3 p.m. on Saturday, July 30, in Centre Street United church, Oshawa, the contracting parties being Margaret Joan Sager, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sager, of Oshawa, and Alvin Eugene McFarlane, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McFarlane of Cordova Mines. The Rev. S. C. H. Atkinson was the officiating minister in a setting in which baskets of pink and white gladioli with white more bows on the pews were featured.

Wedding music was played by Mr. Ronald Kellington and Mrs. Ronald Kellington sang "I'll Walk Beside You" and "Because".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a waltz-length gown of garden white Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over net and satin faille. A brief jacket of lace having long sheath sleeves and a turn over collar complemented the formal gown. The billowing skirt featured a star pointed lace inset. A Juliet cap of lace over satin held the double tiered veil of tulle illusion bordered with French lace. She carried a cascade of red roses and white stephanotis.

Miss Barbara Sager, was maid of honor for her sister, wearing a diaphanous yellow. The other attendants were, Mrs. James Sager, in blossom pink, and Mrs. Alan Fice in forget-me-not-blue. The gowns worn by all attendants were similarly styled of nylon tulle over net and taffeta designed with strapless bodices, topped with bolero jackets and having bouffant skirts. They wore mitts and sequin studded headresses to match their gowns and carried cascaded bouquets of pink roses.

Mr. Morris Chard of Cordova Mines, performed the duties of best man. The ushers were, Messrs. Ralph McFarlane of Whitby, brother of the bridegroom, and Alan Fice of Oshawa. The reception was held in the lower hall of the church, where the bride's mother received, wearing a street-length dress of dusty rose crystal with white 'hat' and matching accessories and corsage of yellow roses. The bridegroom's mother, who assisted chose navy and white nylon sheer over taffeta, small hat of white ribbon and corsage of pink roses. Also greeting the guests was Mrs. Ethel Robbins of Galt, grandmother of the bridegroom, who wore a navy blue ensemble with white accents.

The Evelyn Goodwin group of Centre Street United church served the guests. Mr. Atkinson was toastmaster.

For the honeymoon trip to Northern Ontario and Ottawa, the bride donned a suit of natural linen with orange hat and harmonizing accessories. They will reside in Oshawa.

Guests were present from Cordova Mines, Marmora, Long Branch, Galt, Port Perry, Pickering, and Whitby.

RADNOR-LEONARD

A pretty summer wedding was solemnized in Springbrook United church on Saturday, July 30 at 3.00 p.m., when the Rev. H. P. Beare, pastor of the church, united in marriage, Ruth Helen Leonard, of Springbrook, daughter of Mrs. Bert Leonard, and the Rev. Mr. Leonard, to Douglas William Radnor of Crookston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Radnor. The church was beautifully adorned with baskets of pastel-tinted gladioli, and ferns for the occasion.

The wedding music included, "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register and "O Promise Me" before the ceremony, rendered by Miss Barbara McKeljohn of Marmora, accompanied by Miss Rosemary Webb of Bonarlaw, Ontario.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Donald Crawford of Peterborough, the bride wore a lovely gown of white Chantilly lace and net over satin, fashioned with fitted, strapless bodice, with matching bolero featuring long, fitted sleeves,illy-pointed over the wrists. The lace overdress with scalloped edges was accented by iridescent sequins. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held by matching Juliet headress and she carried a bouquet of white gladioli in crescent shape.

Miss Lois Leonard of Springbrook, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing blue Chantilly and net with molded strapless bodice over satin, with matching lace bolero and bouffant skirt in ballerina length.

Miss Marion Crawford of Peterborough, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid, gowned in pink fashioned on identical lines to that of the maid of honor.

The little flower girl, Miss Mary Jo Leonard, of Peterborough, cousin of the bride, was demure and sweet in her floor length yellow nylon frock frosted with yellow velvety flowers. All wore matching headresses and carried nosegays of pink roses, white and yellow Shasta daisy 'mums.

Mr. Desmond Smith of London, Ontario, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was groomsmen, while Mr. Ronald Leonard, brother of the bride, and Mr. Jack Reid of Springbrook, acted as ushers.

The reception to which the Springbrook W.A. catered, was held in the L.O.L. hall where the bride's mother, wearing a navy blue linen ensemble with white accessories, and corsage of Demure roses and pink carnations received. The bridegroom's mother, attired in coral with matching duster coat, white accessories, and corsage of white carnations and white Plushie poms, assisted.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and London, the bride chose a brown two-piece linen ensemble with white accessories, and corsage of yellow gladioli.

Guests were present from London, Peterborough, Kitchener, Crookston, St. Jacobs, Marmora, Oshawa, Belleville and Ottawa. Mr. and Mrs. Radnor are residing in Havelock, Ontario.

MEMORIES

In the old home what memories throng around us.
Of summer days when roses were in flower.
Of later days when in the old-time orchard
We gathered nuts in autumn's golden hour.

I hear again the happy old-time voices.
The songs that mother sang so sweet and low.
The old-time tunes that set the feet to dancing
As brother swept the strings with graceful bow.

In the old school again we are assembled
To learn each day some lessons for the year.
We stroll again o'er wood-paths long remembered
When care-free childhood held no earthly fears.

And at the hour when evening lamps are lighted
And neighbors' lights gleam through the darkened gloom.
We think of friends from whom we long have parted
But strangers fill their old familiar rooms.

And so it is amid life's many changes
We glimpse the scenes of days of long ago,
And memory brings again the youthful faces
Of friends we knew in life's fair springtime glow.

Mrs. G. Fox Presented With Nest of Tables

Mrs. Raymond Norton and Mrs. Fred Hubbs were co-hostesses at a shower in the latter's home, Bloomfield Road, in honor of the recent marriage of Miss Marilyn Barber, Huff's Island to Mr. Gordon Fox, Bloomfield. The house was gaily decorated with bouquets of gladioli and carnations.

About 30 friends and neighbors gathered to spend the afternoon chatting. A contest was also enjoyed.

Mrs. Fox was given the seat of honor and an address of good wishes signed by the co-hostesses, was read by Mrs. Roger Hubbs on behalf of the community. The Misses Diane Hubbs and Jean Marshall brought in a nest of walnut tables tied with a large pink bow. Mrs. Fox replied suitably and invited everyone to come and visit them.

Ice cream and cake were served and an enjoyable time was had by all.

Woman Journeys From England To Repay Debt

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Tribune said Saturday a greying Liverpool woman made a 4,000-mile journey to Winnipeg in an effort to repay citizens here the $73 they collected to bury her impoverished brother 50 years ago. The brother, an immigrant blacksmith, was accidentally killed soon after arrival in 1905.

The Tribune said the woman, who refused permission here last month to publish her name, regarded the money as a debt of honor and had saved ever since to make a pilgrimage to Winnipeg, repay it and visit her brother's grave.

Since 1905 Winnipeg has grown from a frontier city of 70,000 to $70,000. She was unable to locate her brother's benefactors. The Tribune said she finally accepted a bank manager's suggestion and donated the money, plus an extra $5, to the charitable fund of a large store, a donor to the original $73 fund.

She declined even the offer of a ride to visit her brother's grave and trudged several miles to the cemetery on foot. Then, her mission accomplished, she returned within a few days to England and her job in a laundry.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By EATRICE FAIRFAX

IN AFRAID YOUR FRIEND IS OUT OF LUCK

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:
I am writing you in behalf of a friend.

This man is a very easy-going person, and his wife has put quite a few things over on him.

They have been separated for three years, and she lives in another city with their only child, a girl about seven years old. She has been playing around, and is now pregnant by another man, but she is trying to trick her husband into admitting that he, not another man, is responsible. She called him and asked him to come to the city where she has been living to discuss a business matter. Then she got people to swear that they knew he had come to her home, and so could have been the father of her child. When the child was born, she had her husband's name put down as the father, and now she has to pay support for some one else's child.

What I would like to know is, how can he prove that the child is not his and that he had not even seen his wife until after she was pregnant? Has he grounds for divorce, and could a lawyer fix it so that he would not be responsible for her bills?

He is a little afraid to go to a lawyer, though, because he was picked up with a friend and put in jail, although they had nothing on him. He had to serve three months and is on three years probation, and was his first time in trouble. Please give him some advice. He will be looking in the paper for it.

G.
How come you're writing for advice for this man? If he really wants advice, why doesn't he write himself? To my way of thinking, it's a very poor idea for a third party to inject himself into a situation that should be strictly between man and his wife.

Moreover, if the situation is as you describe it, why would he get out of it, and fast. As I see it, there's not much to choose between the two parties involved, for neither of them appears to be in the clear from any point of view.

If the wife has behaved as you say she has, then she is a highly immoral character. On the other hand, what you say about the husband's brush with the law doesn't make him out as a very worthy character, either. For you to tell me that a man would be clapped into jail for three months, and then put on probation for three years, "although they didn't have anything on him," sounds pretty silly, doesn't you think? If your friend received a jail sentence although completely innocent of any wrongdoing, then he (1) is an extremely rare and interesting case, and (2) should have had a lawyer to fight the conviction all the way and (3) would not now be afraid to seek the services of a lawyer to help him in his present difficulties. In fact, if he was as innocent as you say, he would go to a lawyer in a hurry. Altogether, it strikes me that there is something very peculiar indeed about this story.

All I can say to you is that I know of no possible way your friend can solve any of the problems you mention without the aid of a lawyer. His claim that he is not the father of his wife's child would have to be fought out in the courts. His question about whether or not he has grounds for divorce falls within the legal category. His wish to be freed of responsibility for his wife's bills can be brought about only through legal procedure.

In short, the only person who can do anything whatever for him is a lawyer, and if he has reason to shy away from the legal profession, and cannot adjust his differences with his wife on his own, then I'm very much afraid he is out of luck.

ICE PRICE UP

BALTIMORE (AP)—The price of ice has gone up in Baltimore, which has been having one of its hottest summers in years. A spokesman for the American Ice Co. said the boosts were inspired by rising costs, not rising thermometers. The cost of 100-pound blocks went from 60 cents to $1.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

PRE-TEEN-LOVELINESS

One of the greatest services you can render your little girl is to teach her the basic steps of good grooming. Habits formed now will become routine, helping her to remain feminine and sweet even when passing through the lumpy stage.

No one wants a sophisticated child, or one old beyond her years. But a little fun mixed in with her daily cleansing routine will make it a joy, rather than an "I don't want to" session.

Everyone needs a daily bath—particularly a little child who loves to make mud-pies and romp from dawn to dusk. Perspiration and skin acne must be scrubbed off along with dirt, just the same as with adults. What more could make bath time fun than a bubble bath designed especially for her by an enterprising cosmetician? Shake an envelope of it into a dry tub, then turn on the hot and cold faucets full force. When the bubbles have swirled into a mighty froth, regulate the water to tepid on the cool side. Then in she goes for her daily "swim," when it's time for "serious business," teach her to scrub from head-to-toe with a good washcloth and the mild, castile soap also designed for a "bubbling beauty." It will leave her skin feeling soft and smooth, and lightly scented.

Pat her dry from tip-toe, then grant her the special privilege of an all-over dusting with a sweet little powder mitt that's also hers alone. She'll love the silky feeling and the way her undies or nightie slip on so easily.

If shampooing has turned into a nightmare, promise a bonus if all goes well. A drop or two of light floral toilet water in her final rinse water, will make her feel so grown up, and the thought of the reward may turn a crying jag into a time of eager anticipation.

Little hands can be baby-soft one minute, and hard and rough the next. Play time and "cooking" take their toll. Teach her to use a few drops of her own softening hand lotion after washing, to help keep her skin velvety-smooth. You'll discover your very attention to her hands induces more frequent and thorough washings and also will make her more conscious of her nails.

Does your budding beauty have the type of lips that crack and peel every time the weather changes? Give her rosebud mouth tender loving care the "grown up" lip-slick way, with a soothing, colorless pomade. Tinted a delicate pink, it will encourage her to smooth away the peel rather than develop that unpleasant nibbling and biting habit. This new line of cosmetics made especially for little girls was created for the four-to-twelve age group—the best possible period in which to train your daughter to take those all-important right steps along the beauty path.

HOW WIDOW SIGNS LEGAL AND BUSINESS PAPERS

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

My husband passed on last week. I want to continue to use his name (as you urge in your column). Mrs. Arthur Robertson. But now I am wondering how I should sign the various legal papers and business papers I'll be having to sign now. Should I sign these "Mrs. Arthur Robertson" or "Mrs. Mary Robertson"? — Widow

Do not sign either of these names. Usually you will be asked to sign Mary Robertson or Mary Brown Robertson. If or when it is necessary to indicate the title "Mrs.," you sign Mary Robertson or Mary Brown Robertson on one line, and "Mrs. Arthur Robertson," in parentheses, under your signature. Like this:

Mary Brown Robertson (Mrs. Arthur Robertson)

THE DIVORCEE AND HER RINGS

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

My divorce is just now final. I have two young children who will continue to live with me. Is there a definite rule about whether or not a divorcee should continue to wear her wedding ring and her engagement ring? — Divorcee

No, there is no definite rule about this... the divorcee's personal preference is her guide. However, when a divorcee has children, it certainly seems the best idea for her to continue to wear her wedding ring. Good idea for her, good idea for the children, for her to do this. About wearing the engagement ring there is not even a suggestion, but usually a divorcee prefers not to wear this ring... she either puts it away, or later she may use the jewel and have the setting redesigned so that the ring has an entirely "new look."

HER HUSBAND IS A GRACIOUS THINKING HOST

Dear Mrs. Beckman:
My husband and I would like to ask you a question very important to us. In our city there is a certain restaurant very well-known for its excellent food and service and for its charming decor. There are several rooms, and in each there are particularly well-designed wall seatings. Last evening we had invited a couple much older than we are (they had entertained us two or three times, and this was the first time there had been an opportunity for us to entertain them). We dine with us in this restaurant.

My husband had reserved four of these wall seats. Always when we are dining with a couple of approximately our age, the women are given the wall seats, the men band began to assign the seats last opposite them. But as my husband, he said he had a quick impulse to give the older couple the wall seats, to have me take the seat opposite the older man, and for him to take the seat opposite the older woman. As we talked over this arrangement afterward, I thought it was the perfect idea, but he still is a bit dubious about whether or not he did the right thing. He'd like to know what you think. S—? — F and R

Your husband did the right thing, made the charmingly courteous gesture. And what a quick social reaction he had... I'm sure your guests were delighted with his host-gallantry! The wall seats, away from all aisle-interference, are more comfortable, and therefore it was the right idea to give these seats to the older couple, the guests whom you wished to honor in every way possible.

Fashions for babies were the inspiration for this darling nylon tricot short night gown. If you are one who doesn't like bulky garments for sleeping purposes you'll love on this model.

Star mist lace enriches the camisole bodice and the flirty hemline. The matching panties have ruffled lace edges. The sleeper comes in pink and blue pastels in small, medium and large sizes.

Naval personnel from the Royal Canadian Navy training centre at Cornwall, near Digby, N.S., re-enact the ceremony carried out at the French surrender of old Port Royal to the British in 1710. The ceremony marked the 350th anniversary of the second oldest permanent white settlement in North America, the new called Annapolis Royal. Here, Britain's "General Nicholson" reads the terms of surrender to the French Governor.

Geneva Conference May Prove Deciding Factor for Ike

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP)—The Big Four conference at Geneva last month may well prove to be the deciding factor in the one big question looming on the U.S. political horizon for 1956—whether President Eisenhower will run for a second term.

Seasoned political observers now say they believe that Geneva has made it more likely than ever that Eisenhower will decide to enter presidential contest next year. The reasoning is based on two things—the time factor and the president's strong sense of duty.

The prospect is that the negotiations which the Big Four foreign ministers will open in October will be long and difficult. Problems of the re-unification of Germany, European security and disarmament are exceedingly complex and will not be quickly settled. It may be long before any real progress is made.

And it is next spring that President Eisenhower is expected to make his decision about a second term.

He has indicated on at least two occasions that he will tip his hand about that time. On March 2, a press conference, he told reporters that if he would agree to a "complete moratorium" on a second-term campaign, he would have something to say to them about a year.

QUITTER

A few weeks later, he told a group of Republican admirers at the White House that "the state of the world next spring" might use him to say something about a second term one way or another.

All things considered, associates of the president say they cannot imagine him voluntarily quitting the White House at a time when the world situation still was trying to carry through what was started in Geneva.

His associates doubt that Eisenhower would turn away from what he himself has called "possibly the most difficult assignment in our nation's history."

There are good reasons why President Eisenhower does not want to retire his plans for 1956, summing he has settled on one or another thing, he could not hope to gain anything by an announcement now. On the other hand, he would have to deal with him after certain date.

Actually, Eisenhower need not make any announcement in advance of the Republican national convention late in August of 1955; the convention could just remain silent and the convention go ahead and nominate him for a second term.

Arrest of Mine Worker Causes Minor Riot

SUBURBY (CP)—A flare-up described by police chief A. Langlois of suburban Chelmsford as "a middle-sized riot" followed the arrest of a mine worker early Sunday after a restaurant disturbance.

The outbreak started when Chelmsford police arrested Michael Levesque at the restaurant. By-standers tried to prevent the arrest and Chief Langlois called for reinforcements from the provincial police detachment here.

At the height of the riot more than a dozen men were fighting in the street outside the restaurant. An unruly mob estimated by police at more than 200 milled around the battle.

QUELLED RIOT

Chelmsford police officers aided by four provincial policemen and a number of private citizens finally managed to quell the free-for-all and Levesque was taken to jail. Then violence flared again as two men entered the jail and a struggle with police officers followed.

Police said C. J. Haggart of Hardy mine and Gerald Bergeron of Fecummi lake were put in cells and charged with attempting to free a prisoner. Levesque was charged with obstructing police and creating a disturbance.

Bulgarian Party At County Home Riot of Fun

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

MOSCOW (AP)—Foreign Minister Molotov took the Indonesian ambassador's wife rowing, but flooded the boat and soaked the lady.

American Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen bested Deputy Premier A. I. Mikoyan in a boat race.

Party chief Nikita Khrushchev and Marshals Georgi Zhukov and Ivan Konev picked raspberries.

Premier Bulganin helped Bohlen's 15-year-old daughter Avis catch three fish.

The occasion was an informal 54-hour party Bulganin gave Sunday at his country estate 60 miles southeast of Moscow. The 150 or so guests included foreign diplomats and correspondents and their families, and many Russians.

UNPRECEDENTED

The Soviet capital had never seen anything like it, as the premier himself admitted.

The program included a two-hour luncheon, community singing led by stars of the Bolshoi theatre, fishing and boating on the estate's lakes and a drive through the deer park. Some of the group gathered under a fir tree for the telecast of the Moscow Spartak soccer team's 3-0 victory over England's Wolverhampton Wanderers.

Bulgarian, in a short speech at the end of lunch, said the party was a direct result of the harmonious atmosphere displayed at the Geneva "summit" conference. He hoped it would be only the first of many such festivities.

"But this should not interfere with our work," Khrushchev interjected.

Responding to the premier, the dean of the Moscow diplomatic corps, B. B. B. Ambassador Masung Ohn, said the envoys want to repay the Russian hospitality with an annual dinner for the Soviet leaders.

CAME A CROPPER

Molotov came a cropper as he went on a boat ride with the Indonesian ambassador's wife. In beating the boat, the foreign minister rowed too far up on shore, and the water poured in over the depressed stern.

Molotov blushed as Zhukov chaffed him, calling him "a terrible sailor."

The guests snapped hundreds of candid photos of their hosts, prompting one correspondent to ask Bulgianin: "Doesn't this look to you like the start of Eisenhower's plan to do photo reconnaissance of the Soviet Union?"

"Yes, I suppose this is the start of it," the premier replied, roaring with laughter.

The premier also told reporters he has no plans "or invitation yet to visit the United States, but I hope that some time this will be brought about."

President Allows Husband To Join U.S. Wife

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower Saturday solved an ironic family problem that has been keeping an Italian garage man in Canada apart from his wife.

By signing a bill into law, the president made it possible for Assuntino del Gobbo to move the short distance from Niagara Falls, Ont., to Niagara Falls, N.Y., to rejoin Stella del Gobbo.

Since their marriage four years ago, the del Gobbos have lived in the neighboring cities because del Gobbo couldn't get permission to enter the United States. His wife, U.S. citizen, lives with her parents.

The 27-year-old Italian immigrant had been kept out because of a provision in immigration laws barring entry to those convicted of certain types of crime.

Congress was told del Gobbo was convicted in 1945 of stealing a bicycle in Limosano, Italy, and received a suspended sentence of eight months and 1,000 lira fine. Del Gobbo said he had merely borrowed the bicycle from a friend.

SPECIAL BILL

Because the law is inflexible, representative William E. Miller (Rep., N.Y.) introduced a bill especially to admit del Gobbo into the U.S.

Mrs. del Gobbo had been seeking the same result from immigration authorities ever since they married. She said that otherwise she would have to leave parents, who needed her care, in order to join her husband in Canada.

Eisenhower saved the whole thing by approving the bill.

Del Gobbo has been working as a body repairman in a garage. Testimony showed his trouble would have been avoided had he been born six months later.

Del Gobbo was arrested on the bicycle charge just after turning 18. The incident would not have barred his entry to the U.S. if it had occurred while he was still a minor.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma had one of her head akes, but she cooked dinner anyways and left everything ready in the oven and then went back to her room again, and pop started to eat dinner alone with me, and I said, G. It seems funny with just us 2, don't it, pop?

It seems very sad and dismal not that I mean to cast any reflection on the value of your company, pop said, and I said, That's the way it seems to me, too, and I don't mean to cast anything on you. That's what I ment when I said it seems funny, I said.

That's what I thought you ment, and I was merely agreeing with you, pop said, and I said, I sure miss ma, all right.

I probably miss her even more, because I've known her longer, pop said, and I said, It don't seem the same without her.

That's a fact, it seems to be entirely different, and the change is decidedly not an improvement, pop said, and I said, Sure, it's worse instead of better.

It just goes to show that nothing graces a dinner table like the presence of a woman, pop said, and I said, You bet, pop, especially when the woman is ma.

Particularly in that case, yes, pop said, and I said, It's a darn good thing it don't happen all the time. Yes, once is quite enough, isn't it? pop said, and I said, You bet, it's even a lot too much.

That's my opinion too, and it's nice to know you share it, pop said. Which just then who came down but ma, saying, I felt suddenly better so I thought I'd join you. Which she did, being one of the happiest endings, that ever happened.

EXTRA MILEAGE FOR CANADIAN DRIVERS!

Improved Esso gasolines and new Marvelube motor oil used together give these results:

1. MORE MILEAGE
2. IMPROVED GETAWAY
3. LESS ENGINE DEPOSITS

HERE'S PROOF FROM IMPERIAL OIL'S RESEARCH LABORATORIES

Laboratory tests show that improved Esso gasolines burn cleaner—leaving less engine deposits than rob cars of power.

This research also revealed that when new Marvelube is used with Esso gasolines there is an even greater reduction in deposits.

Three years of road tests prove that Esso gasolines and Marvelube used together result in faster getaway and more mileage.

TRACK FEATURE AT FAIR

The mile race brought to the fore in sports circles ever since John Landy, crack Australian miler; Roger Bannister, Chris Chataway, famous British track stars, and other outstanding track athletes, crashed the elusive four-minute barrier, will be one of the features at the opening day of the Belleville Fair, August 12.

This is the first time a track event has been one of the exhibition features, and those in charge predict that in future it will rank as one of the main attractions of the fair. As a matter of fact they are fondling hopes that in the not too distant future a mile race will develop into a miniature half-day track meet.

However, tiddling comes before walking and the committee in charge with the all-out blessing of the Belleville Fair Board is rushing arrangements to completion. So far they have been very successful and at the moment all indications point to this inaugural event being a success.

First of all the race will get under way at the fair grounds track at 3:30 p.m. It will be the only track event of the afternoon. The race over a measured mile is open to residents of Hastings, Prince Edward and adjoining counties. There are no conditions nor bans.

The race will be known as the "Mead Mile." This in deference to the Mead Johnson Company of Belleville, who have donated a handsome trophy to be competed for annually. The handsome bauble is now on display in the window of Paul Mercier's Front Street Jewellery store.

It should be remembered that the race is an "open" one. That is anyone, regardless of race, color or creed can start. There is no age limit—nor is there an entry fee. Thus far five entries have been submitted to committee chairman Bob Phillips, who has done yeoman service in organizing the race.

These include Bill Gault, BCI star, who broke the record at the annual Ken Colling five-mile harrier race this year; Glen Narace, a smart quarter-miler now at the Ontario Athletic Commission camp; Jim Green, speedy Indian trackman who pushed Gault to the wire in the cross-country; Bill Dickey and Jack Marshall.

Out-of-town entries are expected, especially from secondary schools in the district. Picton has a smart miler by the name of Minaker, while Dave Scott of Albert College athletic fame is expected to enter. But as was said before, the race is "open." Entries can be forwarded to Bob Phillips, W08-2296, this department, and "Red" Doran at the city hall.

Some officials have been named for the event. The starter will be Jim Musgrove, of BCI. Chief judge is yours truly, assisted by Boyd Upper and another to be named. Jack Devine will announce the event over the public address system.

The most important job, that of chief timer, will be undertaken by Jack Bennett, of Northern Electric, and assistant to be named. Jack is a well known track-and-field man who has done training and coaching in Montreal. Jack, who is a well known bowler, has the distinction of training three Canadian high school track champions.

The track has been measured and found to be an accurate mile, some fifteen inches outside the inner rail.

It was announced over the week-end that the entry deadline has been set at Saturday, August 13. Get those entries in right away.

TOUGH ONE

It's tough enough these days for pitchers to toss one-hitters, but it's tougher yet to flip one and lose the verdict. That's what happened to Bobby Bunton, ex-Belleville hurler, now toiling with Picton. But Bobby can scarce blame his teammates. He wild-pitched one run around and bobbled a double-play ball that was good for two runs and the ball game. Young St. Denis, hurrying for the Haggis Juniors, although walking eight, came through with some fine clutch hitting to eke out the win. He gave up but four hits, all singles. The third game is slated for Picton on Wednesday.

SOFTBALL

The chips will be down with a vengeance at the CNRAA Recreation Park tonight when the Point Anne Cementmen and Bill Spafford's Belleville Orfuns clash in the first of their best-of-three series for the top spot in the Belleville District Softball League. Both teams will be at full strength and this first of the series should be a dilly of a duel. The second tilt is scheduled for the Ox Point diamond tomorrow night and the third and deciding game, if necessary, will be played at the CNRAA Wednesday night.

GOLF

The Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club was the scene of some excellent golfing on Saturday when the distaff side held its annual field day. Some eighty-three lady golfers representing nine clubs came through with some exciting play before the winners were eventually declared. The Quinte ladies came up with a fine collective effort winning several prizes and establishing themselves as excellent hostesses during the post-tournament luncheon and social amenities.

A Japanese 400-metre relay team also set a world mark of 3:46.2 in a race against a United States team.

Chisox, Yankees Divide Top With Tribe Half-Game Back; Red Sox Game in Arrears

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

How about a five-team playoff for the American League pennant? With seven weeks to go only 1 1/2 games separate the top four clubs, Detroit in fifth place is only 5 1/2 back.

The weatherman helped tighten the screws Sunday, forcing Chicago to settle for a 3-2 tie in the first of a double-header. The second game, rain also postponed a second game at Washington after the Senators had beaten the Cleveland Indians again 9-3.

Mickey Mantle's 10th inning home run, his 26th of the season and second of the game, gave New York a split with Detroit and placed them in a tie with the Yankees. Three percentage points behind Chicago, Detroit shaded New York in the opener 4-2 but Mantle's clutch at-bat up to a 3-2 Yankees victory in the second behind Bob Turley.

HEAVY HITTING

The fast-moving Boston Red Sox outlasted Kansas City in a wild fray 16-12 hammering four pitchers for 19 hits and 31 total bases.

In the National League where they are more concerned with place than with the pennant, Milwaukee won a pair from Pittsburgh 6-3 and 4-2 while New York split two at Cincinnati, losing 8-5 and winning 6-5. As a result the Braves have a two-game edge on the Giants in their second-place battle. If you insist, the Braves are "only" 1 1/2 games back of Brooklyn which bowed to Chicago 4-3. Philadelphia trampled St. Louis 9-6 in the other game.

Chicago had Jim Busby on second base with two out on the 13th when rain made further play impossible at Baltimore. All individual records go into the book but the game must be replayed in its entirety as well as the postponed second game when the White Sox visit Baltimore for the last time in September.

Dave Pope's two-run homer in the fourth gave the last-place Orioles their runs after George Kell homered for the Sox in the first. Chicago tied it up in the eighth on Nellie Fox's triple and Kell's single.

FOURTH STRAIGHT

Washington, which holds a 10-7 season edge on the Indians, rode to its fifth straight win over Johnny Schmitz' pitching and hitting. The veteran lefty went the route with a 10-hitter and came through with two doubles. Clint Courtney, his catcher, contributed a triple and two singles in the attack that routed Early Wynn.

Mantle's two homers saved the Yankees from dropping a full game behind Chicago. After Al Kaline's two-run single, the score in the eighth, Mantle hit a 1-3 pitch off reliever Babe Birrer into the upper stands in right field for the ball game. He hit his first homer off starter Frank Lary in the first inning. Detroit won the opener in the seventh on successive doubles by Kaline and Jack Phillips and Ray Boone's triple that knocked out Tommy Byrne.

Norm Zauchin, Sammy White and Billy Klus each belted three hits for the Red Sox in their free hitting game with the As. After Boston scored six runs in the eighth to wrap it up, the As came back with five in the ninth.

BEATEN BY SINGLE

The Dodgers were beaten at Chicago by Gene Baker's single in the sixth, following Don Fendy's double.

Hank Aaron's two-run homer helped Milwaukee whip Pittsburgh in the first game after the Braves had knocked out Vernon Law to score four runs in the first inning. Bob Buhl went the route in the second game for his ninth victory.

Willie Mays hit his 35th home run for the Giants, the 100th of his career, in the first game but Cincinnati won it with homers by Wally Post and relief pitcher Herchel Freeman. Mays' sacrifice fly scored Jay Amalfitano with the winning run in the ninth inning of the second game in which the Giants hit four homers, two by Gail Harris.

Richie Ashburn connected with a double that drove in two vital runs in the eighth inning of the Phillies' triumph over St. Louis.

EXPULSION SECOND TEAM

MILAN, Italy (AP)—Italy's soccer scandal widened Sunday when the second of the country's biggest teams was expelled from the European league on charges of bribery. The new blow of the Italian soccer federation fell on Catania, one of the two Sicilian clubs playing in "A" League.

It followed a week after the northern team of Udine was dropped from "A" League for buying two victories in 1954-55.

Royals Hand Leafs Two Losses; Take Over Top

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Montreal Royals, parlaying timely hitting and brilliant pitching, today held a two-game lead in the tight International League pennant race.

Four-hit pitching of Tom Lasorda and Glenn Mickens and the big bat of centerfielder Gino Cimoli enabled Montreal to sweep a doubleheader from Toronto Maple Leafs 7-2 and 5-2 Sunday. Royals held all four weekend games from Leafs, winning 2-0 and 4-2 Saturday night.

While Royals were taking command of the league lead, Syracuse Chiefs prevented Havana Sugar Kings from moving into second place by defeating the Cubans 7-5. Rochester Red Wings, in a game delayed by rain for 45 minutes, trounced Buffalo Bisons 9-3 and Columbus Jets routed Richmond Virginians 16-1 after dropping the opener of a twin-bill 10-8.

GOOD HITTING

Cimoli banged out a double and two singles and batted in three runs to lead Montreal's first-game victory. Lasorda scattered four Toronto hits, walking two and fanning seven, to pick up his third victory in 10 decisions. Ed Blake started for Leafs and gave up 10 hits and six runs before giving way to Johnny Hetki in the seventh.

Mickens, who spends most of his time in the bullpen, hurled a brilliant four-hitter in the seven-inning nightcap. He walked three and struck out six in gaining his ninth victory against two defeats. Cimoli again was Royals' big gun with a triple, double and single in three trips to the plate. Ken Johnson before leaving in the third gave up four runs, hit two batters, uncorked two wild pitches and walked four.

Johnny Blatnik and Ralph Caballero left Chiefs' 11th attack against three Cuban hurlers. Blatnik hit a two-run homer in Chiefs' three-run first inning and Caballero drove in three runs with a double and three singles.

BIG GUNS

Joe Cunningham and Tom Burdages were the big guns in the Red Wings' 13-hit attack. Each had three hits, drove in three runs and scored twice. Veteran Duke Markell went the distance for Rochester to rack up his 11th victory. Charley Kress and Steve Demeter homered for Bisons.

Jets scored 10 runs in the sixth inning after two were out to wallop Virginians in the nightcap. Virginians built up a nine-run lead in the opener and had to fight off a late Columbus drive.

Batting—Norm Zauchin, Red Sox—Collected three hits, including a home run, drove in three runs and scored four in Boston's 16-12 victory over Kansas City.

Pitching—Johnny Schmitz, Senators—scattered 10 hits and aided his cause with a pair of doubles to drive in two runs as Washington defeated Cleveland 9-3.

MPs ADD THREE

SARINIA (CP)—Sarnia Imperials of the Ontario Rugby Football Union added two import linemen and a Canadian fullback to the roster Sunday.

The imports are six-foot, five-inch end Gary Cooper and all-eastern and all-Pennsylvania guard Larry Cardonick, from Philadelphia's Temple University. The Canadian fullback is Paul Lapointe, a native of Ottawa, who has participated for the last two seasons with the University of British Columbia.

Picton's Bunton Tosses One-Hitter, Drops 4-3 Verdict to Haggis Juniors

Bobby Bunton, former Belleville Bata hurler, now with Picton, one-hit the Belleville Haggis Juniors in a Belleville District Baseball League playoff yesterday but lost the verdict when he bobbled a wild pitch good for one run then bobbled a double-play ball that was good for two runs and a Belleville 4-3 victory. The third and deciding game of the two-of-three semi-finals series is slated for Picton Wednesday.

The lone clutch off Bunton came in the second innings when King's singled and went to third on Bunton's wild heave. St. Louis was tossed out and the runner scored on Casey's sacrifice fly. Baker walked all the way to third, Bunton struck out six and issued three walks. He lost the game in the fifth after retiring the first batter. Baker drew a walk and St. Denis hit a double play ball. Bunton bobbled it with St. Denis racing all the way to third, with Baker scoring. St. Denis crossed the plate with the winner when the Picton first baseman committed the second error of the innings.

St. Denis went the route for the Juniors and came through with some good clutch hitting despite the fact he walked eight and struck out four. He yielded but four hits.

Picton scored a single in the first inning after St. Denis walked three batters. Cornelius scored the marker at that on a right-fielder error. St. Denis with the bases loaded struck out the third batter to kill the rally.

The second Picton marker came in the third on three St. Denis walks and a box error. Their last run was scored in the fifth when they clustered three of their four hits. Again the bases were loaded and again St. Denis hurled himself out of a tight corner.

The Juniors scored their second run in the fourth on a walk, a stolen base and a passed ball by the Picton catcher. Then came the pair in the fifth and that was that.

Bunton straightened away after that only ten men facing him.

Marlene Wins Close Crown, Favored to Take Open Title

VICTORIA (CP)—Marlene Stewart, fresh from a record-breaking defence of her Canadian women's close golf championship, sets out today in an attempt to retain the Canadian open title.

The young Ponthill, Ont., miss went around Royal Colwood golf course here Saturday in a record six-under-par 71 for a 223 total which shattered her own 34-hole close mark of 226 by three strokes.

It was the fifth consecutive time she has won the Close, equalling the record of Ada Mackenzie, Toronto.

In the Canadian junior women's championship, a new event staged along with the senior competition, Norman Laing of Port Credit, Ont., stroked to victory with a 36-hole total of 187, four strokes better than runner-up Betty Stanhope of Edmonton.

Earlier in the three-day close competition, British Columbia's four-member team captured the interprovincial team title with a 36-hole aggregate score of 697. Donna Patton and Joanne Percy, both of Winnipeg, had a 36-hole aggregate score of 372 to win the junior women's two-member team crown.

Most of the women who formed Miss Stewart's competition in the Close will be among the 128 who play against her in the Open.

There are a few Americans in the tournament and Miss Stewart can expect her main opposition from Barbara Ann Downey of Baltimore and Edean Anderson of Seattle, a two-handicap player.

Miss Stewart will tee off last in the opening medal play qualifying round with Miss Downey and Mary Gay of Kitchener, who ended the Close with a 236.

Rae Milligan of Jasper, the Ontario and Alberta champion, who ended the Close 15 strokes behind Miss Stewart, will tee off with Miss Anderson and Sheila Ross of Vancouver, who came in with 236 in the Close.

Miss Stewart putted beautifully throughout the Close and her scorching performance Saturday broke her own course record of 75 which she set only Thursday.

The champion was in trouble a few times but made amazing recoveries. She was in a trap at the 373-yard ninth but chipped out to within four feet of the cup. She ended the first nine in 32, five under par, then picked up a birdie on the 163-yard 15th.

Miss Stewart might have had a 70, men's par, for her final round had not an approach shot on the 18th fallen short. The champion established the record of 226 for the 54 holes at Sunningdale golf course at London, Ont., in 1953.

Miss Milligan, who figured to give Miss Stewart the closest battle came in with an 81, four strokes over par for her final round. She had trouble on several greens and missed badly with her putter.

Miss K. Bishop of Brantford finished with 185-91 for a total of 276. Bernice Smith of Fonthill had 187-93-282.

Close Play Marks Bay of Quinte Ladies Annual Open Field Day

Excellent weather, excellent greens, backgrounded excellent golf at the Bay of Quinte Country Club on Saturday when the lady players of the club held their annual field day. Some 89 players from nine district clubs took part in the various events which were featured by close and exciting play.

Miss L. Ross, Cobourg, won the Mead-Johnson Trophy for the field low gross with an 81 while Miss Nora Weeks, Bay of Quinte, won the field low net with a 63. Miss Weeks headed the Bay of Quinte team which won the team prizes of the tournament.

Four flights were played with various special features. Following the tournament, the visiting ladies were guests of the host club at a delectable luncheon held in the club house.

The results:

1st Flight
1st low gross, Mrs. Pat Culhane, Napanee; 2nd low gross, Miss Barbara Siddall, Kawartha; 3rd low gross, Miss Shirley Wright, Ganarquois; 4th low gross, Miss Lottie Nidderly, Trenton.

Detroit Boat Takes Gold Cup On Points

SEATTLE (AP)—The Gold Cup, symbol of the United States speedboat championship, was headed back to Detroit today after a merry Sunday midup in which a loser was the winner and the winner cheered too soon.

Gule V, driven by owner Joe Schoenheit's son Lee, earned the cup on points.

Half a million people—that's the Seattle police department's estimate of the crowd—thought the victory belonged to Miss Thriftway. This brand new Seattle entry in the speedboat racing picture in the second and third heats of the 48th 30-mile classic.

The Gale finished second in the first heat, second in the second heat and third in the last 30-mile go-round.

FEWER SECONDS
But when the race officials figured up the time they found that Gale needed 4.33 fewer seconds to negotiate the 90 miles than did the Thriftway, which finished third in the first heat. This earned Gale a point of 400 points for running the fastest race. With points earned during the heats, Gale wound up with 1,225.

Miss Thriftway, lacking a bonus, finished with 1,025 points. The 30-mile Shun IV, which brought the Gold Cup to Seattle in 1950, was in the thick of the point scramble until her engine conked out on the next-to-last lap of the final heat.

She got third place on the cup ladder. Fourth went to Such Crust III and fifth to Miss Cadillac, both of Detroit.

The Shun IV set a couple of records in winning the first heat. Her 107 miles per hour for the third lap and 103 for the heat were new marks in Gold Cup competition. Failure to finish cost her the 400-point bonus she could have had for recording the day's fastest heat.

She was not alone on the sidelines at the windup. Flame flashed in the cockpit of Guy Lombardo's Tempo IV on the first lap of the day and driver Danny Foster was burned on the left arm. He was not seriously hurt but the boat was through for the day.

STAMPS SQUEEZE Win from Riders

OTTAWA (CP)—Sparked by quarterback Ron Morris' dazzling display of short passes, Calgary Stampede riders came behind in the last minute of play Saturday night to squeeze out a 12-11 exhibition football win over Ottawa Rough Riders.

The former Tulsa University star scooted around right end from the Ottawa five-yard line to score a game-tying touchdown on the second last play of the game.

Don Walsh kicked the convert to provide the margin of victory. He also converted Lynn Bottoms' first Calgary touchdown early in the third quarter.

Ottawa kickers provided a few thrills for the shirt-sleeve crowd of about 9,000 as Tennessee fullback Tom (The Bomb) Tracy kicked a 24-yard field goal early in the game. Avatus Stone, last year's star Ottawa import from Syracuse University, kicked two singles from about the 45-yard line. Ken Nagle was rouged both times.

Gene Rossi, former Cincinnati quarter, scored Ottawa's lone touchdown, on a one-yard plunge, which rookie Pete Petcoff converted.

Over 650 Shoot In Annual Meet

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP)—Canada's annual Dominion of Canada Rifle Association prize shoot opens officially today with more than 650 contenders on hand.

Sweepstake, bren gun and cadet matches were fired Sunday, but none counted towards aggregate scores on which individual championship will be based.

A 450-foot village was erected at this army summer camp 14 miles west of Ottawa to accommodate the nation's top shots, who will fire 303 calibre service rifles every day until next Saturday.

Officials expect at least 12 women to take their places beside men competitors along a half-mile firing line.

Major prizes for which they will shoot include places on Canada's 1956 Hsley team, chosen from the 18 contenders with the highest aggregate scores in various matches.

Top individual awards will be the governor general's gold medal and a new title, the Canadian service rifle championship.

Yanks, Canadians Split Titles At Shoot Meet

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP)—Marksmen from Windsor, Ont., and Ottawa won the Canadian closed small-bore and handgun championships Sunday, but the open titles went to a pair of Pennsylvanians.

Gerry Ouellette, 20-year-old mechanical draftsman from Windsor, won the closed small-bore rifle title.

Handgun champion, who may shoot either pistol or revolver, is RCMP Cpl. J. R. Zavitz of Ottawa, last year's runner-up.

The titles were decided at this army camp 14 miles west of Ottawa at the annual national meet, sponsored jointly by the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association and the Canadian Civilian Association of marksmen.

WINS SMALL BORE
Oscar L. Woolver, 38-year-old Williamsport, Pa., auto sales manager, won the open small-bore rifle title, scoring 3,190 of a possible 3,200 points.

Ulrich Drexel, 42-year-old Reading, Pa., upholsterer, successfully defended his open handgun title won last year.

Mrs. W. S. Macnab, Calgary housewife, won the Canadian women's small-bore rifle championship for the third consecutive year.

Moe Norman Wins Links Marathon To Grab Canadian Amateur Crown

CALGARY (CP)—Moe Norman, 25-year-old Kitchener shotsmith who sets pins in a bowling alley when it's too cold to golf, today is Canada's No. 1 amateur golfer.

The carefree Norman dropped a 10-foot putt on the 39th hole at the Calgary Golf and Country Club Saturday to take the Canadian amateur title over Vancouver car salesman Lyle Crawford.

The marathon match tied the record for the longest final in the history of the 51-year-old tournament, and marked the first time since 1951 that a Canadian has won the crown.

It was a heart-breaking loss for 22-year-old Crawford, who made a pressure five-foot putt on the 36th hole to square the match.

Norman's birdie 39th was typical of his outstanding play during the week-long tournament. He cut the middle of the 438-yard fairway with a 250-yard drive, approached to 10 feet from the pin with his second, then calmly knocked down the winning putt.

Crawford made a 4-foot putt on the 39th, but was short of the green with his second. He had chipped to five feet with his third when Norman made his putt.

Almost 4,000 persons watched the final during the afternoon. The 80-degree heat and the pressure of the competition had visible effect on the finalists. Norman missed putts of six feet and 3 1/2 feet on the first two extra holes that would have ended the marathon.

It was the first all-Canadian final since 1951, when Walt McElroy of Vancouver downed Phil Farley of Toronto.

The finalists this year edged out too strongly from a trap. Norman won the 30th with a birdie four on a seven-foot putt, but Crawford again squared it up with a birdie on the 31st.

Norman birdied the 32nd and won the 33rd with par. Crawford won the next one with an eight-foot putt for a birdie. The 35th was halved and on the 36th Crawford made a birdie three to set the stage for the extra holes.

The new champion is a dedicated golfer.

During the summer he plays 34 holes of golf every day when not competing in tournaments and estimates he hits at least 500 golf balls daily.

Norman who stroked the first round of his semi-final with Doug Bajur of Vancouver in a phenomenal five-under-par 65, started out the final match as though he were going to duplicate the feat. He took three birdies on the first four holes.

But he flubbed a 20-inch putt on the seventh, and Crawford birdied the ninth to get another one back.

On the 10th Norman tried to go over a corner and went over par coming out of the rough. The Vancouver stylist took the lead for the only time in the match on the 13th when he made a birdie four on a 12-foot putt.

Norman took the next three holes but Crawford won the 17th and 18th to square the match at the end of the morning round. Each finished the round with approximate medal scores of two-over-par 72.

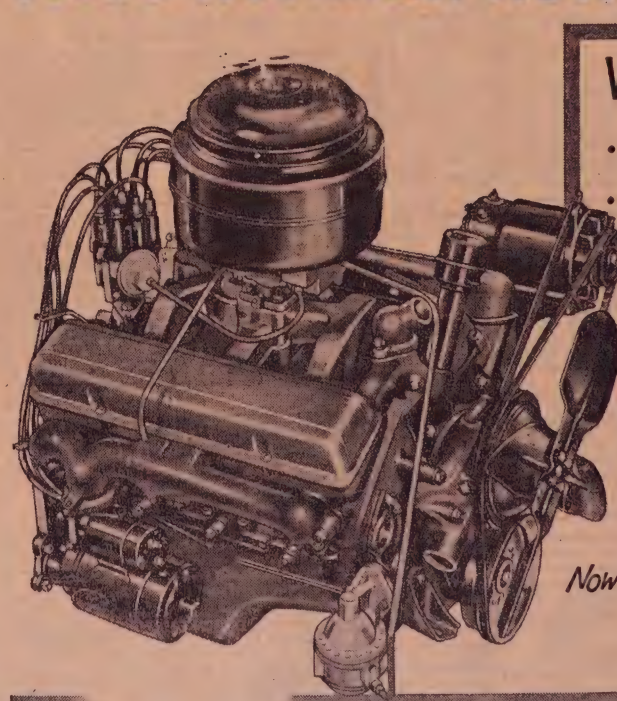

In the afternoon round the former Kitchener caddy won the 20th with a par three. Crawford took the 23rd with a birdie three on a 160-yard approach that stopped four feet from the pin.

They halved the next four holes, and Norman went one up on the 28th with a birdie three. Crawford tied the match on the next hole with par when Norman came out

Doug Ford Battles Wind, Field To Capture All-American Tourney

CHICAGO (AP)—National PGA champion Doug Ford successfully battled a tough field and a brisk wind for a closing 70 to capture the $34,420 first prize in the All-American golf tourney by three strokes Sunday.

Ford's 72-hole total of 277 was 11 below Tam O'Shanter par.

The 33-year-old Ford, fourth lead-44 money winner this year, had rounds of 69-69-69-70 as he overhauled Australia's Peter Thomson on a final round which was ruffled by a cool, 15-mile-an-hour wind. Thomson collapsed to 78, finishing seventh.

Rudy Horvath of Windsor, Ont., shot a 75 Sunday to win $101 with total of 281. His previous rounds were 72-69-75. Stan Leonard of Vancouver finished out of the money with 285.

Grabbing the second prize of $2,293 with 280 was Leo Bickel, surprising pro from Wiloughby, Ohio who started the final round four strokes behind and buzzed to a closing 70.

HAD LED
Thomson had led at 54 holes with 208, followed by Ford and Freddie Hans, Jr., at 207.

The All-American, paying $25,000 to 40 players, was mostly a prelude to Tom's $100,000 "World" championship tourney next week which has golf's biggest winning first-place payoff, $50,000.

About 107 players, all of whom had to complete in the all-American, will play in the "World," also a 72-hole medal play showdown.

The four-round All-American fairways circus also produced these champions:

Women's pro—Patty Berg, with a win-15 for 302 and the $1,000 first prize.

Men's Amateur—Doug Sanders, 22, Cedarhurst, Ga., with a closing 74 and 286 for a five-stroke margin.

Women's Amateur—Wini Smith, 18, St. Claire, Mich., with a final 81 for 322 and a 10-stroke triumph.

Favorite Wins At Woodbine

The one-jump rebid in hearts was a trick shot of its promise. Not knowing this, north was inspired to angle for a slam. The four heart bid should have stopped him in his tracks.

Instead, he went right on by asking about aces and kings with the four no-trump convention. Four no-trump is used with two aces and a king or better. But a king shy did not stop him, either.

Five spades in answer is Gordon convention for showing one ace and two kings. This told him that the pair was missing an ace and two kings for any slam he was attempting to reach.

When each partner in a pair sticks in a wrong bid, it is not any wonder that they find themselves in hot water of some kind. If this were not so, the correct bids would not be so efficient.

Now there was nothing north could do about it but to go to a small slam in hearts whether it made or not. All he could do now is rely on the south player to get out of the mess as cheap as possible.

Opening lead from west was king of diamonds. South was no dub at the play of the hand and made his 12 tricks. For which he should have credit. But their opponents deserved a better fate.

Argonauts Head West For 3-Game Series

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts, all set to put their revamped club on public view following a big off-season rebuilding job, headed west today for a three-game exhibition series.

On paper, at least, they shape up as a strong football club which in the long run could be either the powerhouse of the Big Four or one of the biggest flops in years. They started the 1955 season after a wholesale shake-up aimed at nothing less than the Grey Cup following two seasons of finishing out of the league playoffs.

The exhibition games will provide the first indication whether team manager Harry Sonshine's rebuilding efforts are likely to make the once-powerful Argos contenders again.

They play British Columbia Lions in Vancouver Wednesday night, the Grey Cup champion Edmonton Eskimos Saturday night and Winnipeg Blue Bombers the following Monday night.

An unhappy record of six straight losses in exhibition games against western clubs over the last four seasons follows the Argos west this year.

The players received a pleasant surprise just before they left. They won't stand the loss for the $500 taken from their wallets by thieves during a practice session.

Sonshine said the club will make the loss for the money was stolen last Thursday at Argonauts' training camp at Port Hope.

Galt, Red Sox Elgins Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Galt Terriers gave the hometown fans something to shout about in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League during the weekend. It isn't often that they get the chance with Terriers in last place.

It was in the ninth inning, none out, two runs in and the bases loaded. Galt's Bill Bowman came to bat and belted a homer over the right field fence. With this sensational finish the Terriers defeated London Majors 12-10.

Hometown fans were also pleased with Brantford Red Sox who kept their playoff hopes alive when they defeated the league-leading Oshawa Merchants 5-6. In the only other game Saturday night, St. Thomas Elgins trounced Kitchener Panthers 11-2.

AT THE CAPITOL — Alexis Smith, co-stars with Sterling Hayden and Dean Jagger in the romantic drama "The Eternal Sea", opening tonight at the Capitol Theatre for its first district showing. The second feature, a "Scotland Yard" thriller "Case of the Red Monkey", stars Richard Conte.

Aussies Defeat Japanese In Davis Cup Play

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP)—Australia clinched a spot in the Davis Cup inter-zone finals Saturday when Red Hartwig and Len Hoad crushed Koshi Kamo and Atsushi Miyagi of Japan 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

On Sunday rain washed out the final match of the competition after Hartwig had struggled to an unimpressive victory over Atsushi Miyagi, the Japanese champion, 3-6, 6-0, 6-3, 9-7.

No, this is not a "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers." The highstepping cadets of Ecuador's Colegio Militar "El Afaro" are putting on a show for General Rojas Pinilla, visiting president of Colombia. 150,000 watched Ecuadorian troops in an hour-long parade.

U.S. AIRMEN "GO NATIVE" AT KIRKLAND

U.S. airmen manning the Pinetree radar station near Kirkland Lake, Ont., are well acquainted with this sign near the town. Since 1953, when the U.S. base was first established, the airmen have become part of the Kirkland Lake community and 50 of them have married Canadian girls. Children of the permanent personnel attend the area's school and are a welcome addition. Posing at the sign, a favorite meeting place of local girls and their airmen escorts, are Almira Mackinnon, top; Pat Donlevy and Mabel Cright, left, and Yvonne Harding and Susan Delean.

FIDDLING SEEMS HERE TO STAY

Oldest entry in the Canadian fiddling championships at Shelburne, Ont., was Charles Dyer, 86, who received encouragement from granddaughter Carolyn. He has been fiddling since he was 10 and though he has won his share of prizes, he fiddles just for the fun of it and not to win. Three thousand fans crowded the Shelburne arena to hear 71 fiddlers, including three U.S. and one Canadian former champions.

ATOM-PLANT NEARLY READY FOR GENEVA

Nearly ready for display at the International Conference on Peaceful Uses of Atomic Energy in Geneva is this model of a sodium graphite pilot plant nuclear reactor now being built in a Los Angeles aviation plant. Heat produced by fission in reactor core (A) is absorbed by liquid sodium and turns it into steam (B) to heat exchanger (C). There a secondary sodium system absorbs heat from the first and it is piped (D) to exhaust fans (E) where it is dissipated. In production of electricity, the heat would be used to produce steam for conventional turbo generators.

ENTERS PRIESTHOOD

Aurel Seguin, 51-year-old former CBC executive, wears the robes of a novice in the Roman Catholic Dominican order at a ceremony in St. Hyacinthe, Que. He decided to enter the priesthood after the death of his wife eight years ago. He has three sons. (CP Photo)

IN CNE SHOW

Dancer Glenna Jonse of London, Ont., wears an elaborate floral prop in rehearsal for the grandstand show at the Canadian National Exhibition. The flowers are violets from New Brunswick, greatly magnified for use as scenery backdrop. (CP Photo)

NARCOTICS CHARGE

Jacob Rosenblat, 52 was arrested during a raid on a mid-town Toronto rooming house in which police made a seizure of narcotics valued at about $1,000,000 on the black market. Rosenblat, a furniture salesman, was arrested with another man and woman. All three have been charged with conspiring to traffic in narcotics. Police believe they cracked an international dope ring operating between European cities and Toronto with the raid. (CP Photo)

For PILES

First you must remove the cause, which is internal and far out of reach of anything except internal treatment. The modern way. Fytolite treatment (in liquid taken by mouth) has glanded thousands of hopeless people. Let us prove this with one bottle of Fytolite. It will remove the cause more than those temporary reliefs, but you get real results with Fytolite. Your druggist has Fytolite.

River Valley W.I. Hears Most Interesting Talk on Mental Health

STIRLING—Mrs. George Heasman was hostess on Thursday to River Valley Women's Institute. Seventeen members and five visitors braved the extreme heat and were in attendance. The vice-president, Mrs. Ralph Utman, opened the meeting. The secretary, Mrs. Thomas Hanna, gave her report. A new resident, Mrs. Vernon Harry, was welcomed. The September meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Jack Rush with Miss Adeline Bush as convener and the topic "Canadian Women".

BUSINESS DISCUSSED

There was a discussion re exhibit at the Belleville Fair and no action taken. Mrs. Don Donohoe gave a synopsis of the district annual, and stressed the important phases of the two sessions held in June at Sidon Baptist church. The secretary gave a full financial report re fees, fruit boxes and catering to the sale held on Civic holiday.

The net proceeds of the sale were approximately $90 and this will be an excellent help for Institute funds. The president, Mrs. Roy Bush, voiced thanks to everyone for their assistance. It was decided to donate the usual $5 as prize money for Stirling Fair to be used for 4-H Garden club work. Mrs. Percy Utman and Mrs. George Heasman were appointed to prepare the exact wording for the prize list.

OVERSEAS W.I. MESSAGE

Mrs. Percy MacMullen brought a message from Abba's Leigh W.I. in England. At their gathering they realized 63 pounds sterling. They had a team of Scot dancers from Bristol, garbed in highland dress with a pipe. They had numerous stalls to sell their various wares. Three more members handed in their names for open bids.

Mrs. Kenneth Morrow presided over the program and the first half was devoted to Girls' club work.

The eight members of River Valley 4-H Sunshine Society's club girls, Joanne Heasman, Grace Heasman, Catherine Little, Elaine Lindenfield, Betty Hanna, Marilyn Conley, Janice Coombes and Greta DeJong gave a splendid skit on garden work and the growing of vegetables.

Catherine and Grace then demonstrated "How to Make a Tasty Salad". They outlined all the main points about chilling, cutting and serving and said salads should be cold, crisp and colorful.

The girls displayed their garden produce, record books on the dining room table, where all the ladies could have a good view. Everyone was invited to attend Achievement Day in Stirling on August 12.

Mrs. Adeline Bush read a humorous poem on "Health". Mrs. Ernest Carr read an article entitled a "Thoughtful Homemaker."

Mrs. Kenneth Morrow read a paper which she had made and on "Mental Illness." She said: "Mental illness is our greatest and most neglected health problem. In one out of five Canadian homes there is someone suffering from a mental disorder. More than half of all hospital beds are now occupied by the mentally ill—more than the victims of cancer, polio, heart disease and all the other illnesses combined. "The Canadian Mental Health Association estimates that another 20,000 are in urgent need of hospital care and at least one million persons in this country are partially disabled by mental or emotional disorders, not serious enough to require hospital care.

"Evidence shows that well-equipped and adequately staffed hospitals can discharge as many as 80 per cent of mental patients in the first year of treatment. The solution is not in building more hospitals but rather in emptying the ones we have and by preventing new cases from developing and getting the existing ones out.

"Psychiatrists believe that emotional experience in infancy and childhood—chiefly lack of love, understanding and a feeling of security, are important factors in most mental illnesses. These early experiences lie buried and forgotten below the level of consciousness. But they are triggered into action causing emotional conflict when the individual tries to adjust himself to situations in later life.

"Two new drugs have recently been discovered and the results have been most encouraging. A national effort should be made to conquer the disease of mental illness.

"Prevention is one of the goals and that means to provide a healthy environment for childhood and mental hygiene is important both at home and at school."

In her closing message the speaker told of the three-fold need—to train thousands of new psychiatrists, finance low cost clinics, and a greater research into the whole field of mental chemistry.

BIRD CONTEST
Mrs. Phil Conley conducted a bird contest and two groups won. The roll call, "Responsibility of a Teen-age Girl." Her home brought out several good points—helping to prepare meals, knowing how to make introductions, and care of her room.

The hostess, her three daughters and the lunch committee served sandwiches, cake and lemonade.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen voiced thanks for the hospitality, program report and refreshments.

Benson Does Not Like Crop Controls, Forced to Use Them

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson has said that he dislikes federal crop controls. But circumstances are requiring that he employ them more than any of his predecessors.

He has invoked rigid marketing quotas this year on wheat, cotton, rice, peanuts and major types of tobacco.

Before the year is over, he will have to impose them on the same crops for next year.

Although American farmers themselves may or may not like the controls, they have a good record of approving them. The Farm Law of 1938, authorizing marketing restrictions, requires that they be approved by at least two-thirds of the farmers voting in a referendum.

Since then, the department has held 58 such referenda. In 50 of them, growers approved quotas while in 18 they disapproved.

The circumstances that require Benson to use quota restrictions are the accumulation of surplus crops and a requirement of farm law that the limitations be invoked—subject to grower approval—when oversupplies develop.

By the time this year's harvesting has been completed, upwards of $12,000,000,000 worth of farm surpluses are likely to be stored under government farm programs.

Farmers themselves are under great economic pressure to approve quotas, whether they like them or not. If the quotas are approved, the government will support grower prices of the affected crop at a relatively favorable level.

But if they are rejected, the support levels are cut to a low level.

In the case of tobacco, price supports are withdrawn completely if controls are voted down.

AFRAID OF DROP Inasmuch as market prices follow closely the support level, many farmers hesitate to vote against controls lest prices drop to depression levels.

The department has conducted three referenda this year on quotas. Referenda for other crops produced under controls this season were held last year.

One this year was for quotas on the 1956 wheat crop. It was approved by 77.5 per cent of the growers voting. Another was on a proposed reduction in previously announced quotas for this year's crop of burley tobacco. It won by a majority of 96 per cent.

The third referendum was on the question of authorizing quotas for the 1956, 1957 and 1958 crops of five-cured tobacco. It gave an overwhelming majority of 97.3 per cent for controls until the 1959 crop.

Before the year is out, Benson will hold referenda on quotas for next year's crops of cotton and rice as well as on future crops of such types of tobacco as burley, Virginia sun-cured, Maryland and two cigar varieties.

Whether the referenda give a true picture of how farmers feel toward the government controls is a matter of conjecture. Often less than half the affected growers go to the trouble to vote.

In the referendum held a few weeks ago on quotas for the 1956 wheat crop, only about 330,000 of farmers voted. This was less than one-fourth. In this case only 18 per cent of the eligible farmers approved the controls. Yet they were able to put the controls on all the growers.

Canada's Exports Now Increased To Near Record

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's exports now have increased to near-record proportions.

The whole Canadian foreign trade picture has taken on a brighter glow in the wake of the Western world's economic recovery.

Exports in the first half of 1955 have increased by almost $200,000,000 to $2,062,900,000 from $1,871,300,000 in the first half of 1954 and just slightly below the record $2,121,800,000 in the January-June period of 1952.

Imports also have increased, rising by more than $150,000,000 to $2,209,700,000, up from $2,050,100,000 in the first half of 1954 and again just slightly below the record $2,216,600,000 in the first half of 1953.

And amid this upsurge, Canada's deficit in foreign trade—that is the excess of imports over exports—has declined to $146,800,000 from $178,800,000 a year ago.

What tends to develop in the second half of the year are not entirely clear but it appears certain now that 1955 will shape up as one of Canada's best foreign trade years.

May Launch Rocket-Satellite From Range in W. Australia

By L. L. LECK

Canadian Press Correspondent
SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—British and Australian scientists meet soon to discuss the possibility of launching a rocket-satellite from the Woomera rocket range in western Australia.

The chairman of the Royal Society's upper atmosphere committee, Professor H. S. Massey, will arrive in Australia in mid-August from the U.K. to begin discussions with Dr. D. F. Marlyn, chief scientist of the Australian radio research board, also a world authority on the upper atmosphere.

Later, a party of British and Australian scientists will visit Woomera.

The controller of the weapons research organization at Woomera, H. J. Brown, said in Adelaide recently: "At this stage we are thinking of getting a small rocket to a height of 300,000 feet in a much less expensive way than the big three-stage rockets."

"This rather inexpensive way of getting recording instruments into the last years of the atmosphere has been discussed by other countries, but as yet, has not been tried.

"We could probably send aloft a number of such rockets for the cost of one of the American space satellites."

"The great advantage of the U.S. space satellite scheme will be that the recording instruments will be sending back data to earth for at least hours, and if we are lucky, days."

With ordinary rockets the data recorded of the layers that science is interested in is only for a period of seconds."

On his arrival in Australia Professor Massey will discuss with Dr. Marlyn the possibility, and the desirability from the cost point of view, of extending the present plans to cover the firing of a satellite rocket from the launching equipment used for defence research at Woomera.

The director of the National University's school of physical sciences at Canberra, Professor Marcus Oliphant, has estimated that the cost of the satellite scheme would be about $9,000,000.

He suggested that the cost should be shared by all Commonwealth countries.

The Woomera rocket range would be the ideal launching site for a "British Commonwealth" satellite, he said.

Freight Service Held Up By Three Youths

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Three youths with a yen for railroading held up freight service on the New York Central's main line for almost an hour Sunday.

The teen-agers found an old hand car. They pushed it onto what they thought was a siding and, with the aid of poles, suled along almost six miles to East Rochester.

The "siding" actually was the main freight line of the Central.

The conductor of a passing train spotted the boys. The railroad halted all trains until a deputy sheriff caught up with the hand car.

The boys—Gordon Bittler, 16, Robert Bendick, 15, and Richard Brady, 15—explained they "just wanted to take a ride." Railroad officials said they would not file any charges against the trio.

Battered, Nude Body of Woman Found in Field

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The battered, nude body of Mrs. Wilma Allen, attractive 34-year-old wife of a wealthy automobile dealer, was found Sunday in a pasture 15 miles southwest of Kansas City.

Johnson county coroner David S. Long reported the body was badly decomposed. The back of Mrs. Allen's head was smashed in. Her hands were tied behind the back with the blue scarf she was wearing when she disappeared after a beauty shop appointment in Kansas City Thursday afternoon.

Investigators said they had been informed by New York City police that the car bore Maryland plates and that the registration was in the name of Anthony Patalino, 39 of Baltimore, Md.

Patalino and Sylvester Mazzella, 46, of New York, were captured at the climax of a blazing gun battle through west side streets after the holdup was thwarted through the efforts of Eugene Clossessy, 27, a courageous Brinks guard.

FRIENDS ATTEND FUNERAL

NORTHPORT—About fifty friends from this circuit attended the funeral services of the Rev. K. Cutler, who passed away in Ottawa hospital on Friday morning.

He had been ailing for some time, but none realized the seriousness of his condition. He preached at his four appointments on Sunday, July 17th, intending to carry on the remainder of the month, but members insisted he take a holiday at once—in less than two weeks he passed away.

The funeral was held on Monday at Shawville, Quebec, with interment at Norway Bay. The deepest sympathy of the entire community goes out to Mrs. Cutler, Donald, Cyril and Arlene in their great loss.

Mrs. Harold Taylor and Marjorie spent Monday with her mother, Mrs. A. Baldwin, while Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Taylor attended the funeral of the late Mr. Cutler, Shawville.

Russian A-Plant Promises Power For Remote Areas

Atoms-for-Peace Parley Hears U.S., Red Scientists

By FRANK CAREY

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union today told the atomic peace conference that its first small commercial atomic power plant promises profitable electricity for areas remote from coal supplies. But the Russians conceded the development of a new "boiling water" nuclear power plant costs "considerably more than the output of large Soviet stations burning conventional fuel."

"An atomic power station now is already more profitable than a coal station in regions situated far from coal mines or than coal stations operating on low-quality fuel," Russian scientists D. I. Blokhintsev and N. A. Nikolayev said in their report to the 72-country congress sponsored by the United Nations.

Three United States scientists also held out promise for remote areas with a paper on the development of a new "boiling water" atomic process. They described it as "an important step toward the economical production of nuclear power."

GENERATION OF STEAM

The American experts, from the Argonne laboratories in Illinois, said their process involves generation of the steam for the turbines inside the reactor rather than in an external boiler. The boiling inside the reactor previously had been considered unsafe, but the report said this has been disproved.

A 5,000-kilowatt plant using the new principle is due to be in operation at the Argonne laboratories by the end of 1958.

The American report to the conference said adoption of the boiling water principle will simplify construction and operation of small atomic power plants and will cut the cost of construction and operation.

A REAL BASIS

The two Soviet scientists said the 5,000-kilowatt nuclear plant the Russians are operating provides "a real basis for nuclear power development in our country."

Soviet scientists were designing a 100,000-kilowatt plant to use two reactors of the same type as in the first station, as well as "various types of atomic power stations with a capacity of 5,000 to 100,000 kilowatts and more."

Blokhintsev and Nikolayev said the steep cost of their atomic power was due to "the small size of the station, to the big outlay in piece manufacture of fuel elements, to the great consumption of Uranium 235 because of the small size of the atomic reactor, and also to the amount of peculiarities in the design of a station aimed at creating greater reliability of operation."

Experience shows these peculiarities may be dispensed with," the report added.

The Soviet technicians said their small working reactor—and the 100,000 kilowatt device under design—are so-called "pressurized water-cooled thermal uranium-graphite" reactors.

American atomic scientists say this is the same general type that used by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission to produce plutonium at Hanford, Wash. The Hanford reactors are not intended to produce commercial power, however.

In their report to the conference, the Russians said a number of other types of reactors can serve as sources of heat for nuclear power. But "the use of highly enriched uranium or plutonium for power production at present is retarded... by the fact that these materials can be used also for military purposes."

CAMP GAGETOWN, N.B. (CP) — The 1st Canadian Infantry Division prepared to mount a massive counterattack today after some of its battalions took a mauling from ground and air onslaughts in exercise Rising Star Monday.

Because the make-believe 2nd Division on its flank was beaten back, the 1st was forced to withdraw to protect its rear.

All through the night, some 12,000 troops moved south to take up new defensive positions preparatory to a counter-offensive.

It was a huge contrast to the previous night when the convoys, tanks, artillery and gun carriers, stalled north through oceans of rain and mud.

The part of the supposed three-division enemy is played by the 2nd Battalion, the Black Watch.

Its commanding officer, Lt.-Col. R. M. Ross of Ottawa, was hailed Monday by a Royal Canadian Regiment infantryman who played possum and then tossed three fake hand grenades when the colonel arrived at a just-overrun RCR position.

Ex-bookie Says He Never Paid Off Chief Mulligan

By GRAHAM MCULLIN

VANCOUVER (CP) — An ex-bookie accused his accuser here Monday while insisting before a royal commission that he had never paid off police chief Walter Mulligan.

Edwin Percy (Pete) Wallace, former railroad man who admitted being convicted of gambling offences on several occasions, said it was ex-bookie Jack Whelan who attempted to set up a bookmaking scheme in a downtown hotel.

The testimony contradicted earlier evidence given by Whelan that Wallace sought his aid in furthering the scheme.

The royal commission, under R. H. Tupper, was called to investigate charges of graft in the 750-man police force. It was set up by Attorney-General Robert Bonner at the request of the Vancouver police commission.

Wallace also described as false previous testimony by Det.-Sgt. Len Cuthbert that he (Wallace) had paid out protection money.

Cuthbert, who attempted to kill himself June 24, told the commission he met Wallace in 1949 "two or three times" to receive payments of $500 each which he split with himself.

A second witness at Monday's hearing, magistrate Oscar Orr, said Det.-Sgt. Bob Leathard told him in 1949 that he had been "propositioned" by Mulligan to "ease up" on certain bookies.

Hooked a Whopper

QUEBEC (CP) — Fourteen-year-old Gilles Bureau had proof Monday that not all the big ones get away.

Gilles was fishing for bass on the nearby Isle of Orleans during the weekend when he hooked a whopper in the Quebec river. He needed him from his father and other fishermen but finally landed a 60-pound sturgeon after a 90-minute fight. The fish measured five feet, eight inches—four inches more than Gilles' height.

Complete the rescue. At the request of the RCAF, the U.S. Air Force will provide a helicopter for the operation.

The landed helicopter is owned by Vancouver Island Helicopter Service of Victoria.

Engineer aboard the 'copter was identified as Ted Protheroe. Early reports said it also carried three B.C. power commission officials but this was denied in Victoria. The force said the B.C. Airlines pilot reported seeing three or four people near the SOS marker.

Meanwhile, rain and low clouds all but halted the search for a Pacific Western Airlines plane missing with five persons aboard along the rugged northern B.C. coast. The plane left Kelowna on a 40-mile flight to the aluminum centre of Kitimat Wednesday night.

Wallace also described as false previous testimony by Det.-Sgt. Len Cuthbert that he (Wallace) had paid out protection money.

Cuthbert, who attempted to kill himself June 24, told the commission he met Wallace in 1949 "two or three times" to receive payments of $500 each which he split with himself.

Outlook for Large Nuclear Power in U.S. Promising

By DAVE MCINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GENEVA (AP) — An American scientist told the Atoms-for-Peace conference today "there is a good possibility" atomic power will be competing with electricity from coal in the United States within the next 15 or 20 years.

The prediction was made to the 72-nation scientific conference by Dr. James A. Lane of the Atomic Energy Commission's Oak Ridge, Tenn., national laboratory.

"Taking all available economic and technical information at its face value," Lane said, "it is evident that the outlook for large-scale nuclear power in the United States is very promising."

Reporting at the same conference session, two Russian scientists indicated such an atomic plant as the 5,000-kilowatt station the Soviet Union now is operating can be utilized in a remote area from coal supplies or where only low grade coal is available.

Giving the first detailed account of a Russian nuclear plant, D. I. Blokhintsev and N. A. Nikolayev conceded the electricity it is turning out costs "considerably" more than the output of large coal-burning stations. But they added:

"An atomic power station now is already more profitable than a coal station in regions situated far from coal mines or than coal stations operating in low quality fuel."

Lane told the conference a review of published estimates of the capital cost of nuclear-electric plants, combined with projected operating costs, had led him to conclude "there is a good possibility that nuclear power costs in the range of four to seven mills per kilowatt hour will be realized within the next 15 or 20 years."

"At these power costs," he said, "nuclear plants will compete for an appreciable fraction of all new plants built by 1975, the total construction costs of which may amount to between $4,000,000,000 and $60,000,000,000."

The present U.S. reactor development program now being carried out in the laboratories of the Atomic Energy Commission and by various industrial concerns throughout the country is aimed at such an objective.

The Russian scientists, besides saying that nuclear power costs in the Soviet Union are estimated at a minimum, and has moved to have the marriage annulled.

The romance started last March when Doerner's father was repairing a television set in Mrs. Sterling's home. He saw Barbara Jean's picture and asked if it would be all right if she and his son, who time in command though declared "dead" by an umpire.

The manoeuvres require some 300 umpires.

The navy put some 48 fighters and anti-submarine planes in the air—most of them on the side of the enemy.

They flew more than 100 sorties during the day and dropped flares at night to pinpoint the withdrawing convoys.

The headquarters of Maj.-Gen. John Rockingham, division commander, was one of the targets which came in for a simulated strafing. The navy fliers were obviously enjoying the exercise because they got few official opportunities to "beat up" persons or objects on the ground. They even buzzed the press camp several times.

Unlike in war, when equipment, supplies and ammunition can be written off, the troops on this exercise must even account for the brass shell casings of their blank ammunition rounds.

After a sharp engagement at dusk Monday night between the Black Watch and 1st Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment, an officer ordered:

"Pick up your brass."

"What a fighting army," came a loud voice from a clump of bushes where some riflemen were crouching.

Ex-bookie Says He Never Paid Off Chief Mulligan

By GRAHAM MCULLIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — An ex-bookie accused his accuser here Monday while insisting before a royal commission that he had never paid off police chief Walter Mulligan.

Edwin Percy (Pete) Wallace, former railroad man who admitted being convicted of gambling offences on several occasions, said it was ex-bookie Jack Whelan who attempted to set up a bookmaking scheme in a downtown hotel.

The testimony contradicted earlier evidence given by Whelan that Wallace sought his aid in furthering the scheme.

The royal commission, under R. H. Tupper, was called to investigate charges of graft in the 750-man police force. It was set up by Attorney-General Robert Bonner at the request of the Vancouver police commission.

Wallace also described as false previous testimony by Det.-Sgt. Len Cuthbert that he (Wallace) had paid out protection money.

Cuthbert, who attempted to kill himself June 24, told the commission he met Wallace in 1949 "two or three times" to receive payments of $500 each which he split with himself.

RED-HATING RAIL WORKERS BESIEGE TRUCE ISLAND

Seven U.S. Soldiers Hurt, Fighting Spreads

By BILL SHINN

SEOUL (AP) — More than 1,200 red-hating Korean railway workers reached the port of Inchon, N.C., today to reinforce some 300 demonstrators besieging the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission billets on Wado Island.

About 700 United States soldiers are guarding the island, scene of Gen. MacArthur's famed Inchon landing of 1950.

Earlier today seven U.S. soldiers were injured when the demonstrators broke through a barricade on the causeway leading to the island. That brought to 22 the number of American servicemen injured since the riots began Saturday.

The Koreans are trying to enforce President Syngman Rhee's ultimatum that the NSNC leave Korea by Saturday. Rhee claims the Communist Poles and Czechs on the commission are spies.

The demonstration today was broken up by tear-gas bombs and blank shells. Some of the enraged demonstrators threw a guard box at one causeway into the sea. Others tried to storm the island from the sea. They, too, were repulsed.

KOREANS HURT

Nine Koreans were reported injured in the Wado clash.

A South Korean army spokesman said one had received a bayonet wound, another had been cut on the head with a rifle butt and the third had been shot in the leg.

In Pusan, scene of the most violent clash, an estimated 3,000 to 4,000 demonstrators Monday made several attempts to break into the NSNC compound. They were repulsed with tear-gas bombs. Fifteen American soldiers and 23 Korean demonstrators were injured.

A Korean War veteran stabbed his own leg at the height of the demonstration, and with the blood flowing from his self-inflicted wound wrote on a placard: "I'm drive out the Communist truce inspectors."

Demonstrators, ranging from a handful to several hundreds, meanwhile continued their sit-down protest in Kusan, Taegu and Kangnung on the east coast.

The demonstrations stem from an ultimatum handed by the Rhee government to the NSNC Sunday demanding the group's withdrawal from Korea "within a week."

The Republic of Korea has been opposed to the half-Communist NSNC since its creation under the Korean armistice.

Supposedly neutral and created to police the truce, the NSNC is composed of Swiss, Swedish, Czech and Polish members.

The United Nations command has denounced the Reds in the NSNC for improper activities and for blocking inspections in North Korea.

FOUNDED DRAMA GROUP

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Ralph Edward Adams, 48, founder of the local Civic Drama League, died here Monday. He had been connected with amateur and professional theatre production for years.

Mr. Adams also helped promote the annual Miss St. Catharines contest and the Niagara grape festival.

It was believed to be the first civil divorce made on a public beach by the royal children.

HOPES FOR BASE
LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A proposal to create a soupstone base on Fundy was investigated by officials of the Upper Thames River Conservation Authority and department of transport. It was reported Monday by N. A. Sherford, vice-chairman of the authority and London park manager, said he hopes to effect a meeting between the two to discuss the proposal.

Storm Warnings Hoisted On N.C., Virginia Capes

Georgia and S. Carolina Are Expected to Escape Damage

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane warnings were hoisted from Cape Lookout, N.C. to Norfolk, Va., today as Connie, first big tropical storm of the year, moved toward that mainland area.

Northeast storm warnings were raised on the Virginia capes, and between Cape Lookout and Wilmington, N.C.

South Carolina and Georgia appeared in the clear as Connie moved north-northeastward at a forward speed of 10 to 11 miles an hour, whirling 135-mile winds in a circle around its centre.

The great storm was expected to continue on the same course and at the speed for another 24 hours, perhaps veering slightly more to the north.

"This course would bring the centre near or a short distance east of Cape Hatteras Wednesday morning," said a weather bureau advisory at noon.

"All precautions should be rushed to completion immediately for the protection of life and property against dangerous winds and abnormally high tides in the area of hurricane and storm warning display," said the advisory.

At noon the storm was centred near latitude 30.3 north, longitude 74.0 west, or 340 miles south-southwest of Cape Hatteras and 450 miles east of Jacksonville, Fla.

Eye-crests pointed out that hurricane force winds extend 120 miles to the north and east and gales an additional 180 miles, so that gale force winds at noon were less than 100 miles offshore in the Cape Hatteras area.

Hurricane force winds extend 50 miles to the southwest of the centre, and gales an additional 100 miles.

Gordon Dunn, chief forecaster in the Miami weather bureau's storm warning centre, said Connie "misses connections" with a low-pressure trough which could have taken its 135-mile-an-hour winds out of the sea.

The great Atlantic storm slowed its forward pace from about 12 miles an hour to about 8 to 10, and its course changed from north to north-northwest.

The centre at 9 a.m. EDT was about 450 miles east of St. Augustine, Fla.

All these circumstances, said Dunn, might make the situation somewhat critical for the Georgia and Carolina coasts.

MAY BE DIVERTED
There was hope that the storm would be steered away from the coast. Another low pressure trough was approaching rapidly from the west, and if Connie tied into its southern half it could be carried out to sea before it raked the land.

The six-year-old heir to the British throne may be black trunks, raced toward the sea but was taken back by the coolness of the waves. He stopped, shivered and rubbed his chest before immersing himself up to the chin.

Twenty-two Princess Anne—five next week—usually follows the lead of her big brother. But Monday she was less venturesome. Wearing a black bathing suit with cross-over straps, Princess Anne first hesitated on the water's edge, then scampered back to the warm sand. Finally a nurse coaxed her into the sea—up to her waist.

It was believed to be the first civil divorce made on a public beach by the royal children.

On July 5-30 letters later—Cpl. Doerner came home on leave, called on Barbara Jean and started to date her regularly. They eloped last Wednesday, Barbara Jean allegedly falsified her age.

On learning of the complaint, Doerner gave himself up at an army base near this fashionable Chicago suburb. The army has arranged for him to stay there—he was to return to France tomorrow—until the case has been settled.

Meanwhile, Barbara Jean will stay with her husband's parents. She says she will have no part of an annulment, loves her husband and wants to accompany him back to France.

Rotarians View

Over Telephone

The tinkling of a telephone in a business office can be as deadly a sound to the businessman as is the triumphant shriek of fast-approaching headlights to the lost motorist.

Ever dial a number, hear it ring, answer it, and then find you could have read all the editorials in the New York Times and written a letter to the editor before it was answered? And when your brain has just reached saturation point from the boiling blood rising to your head, there's a click and a disconcerting "Well! Waddy ya want?"

Well maybe your experience has not been quite as bad as that. However, one of the gamuts to successful operation in the professional men is the approach their office staff may have to the would-be client, or anyone else for that matter, endeavoring to reach them by phone.

This problem was stressed yesterday to Belleville Rotarians at their weekly meeting with the showing of the Bell Telephone Company-sponsored film "Telephone Courtesy." The film, which dealt in amusing fashion with the problem, betrayed many of the unconscious business-damaging techniques of telephone types. From the spleen-slitting clerk who takes his Monday-morning blues out on callers all and sundry to the glib-cheating typist who prods in chomping her chops over the phone, the film pointed out the new moral to business: a telephone call can be a

Only way to solve the problem would appear to be to give instructions to the staff, weed out the bad types, and generally emphasize to all the necessity of courtesy to parties at the other end of the line.

The film was introduced by Len Smith.

Unveiling of New Memorial Gates to Fair Grounds Will Officially Open Fair Monday

An artistic new gateway of colored stone built in recognition of the fair's 100th anniversary will greet fairgoers attending the Belleville Exhibition when it gets underway next week. Fair dates are Monday to Thursday, August 15 to 18.

The new stone gateway now undergoing its finishing touches will be a decided asset to the main entrance of the fair grounds. Wings of the gateway arch gracefully toward the street and when completed will carry a plaque bearing the fair's name and the date of construction.

Employees of the parks board are now preparing beds for flowers which will be planted there, adding further beauty to the entrance.

Opening day ceremonies will include the unveiling of the new memorial gates by Fair Superintendent F. A. Lashley. Mr. Lashley will officially open the fair as well as unveil the new gates, the ceremonies to take place during the first afternoon of the fair.

HEAVY ENTRY LIST

High interest on the part of fair exhibitors is reported this week by Fair Secretary Thomas Walker. Entries of sheep, hogs and cattle, particularly Shorthorns, are up, while continued high interest in both heavy and light horse classes is reported.

The customary high interest in the ladies' section is also reported. The same holds true for children's classes and school entries. A special prize list for secondary school pupils is being offered this year for the first time.

Poultry exhibitors will find the poultry building has been moved from its former location to a new and permanent site immediately east of the race track.

HORSE JUDGING TUESDAY

Judging of the horse classes will get underway on Tuesday and last through the final day of the fair.

Guernsey cattle will be judged Tuesday; Jerseys and Holsteins on Wednesday, and Herefords, Shorthorns, Aberdeen Angus and Ayrshires on Thursday. Sheep and Swine will be judged Wednesday and poultry on Tuesday.

Junior farmers and junior institute members from Hastings, as well as neighboring counties, will be active with Tuesday scheduled as Junior Farmer Day, when both boys and girls will register for competitions. Wednesday will see the Belleville 4-H Club Achievement Day, while Thursday will be the South Hastings 4-H Swine Club Achievement Day.

Special attractions at the fair will include the George A. Hamid grandstand show which will be seen afternoon and evening for the first three days of the fair. The show promises some topnotch attractions with several European acts showing this year for the first time in Canada.

AUTO RACERS TO STAR

As a last day feature of the fair will be Canadian Congress of Daredavils auto racers, who will put on a two hour show in front of the grandstand.

There will be two days of horse-racing, Tuesday and Wednesday, with three heats of two classes to be run each day.

Monday afternoon will see the ever popular Baby Show, with this year's crop expected to be the largest in the history of the fair.

Beneath the grandstand will be a large display by the Department of Lands and Forests, which will take up the entire space with exhibits of wild life.

Last, but not least, will be the Conklin midway, which will offer the fair-goers the latest in special attractions with new and old rides of every description.

Child Suffers Fractured Leg, Struck by Car

TRENTON (Special) — The Trenton Memorial Hospital reports that six-year-old Barbara Garrison, who suffered a fractured leg and scalp lacerations in a traffic accident on Saturday is making good recovery.

The child, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Garrison, 313 Front Street, Trenton, was crossing from the west side of Front St. to the east side on a slow run when she was hit by a car driven by Leonard J. Lozo, of 28 Dundas St. W. A diagram drawn by police investigating the mishap indicated the girl was thrown 40 feet. She was picked up by her father and rushed to the hospital. Dr. W. A. L. McDonald is treating her.

U.S. INDUSTRIALIST COMING
Senator W. A. Fraser reports that Charles H. Kaman of the Kaman Aircraft Company manufacturing helicopters at Moonfield, Connecticut, arrives in Trenton on Friday to look at building sites. The U.S. industrialist, according to Senator Fraser, has been studying Canadian market possibilities for some time and is considering the establishment of a factory on this side of the border.

Senator Fraser indicated that he was familiar with Mr. Kaman's needs and would be showing him several suitable tracts of land.

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR
The Bata Shoe Company at Batavia received a distinguished visitor yesterday in the person of Mr. Khatian, chairman of board of directors, Bata, India, touring North America on a combined holiday and business trip. Mr. Khatian's principal purpose is to study business methods on this continent, particularly labor relations.

33 Continental Air Cadets Visit Trenton Station

TRENTON. (Special.) — Some 33 British and continental air cadets touring Canada and the United States stopped off at the Trenton Air Station here today. They were welcomed on behalf of the RCAF by station commander Group Capt. G. G. Diamond, AFC, and Air Commodore W. W. Brown, senior staff officer of Training Command. Official welcome from the town of Trenton was extended by Mayor Ross Burt. Senator W. A. Fraser brought a message of welcome to them from the federal government. The visit is sponsored by the Air Cadet League of Canada. Douglas Whitley the local representative announced the details.

In the afternoon the group called in at the Bata Shoe Company at Frankfort. They were taken on a tour of the factory and before departing received a souvenir to remember their visit. Later they boarded an aircraft to fly to Lachine, Quebec, where the Quebec Provincial committee was waiting to greet them.

CONDITION TERMED SERIOUS
NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Stern, ABC radio sports commentator, was severely injured early today when he apparently lost control of his car on the Henry Hudson Parkway and crashed into an abutment. Stern, 48, was taken to hospital suffering from cuts, bruises, a concussion, possible broken ribs and possible internal injuries. His condition was termed serious.

UNDERTOW DRAWS SEVEN TO DEATH AT ONTARIO BEACH

Circled are the heads of two persons caught in an undertow at Wasaga Beach, on Georgian Bay, Ont., while at right, two men struggle with a whale boat to rescue them. The effort was unsuccessful and the toll of the undertow in one afternoon stood at seven dead. Five bodies were washed ashore during the night following a day in which huge waves pounded the shores creating the most undertow in the memory of the beach residents. Four of the victims were carried into the bay by one huge wave.

One of many persons rescued from turbulent Wasaga beach is given inhalator treatment by police. Sudden wind and huge waves caught many bathers and their cries for help attracted would be rescuers, some of whom perished. Four of six persons who went to the rescue of a little girl drowned and police fear that when the bay subsides more bodies will be found.

Stretch of Beach Closed at Wasaga

WASAGA BEACH, Ont. (CP) — A mile-long stretch of beach at this popular resort area, where seven persons were drowned Sunday, has been closed to swimmers for the rest of the season.

Reeve Wilbur Nash announced the ban Monday night following a special council meeting. He said the council adopted the recommendation of the district fire department and had a snow fence placed on the banned stretch of beach. The fence will remain in place until the end of the season or until it can be determined whether the area is safe for swimming.

"If our investigations show there is more likelihood of trouble, the prohibition will remain."

The bodies of six of the seven Toronto area men trapped and drowned by a sudden strong undertow at Wasaga Beach Sunday have been recovered. Four of the men were drowned while attempting to rescue a young girl. The others died earlier in the day in separate accidents.

In Toronto, Attorney-General Dana Fortin said he had instructed vice-atorney W. M. Thompson of Barrie to conduct an inquest into the drownings.

Saves Director From Mad Bull

MADRID, Spain (Reuters) — Ace matador Luis Dominguez, 28, dashed between a jeep and a madly rushing bull Sunday saving American movie director Michael Todd from serious injury or death.

The incident took place when the famous bullfighter was showing Todd the bulls on his farm. When one of the beasts charged the jeep in which Todd was sitting, Dominguez leaped off his horse to try to distract the bull. He just missed being badly gored as he slipped and fell and the animal's horns ripped his trousers.

53-Day Crossing

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A youthful American diplomat and five young Chinese friends tied up at San Francisco's Fisherman's wharf Monday after 53 days spent crossing the Pacific in a 78-foot junk.

"Except for two storms and a chase by a school of whales, it was pretty much uneventful," said Calvin E. Mehlert, 27, of Fresno, Calif. Mehlert, third secretary and U.S. vice-consul at Taipei, Formosa, said the junk Free China left Yokosuka, Japan, June 17.

Escapes Unharmd

EDWARDS BASE, Calif. (AP) — A test pilot escaped unharmd Monday when the world's fastest rocket plane exploded high over the Mojave desert.

The air force said that the Bell X-1A exploded seconds before it was to be released from the mother ship which had carried it 30,000 feet above Edwards air force base. Research pilot Joseph A. Walker, 34, of nearby Lancaster, scrambled from the cockpit of the X-1A and back into the mother plane. The pilot of the mother ship, a B-29, dropped the X-1A, piloted, onto a bombing range near the air base. The stub-winged rocket held both the world's speed record, 1,650 m.p.h., and the world's altitude record, better than 90,000 feet.

READ MORE NEWSPAPERS

COLOGNE (Reuters) — Britons are the world's most avid newspaper readers, according to figures published by the West German Institute of Industry. For each 1,000 Britons, British newspapers print 615 copies. Sweden ranges next with 490, followed by Luxembourg, 447, Iceland, 439, and Australia, 416.

WINS CANADIAN CROWN WITH 10-FOOT PUTT

An unorthodox swinger who takes a minimum of time between his shots, 25-year-old Moe Norman, former caddy for the Canadian amateur golf trophy which he won before a crowd of 4,000 at Calgary's Country club course, playing in 80-degree heat, the new champ nosed out Lyle Crawford, of Vancouver, when he dropped a clinching 10-foot putt on the 38th hole. The game tied the record for the longest final in the history of the half-century old tournament. Two previous 39-hole finals were in 1911 and 1938.

Reds Postpone Geneva Meeting

GENEVA (CP) — Tomorrow's scheduled meeting between the ambassadors of the United States and Communist China has been postponed until Thursday at Red China's request.

Red China's Wang Ping-nan gave no reason for requesting the 24-hour postponement, but it was believed that he required more time to confer with his government on Monday's 24-hour session.

The ambassadors failed Monday in their fourth attempt to agree on the release of 40 Americans held in China, but a Communist source said "some progress" was made.

Woman Beats Off Attacker With Her Purse

TORONTO (CP) — A 40-year-old woman beat off an attacker with her purse Monday night when he tried to strangle her only two doors from her home, police said.

Mary Umpleby told police he seized her by the throat after he stopped her to ask directions to Yonge street. Police said Miss Umpleby had just finished telling him how to reach the street when he grabbed her. A passing car helped scare him off.

The woman ran home and her nephew and a friend chased and caught a man a few moments later.

Charged with assault is Abraham Jones, 27. Police said he would be questioned in connection with the strangling of two women last fall and recent unsolved attacks on women.

4,500 Troops On Manoeuvres In Alberta

WAINWRIGHT, Alta. (CP) — Operation Sabre — a week-long exercise for 4,500 regular army troops — is in full swing.

The operation opened Monday night when units of the 2nd Canadian Infantry Brigade struck out at an invading force theoretically occupying the southeastern part of this western army training centre 115 miles southeast of Edmonton.

The 2nd brigade is part of the 1st Canadian Division now on manoeuvres at Camp Gagetown, N.B.

The Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry and the Queen's Own Rifles crossed the starting line supported by tanks from the Lord Strathcona Horse. Air support is being provided by Mitchell bombers of 418 squadron from Edmonton and Mustang fighters from Rivers, Man.

A NEW DIMENSION

Technology is producing so many mechanical miracles in our time that doubters of the seemingly impossible have all but disappeared.

When President Eisenhower announced last week that the U.S. intended to launch an unmanned earth satellite within three years no one was particularly impressed. The general reaction seemed to be complete acceptance as fact something that would have been mere fancy only 20 or 30 years ago. Persons now living who can recall personal doubts about the success of the automobile accept the launching of an earth satellite with the nonchalance of a science fiction addict weaned on television.

This complete acceptance of science's omnipotence is even more mystifying than the wonders scientists have developed. Possibly the only surprise in the president's announcement was that it took the Russians nearly three days to announce that they have been working on a satellite for months and hope to launch it before the United States' rocket is ready.

It was also surprising, in view of the fact that the satellite's size was announced as being "approximately that of a basketball," that such pains were taken to explain that the purpose of the satellite was entirely peaceful. Is it possible to construct a hydrogen bomb no larger than a basketball? If so, what is to prevent any country from launching such a bomb if it is capable of launching a radio-carrying device of the same size?

Since the satellite will broadcast information by radio on the ionosphere, on the effects of cosmic radiation and possibly on the weather, why was it necessary to state that all such information would be made available to other countries? With the satellite circling the globe every 90 minutes would it not be possible for every country in the world to monitor its broadcasts? How could such broadcasts be kept secret?

Broadcasting information from a satellite 300 miles above the earth is hardly the way to keep information secret. And what, pray tell, is the danger of having a satellite weapon if it will disintegrate as it falls back into the earth's atmosphere?

Successful construction of atomic weapons by the United States, Britain and Russia is clear indication that technical superiority in the modern world is temporary. Even the race to space offers no one country an advantage over its interested neighbors, especially when the information that may lead to the successful conquest of space is broadcast to all countries simultaneously.

Whether an earth satellite is a scientific tool or a new weapon is not important. What is important is that this device adds a new dimension to man's world—a dimension that will have all mankind looking up.

PIPE DREAMS

The "coffee break"—an American office procedure that has divided the day into four "work breaks"—has given rise to similar practices in foreign lands. In England tea replaces coffee; in France, wine, while in Spain and Italy the mid-morning and mid-afternoon "breaks" are properly affixed to a three-hour lunch period and siesta.

Iran, however, has come up with a novel diversion. Government workers take opium.

A harsh government, insensitive to such esthetic pursuits, has ordered its employees to cease smoking opium during working hours. Official sources have declined to comment on the number of addicts in government service but one official is quoted as saying there are "not more than several thousand." The government is not banning the smoking of opium, it only wants its employees to have pipe dreams on their own time.

Through the years opium has been given credit for everything from the military successes of the Moslems in the seventh and eighth centuries to the perversion of modern youth. Its effects have been assessed in poetry, in the courts and in institutions. Used as a medicine opium has been one of the world's most effective pain killers.

The effect of opium can best be described by recounting the tale of two beachcombers who drifted into an "opium den" in Shanghai. After cautioning one another about the potency of opium and after individual expressions of distrust and horror concerning its effects, the two cautiously took several puffs on an opium pipe.

A quarter of an hour later one of the beachcombers looked at his companion and said, "Opium didn't affect me at all. In fact I feel so good I think I'll buy the controlling interest in General Motors."

"I won't sell," said his companion.

A MATTER OF FORGIVENESS

The Port Arthur News-Chronicle, in quoting an editorial from The Ontario Intelligencer recently, gave credit to the Belleville Intelligencer.

We sympathize with our contemporary, and forgive it, knowing full well the vagaries of type-setting, proof-reading and composing. We only hope that when we quote the Port Arthur News-Chronicle they will understand and forgive.

THE LONELY PERIOD

There's no one now hello to say
Or when I leave to say Good-bye.
Both families have gone away
And in the home, alone, am I.
When on the pantry shelves I Look.
A problem every night I meet—
For since I have to be the cook
I have no great desire to eat.
Sardines are easy to prepare.
Across the tin you roll a key.
But still for them I've ceased to care.
Six times a week too much for me.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

August 9, 1935

Miss Jennie Irvine of this city is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Latimer, Brookville, Ont.

Mrs. William Reynolds, Cannifton, is visiting friends in Rochester, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford McCormick and daughter, Elaine, of Ottawa, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Campbell, West Bridge Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred LaPalm of Rochester, N.Y., are visiting his aunt, Mrs. Joseph LaPalm, S. John Street.

Mrs. H. Houston and daughter, Clara, of Shannville, have returned home after visiting her former's sister, in Detroit, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Black with Mrs. Austin Robertson, motorist to Jackson's Point, Lake Simcoe, where Mr. and Mrs. Black visited the sons, Joseph, and Mrs. Robertson visited her son, Francis. The boys have been at Camp De La Salle for the past month.

Dr. G. S. Cronk has returned to city after spending a vacation at Buck Lake.

30 YEARS AGO

August 9, 1925

Mr. Bert Black took a number of the Old Boys who are here for the reunion and some local friends, down the bay on his boat the steamer Wacuta, to witness the regatta in Big Bay which was one of the attractions of the reunion. The trip was greatly enjoyed and the boys framed an address of appreciation which they read to him. The address was signed by the following: Jack Forin, Alfred Gillen, Bob. Tannahill, George Dalmage, Fred C. Baker, George W. Baker, Walter Lingman, E. G. Keeler, Robert A. Fones, William R. Greatrix, P. J. O'Neill, H. E. Bullen, John W. Cover, Jasper Nelson, Jack Martin, J. George Keyes, Angus C. Dickson, James J. Cummins, John E. Bulger and Tom Cullen.

Miss Ella McGie of Toronto is visiting friends here.

Mr. Harry Holland is home from Toronto on his visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Holland, Queen Street.

Miss Minnie Black of Windsor, Ontario, is the guest of Mrs. John Mesinger, Octavia Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cullen and son, Mr. Tom. Cullen, all of Chicago, Ill., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Howie, Dundas Street east.

40 YEARS AGO

August 9, 1915

Mr. Edward Dench, son of Mr.

and Mrs. Charles Dench, formerly of this city, and now of Erie, Pa., won highest honors and a four-year scholarship at the University of Pennsylvania.

On July 31st, the resignation of Mr. William Mackintosh as Inspector of schools for Centre Hastings went into effect. Mr. Mackintosh has filled the position with great honor to himself and profit to the schools for the remarkable long period of forty-one and a half years.

Mr. W. J. Vandervoort of Toronto was in town today.

50 YEARS AGO

August 9, 1905

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Parker, George Street, left today to spend some time at Murray Bay.

City Clerk W. C. Mikel is spending a vacation at L'Amable.

City treasurer David Price and Mrs. Price are spending a vacation at Wellington.

Mr. W. J. Wilkinson, organist at St. Thomas Church, and Mr. Reginald Green are spending a few days in Rochester, N.Y.

Mr. Alex. Walker, the obliging librarian at the public library is spending his vacation as a guest at the summer home of Judge E. B. Fraeclck, Salmon Lake, St. Ola.

Pinhead Hoodlums

(Calgary Herald)

A new public swimming pool was opened in South Calgary.

And so what happens? When the pool is drained, the broken glass of many beer bottles lay strewn across the bottom. There were also rocks and boulders which had been heaved into the pool.

Are these the kind of no-good-bums for whom we are being constantly asked to provide baseball diamonds every few blocks? Would it not be much more appropriate to provide a few big piles of rocks for them to work on, with a sledgehammer, while a tough guard stands by?

It is a shame, of course, that vandals pinheads like that can spoil so many things for the much greater number of well-behaved youngsters.

When and if they are caught, they ought to go to jail. But they are some people, of course, who would give them a free season ticket to the pool instead.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LOCATIONS

I am where I wanted to be—on my beloved little island in Nova Scotia where, for a quarter of a century, I have made my summer home. It's in Grand Lake, and the name of my island is "Weskawenak," the Micmac Indian word for "Happy Land."

I have a city home, but its greatest attraction is that it is so full of books. I could have paved the yard of an acre in size with the lot of them, but if such a thing should happen I would have to move what little else I have out into the yard for I would be too lonely without my books right at hand!

Here at "Weskawenak" I have a little library, too, where I keep a small select group of books, but the entire group of islands make up a library in the open, and, teeming with history, rock formations, great pines and hemlocks, and many birds. I know every wild flower by name, and we greet each other every day. Here are quiet and spiritual enrichment, with love planted all over it!

I am constantly discovering something new and interesting in this little spot of earth. I love the peace and restfulness of the lake with my boats. The climate, on the whole, is the finest I have ever experienced—a low fire and warm blanket an essential during the summer months. This is a location I love planted all over it!

Plan May Integrate Eskimo

(Edmonton Journal)

An interesting suggestion for the solution of North America's native problems was made recently by William Olsen, director of the Alaska service. He insisted that the system now in vogue in Alaska by which Eskimo boys and girls, after they have received an education, are sent back to their villages is all wrong. In these primitive surroundings, according to him, they have no opportunity to put their new knowledge to use, or to make a living. He suggests that they be encouraged to study and then to settle in the larger towns of Alaska and be "integrated" into the white man's life. The ultimate objective, as we understand it, would be the disappearance of the Eskimos as a separate community, and their absorption into the general stream of American civilization.

This is a sharp reversal of the traditional policy of dealing with both Eskimos and Indians in Canada and the United States. It has been to keep the tribal communities intact, isolate them from the mass of white people, and while giving them some training in the three R's, to preserve their customs and culture as far as possible. The theory has been that an Indian or Eskimo separated too sharply from his tribe and his old way of life would degenerate.

This policy may have been the best solution to the problem in the early days of settlement, but the re-examination in the light of modern conditions certainly the reserve system has not worked well in the case of the Canadian Indians; most of them have lost contact with their old culture without learning much of the white man's life. In the case of the Eskimos, the problem has not been so acute, because of their isolation. But this isolation is ending as mining and military projects multiply in the north. The traditional nomadic way of life can hardly continue forever: it is already threatened by the depletion of the game animals of the land and the sea, on which it depends. Soon the decision will have to be faced whether to keep the Eskimos as a people apart or to absorb them into the Canadian nation.

It seems very likely that if a serious effort were made at integration, it would succeed. Both Canada and the United States have been quite successful on the whole, in absorbing immigrants from all over the world, while a still more striking example is provided by the Americanization—despite intensive racial prejudice—of the U.S. Negroes. The Indians and the Eskimos are intelligent and adaptable; the Eskimos in particular have shown remarkable quickness even under present circumstances in mastering machinery and technical skills.

It is interesting to note that Latin American countries, most of which have very large Indian populations, deal with the problem on an entirely different basis from Canada and the United States. They have always assumed that the Indian could and should be taught the Spanish civilization, and that he was capable of becoming a full citizen. This assumption has been thoroughly justified. In Mexico, for example, a large proportion of the leading men in all walks of life, including at least one recent president, are full-blooded Indians.

Mr. Olsen's idea may not be the best solution for the Indian and Eskimo problem but it deserves consideration by our own Indian affairs department.

There is a social revolution of profound significance in progress in Newfoundland.

A generation of ascending prosperity has been with us in which our relations with the continent have become closer and new impacts have been making dents in our conservative ways of life.

The wood-burning stove is giving place to oil and coal ranges, the readymade is replacing the home-sewn garment and the tin can has been lighting the burden of the housewife with many mouths to feed.

Whether all these improvements are real blessings is possibly a moot question but the fact remains that the whole tenor of life has changed and nobody needs to come to St. John's to look at the wonders that science has contributed to the art and mode of living.

We sometimes wonder whether "thinking in the island as a whole" kept pace with our mechanical progress.

We are still inclined to be insular in some of our opinions and perhaps a little too unwilling to receive new ideas or to reason about the things that others try to tell us.

We have been stuffed full of academic education but we are not getting enough of a more liberal kind of education that will expand our mental horizons, increase our tolerances and open our minds to at least the weighing of other people's ideas that are in conflict with our own.

We still too much influenced by feeling rather than reasoning, still much too ready to accept what we are told without making our own inquiries into the facts.

And when the time comes when a great many more of us will be thinking progressively, that will be the time when the tempo of life in Newfoundland may truly reach incredible heights.

Be that as it may, I am convinced that Canadians in town and city will be well-advised to "soft-pedal" on the endless demand for cheap food, and cheaper, if possible against the backdrop of the 1954 grain harvest having been cut in half by rust, and the $300,000,000 "drought" loss here in the east this season; it is still in process, and going deeper every 24 hours.

Of course I realize that Jack Canuck has been making giant industrial strides in the post-war years. On the other hand, it is just possible that the much-publicized surpluses of food and fibre may have been able to carry the load, so to speak, to temporarily distort the normal economic consequences of that steady decline in the farmers' buying power—at the heel of a tremendous post-war decade.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

I Can Take It, Too

A reader of a paper in which Personal Health Service appears, says that low-brow comedy gets sickening and —

"All you've proved in the few weeks I've read your column is you have very little medical background, you treat people without ever seeing or examining them, you treat adults as children, you murder the English language, you seem to have no basis for your treatments, and finally you don't seem to know what you're talking about. To sum it up, I think you are a quack."

If any one with a name and address should ask, I'll be glad to reveal the sad facts about my medical background.

It is not news that I'm a quack. I have been telling the world so these many years.

But, I do wish the unidentified correspondent or any one who has identified would specify an instance in which I treated people without seeing or examining them.

Moreover, if any reader thinks I give advice that does not accord with that of a "modern, up-to-date" doctor, let him or her use an example and quote the advice of the modern, up-to-date doctor. I promise to state where and how I got the idea in question — if I can.

As for giving proof that my teachings are sound, I'll hardly set forth an idea if any doctor could prove that an opposing idea were true. Opinion and proof are not identical.

When it comes to treating people I haven't seen or examined the only way I've treated people since Tony was a pup is rough, and they seem to like my treatment. At any rate more and more of them write me and say, "God Bless You and Keep You Always." I have accumulated a large file of such letters from readers — to take with me when I go. Maybe they'll help me to get by this time, certainly I'll never help I can get.

I take to heart every criticism, favorable or unfavorable, provided it is honest — that is, provided the critic gives name and address. In any circumstances I never have revealed and never shall reveal the identity of a correspondent without first obtaining his or her written permission.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

ONLY SPIRITUAL MEASURES AVAILABLE

All over the country committees and commissions are working on the juvenile crime problem. The situation has become appalling. We should not assume that there was no juvenile delinquency in the old days; there was plenty of it. But it is taking on fantastic forms today which fill us with immeasurable apprehension.

The standard approach to the problem appears to be to better recreational facilities and more policemen. Give the kids plenty of open space in which to play and give the police force throughout our country extra rookies and, we are told, this problem will be solved. How is it to be solved? How can you solve a personality disturbance such with more playground equipment or with more policemen? Behavior of this sort indicates a disturbance of personality at fundamental levels. These children are emotionally disturbed, they are intellectually disturbed, but most significantly of all, they are spiritually disturbed.

Upon the Church rests the greatest responsibility for solving this problem. The juvenile delinquency problem has to be solved by first of all restoring the problems of the home and the problems which arise from the relationship of parents to each other and to the whole household to God. This is a spiritual problem and must be handled as such.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Domestic service used to be ill paid, its working conditions were atrocious, its social dignity was practically nil. Domestic help lived in attic rooms that seldom had hot ceilings.

How the tables are turned! Domestic help is worth its weight in gold these days, and if it has any talent, it can be one of the most comfortable and best-paid jobs open to a woman.

The third in a summer resort the other day I encountered three elderly ladies having a quiet game of rummy in the kitchen. All three were housekeepers. Not maids, if you please. Housekeepers. They were the domestic help of neighboring cottages and the one I was visiting. A pleasant bevy of females would not want to meet. One was a spinster. The other two were married women whose families had grown up and left and whose families had grown up and left and whose husbands had departed this life. They belonged to the new order of domestic help.

That winter they demanded a new got from their employers who made the tens of thousands of maids of the early nineteenth century roll over in their graves. Their duties were much the same as the duties they performed previously as housewives in their own families.

One, the spinster, was the cutest of the three. When she has worked two or three years for an employer, or when she "finds them not suited to her taste, she goes down town to the big hotel and buys a Montreal paper or a Vancouver paper or a paper of some city she has never yet visited. She studies the want ads, amongst which are numerous desperate appeals for domestic help or housekeepers. Picking the likeliest ones, she writes a few letters. And away she goes to interview them.

Of the other two, one saves her wages, to which are added modest contributions from her married children, and every winter, soon after Christmas and New Year's festivities, she deserts her employers for one month holiday in either Florida or California.

The third is a humorous collector of personalities. She is a widow, partially supported by her children. Actually, she doesn't have to work. But she takes domestic employment, as housekeeper, with well-known people. She has worked two years for a politician, one year for a judge, three years for a high society family, which gave her no end of anecdotes and many a pain from laughter at their fraudulent front and phoney behavior. Now she is working for a parasite.

"We girls get around," they assure me. After I had my drink of water. "Comfortably."

Bronx Shoemaker Top Dog Act in United States Still Undecided Over Question To Feature Grandstand Show

NEW YORK (AP)—Gino Prato, the Bronx shoemaker, who played his knowledge of opera into a television quiz show, Monday he hasn't made up his mind whether to try for the grand prize of $84,000.

Prato, 53, appears on the show again tonight. If he tries for $84,000 and misses the question, he loses all but a consolation prize of a $4,000 convertible. He has the option of taking the $32,000 he already has won and quitting. No one has yet tried for the $84,000.

Prato told a press conference Monday he would go to St. Patrick's cathedral before the show and pray for guidance, but that he wouldn't make up his mind until the program actually starts.

Already the fruits of his new fame have ripened. Prato said he has accepted a $10,000-a-year job as a goodwill representative for the American Biltrite Rubber Company. The year's contract calls for him to visit cities and conventions and be representative of the company.

'Happy' Chandler Wins Nomination In Kentucky

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A. B. (Happy) Chandler, with a political past and future built on a smiling but indomitable personality, refused to relax today while enjoying his second Democratic nomination for governor of Kentucky.

The energetic former governor, United States senator and baseball commissioner worked to bind up into party wounds from an old-fashioned blood-letting primary election, the system by which party nominations are made in the United States.

The pounds heavier after a bruising political comeback fight to try to overcome a state administration firmly entrenched for eight years, Chandler confidently predicted victory in November. He expressed confidence that the Democrats will "close ranks" for the election despite his vigorous attacks on the administrations of Governor Lawrence Wetherby and Wetherby's predecessor, U.S. Senator Earle Clements.

They backed judge Bert T. Combs for the nomination. Combs also had the support of Senator Alben Barkley, former vice-president of the U.S., who handed Chandler his only political defeat in a senatorial primary.

Chandler's victory against such formidable opposition came 20 years after his first stunning political upset, when he won the nomination for governor over administration-backed Thomas Rhea. It was won with a 10-month, 900-speech campaign in which Chandler took only one day off, exclusive of Sundays.

Now he is looking to a November victory which would make him the third Kentucky governor elected a second time after intervening years.

Chandler's Republican opponent will be a former U.S. district attorney, Edwin R. Denney.

Comedians Agree To Continue

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Comedians Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis met Monday and agreed to continue working together, Paramount Studio announced.

The studio didn't say their two-month feud was over. It did say the pair met at the office of Y. Frank Freeman, studio head, and "agreed to continue on as America's highest paid comedy team."

HEAVY FIRE LOSS
ROME (AP)—Fire of unknown origin destroyed the Cinecittà film centre Monday, destroying an estimated $800,000 worth of documentary films, cameras and movie-making equipment.

CABINET MINISTER DIES

Alcide Cote, postmaster-general of Canada, died of a heart attack at St. John's, Que., after an illness of seven months. His death raises the number of vacancies in the federal House to six.

Little dogs, big dogs, fat dogs and skinny dogs, sad dogs and happy dogs, all go to make up one of the most unusual canine acts in show business today. Sylvia's Kennel, appearing at the Belleville Fair on Monday next, is one of the foremost animal acts in this country and Sylvia herself has been acclaimed one of the nation's top trainers.

It would come as no surprise to the average viewer of Sylvia's remarkable troupe if one of the dogs suddenly sat up and started talking since they already show human characteristics in their ability to understand and then translate that understanding into unbelievable performances. Win some French poodles combine their talents with small carriers and cockers in a thrilling demonstration of wire-walking, ladder-climbing and comedy antics.

These dogs, 16 in all, are seasoned performers and have played in the major amusement centres in the United States and abroad. It is somewhat amazing to see the poise and control exerted by these animals. Even when the applause is thunderous these little troupers are right at home and take everything in stride.

Young Patricia, Sylvia's assistant in the act, is a seasoned performer herself. Still in her very early teens, she has been in her own right a star of the "Candy Carnival", a network CBS television show.

Expertly presented, Sylvia, Patricia and their capricious animals are sure to capture the hearts of adults as well as children. An enchanting act on any program.

Shelter, Protection Enormously Increase Chance of Survival

Editor's note: It's 10 years since the first atomic bombs killed hundreds of thousands of Japanese. Much has been learned since Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

A two-story brick house, standing 4,700 feet—less than a mile—from the centre of the blast was destroyed. It was obvious that no one could have survived on either the upper or ground floors.

But the basement was intact, almost free of rubble. Anyone in shelters in that basement probably would have come through unscathed, says Harold Goodwin, atomic test director for the United States civil defence administration.

A little warning, a little shelter, and life instead of death. But suppose it had been an H-bomb? Nearly 1,000 times more potent?

Then scratch off that two-storey house so close to the blast, probably including anyone in the basement shelter.

DISTANT HOUSES SAFER
But similar houses a few miles distant even from the H-bomb could give the same story of survival—with shelter. Shelters below big-city buildings could give the same kind of protection.

A bomb 1,000 times more powerful does not reach out 1,000 times as far. Its radius of heaviest blast effect is only 10 times greater.

The lesson: Shelter and protection enormously increase your chance of survival, even within the ring of heaviest blast effect. And the risk of being only near, and not directly under, a bomb makes knowledge of the survival lessons worthwhile.

Whether they live might depend upon known lessons learned in A-bomb tests in Nevada, and from experience with H-bomb fallout last year in the Pacific.

Look, first, at the homes in Survival City, Nevada, rocked last May by an A-bomb nearly twice as powerful as those which shattered Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

A two-story brick house, standing 4,700 feet—less than a mile—from the centre of the blast was destroyed. It was obvious that no one could have survived on either the upper or ground floors.

But the basement was intact, almost free of rubble. Anyone in shelters in that basement probably would have come through unscathed, says Harold Goodwin, atomic test director for the United States civil defence administration.

A little warning, a little shelter, and life instead of death. But suppose it had been an H-bomb? Nearly 1,000 times more potent?

Then scratch off that two-storey house so close to the blast, probably including anyone in the basement shelter.

DISTANT HOUSES SAFER
But similar houses a few miles distant even from the H-bomb could give the same story of survival—with shelter. Shelters below big-city buildings could give the same kind of protection.

A bomb 1,000 times more powerful does not reach out 1,000 times as far. Its radius of heaviest blast effect is only 10 times greater.

The lesson: Shelter and protection enormously increase your chance of survival, even within the ring of heaviest blast effect. And the risk of being only near, and not directly under, a bomb makes knowledge of the survival lessons worthwhile.

Whether they live might depend upon known lessons learned in A-bomb tests in Nevada, and from experience with H-bomb fallout last year in the Pacific.

Look, first, at the homes in Survival City, Nevada, rocked last May by an A-bomb nearly twice as

Two Virginians to Present Smart Juggling Act at Fair

The Two Virginians, billed for appearances in the great all-features grandstand show at the Belleville Fair from Monday, August 15th to Thursday, are a team of artists who have combined art and versatility in one of the smartest juggling turns in the amusement world today.

They work with almost any movable object—Indian clubs, hoops, boxes, balls, even one another.

Their present act is a good example of the restless energy and ingenuity that make theatrical people tick. "Everybody in the performing bracket of the amusement world begins by learning simple routines," said the spokesman for the Virginians. "Gradually they begin to specialize in one phase of performing or another. From that point, the usual thing is to develop a 'single act' and a performer's name will often become associated with some particular specialty that he has originated or perfected. Performers are continually meeting other performers and each is making a constant appraisal of his competition, measuring the other fellow's strong points and his possibilities. New partnerships and new combinations of acts are continually being formed as a result of these appraisals."

"Our own act is a good case in point. Each of us had a 'single' juggling act and at first we simply contented ourselves by watching each other at practice. Gradually, almost without our realizing it, each was kibitzing on the other's act and it wasn't long before the same idea struck both of us. The sensible thing was to form a double juggling act. And just for variety and novelty, each of us would juggle the other a bit along with the Indian clubs, hoops and what not."

Their idea must have been sound, for their combination has been a resounding success throughout the nation.

Serial Numbers Of Stolen Orders Are Sent Out

OTTAWA (CP)—Walter Turnbull, deputy postmaster-general, said he doubts whether thieves will be able to cash many of the money orders stolen Monday from the post office at Port Couillard, B.C.

"We'll send the serial numbers of those money orders to every post office in the country," he said. "It rarely happens that thieves can cash the orders without getting caught—sooner or later."

A Port Couillard dispatch said some cash, stamps and $64,448 in money orders was stolen.

Dairy Council Says Drought Will Not Dent Surplus

OTTAWA (CP)—The National Dairy Council said Monday the central Canada drought will hardly make a dent in Canada's 50,000,000 pound butter surplus.

The council, representing Canada's dairy manufacturers and distributors, said the whole question of butter disposal will be aired at the council's three-day annual meeting, to be held at Lake Louise, Alta., Sept. 5-7.

There have been reports here that the lack of rain has reduced the Ontario-Quebec hay and corn crop and that some farmers may be forced to dispose of dairy cattle because of a possible feed shortage.

A council spokesman said he doubted there will be much disposal of dairy cattle because of the feed situation. There was a big surplus of feed in the Prairies which could be brought east. He estimated that on Aug. 1 Canada had the biggest stockpile of butter in history, more than 100,000,000 pounds.

Owen Sound Mayor's Car Used in Robbery

BUFFALO, N.Y. (CP)—Mayor E. C. Sargent of Owen Sound, Ont., and Buffalo police were both looking for the same car at the same time Monday night.

Mayor Sargent went to get his car from a hotel parking lot. It was gone. He called police. They were interested because the car had been used to rob the Manufacturers and Traders Trust Company here by a young bandit who escaped with about $11,000.

The mayor will get his car back after fingerprints have been taken. Police were still looking for the young man who walked into the bank Monday night, held up 10 employees and two customers and fled.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

IT'S DOUBTFUL IF YOU COULD EVER TRUST THIS MAN

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

There is a man who has been very fond of me for a long time, and I was very fond of him, too. When we first knew each other, he was single. Later, he got married. I believe he did that for spite, although he never did ask me to marry him. He wanted me to have an affair with him, and I wouldn't. It was about a year later that he married.

Now he wants to start all over with me, and if I knew for sure that he did not love his wife, and was not just playing with me, I would go with him again.

Should I forgive this man, and don't you agree with me that before I go back with him, I should know for sure that he isn't happy with his wife and that he is getting a divorce? — A.R.

Dear A.R.:

If you want to know what I really think, it's that you'll never know anything at all about this man "for sure." What you tell me about him certainly indicates that he is a very unstable, totally unreliable and far from honorable person, who might easily treat you just as badly the second time as he did the first. Unless he has undergone a radical change of character, and somehow I don't feel inclined to believe that he has it would be my idea you'd be very foolish to take him on again even if he were free. And just what is it that you think you should "forgive" him for? Having asked you, at one time, to have an affair with him? Or having married someone else instead of yourself?

If it's the first, I wouldn't say it's forgiveness, exactly, that's called for from you. What's called for from you, I'd say, is a double helping of caution and commonsense that would make you tell this chap, and immediately, that you're having nothing whatever to do with any married man.

You ask me if I don't agree that, before you go back with him, you ought to be sure he isn't happy with his wife and is getting a divorce. The only commonsense answer to that question is that before you went back with him you ought to be sure he has already got his divorce and sincerely wants to marry you. As things stand, you have absolutely no reason to believe that he is any more sincere now than before. When he asked you to have an affair with him instead of asking you to marry him. For all you know—and at least you seem to have enough sense to realize it—he may be planning to have another try at persuading you into an affair, while he stays safely married.

If you're at all interested in my honest opinion, it is that you should not pin hopes on this fellow—and preferably no thoughts, either—and take some pains to improve your life so that you will have more opportunities to meet new and better friends. My experience has been that the reason a woman like yourself is reluctant to let go of the chance of possible romance with an inferior man is because she sees no chance of romance with any other. In other words, she's leading a life that is all too empty of both friends and interests. That's something, however, that a person can always remedy. If he or she really wants to remedy it.

So if I were you, I'd get busy and get some new friends and new interests into your life. For I doubt very much if this man is one who would ever make you happy, or in whom you could ever place any real confidence.

POET BECOMES CATHOLIC
LONDON (AP) — Dame Edith Sitwell, British poet and author, announced Sunday that she has been received into the Roman Catholic Church. "I have taken this step," she said, "because I want the discipline, the fire and the authority of the church. I am hopelessly unworthy of it, but I hope to become worthy."

Mother's Helper

SOMETIMES your moppet must go with you to an event (a wedding, for example) where they have to be quiet. Tuck a small pad and pencil (or other tiny non-clattering toy) in your purse. You'll both welcome such an anti-fidget precaution.

Heir Conditioned

By TRACY ADRIAN

Ladies who are awaiting an addition to the family will be fascinated with the chic styling and good tailoring of this outfit which was especially designed for expectant mothers.

The ensemble comes in three pieces and forms a jumper costume. The permanently pleated jumper is of pale blue orlon and cotton and the straight skirt is of the same fabric. An extra dividend blouse of white cotton has a charming collar and detachable red and white striped bow. Without the blouse the dress is perfect for cocktails and dinner.

Pickling

(Con't from Last Week)

By Mary Moore

From my observations, which believe me are anything but casual, there are more crock dills made by average housewives than any other pickle. After them comes the beloved nine-day cucumber pickle.

I saw a very young married couple standing in front of a hardware store window looking at the big earthenware pickle crocks and trying to decide between a 2-gallon size and a 5-gallon size. I heard him say "I'll eat a lot of dills if you do them Honey." My guess is they bought the 5-gallon crock.

How I ached to intrude on the little scene and say "If you'll make the dills, Honey, I'll give you a foolproof recipe."

This is the one I would have recommended.

CROCK DILLS

Place 100 4 or 4-1/2 inch washed and scrubbed dills in a crock and cover with a brine made by using 1-1/2 cups salt to 3 gallons plus 1 cup water. Leave the cucumbers in this brine at room temperature until acid test is given. Buy blue litmus paper at the drug store. Dip it in the brine. Blue litmus paper turns pink when the brine is sufficiently acid. Drain off brine. Wash, in the bottom of the crock and arrange drained cucumbers in layers over them, sprinkling dill blossoms and a few small hot red peppers between the layers. Repeat this layering of dill blossoms and cucumbers until crock is nearly full. Place more leaves on top. Add 1-1/2 cup mustard seed, 1-2 cup horseradish (if desired) and 1-2 cup salt to the brine which was poured off the cucumbers. Pour over cucumbers and cover with a piece of cheesecloth. Place a plate which fits just inside rim of crock over cheesecloth to be sure all dills are submerged. As an added precaution seal edges with paraffin. These are ready to use from in 3 or 4 weeks. Be sure cucumbers are submerged at all times.

See recipe for dills packed in quart jars here on August 12. A reader has asked for the method of pickling baby corn on the cob. A Mrs. Ezra S. of Kitchener, Ontario, gave me the following method.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

BRIDE AT GROOM'S RIGHT IN RECEIVING LINE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me: In the receiving-line should the bride stand at the groom's right or left? In the last two months here there have been several quite formal weddings and receptions. As I'm planning to be married rather soon I've noticed that the bride is at the right of the groom, and sometimes at his left. I should think there would be a definite rule about this, but if there is, apparently not everyone here knows about it. Is there really a rule about this? — Ann

Yes . . . the very definite and traditional rule is that in the receiving line the bride should stand at the bridegroom's right! This is actually a most important detail in the reception-procedure, and it amazes me too that so often the ones who plan a wedding, even professional wedding-planners, obviously do not know this rule. It is true that there are several correct ways to form a receiving-line at a wedding reception, but no matter which one is chosen, it is essential that the bride stand at the right of the bridegroom. (Just as the bride always sits at the right of the bridegroom at the bridal table at the reception.) On no occasions more than at the wedding reception is the traditional rule of courtesy and honor more important: the lady at the right of the gentleman.

A STYLE OF ENGRAVING SHE FINDS "INTRIGUING"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm intrigued by the style of engraving that a friend of mine, a bride-to-be, has chosen for the marking of her silver. I don't know the name of this, but the letters are rather heavy block, there is one initial above, and two underneath this initial, with what looks like a large asterisk between the two initials. If I make description clear, will you please tell me how these three initials are arranged, that is, what they stand for? — Josephine W.

This is, I agree, one of the most charming and, as you say, "intriguing" styles of engraving. The single initial above is the initial of "their" surname. Below this surname-initial are the initials of the groom's first name and the bride's first name. This is not a new style of engraving, but today it has become increasingly popular.

SHE NEED NOT KEEP UNWANTED INITIAL

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I always use my middle name—I never use my first name and neither does anyone else. In fact, most people don't know that "A" stands for "Anita." I am now eighteen years old, and am about to order a supply of Informals, which I very much want and need. Must I have my name engraved on them as "Miss A. Dorothy Robbins" (as an example), or do you think it would be proper for me to omit the "A"? I'd like to! — Reader

And I'd like to have you omit the initial, the "A," which is really superfluous. And now is the perfect time for you to use your name as you want to use it. . . . Miss Dorothy Robbins. That makes sense, and apparently to you and to others the initial in your name doesn't make sense. So why hold on to it.

IT'S GOOD IDEA TO SERVE WATER ALSO

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I've wondered if, when I serve a cold beverage at luncheon or dinner—for example, iced tea or iced coffee, a fruit lemonade, milk or a soft drink—I should also serve glasses of water. Is it customary to serve water also? — Hostess

It's not as customary as many people wish it were! Really correct table service does suggest that water should be served even when the type of drinks you mention are served. For many people like a drink of water no matter what other drink is provided.

JACKET DRESS

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Everything has its own little jacket, and even some of the little jackets have their own little detachable capes. So, of course, this dress has its own little jacket also, a neat number in wool jersey striped in shades of green and brown. It accompanies a short-sleeved brown wool dress made with a large collar and a modified peg top skirt with pockets in the side seams. There is a kick pleat in back. Nice for casual town wear, for college and for the country.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

FRECKLES A MINOR GOOD-LOOK SCRIFF

Lentigo is the proper name of freckles. The individual speckle is a lentigo. Not that this means anything to the pretty girl who has yellow polka dots marching over her impertinent nose. By any name they are just as terrible. But that is just a notion. If she must have a pulchritude sorrow, freckles are the easiest to bear. They don't make the face look untidy, as do blackheads; or unsightly, as do pustules. Lots of people think they make a girl look smart and sassy. Anyhow, she should not grieve about them. As the birthdays come along, freckles are likely to fade.

There are two types of freckles. Those that take up permanent residence and those that are summer visitors. Warm weather speckles can be kept in hand, and the time to prepare war against them is in the early spring.

When the skin is kept well oiled by the use of creams, the rays of the sun will not be able to do much damage. Before putting on make-up apply a creamy foundation. It serves as a protective agent. Never use soap and water before going out in wind or sun, or immediately after coming in. A heavy cream should be applied at bedtime, allowed to remain on overnight.

This treatment also applies to the all-year-round variety. Cream should be used when one is sailing or swimming, as the reflections of the sun on the water are particularly powerful.

As the woman with wrinkles flirts with the idea of getting a face lift, the young woman with freckles wants to know about skin-peeling treatments. They came in to vogue some thirty years ago, when plastic surgery was just being talked about. They are usually done by means of strong chemicals, mediums that should be handled only by experts, physicians of good standing in the medical profession. Unless the blemishes are unsightly, make a girl or woman unhappy, this step should not be taken, as it is considered quite drastic.

But the important part is this: Though the speckled skin be completely and successfully removed, the freckles will pop out again upon exposure to the rays of the sun. So why bother? This project is extremely expensive, and the specialists who do it are few and far between.

A simple home remedy that will often banish light freckles, and will dim the more pronounced ones, is made by combining equal parts of peroxide and strained lemon juice. The peroxide must be from a freshly opened bottle.

Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont. — A 16-year-old Swedish scout led the gun by "shiphiking" way to the eighth Boy Scout jamboree.

An Olaf Tengro of Stockholm, a Canadian scout, Sunday he turned up two weeks late. They put him to work help set up the city of tents that house the 16,000 scouts from countries. The jamboree is set Aug. 18 to 23.

He tells it this way: "I use my head instead of my feet."

He said he wrote to a Swedish police officer offering to work his passage. He was accepted when he arrived on board the ship. He was "too young," the officer decided to let him stay said.

NEY-SAVING TRIP

I saved so much money on my trip," Jan said, grinning, "that I was able to travel like a tourist instead of a hitchhiker when the lighter docked in Boston."

His friends will have to pay $300 for the plane fare, he added.

He travelled from Boston to Buffalo by train, transferring to Niagara Falls, N. Y., where he used a high-school English teacher to ask a question. An American scout took him to the jamboree site.

"I have been a scout for almost 10 years now and I have learned how to find my way anywhere in the world," he said.

Jan was the first foreign scout to arrive. The first large delegation to be the Israeli scouts, expected Buffalo Tuesday.

Thieves Left $50,000 Behind Them in Flight

PORT COQUITLAM, B. C. (CP) — Thieves who escaped with $16,000 in cash and negotiable money orders after a 3 a. m. break-in at Port Coquitlam post office Monday left more than $50,000 behind them with the safe they abandoned.

RCMP said the 800-pound safe, which the thieves apparently had loaded on a truck, was found at 6 a. m. a few miles from this Fraser river mill town, 15 miles east of Vancouver.

Scattered nearby were more than 500 negotiable money orders valued at $100 each and $2,000 in stamps. The bank had been chopped out of the safe.

Missing was $1,556 in cash and $14,500 in negotiable money orders. RCMP have thrown a network of road blocks on lower mainland highways to trace the getaway vehicle.

HEARD THEIR TRUCK

Mayor Charles Davies of Port Coquitlam, who lives in the post office building and retired as postmaster three years ago, told police he heard the thieves cart the safe to the truck.

"I hear noises about 3 a. m.," said the mayor. "But I just thought they were bringing the mail in. I heard a noise of a car or truck—I don't know which it was—backing up to the building. Then I heard the handtruck being used."

In another British Columbia post office robbery last December, postal worker John Keith MacDonald disappeared with a $44,500 payroll from upcast Britannia Beach. RCMP most-wanted criminal list.

CLAIMS RECORD

PALMDALE, Calif. (AP) — A national glider distance record of 270 miles has been claimed by Paul F. Bickle, a civilian worker at nearby Edwards air force base. Bickle, competing in the 1955 southern western soaring regatta Sunday, flew his sailplane from Mirage Dry lake to Essex, Calif., and back. The old mark is 260 miles.

Fourth Largest Apple Crop In History Expected

TTAWA (CP) — Canada's 1955 apple crop may rise to 17,646,000 bushels, fourth largest in history, if rains can get some rain, the bureau of statistics estimated Monday.

He estimate is based on crop conditions in the latter part of July, when drought scorched pastures and reduced fruit growth. Heavy rain in the last few days, which agricultural officials I will help growth.

Roughly has reduced Canadian raspberry and strawberry yields in western Ontario delayed development of free fruits, plums, peaches and peaches. Ontario grapes escaped damage.

He apple estimate, if realized, would make the crop the biggest since 1949. The record was 19,300,000 bushels in 1949.

WATER PRICES NEEDED

Agricultural officials said farm may have to reduce prices to end the Canadian market for water. There was a good market in Britain for Canadian water, provided Canadian prices are competitive.

He pear crop is estimated at 6,000 bushels, a rise from 1,261,000 in 1954, but again rain is needed.

Weather reduced the strawberry crop to 22,663,000 quarts or 27,971,000 last year and the cherry crop to 12,485,000 quarts or 12,839,000.

Estimated yields of other crops, 1954 figures in brackets: Apples, 18,000 bushels; peaches, 2,614,000 bushels; apricots, 151,000 bushels; cherries, 585,000 bushels; loganberries, 1,000 pounds (1,036,000); grapes, 98,000 pounds (88,876,000).

It Visits Toronto on World Trip

ONTARIO (CP) — Two South American men in Toronto Monday began a trip around the world which began in February, 1953.

erry Trobridge, 40, and Gene ahead, 29, both of Johannesburg, left from a 36-foot ketch which they built inland and took to the water where they embarked.

They reached Toronto by England, Spain, Canary Islands, British Columbia, New York and the St. Lawrence canal. They expect to return home by way of the Pacific and are preparing to spend three months on the journey.

Fire at Lucan Causes Damage Of $100,000

LUCAN, Ont. (CP) — Fire from an exploding gasoline tank ripped through three buildings on Lucan's main street yesterday causing damage estimated at close to $100,000.

The blaze fanned by a brisk breeze, threatened the entire business block. Sparks touched off a roof fire two blocks away.

The fire destroyed Lucan Motor Sales building and two adjoining houses before fire fighters from Lucan's volunteer force, Centrafire and London brought it under control.

The fire started when a mechanic in Lucan motors dropped a gasoline tank on the cement floor. The tank flared into flames and 12 mechanics inside the building escaped within seconds.

Owner Lloyd Echeson said 10 cars and a large stock of auto supplies were destroyed.

The fire spread to an adjoining frame home, occupied by Mrs. Emm Downing, an elderly semi-invalid, who was carried from the house by a village plumber, Howard Black.

On the other side of the two-story garage, the interior of the home of Dr. Clayton was burned out.

Pravda Features Sunday's Party

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, today gave full coverage, with pictures, of Sunday's unprecedented garden party by Soviet Prime Minister Nikolai Bulganin.

The newspaper devoted more than half its front page to a story describing the "informal and exceedingly friendly atmosphere," and drew attention to "the animated remarks, jokes and laughter."

Russian readers saw a photograph of Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov and United States ambassador Charles Bohlen walking side by side at the lake front.

A second showed Cecil Parrott, the British charge d'affaires, Marshal Bulganin, and other Soviet leaders watching a television program of a British-Russian soccer game in Moscow's Dynamo stadium.

Economist Says Atomic Plants Will Give Canada Needed Power

GENEVA (CP) — A Canadian economist said Monday as many as 10 atomic power stations each capable of generating up to 100,000 kilowatts of electric energy may be required in Canada in the late 1960s or early 1970s.

Dr. John Davis, associate director of the economic branch of the Canadian trade department, told the International Conference on peaceful uses of atomic energy that the majority of the plants probably will be located in southern Ontario. Others may be needed in the Maritimes and possibly in southern Manitoba.

Dr. Davis also said a larger number of nuclear power plants with a generating capacity of from 2,000 to 3,000 kilowatts could make a more modest contribution to Canada's over-all energy requirements. They would likely be required in the north country and by industries such as pulp and paper which could use both the power and the by-product heat.

"Mill locations which could benefit from such multi-purpose plants might eventually be found in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and possibly northern Ontario," Dr. Davis said.

Canada at present is spending between $13,000,000 and $15,000,000 on the design and construction of an experimental atomic energy plant to produce electricity. It is expected to be in operation in mid-1958 and to generate about 20,000 kilowatts of electric energy.

The experimental plant will not produce electricity at a competitive cost. However, its construction will give scientists the information necessary to build a plant that can compete with coal-and-gas-burning electric generating stations.

Dr. Davis said his forecasts are based on the assumption that 100,000 kilowatt atomic plants will produce electricity at a cost of about six mills a kilowatt hour. They also presume that the smaller plants will produce power at 20 mills a kilowatt hour and also supply heat.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. Atomic Energy Commission today set prices for uranium and heavy water leased and sold in the government's program to develop peaceful uses of atomic energy throughout the world.

The announcement said the schedule of values "should be of assistance to those nations planning to use research reactors as part of their program for benign uses of atomic energy."

Sales prices announced were $28 a pound of heavy water and $40 a kilogram of normal uranium metal. A kilogram equals 2,204.6 pounds. A heavy water is used as a moderator and coolant in reactors, enabling them to make sufficient use of neutrons.

Medical Experts Say Long Swims Do Not Harm Healthy Persons

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal medical authorities said today properly-supervised long-distance swims should do no harm to healthy persons.

Their comment followed the reported condemnation by Toronto's alderman William Allen of marathon swimmers. After 19-year-old Shirley Campbell of Fergus, Ont., was not able to complete a swim across Lake Ontario last week the alderman called for cancellation of the Canadian National Exhibition marathon swim.

Dr. Arnold Jones, swimming adviser to the Quebec Red Cross, said:

"The human body can't go beyond its limits. It just quits. That's what happened to Shirley."

Dr. F. Munroe Bourne, heart specialist, who swam in the 100- and 200-metre sprints for Canada in the 1928, 1932 and 1936 Olympic games, said:

Dr. Everett Crutchlow, who looks after McGill University's swimming team, said "The business about gruelling swims hurting the heart was exploded long ago."

"It's like the fuss about so-called athlete's heart developing from over-work. There has been no evidence of permanent harm to the heart from such efforts," he said.

FLOOD DAMAGE

VIENNA (CP) — Warsaw radio Sunday said floods are causing heavy damage in southern Poland and that if the present rainfall continues the country may face a catastrophe. The broadcast said the rising waters have endangered the health resort of Rabka, and authorities have begun to evacuate inhabitants in that area.

BANDIT BACKS 12

Sylvester Mazzella, 46, and Anthony Patinato, 39, told police that their partner in the holdup was Jim Sheridan of New York. However, a check by police failed to turn up any record of Sheridan and, in fact, police now doubt his existence at all.

They also see no connection between the Brink's affair and Monday night's holdup.

In that holdup, Hauser said the gunman had asked him if he could take out a personal loan. Hauser asked him how much money he wanted and then directed him to another employee. The man replied "Never mind, I'll do it myself."

Ten minutes later he held up the bank.

Police reported that they found the getaway car in downtown Buffalo a short time later. Then, when a second stolen-car report was turned in from the same area, they called in state police, who immediately set up roadblocks on all exits from the city.

The FBI was called into the case due to the fact that the money in the bank is partially insured by the federal government.

CONQUER MOUNTAIN

KATMANDU, Nepal (Reuters) — The four-man German expedition that conquered 24,000-foot Mount Annapurna in June has climbed 23,000-foot Kang Guru, said a message from the team received here Friday. Expedition leader Heinz Steinmetz and two others on the team made the final assault on the Himalayan peak July 2.

Little Benny's Notebook

This morning at breakfast pop said till of a sudden, Yee gods, a dust storm.

What, where? ma said, and pop said, Oh, excuse me for startling you, my dear, Benny's hair got in my eyes. A poet might say it looks like a field of tossing corn, but I say it looks like a ragged army in disorderly retreat.

Yesterday, I said, and pop said, The notification is now a military order, is that thoroughly understood?

Yes sir, I said, and tonight before dinner I wet and combed and brushed my hair as hard as I could to make it look less disreputable, thinking, Heck, I hope pop won't notice it.

Which he did, being the first thing he noticed, and he said, Cor-porel Potts, you have disobeyed a military order, and unless mitigating circumstances can be proved to have existed, your rank will be reduced to private, with corresponding reduction of pay.

Meaning he would shorten my allowance for a week, and I said, Well gosh, pop, the barber shop was closed when I got there.

What time did you get there? pop said, and I said, Well, the first time I got there, it was still early, about 12 o'clock.

And it was closed? pop said, and I said, No sir, but I didn't quite go in on account of being so near lunch time. The 2nd time was when it was closed, I said.

What time was that? pop said,

Only Shell Premium Gasoline has both TCP and High Octane!

Today's engines deliver more power than ever before—and with greater economy, too! They're high compression engines. They're built to squeeze more power out of every drop of the high octane gasolines they require.

But high octane alone will not keep these engines delivering their full power. They must be protected against the harmful effects of deposits that build up in combustion chambers.

The reason is this:

When your engine warms up, these deposits warm up, too—glow red hot. And these glowing particles act like hot coals—ignite the gasoline mixture ahead of time... before the pistons reach proper firing position. This is called pre-firing and means that power works against you instead of for you.

In addition, these same deposits have another power-wasting effect: They foul spark plugs, causing your engine to miss.

Engineers will tell you there's nothing more wasteful of power and gasoline than pre-firing and spark plug "miss."

But there is an answer—there's one high octane gasoline that gives you all the advantages of high octane without the power-crippling effects of these deposits—Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP*.

TCP, the Shell-developed additive, fire-proofs the deposits so that they no longer cause pre-firing. No longer can they glow red hot and ignite the gasoline mixture. And TCP stops spark plug "miss," too. Your spark plugs do the job they are supposed to do.

Start getting the full power built into your engine. Get Shell Premium with TCP. It's the most powerful gasoline your car can use!

Two Three-Game Series Could Decide Fate Of Four American Loop Clubs

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

HOT SERIES

Although the Point Anne Ox Pointers cannot be sold short, Bill Spafford's Orfuns gave ample evidence last night that they are a chips-down squad. In the first tilt of the "crosstail" series for top slot in the Belleville District Softball League, the Yellowshirts came through with a topflight all-around performance. The pitching was excellent; they hit in the clutches and they played flawless ball field. They deserved that 7-2 victory.

Bobby Green had a no-hitter in his grasp for six frames when Gerry Goyer broke it up with a blooming single. Jackie Wardhaugh's booming grand-slam homer in the second, actually won the fray, while Bobby Hunter's fireman duties in the ninth effectively squelched a threatening Point rally.

Pat Maracle has pitched better ball than three walks in the second and a "groover" to Wardhaugh sealed his fate. However, tonight's another night when the teams clash in Point Anne and as Johnny Green remarked: "Wait till we get set on our own dung-pile." Should be a thriller and if the Point pulls one out of the fire, the teams go at it again tomorrow night at the CNR Park.

BATTLE OF THE CATS

There's another red-hot fray scheduled for tonight, too. It's the second Cat-Fest between Bob Temple's Bobs and Brer Paul's Poles at the CNR. The Bobs won the first of the best-of-five series but they are not out of the woods yet. Incidentally, the winner of this series will represent the city in the OASA intermediate "AA" playdowns, meeting Kingston here on August 20 in a best-of-three series. Second game at Kingston August 27.

PLAYDOWNS

Manager Bill Spafford of the Orfuns, announced before the Point Anne game last night that his squad will enter the OASA Senior "B" playdowns. This will leave the intermediate "A" field open to Point Anne who have already been designated Zone 4 Industrial Champions. They will meet Waterloo or Toronto or a winner of that series for the industrial championship.

The Orfuns open the Senior "B" playdowns against Kingston, the first of three games scheduled for Belleville August 23. Second in Kingston August 25. Whittby meets Oshawa in the same round with Peterborough getting a bye.

Leo Luciola's Shellelles met Trenton RCAF girls in the first round OASA intermediate ladies' playdowns with the first game here August 15. Madoc has a bye. Minor playdown data will be published tomorrow.

THEY'RE BACK

They're back again—the Vicked Yons and the nice yons. Von Schober unt Von Erich, those two German varlets will be here Friday in a tag team tussle against Lord Layton and the Samoan hunk of jumping-jack royalty Prince Malaya. The old fend will flare anew as there is as much love lost between these pairs as a couple of tall-tied tomatoes strung over a barbed-wire fence. Layton and the Prince got the worst of the bargain in the last set-to and they'll be out for vengeance, d'love. Doc Gallagher is back this time against Red Vagnone while Sammy Berg meets Tiger Tasker.

FIRST ONE

Leo Luciola's Shellelles met their first defeat of the season last night, losing to Trenton 5-1. Linda Wagg, Shellelles hurler, saw her record move to 14-1. The Shellelles have won 17 straight, including exhibitions. Cheer up, gals, 'tis the best thing that could happen to you. Besides there is that big play-off series coming—and you'll have to be on your toes. Good luck.

Snorkel-Sprouting Britons Probe Silent World of Fish

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—There are more froggy-eyed and web-footed Britons than ever before. Some have even sprouted snorkels.

It's all part of the sudden fascination of undersea hunting that is gripping swimming enthusiasts in the Brighton and Blackpool crowds. In the last 18 months, more water fans are donning swim masks, gulping air by the lungful and dipping into the strange, silent world of fishes. The British Sub-Aqua Club has enrolled 1,200 active skin-diving enthusiasts since its formation in 1953.

SHOPS BENEFIT

Sport shops throughout Britain are doing a whopping trade in underwater equipment—masks, goggles, snorkels, flippers and spearguns.

The wave of interest started rolling after Capt. Jacques Cousteau wrote "The Silent World"—a story of aquaplaning in the Mediterranean. He helped develop the aquaplaning—a portable diving unit using compressed air—and pioneered free dives into the dangerous depths past 200 feet where a strange malady—called rapture of the depths—intoxicates swimmers.

Sea films sparked even greater interest. Now hundreds of skin divers probe the depths, either as unarm'd sightseers or as hunters with lethal spearguns and a yen for thrills.

Photography fans are boxing their cameras in pressurized, water tight containers and seeking unusual pictures.

But for excitement, the sub-aqua swimmer goes prowling underwater for fish. For about £9, a man can equip himself with a face mask, froglike flippers for his feet and a French speargun using surgical rubber to propel the barbed spear.

LOTS OF GADGETS

For another £45 he can strap on a British-made aquaplan and stay underwater for 40 minutes at a time. And if he's gadget-minded he can buy a compass and a watch which help him to find out how deep he is and a compass to show what direction he is going. Then he can add an underwater watch, knife, ear-cups, nose-clips and weight-belts until he looks like an ocean-going hardware store.

Once below the surface, he'll discover a peaceful solitude unmatched in any other sport. But

Boston Clashes With Yanks Tribe Teepees With Tigers Chisox Take on Kansas City

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A pair of three-game series that open tonight could be the beginning of the end for New York, Boston, Cleveland or Detroit in the frenzied American League pennant race.

While first-place Chicago tries to get the suddenly not-so-listless Kansas City Athletics back in perspective, Boston rumbles into New York and Cleveland stops off at Detroit.

The Yankees are just three percentage points behind the White Sox. Third-place Cleveland is a half game back. Fourth place Boston is 1½ behind. Detroit, in fifth, is 3½ short.

The Yanks and Red Sox must play each other 12 times yet. The Indians and Tigers have a dozen scraps left, too. And in 10 days, while the White Sox play six games with sixth-place Kansas City, half of those 12 dates will be completed.

TOUTEST YET

After the Yanks lost series to Chicago and Cleveland and split with Detroit on their current home stand, manager Casey Stengel today tagged the Red Sox as "maybe the toughest yet." Pinky Higgins, whose Red Sox started the Yanks on their way to July 4 double-header sweep, figures his club "is as good as anybody's."

The Dodgers did not tighten their grip on the National League flag Monday, in the day's only game. They lost 1-0 to Chicago with the usually unreachable Don Newcombe shut out from what could have been his 19th victory.

It was Newk's second defeat of the season, and both have been to the Cubs. This time it was a home run by Gene Baker, who had half of Chicago's six hits, that beat the big right-hander.

Sad Sam Jones was the winner on four-hitter, although he split in hot water with six walks. Jones, now 10-15 fanned seven while getting his first victory since July 3. The decision gave the Cubs a sweep of the three-game series—their first over the Dodgers in Wrigley Field since 1947.

Occasional sharks are the only dangerous foes in British waters, but their reputation is exaggerated. skin diver is his above-surface counterpart—the man with rod, reel and baited hook. Anglers claim that spearfishermen frighten fish from their natural habitats. Skin divers deny this.

But two spearfishing divers (subot it in a bit too hard recently. They submerge over a pier crowded with anglers and came up with a 14-pound bass.

Slipping Leafs Still Skidding Lose Six in Row

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toronto's Maple Leafs lost first place when they lost their power and it looks like they will keep losing ground in the International League until they find it again.

The Leafs, who were toppled from their first place slot Sunday, are in the worst slump of the season. Toronto went down to its sixth straight defeat Monday night by an 8-5 decision to the Buffalo Bisons.

The loss sent the Leafs into a second place tie with Havana Sugar Kings who split a doubleheader with the Syracuse Chiefs. The Chiefs took the opener 4-0 and the Leafs came back with three runs in the eighth inning to take the nightcap 4-1.

In other games Rochester Red Wings edged the pace-setting Montreal Royals 7-4 and Richmond Virginians defeated Columbia Jets 4-3 in 11 innings.

ENDS LOSING STREAK

Bob Schultz ended a Buffalo four-game losing streak with a seven hit performance against the Leafs. Schultz struck out nine and smacked a two-run single in the fifth inning, to gain his 10th victory.

Toronto sent across four runs in the first inning, on home runs by Lou Morton and Chico Rodriguez, but the big southpaw held the Maple Leafs to three safeties the rest of the way. Rodriguez hit his second homer of the game in the sixth.

Red Wings extended their current winning streak to four in a row and snapped a five-game winning skid by the Royals. Tony Jacobs, who pitched to two men in the top of the ninth, squeezed home the tie-breaking run in the Rochester hall. Rocky Nelson and Bob Wilson homered for Royals and Jay Van Noy hit a two-run blast for Red Wings.

Lou Ortiz belted a two-run homer in the bottom of the 11th to give Virginians a close decision over Jets. Jets had taken a 3-2 lead in their half off reliever Bill Voiselle, but Ortiz' game-winning smash, his 10th of the season, came off reliever Jim Miller.

Lynn Lovenguth set the Cubs down with just three hits in the seven-inning opener. The Cubs came up with three runs in the eighth inning to break a 1-1 tie in the nightcap.

Close Contests Mark Dominion Shoot, Windsorite Wins Small-Bore Title

By ROY LABERGE

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP)—Ambition of Canada's closed small-bore rifle champion is a place on Canada's 1956 Olympic team.

Gerry Ouellette, 20-year-old Windsor, Ont., draftsman, won the closed title at the 12th annual national small-bore and handgun meet Aug. 5-7 at this army summer camp 14 miles west of Ottawa.

This week Gerry has put away his 22 calibre rifle and is firing a heavy .303 calibre service rifle in the 73rd annual Dominion of Canada Rifle Association prize meet.

Gerry first came to the DCRS shoot as a 13-year-old cadet, and is shooting here for the seventh consecutive year.

BROTHER ALSO SHOOT
With him is his 18-year-old brother Carl, a member of an 11-man Canadian cadet rifle team that has just returned from winning the Alexander Graham Bell trophy from a British cadet team at Bisleigh, England.

Gerry said Monday he hopes his performance at the small-bore meet will help him win a place on the Olympic team.

He shot an aggregate of 3,179 points of a possible 3,200 to finish only one point behind the open small-bore champion, Oscar Woolver, 35-year-old Williamsport, Pa., auto sales manager.

Gerry has been shooting a small-bore rifle for three years, a .303 for seven. He has shot at United States meets in Michigan, Indiana, Ohio and New York states.

His next U.S. meet will be the national small-bore matches at Camp Perry, N.Y., the first week of September.

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP)—Opening day of the 73rd annual Dominion of Canada Rifle Association prize shoot lasted until dusk Monday as five tie-breaking shoot-offs were required to decide all matches.

Events needing shoot-offs were: The Sherwood, a 300-yard match open only to past or present members of the armed forces and fired under service conditions;

The Borden Memorial, a 500-yard service conditions rapid-fire event, also restricted to the military;

The Connaught, open to all contestants;

The trophy, open only to entries who did not rank among the top 200 aggregate scorers in previous DCRS meets since the Second World War;

The Lieutenant-governor's match an Ontario Rifle Association match rained out at the provincial meet in Toronto last Thursday.

CAPTURED TWO
CPO Douglas Clarke, 38, of Shannon Park, N.S., who shoots with the RCN Atlantic Command Rifle Club in Halifax, won both Sherwood and Borden match shoot-offs.

In the Sherwood he beat out Pte. Clarke H. White, 35, of Toronto.

In the Borden he downed two young Saskatchewan shots, craftsman Donald A. Farkes, 21, of Regina and Cadet Ed G. Opadynic, 17, of Semans.

Maj. Thomas W. Hall of New Westminster, B.C., 47, a member of 1952 and 1954 Canadian Bisleigh teams, edged out Lieut. Gilmour S. Boa of Toronto in the Connaught shoot-off. Boa celebrated his 31st birthday today.

And 16-year-old Roderick McNeill was tops among nine marksmen who shot off for the tyro match.

Maj. William J. Strachan won the Ontario lieutenant-governor's shoot-off, defeating Sgt. Jack Draper, 47, of South Porcupine, Ont., and Capt. Stewart Graham, 57, of Toronto.

Officials estimated attendance at the week-long meet at 700. Almost all 700 entered the Connaught. Approximate entries in other shoots: tyro, 450; Sherwood, 365; Borden 370.

The meet's major prizes will be decided Saturday on the basis of aggregate scores in various matches. They will include a place on Canada's 18-man 1956 Bisleigh team, the governor-general's gold medal, and a new trophy, the Canadian service rifle championship.

Today's major shoots will include the Bankers' and Macdougall both of which count towards aggregate, and inter-service cadet matches.

$50,000 Pot O'Gold Awaits Winner of Golfing Rainbow

CHICAGO (AP)—Eight foreign pros—two of them from Canada—and eight Americans tee off today in International Cup matches—a sort of calm before the golfing storm strikes Tam O'Shanter Thursday.

After two days of team competition, golf's greatest run for the money opens—a 72-hole tourney dubbed the "world championship of golf."

The winner receives this bonanza: $50,000 in cash; a guaranteed, expense-paid tour of 55 exhibitions at $1,000 each plus an option of 50 more, and a $1,000 caddy fee.

The potential jackpot is worth a staggering $156,000—or about $573 a shot if it takes a 16-under-par 274 to win, as predicted by Doug Ford.

Younger pros have choked up in the past with the result that usually their more tournament-hardened colleagues have cashed in.

Tomski at 27 was the youngest pro ever to make the grand haul from golf's Fort Knox. He did it last year with 274.

The team matches are worth $500 to each contestant, win or lose. The pairings match Jim Demaret and Fred Haas, Jr., against Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Yoshio Hayashi of Japan and Jay Hebert and Bo Winkler against Rudy Horvath of Windsor, Ont., and Antonio Cordera of South America.

Ford and Leo Biagetti go against Peter Thomson of Australia and Angel Miguel Gutierrez of Spain and it's Ted Kroll and Tony Holguin vs Roberto De Vicenzo and Ken Nagle.

Starting time is 3 p.m. EDT.

Campy, Kaline Pace Hitters In Major Loops

NEW YORK (AP)—Right-handed batters dominate the American League batting picture today, headed by Detroit's Al Kaline, the leader with a .351 average. The other four positions among the top five hitters also are filled by righties.

A left-handed swinger had won the American League batting title four straight seasons before right-handed hitting Bobby Avila of Cleveland captured the crown last year.

The right-handed batters who follow Kaline in the race are Detroit's Harvey Kuenn, .329, Kansas City's Vic Power, .318, Cleveland's Al Smith, .315 and Chicago's George Kell, .313.

Kaline lost one point during the week on 8-for-24, while Kuenn gained two points with 12 hits in 34 trips. Power, with 13-for-32, boosted his average seven points.

Brooklyn's Roy Campanella, also a righty hitter, continues to pace the national League batsmen with a .334 mark. Right-handed swingers have topped the senior circuit in hitting the past two seasons with Brooklyn's Carl Furillo winning the championship in 1953 and the Giants' Willie Mays getting it in 1954.

Campy's average dipped four points as he went 7-for-24. Runner-up Richie Ashburn of Philadelphia stayed at .328 and into third at .317 with a five-point increase. Ashburn went 9-for-28 and Post 12-for-31.

Taunton Town Adopts Sox As Own Club

TAUNTON, Mass. (CP)—The hustling Boston Red Sox—a game and a half behind American League leaders—have been adopted.

This southeastern Massachusetts city class them as its own. In the league standings, as published by the Taunton Daily Gazette Monday, they are listed as the Taunton club—not Boston. Under "Yesterday's results," the newspaper does make a little concession. It lists the team as "Taunton (Boston)."

Says an editor's note on the sports page: "Taunton has acquired vicariously a major league baseball club."

"Like Notre Dame, the people's choice in intercollegiate football, the Boston Red Sox have become, during the current pennant drive, closely identified by greater Taunton fandom as its 'very own' ball club."

Panthers Trim Majors 4-1; Oshawa Wins

LONDON Majors must have a particular dislike for the baseball services of Bill Allen.

Twice they have faced the Kitchener Panther scout recently in the senior Intercounty Baseball League. Twice they lost. The latest setback came Monday night when Allen held Majors to eight hits as Panthers beat them 4-1.

Allen wasn't as steady as in his last engagement against Majors when he tossed a no-hit, no-run game, but he was effective enough to take the victory, his ninth of the year.

The only other Intercounty game saw the league-leading Oshawa Merchants defeat the third-place St. Thomas Elgins 5-1 at Oshawa.

PERFECT SCORE CALLS FOR SMILES

Wide smiles worn by Alma Macnab, left, of Calgary, and Esther Thompson of Toronto, resulted when western sharp-shooter and 1954 ladies' small-bore champion scored perfect target at the 12th annual Canadian small-bore rifle championships held at Connaught ranges, Ottawa. Event precedes 73rd annual Dominion of Canada Rifle Association shoot which has attracted 450 contenders. Major prizes for which they will shoot include places on Canada's 1955 Bisley team, chosen from the 18 contenders with the highest aggregate scores in various matches. ## Wardhaugh's Grand-Slam Home Run Paces Orfuns' 7-2 Win Over Pt. Anne Flashing chips-down softball in the first of the best-of-three District Softball League top-slot playoffs, Orfuns defeated Point Anne 7-2 at the CNRAA Park last night before one of the best crowds of the season. The second game is scheduled for the "Point" this evening starting at 8:15.

The Orfuns shone in practically every department although they were forced to call in mound help in the ninth to quell a threatened Point Anne uprising.

Jackie Wardhaugh's second-inning grand slam homer practically sewed up the game for the winners. Bobby Green's superlative hurling in which he had a no-hitter for five innings and Bobby Hunter's fire-quechling stunt on the mound with the bases loaded and one out in the ninth, were the highlights of the game.

Green was superb for five innings. Only 19 Pointers faced him before Gerry Goyer's blooper hit in the sixth broke the duck egg. Green was generous with his passes however walking eleven but he sent eight down fanning. He set the Pointers down runless in the seventh and eighth, the second of the three hits he yielded coming in the former frame.

Bennett's bunt in the ninth was the third hit off Green who walked two to fill the sacks. Mulholland was tossed out at the plate but Green walked Elliott to again fill the bags. Hunter went in and forced two put-out plays at the plate to end the game.

Pat Maracle has hurled better ball. The Orfuns, after Wardhaugh's homer, went on to pound out seven more hits which were scattered over the route. Maracle walked seven and struck out four. Buck Burshaw took over in the eighth yielding a hit and a walk but no damage was done.

Maracle's inability to find the plate in the second paved the way for a five-run Orfun explosion. Carr led off with a single and advanced to second on an interference play and to third on a passed ball, scoring when Locke dumped a single to centre. Jones walked and Soules' bunt went for a sacrifice. Green walked, loading the sacks and Wardhaugh drove a line homer to left centre that cleared the bases. Barclay and Hull went out easily to retire the side.

Wardhaugh got his fifth RBI of the game in the fourth when his single sent home Green who was aboard through a fielder's choice, a wild pitch and the only error of the game. Soules doubled in Jones in the fifth for the final run.

Gerry Goyer's double and a walk accounted for one Point run in the sixth with two strikes and Bennett's safe bunt, accounting for the other in the ninth.

Wardhaugh paced the Orfuns with a homer and two singles with Gerry Goyer hitting a double and single for the Pointers.

The teams: Point Anne—Elliott, Gilmore, Bobby Hull, Goyer, Mallory, Whalen, Mulholland, Bennett; J. Green, Maracle, Burshaw, Horwood.

Orfuns—Wardhaugh, Barclay, D. Hull, Batchelor, Carr, Locke, Jones, Soules, Green, Hunter.

The score: R H E Point Anne 000 001—2 3 1 Orfuns 7 050 110 003—7 8 0 Umpires—Ethier (plate); Red Carson.

GOOD JUDGMENT

TORONTO (CP)—Mr. Justice Wilfred Judson, 53, scored a hole-in-one at Toronto Golf Club Monday. It is believed to be the first ace scored by an Ontario Supreme Court justice. Mr. Justice Judson sank his tee shot at the 156-yard 14th hole. He used a No. 4 iron.

LEAFS RELEASE MAYO

TORONTO (CP)—Officials of the Toronto Maple Leaf baseball club of the International League announced Monday that outfielder Jackie Mayo has been given his outright release and Pete Castiglione, an infielder, has been placed on the inactive list. Outfielder Joe Taylor was a week-end acquisition from Portland Beavers of the Pacific Coast League.

TO FLIP COINS

CHICAGO (AP)—A coin-flipping ceremony in the American League offices will be held to determine playoff games and sites in case of deadlock for the pennant. Earl Hilligan, manager of the league's service bureau, said Monday.

Predict Keen Competition In Swim-Dive Meet

MONTREAL (CP)—Entries continue rolling in for the Canadian swimming and diving championships and indications are there will be the toughest kind of competition.

The meet will be held Aug. 18-20 at McGill University's Memorial pool. Norm Ashton, administration chairman for the meet, said today 129 individual entries from 22 clubs across Canada have been received.

Three teams from the United States have registered with officials.

Four teams each from Toronto and Montreal have entered swimmers and three clubs from Winnipeg have sent entries. Other squads entered are from Brantford, Woodstock, Hamilton, London, Aylmer and Peterborough in Ontario and the Palais Montcalm in Quebec City.

There will be powerful entries from the west coast, with a 22-member delegation from Vancouver and a five-member team from Ocean Falls.

Matt Mann, coach of the 1952 United States Olympic team, has entered a team of 26 from his speed swimming camp at Camp Chikipi in Ontario. Chicago will be represented in senior women's competitions.

The United States air force command at Geneva, N.Y., has wide intentions of entering, and a team from Cincinnati has made tentative entry.

Individual entries are expected from several U.S. centres, including Philadelphia, where the U.S. women's national championships are scheduled for this weekend. There is a likelihood two teams will come directly from there to the Canadian meet.

Redmen Win

SUBURBY (CP)—Gord (Moose) McQuarrie set down Creighton Indians on a one-hitter here Monday night as the Copper Cliff Redmen scored a 10-0 victory.

The win moved the Redmen to within a half game of first place in the Nickel Belt Senior Baseball League standings. Creighton is in fourth place.

The only hit off McQuarrie was a first inning single by Indians' Gerry Girard. Copper Cliff batters collected a total of 12 base knocks off two Creighton pitchers, Tommy Howe and Red Hill.

Sam Snead's Golf School

Hold your club so your hands work together.

On a recent day we told all you golfing fans to grip your golf club firmly but without tension. Remember? The club handle passes from the hook of the right forefinger diagonally across the palm of the left hand. In the address position the line formed by the thumb and forefinger of each hand will point up and over your right shoulder. The left hand grips the club handle about an inch below the top of the shaft.

The right hand grips the club just below the left with the little finger of the right hand placed over the index finger of the left hand. This is the "overlapping" grip. But if it feels better to let the little finger of the right hand "interlock" between the index finger and second finger of the left hand you will still be using a round grip. The object of using either grip is to make the two hands operate as one.

Gals Will Be Well Guarded At Olympics

MELBOURNE (AP)—Army guards and a double row of wire fencing will protect the 1956 Olympic Games here.

The guards will be on duty 24 hours a day at the Heidelberg Olympic village. They and the fences—10 ft. and 8 ft. high—will keep off would-be boy friends.

In fact the women's quarters at Heidelberg will be the best protected in the history of the games.

There will be about 600 women among the 2,000 odd athletes living at the village, representing 60 nations. They will live in a block nearest the main gate—and as far away as possible from the men's quarters.

The 10-ft. high fence will encircle the entire village. The 8-ft. high fence, built inside the first, will surround the women's quarters.

An army guard will prowls this fence day and night while another guard is to be stationed at the gate to the enclosure.

Giants 'Injured' Resting Well

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Giants reported Monday that new tests show second baseman Willie Mays has no slipped disc in his back and he may not have to retire from baseball.

Earlier reports indicated that Williams' back ailment might end his diamond career. He has been on the bench since June. Medical examination will continue.

In an added hospital report the Giants also said: 1. Catcher Wes Westrum is probably through for the season as the result of a broken finger on his throwing hand.

2. Infielder Foster Castleman is "resting comfortably" after removal of a cartilage from his left knee.

Reach Bowling Quarter-Finals

TORONTO (CP)—Five Ontario, two United States and three Toronto teams won quarter-final games in the six-day 21st annual provincial lawn bowling tournament which opened here Monday.

In the eight rounds rinks skipped by T. H. Mead, Balmby Beach, Toronto; D. Dakers, Boston, Mass.; H. Stitt of West Toronto; Joe Taylor, Balmby Beach; A. Balmby, head; Hamilton; Jim Weir, Detroit; D. E. Anderson, Grimsby; and R. Edney, Kingston.

After rounds Monday night last year's champion, Bob Hall's four from Hamilton were eliminated. Some 64 rinks started play.

Minor Baseball

In a well-played tussle the TPT pee-wee baseballers defeated the Parkdale youngsters 13-12 in the first of the playoff series.

It was a free-hitting game with TPT getting 7 clouts and the losers eleven. Larry Phillips won the route for TPT striking out four Wayne Keeble whiffing 13.

TPT overcame a 10-8 lead in the third scoring twice in the fourth and sixth. Parkdale had a big third innings shoving over seven runs. The game was won in the sixth when TPT pushed over two to grab a run lead.

Tracey hit a triple and Mulrhead two singles for TPT with Michael and Oliver each getting two singles for Parkdale.

Another Crack Appears in Dike Of Privacy, Culprit Television

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Another crack has appeared in the dike of privacy and individual freedom. This time the culprit is television.

It has begun innocuously enough in the sweet name of efficiency. The scene is a bank where they plan to install a closed circuit TV set-up for the teller serving a remote window which faces on the street and handles the baby carriage trade.

It seems this teller often has to stroll off to various parts of the bank to get balance cards for customers. Under a transmitter system a TV receiving screen will be placed in the teller's cage. When he wants a customer's record, he calls for it on an intercom system and the record is flashed on the screen.

It sounds real efficient. That poor fellow won't have to go walking all over the bank looking for something.

But pause a moment. Has it occurred to you that the teller in that (age may want to go wandering off? Suppose he wants a drink of water. Suppose there's a beautiful blonde handling the records?

It's the inalienable right of a working man to get a drink of water or exchange a few words with a blonde in the course of his working day. In fact, it's his inalienable right to wander off to a remote part of the office or shop on any pretext whatsoever. As an inveterate desk hopper, I submit that the worker returns refreshed in spirit and ready for the old grind.

Supposing Jones, the boss, gets the idea of having cameras trained on the working force and a screen placed on his desk three floors away.

The invisible Jones could see everything: who stole the paper clip, who lingered at the water cooler, who made a hideous face behind the straw boss.

The implications are limitless. Closed circuit television could be trained on human freedoms everywhere.

LAKE ONTARIO IS HIS NEXT GOAL

The first person to conquer twisting Loughboro lake, 20 miles north of Kingston, Ont., Jim Edmonds has announced his next goal would be Lake Ontario.

Sports instructor at Collins Bay penitentiary in Kingston, 51-year-old Edmonds, seen above, will attempt Aug. 27 to become the first man to conquer Lake Ontario. Although he had spent 16 hours and 45 minutes bucking currents, stiff winds and shoals in 21-mile stretch of water, Edmonds showed few signs of exhaustion. Two minutes after landing, he lifted his coach on his shoulders to prove how good he felt.

The Kibitzer

Good bridge rules fit the vast majority of deals. But every so often you run across a pair of hands that cannot be tailored by the customary rules. Such as in the deal shown here:

NORTH
♠ Q 5	♥ 4 3
♦ A 2	♣ 5 2
♠ A Q J 4 2
WEST
♠ A J 10 8 2	♥ 7 4 3
♦ K Q J	♣ 10 8 7 4
♠ 9 7 6	♥ K 10 8 3
EAST
♠ K 6	♥ 5
♦ K Q J 10 7 3
♠ A 6 3
♠ 5

By wrong bidding, south became the declarer at a small slam bid of six hearts. It should have ended in a loss by the wrong bid. Instead, skillful play made the contract.

West was quite confident that his spade ace was due to take one trick. To defeat the contract, he figured, he must develop a trick in diamonds before the declarer could prevent it.

So, instead of leading spade ace, the opening lead from west was the king of diamonds. This wise decision deserved a better fate for defenders. But it turned out to be a futile gesture.

The first trick was taken at once with south diamond ace. The king of hearts was cashed for a trump trick. The lone south club was led and won with dummy club ace and club queen was returned.

East ducked and south let it ride with a diamond sluff from his own hand. When this trick had there was evidence that the contract might make. Because dummy then led a small diamond.

South ruffed this with trump nine and returned the trump seven that dummy ace overtook.

Another small club was ruffed in south. Not with the trey but with a high trump.

Now the south trump trey was led and overtaken with dummy four of hearts to put north in the lead again. Dummy then led the now good suit of clubs and stuffed thereon the remaining south diamond.

Thereafter, all the declarer did was give up a spade trick and spread his hand for what was left. Having lost nothing but a spade trick, the 12 needed tricks came in to fulfill the small slam.

Luck and skill can make a kill.

Trenton Town Hands Shellelles First Defeat

Oosterhout Shellelles went down to their first defeat of the season last night, Trenton Town turning the trick by a 5-1 score.

Linda Wagg, Shellelles mound ace suffered her first setback in fifteen league starts. She struck out four, walked three and gave up eight hits. Donna Drake on the hill for Trenton tossed a three-hitter while whiffing seven and walking four.

Trenton took a 2-0 lead in the first innings with Shellelles getting their lone tally in the third. Trenton ripped back for three in the fifth to take the game away.

Helen Reeves had a double with Lois Batchelor and Mary Ann Ray getting singles for the Shellelles' three hits. McColl and Kenny each hit two singles for the winners.

With the schedule jumbled, Shellelles meet Brighton at Alemtie Field tomorrow night.

The score

Trenton 200 030 0-5 8 2

Shellelles 001 000 0-1 3 6

Newspaper Ads for Picture Sketched by Famous Artist

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — If you find your eyes lingering on the newspaper advertisements for "The Kentuckian" you have good appreciation of art.

The sketch of Burt Lancaster with boy and dog was done by Thomas Hart Benton, one of the finest and most controversial of American artists.

How did Hollywood lure Benton? Producer Harold Hecht said he always had admired Benton's work and knew that he was the one artist who wouldn't come up with the conventional in advertising art.

Hecht also remembered Benton's famous statement which got him fired from his teaching job at the Kansas City Art Institute back in 1941. At this time, Benton said:

"I'd rather sell my paintings to bawdy houses and saloons—than have them hung in art museums."

Hecht figured that anyone who would make a statement like that might be ripe for a movie offer.

The artist was.

Of course, the money was good. Hecht offered a $8,500 commission for the picture plus a few thousand more in expenses and any future royalties on prints and lithographs.

But even that fee—more than some of the old masters made in a lifetime—wasn't able to hold Benton at first.

On the first day of sketching, the 65-year-old Benton made an appointment with Lancaster at 7 o'clock one evening. Lancaster, both the star and the director of the movie, was two hours late.

As the big actor, dressed in buckskins and still wearing makeup, strode hurriedly into a hotel, he found Benton leaving.

Lancaster, who isn't used to pleading with people, jumped in the cab and did a fast-talk job on Benton. By the time the cab reached the airport, the artist was pacified.

Burt was late for no more appointments with Benton, the two became fast friends.

TRAINING OF FIRST DIVISION ENDS IN GIANT MANOEUVRE

Five weeks of intensive training by 10,000 troops of the First Canadian Infantry Division have ended at Gagetown, N.B., in "Exercise Rising Star", one of the biggest peace-time manoeuvres in Canada's army history. Top members of the First Battalion of the Royal Highlanders of Canada make an assault through a smoke screen over the rugged New Brunswick terrain. Above, supporting tanks rumble along the dusty roads looking for signs of "enemy" concentrations.

CANADIAN M.P.'S VISIT RCAF FRENCH HEADQUARTERS

Five Canadian members of parliament learn how shell hoists operate in old underground fortifications near Metz, France. The RCAF's air division headquarters was located in the ancient defences, built by Bismarck after the War of 1870, during the recent NATO air exercise, Carte Blanche. F/L M. A. Everard, Timmins, Ont., manipulates the shell hoist for (left to right) Col. A. J. Brooks, Sussex, N.B.; J. G. Diefenbaker, Prince Albert, Sask.; Maurice Boisvert, M.P., Quebec City; Mrs. Marie Ann Shipley, Kirkland Lake, Ont.; and Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, Hamilton, Ont. They formed part of a group of senators and members of parliament who recently toured Canada's Air Division overseas, flying in a North Star transport.

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT—Miss Dorean Seger returned home last Friday after spending a month with Mrs. Stone of Oakville.

Mr. Hugh Middleton, Toronto, spent the week-end with his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Middleton, at their home, "Devonshire," Bayside, on his way to his cottage at Lake Simcoe.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Rush and family, Sudbury, last Friday were tea guests of their uncle and aunt,
Mr. and Mrs. C. Rush.

Master Ronald Rush, Sudbury, spent part of his holidays with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. C.
Rush.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the relatives of the late John Ketcheson whose funeral service was held at the Belleville Burial Home on Thursday.

The Rev. R. W. T. Middleton was in charge of the service at the United Church in Plainfield the last Sunday in July and will be preaching at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Belleville for three Sundays.

Mrs. Harry Robin was an overnight guest Monday of Mrs. W. A.
Jeffery.

Mrs. George Arthur, Karl and Billy were Wednesday dinner guests of Mrs. Walter Jones.

Mrs. Leonard Young was a tea guest Thursday at the Brown home.

Miss Sylvia Bilham was a Wednesday tea guest of Mrs. Audrey Bowers.

Nearly Blown
Out of Sky Says
Bomber Pilot

TOKYO (AP)—The 11 American airmen released by Red China last week narrowly escaped being "blown clear out of the sky," when three Communist MIGs attacked their B-29 in 1953, their pilot said
today.

The pilot, Capt. Eugene J. Vaadi, told the press his story of the tense interval from the time the leaflet-dropping B-29 was attacked until the crew bailed out into Red captivity in the Korean war.

"Two MIGs almost simultaneously came at us," he related.
"The first from the left—so close I could almost see the pilot—the second from the right."

"The first, apparently knocked out our No. 2 (side left) engine.
The second knicked off a few inches of the right wingtip."

"A third MIG passed high between the first two and let loose two rockets. Our scanner saw them coming. If I hadn't turned, they would have hit our mid-section.
They would have blown us clear out of the sky . . . by then the up-and-pulling were well battered.
The engines began falling off."

"I gave the order to bail out. We had stuck aboard for what seemed quite some time, but actually within three or four minutes we were all out."

BUS HITS GAS TRUCK
CARLSBAD, N. M. (AP)—A bus carrying miners to their jobs collided head-on with a gasoline truck Monday, killing four men and injuring 18. The truck exploded and burst into flame at the impact. The truck driver, who was not immediately identified, was thrown clear of his vehicle and escaped with minor injuries.

Church Official Says Money
Thrown Away

WINNIPEG (CP)—An Anglican Church official says the department of transport is "throwing money away" in the North, and a D.O.T. official here Monday thought it was "an odd remark" for a churchman to make.

Rev. Donald B. Marsh, Anglican Bishop of the Arctic, cited in an interview here Friday the houses the D.O.T. builds for personnel in the North as an example of extravagance. They are expensive homes even before freight charges, he added.

Recently, Bishop Marsh said, the track of a large D.O.T. diesel tractor was slightly damaged in a fire. Instead of repairing it "the D.O.T. came, looked at it, and said 'We'll send you another.'"

"Those tractors cost $60,000.
They're just wasting money," the bishop said.

The D.O.T. official, who requested his name not be used, said there was no record as far as he knew of the $60,000 tractor Bishop Marsh had mentioned.

"I wish I knew which station he had in mind," Bishop Marsh's statement was "too broad" to reply to directly, the spokesman said, adding that Transport Minister Marler's recent visit to the North gave an opportunity for review of all such situations.

FOURTH ROCKET POWER

TOKYO (Reuters)—Japan will attempt to construct super-rockets capable of attaining heights of 125 miles in a bid to become the world's fourth rocket power. Prof.
Hideo Kikawa of Tokyo University's Industrial Technical Production Institute, who now is completing vertical test flights with "penicil" rockets, said the project planned for 1958 will be part of Japan's contribution to the international Geophysical Year.

Nearly All Early Grain Crops
Are Harvested

TORONTO (CP)—A slight break has occurred in Ontario's heat spell and the province's farmers are taking stock of the damage or benefit it has caused.

The department of agriculture's weekly report announced today that having is completed in most parts of the province and farmers have finished harvesting most of the early grain crops.

Despite near-drought conditions, grain crops are reported to be of a satisfactory quality and quantity.

DAIRY FARMERS HIT
Hardest hit by the month-long siege of hot weather were the dairy farmers who were forced to use silage feed they normally reserve for winter use, to keep milk production at quota-level.

Fruit farmers also have been affected by the heat as some fruits —particularly apples—are reported to be cooking on the trees.

In parts of the Niagara peninsula slight hail was reported during the week and some damage was caused in orchards. Tobacco growers report increased use of irrigation to prevent excessive drought damage to crops.

Maybe Thief Wanted to Make A Circus Tent

BEDFORD, Iowa (AP)—Taylor county authorities today sought a "giant" in overalls. Two pairs of overalls, used for advertising purposes, were reported stolen. They were 14 feet long with 108-inch waists. "If the thief can wear those overalls, I don't know whether I want to find him or not," Sheriff Harry E. Lucas said.

Civic Welcome Given Swimmer By Fergus People

FERGUS, Ont. (CP) — Shirley Campbell, the 19-year-old, brunette, stenographer from Fergus who nearly swam Lake Ontario, came home Tuesday night to a civic welcome.

Even the police took a bit of a holiday along with 10,000 other Fergus citizens and visitors to cheer Shirley for her achievement — and their praise was more heart-felt because she didn't make it. They lined the flag-decked Fergus street to cheer the smiling miss on her way at the head of a motorcade of visiting dignitaries and local officials. Two bands, the Fergus pipe band and the citizens brass band, played the procession into Victoria Park for a civic reception with all the trimmings.

"FOR SHIRLEY" On a silver platform loaded with flowers all marked "For Shirley" Mayor Jack Milligan presented her with three cheques totalling almost $2,000. Two for $500 each were from the town of Fergus and the citizens of Fergus. The other was a bursary from a dance academy. The whole town roared its approval as Shirley accepted the presentations with a demure "Thank you."

Representatives from Elora, Thorntown, Wellington county, Guelph, Arthur and the MP for the riding of Wellington-Nelson all paid tribute to her courage and ability.

A street dance in her honor followed the reception.

Plaid, Tartan Not the Same

HALIFAX (CP)—A Scottish clan chief said Tuesday he wishes people would realize there's a difference between a plaid and a tartan. "A plaid is a garment worn around yourself while a tartan is a design or pattern," Vice-Admiral Lachlan D. Mackintosh, chief of the clan of Mackintosh, told a luncheon here. "I wish the public would keep this in mind."

Today's Chuckle

Wrinkles are a sure sign of age, everything except prunes, nuts, nutmegs, and automobiles tenders.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP)—The weather office says warm humid air today invaded southwestern Ontario, where cloudiness and isolated thunderstorms have been reported.

Cooler air from the prairies is moving across northern Ontario but will barely reach Muskoka and Haliburton tonight. Its leading edge will stall through southern Ontario giving unsettled weather for southern forecast regions on Thursday.

GENERAL MOTORS TALKS ENDED BY UNION MOVE

UAW Requests Judge To Report Failure

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP)—Conciliation board hearings abruptly ended here Tuesday as the United Auto Workers Union (UAW) made a dramatic move for strike action and General Motors of Canada attempted to block the union manoeuvre.

Nineteen minutes after the hearing resumed, renewing one held July 29, George Burt, Canadian director of the UAW, stood up and said further discussion of the union's 100-point dispute with GM was "useless."

He demanded that the board, headed by Judge J. C. Anderson of Belleville, report immediately to Labor Minister Daley that it has failed to reach a settlement. Then Mr. Burt and his team walked out of the hearing.

The union's withdrawal was aimed at hastening the day it can legally call a strike of GM's 10,000 Oshawa workers. Strike action is legal seven days after the conciliation board reports failure. Only then, Mr. Burt said, will real bargaining over the disputed issues, including the guaranteed annual wage, begin.

CLAIMS LACK OF NOTICE

But GM lost a counter punch before the conciliation board. R. B. Redick, director of industrial relations, claimed the union has failed to give the required 60 days notice to terminate its contract.

According to the company interpretation, union, even if giving notice today, can not strike until at least Oct. 8.

Mr. Burt and his team quit the hearing after Judge Anderson said the board has been directed to extend its efforts to Sept. 2.

Mr. Burt walked out declaring he did so because his union believes Ontario's conciliation board setup is slanted toward the company by favoring long delays.

"No conciliation board ever settled a dispute in the automobile industry," he said.

He said the union's demands have already been granted by GM's Canadian competitors and by General Motors itself in the United States.

HEARD COMPANY BRIEF

The walkout resulted in an indefinite adjournment of the board's Oshawa hearings after it had heard a 62-page company brief labelling the union's demands as "demonstrably unrealistic and unworkable."

But the company did not reject the demands outright.

A. G. Stapleton, GM supervisor of labor relations, told the board the union's long list of non-economic demands must be settled before it will begin to discuss demands which involve money.

27 Drug Peddlars Charged In Police Crackdown in B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police said today they believe the main source of supply for Canada's major illegal narcotics market was cut off Tuesday with the arrest of 27 suspected drug traffickers.

Officials ordered constables to keep a close watch on drug stores as a protection against desperate dope addicts anxious to get narcotics.

The 24 men and three women were rounded up in joint raids by RCMP and city police and are to appear in court today.

Eight other persons were still being sought early today.

The 200 known addicts in this west coast city, Canada's total addict population is estimated at 3,200.

Thirteen cars, each carrying an RCMP and city police officer, combed the city for eight hours to conduct the operation.

Bob Deventer, 27, who worked for the Dutch underground during the Second World War, and Ken Scherling, 25-year-old university graduate, were the key figures in the sweep.

The rookie undercover men joined the Vancouver force five months ago and soon moved into the underworld to purchase drugs and gather evidence against peddlars.

Deventer and Scherling waited in the RCMP office here Tuesday and identified suspects.

Four city detectives shadowed the rookies in their dangerous assignment and in turn the detectives were followed at all times by other policemen.

Four of those arrested face trial

Publisher Says No Malintent For Two Headlines in Paper

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Tupper royal commission Tuesday censured the Vancouver Herald and demanded an apology for two headlines appearing in the paper's Tuesday morning edition.

Publisher Gerald M. Brown and managing editor Glyn Lewis, through their counsel, made a "complete, absolute and unreserved" apology and blamed the headlines on a staff editor and overworked day sickness.

"There was no malintent," counsel D. L. Vaughan said.

Mr. Brown told The Canadian Press later that the main headline in the paper appeared only in The Herald's final edition going to press at 2:30 a.m. PDT. A member of the copy desk on late duty had obviously erred in rewriting correct headlines which had been carried in preceding editions.

Mr. Brown and Mr. Lewis attended the hearing, sitting to investigate charges of graft and laxity in the city police force, an hour after R. H. Tupper called for representatives of the newspaper to be present.

Mr. Tupper directed that the apology also appear in print, and Mr. Brown nodded agreement.

Mr. Tupper censured The Herald for these two headlines: "Oscar Orr testifies: Chief sought 'ease-" up' on some city 'leggers' and "Wisner opposed probe by B.C. police."

Mr. Brown promised the commissioner "this kind of thing" would not be repeated and in today's editions the paper apologized to Mr. Orr and to Gordon Wisner, former attorney-general, for the "unintended inferences" which could have been drawn from the headlines.

In the first edition Wednesday The Herald said in a two-column headline: "The Herald Regrets Inexact Headline"

The following story quoted headlines in the first two editions last Tuesday to which no exception was taken, referring to the headlines in the last edition of the paper as "unintended inferences."

"A headline should not be open to varying interpretations. It should — and this was the intention of — and this headline writers — convey an accurate and exact summary of the major point or points in the text of the news story which it precedes. The Herald expresses its regret that the 51 letters in which the summary of the several thousand-word story appeared left the men engaged in sinking permanent legs 200 feet long, 500 tons weight and 10 to 15 feet in diameter."

The legs will support the tower 98 feet above normal high water — higher than the mightiest waves can reach.

THE PLUNGE KILLS 10 SEUL (AP) — A crowded bus plunged over a cliff Tuesday and carried 10 passengers to their deaths 90 miles south of Seoul. Twenty others of the 50 passengers were injured seriously.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Twelve-year-old Sonny Antone was killed Tuesday night when a cliff of sand gave way and spilled him 30 feet into a city dump.

A chum, Mervin Clark, 10, who ran half a mile for help was taken to hospital with a back injury.

Other children who were playing nearby said the peak of the cliff gave way. The Clark boy, who was partially covered by sand, said he pulled himself loose and dragged his chum free.

Call Tank Tenders TORONTO (CP)—Ontario Hydro Commission Tuesday called for tenders for the supply and erection of an elevated steel water tank to supply the relocated village of Innes, one of the communities affected by the St. Lawrence power project.

The 200,000-gallon tank will be 125 feet high and 110 feet in diameter by April 1, 1956. Closing date for receipt of the sealed tenders is Aug. 23.

WIDOWER HELD FOR MURDER IN WOMAN'S DEATH

Body, Weighted Down, Found at Blind River

BLIND RIVER (CP) — Justin Labelle, 69-year-old widower, today was charged with murder in the death of a woman whose body, weighted down with stones, was found Tuesday in the Blind River. Police said the body was identified through x-ray plates as that of Raymond Lanouette, 38, and disappeared two years ago while on a fishing trip.

Coroner V. S. Grigg of Thessalon said the body was mummified rather than decomposed by the icy water.

Labelle, father of 10 children, was in custody on a drunk charge when the woman's body was found in 12 feet of water about 1½ miles upstream from this community on the north shore of Lake Huron.

X-RAY PLATES HELP Police said Miss Lanouette was last seen alive by her mother when she and Labelle, whom she knew well, went for a canoe trip in the summer of 1953. Labelle returned alone and said Miss Lanouette had left the canoe to walk through the bush and visit friends.

A search for her was renewed last fall, but turned up no trace.

Police said "positive" identification of the body was made through x-ray plates on file at the Blind River hospital, where the woman was treated some years ago for a fractured leg.

The body, they said, had been trussed with wire and weighted down with two heavy rocks.

Mr. Brown promised the commissioner "this kind of thing" would not be repeated and in today's editions the paper apologized to Mr. Orr and to Gordon Wisner, former attorney-general, for the "unintended inferences" which could have been drawn from the headlines.

Cutter Ready To Evacuate 92 Workers

BOSTON (AP)—The coast guard cutter McCulloch today headed the Texas Tower to evacuate construction workers should hurricane Connie make the move necessary.

Ninety-two men are working at top speed to anchor the steel radar tower on Georges bank, 100 miles east of Cape Cod.

The navy and private contractors will decide whether evacuation will be necessary.

The cutter, named after the machine oil derricks off the coast of Texas, is the initial installation of a radar chain which will extend from Newfoundland to Virginia to warn against possible enemy air attack.

The $10,000,000 project has been resting on 12 temporary legs in 50 feet of water at Georges bank, a shoal area and under ground.

The men are engaged in sinking permanent legs 200 feet long, 500 tons weight and 10 to 15 feet in diameter.

The legs will support the tower 98 feet above normal high water — higher than the mightiest waves can reach.

JUST LIKE 1954 Connie generated into a big storm six days after she formed far out in the Atlantic. She soon started on course taken by last year's big blow.

Hurricane Carol last year waited until she got to Long Island before

Three on Arctic Safari Paddle Heavy Canoe 23 Hours to Reach Safety

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP) — A story of 23 hours of strenuous paddling in a freight canoe on cold, choppy Hudson bay was told Tuesday by three men planning an arctic safari camp at Cape Fullerton, 50 miles north of here.

Dr. J. P. Moody of Manitoulin Island, assistant director, Allan Bauer of Toronto, assistant director, and Kapri, an Eskimo navigator, told of the hazardous battle with the bay.

Exhausted, they reached their port Sunday, almost two days after 21-hour, heavy-duty cruiser broke down 60 miles up the coast during an attempt to get supplies to the camp.

The abandoned cruiser was somewhere out in Hudson bay northeast of here and planes and coastal supply ships have been asked to watch for it. Churchill is

Hurricane May Hit N.C. Coast Near Wilmington

Thousands Flee Inland From Threatened Area

HATTERAS, N.C. (AP)—Hurricane Connie swirled off the Carolina coast today, her 135-mile-an-hour winds threatening another mighty blow at the area still licking the wounds of last year's disastrous Hazel.

The big storm was almost stationary at noon 225 miles southeast of Wilmington, N.C. But the weather bureau said she is expected to move north northwest or north later today. This would take the destructive winds ashore probably early tonight, some place between that port city and this Atlantic outpost on North Carolina's outer banks.

The entire eastern U. S. seaboard, remembering three 1954 hurricanes which killed more than 250 persons and caused upward of $1,250,000,000 damage, girded for any eventuality.

COULD REACH ONTARIO Indications today were that Connie would hit not far from the point Hazel reached last Oct. 15 to sweep northward through the heavily-populated east coast into southern Ontario. Most hurricanes blow themselves out shortly after they reach land. But after Hazel, no chances were being taken.

Towering waves and high tides already pounded the North Carolina shore and hard rain and showers pelted residents and vacationers moving to safety away from the beaches.

The entire east coast from Savannah, Ga., to Provincetown, Mass., was under hurricane alert with rough seas reported.

Crowded automobiles, piled with belongings, moved away from the Carolina beaches Tuesday night and today.

TWO DEAD ALREADY All possible precautions have been taken to prevent loss of life and property.

Two men already have died as an indirect result of Connie. Their navy plane crashed at Norfolk, Va., as they sought to evacuate it inland to safety. Air force, marine and navy planes were put in hangars or flown inland to safety.

Navy ships put to sea to ride out the storm rather than be battered against docks. Small craft moved by the thousands into streams and creeks.

A hundred miles off Cape Cod construction workers labored to set a $10,000,000 radar tower being built at sea. A coast-guard cutter stood by to take them off the towering structure.

STAND-BY AIDS READY The civil defence administration put its units on a 24-hour basis in the threatened area.

The American Red Cross hurried 41 hurricane-disaster experts to strategic points and prepared to open shelters in North Carolina.

The civil air patrol, air national guard and "ham" organizations were placed on the alert to take over communications if regular facilities fail. TV antennas were shut-taken down. Windows were shuttered.

FINED FOR "LOOKING." SOUTHAMPTON, England (CP) — Bernard Simmons, 20, today was fined £5 for boarding the Cunard liner Queen Elizabeth early Tuesday by clambering up a mooring rope. Simmons, a sheet metal worker, said he just wanted "a look around."

smashing ashore and into New England, killing 68 persons. Hur to canoe Edna, hit Cape Cod, eastern Maine and parts of Canada, killing 12.

Hurricane Hazel came later to wreak havoc from South Carolina all the way into southern Ontario, where 82 persons died.

Highest 'High' Act in Outdoor Amusement World for Fair

One of the highest "high" acts in the outdoor amusement world will appear in front of the grandstand at the Belleville Fair on Monday to Thursday. This aerial thriller, secured through noted impresarios George A. Hamid and Son, is called the Hollywood Skyrocks and consists of trapeze and Roman ring work at the 100-foot mark without net or safety devices, climaxed by two young men criss-crossing on steel away poles another 25 feet toward the stratosphere.

Manager of the act is Willi Hustrul, originally from Germany, whose family has been in the circus business for over 300 years. Willi's greatest trick, though not the most spectacular, is a quiet performance of "the cross" in which he supports himself on the rings, his arms at right angles to his body, holding himself in this position by the powerful muscles of his shoulders. The rings, in turn are being held by their ropes by Willi's anchor man, Sig Hieland, a husky Norwegian, who hangs head down from the cross beams of the rig's "cradle."

In the finale Willi and young Eddie Pabon from Puerto Rico share bandstand honors on the high poles. The greatest danger here is wind which can cause the criss-crossing poles to sway in an ellipse and crash together.

According to Hustrul, the sway pole is a German invention; the first ones were made of wood, 75-foot pine trees preferred. They were sunk in a hole five feet deep and padded with rocks and clay to hold them in place. One of Hustrul's plans is to build a giant version of this original sway pole out of steel and without guy-wires. How he is going to make it take the strain of his weight in the whipping air, it will go through is his secret and he isn't telling until he gets it built.

Scouts Want Moose Head For Jamboree

Got a moose head you don't need?

How about doing a good deed and give it to the Boy Scouts? Sixteen Scouts from Belleville and district will attend the Scout Jamboree at Niagara-on-the-Lake later this month. The troop has been designated the "Moose Patrol" by Jamboree officials.

Comes the dilemma. The "Moose Patrol" has no moose to patrol. The Scouts would like to take a moose head to Niagara-on-the-Lake to hang over their quarters as a sign that can't be mistaken by foreign language Scouts from all over the world.

The boys leave Belleville August 18th but would like to get a moose head at the earliest possible moment in order to polish its antlers, dust off its hide, etc.

Anyone with a moose head is asked to contact Queen Scouts Larry Gerow on Herchimer Ave. or Dale Buelley, 152 Burnham St., phone Woodland 2-4329.

Local scouts are also looking for "trade goods" which can be exchanged with Scouts from other countries. Crests, brass buttons, souvenirs, mementos of all kinds will be welcomed by the Scouts.

Four-Roomed Cottage Badly Gutted by Fire

For the second time this week a Belleville family has been left homeless as fire swept through their dwelling during their absence.

Tuesday night shortly before midnight fire believed to have started from electric wiring badly gutted a four-roomed cottage owned by Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Morrison, 134 McDonald Avenue. Damage to the dwelling was estimated at about $3,000, and to contents about $1,800. Loss was covered by insurance.

Mrs. Morrison was ill in hospital, the two children were staying with grandparents and the father was away visiting neighbors, when a neighbor spotted the fire and turned in the alarm.

"The whole house was full of fire when firemen arrived," stated Fire Chief Gerald Vance. "We soon had the blaze under control but the damage was done before firemen got on the scene."

In a second run for firemen last evening the reels were called to 181 Dufferin Ave. where a wall-enclosed ironing board was ablaze. Only small damage resulted.

Firemen said that the ironing board cover had apparently been smouldering when the board was swung into its cupboard and later broke into a blaze.

Sr. Air Officer Leaves London For Trenton Post

LONDON (CP) - Group Capt. James B. Harvey, 43, of Winnipeg, for three years chief staff officer at Canadian Joint Staff, London, sails for Canada Thursday to become senior air staff officer at RCAF Training Command headquarters, Trenton, Ont.

He will be succeeded here by Group Capt. M. P. Martyn, 42, of RCAF station at Penhold, Alta.

Harvey, to be promoted to air commodore, is a veteran of 22 years with the RCAF. During the Second World War he commanded for a time the flying school at Camp Borden, Ont. Later he was senior personnel staff officer at Trenton.

Mrs. Harvey, the former Kathleen Grace Hayes of Niagara Falls, Ont., is a qualified pilot and a Canadian charter member of the Ninety-Niners, an air organization started in 1928 by the late American flier Amelia Earhart.

The Harveys have three children.

Now Considered Safe

WASAGA BEACH (CP) - Reeve Wilbur Nash said Tuesday night the beach area where seven Toronto men were drowned Sunday now is considered safe for swimmers. A snow fence erected Monday in the area will be removed today.

At the same time, crown attorney William A. Thompson of Barrie said an inquest into the multiple drownings will be held here Friday.

Corbyville Scout Wins Essay Contest

John Plumpton, of Corbyville, is congratulated by Jim Brownlee, acting manager of The Bank of Nova Scotia, Belleville, on his success in the recent essay contest: "What It Means to be a Boy Scout." John is one of 50 Canadian Boy Scouts whose essays won them a free trip with all expenses paid for ten days at the Eighth Jamboree, Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., August 18-28. Left to right are Mr. Brownlee, John Plumpton and his Scout Master, Ken Richards. The essay contest was sponsored by the bank.

Firemen, Derrick and Helpers Needed to Hoist Cow from Well

"Operation dairy lift" which saw a Jersey cow hoisted from the bottom of a 12-foot well provided two-and-a-half hours of diversion for Canifon residents Tuesday evening.

Thanks to the combined efforts of city firemen, a garage derrick, city dog catcher Charles Thorne and a score of willing helpers from Canifon village, the operation was a success and today the cow's owner, Mrs. John Beaton, R. 5, Belleville, reported the Jersey was okay despite her experience.

It all started when the Beaton herd of Jerseys broke out of their pasture late Tuesday afternoon. Three or four of the cows made their way across the low running Moira to Canifon village. Residents made an attempt to round the cows up but one Jersey darted down a driveway and crashed through the board top of an old well dropping into about seven feet of water.

By standing on her hind legs the Jersey was able to keep her head out of the water until city firemen arrived with a pumper truck and pumped the well dry.

Then the problem was how to get the cow out of the well. A garage derrick truck was summoned, city dog catcher Charles Thorne descended into the well and placed ropes around the cow. Mrs. Ed. Buring provided blankets to prevent the ropes cutting into the cow.

Hoisted from the well, the cow rested on the ground for a few minutes to get her bearings, then got to her feet and with a little persuasion walked home. A veterinarian checked the cow and said she would be all right.

Obituary

ALFRED (FRED) ERNEST BURLEY

While attending his rose garden at 37 Lewis Street, Tuesday evening, Alfred (Fred) Ernest Burley was stricken with a heart attack and died before medical aid could be summoned. He had been in ailing health with a heart condition but his death was unexpected and will bring sincere regrets from a wide circle of friends.

He was a member of the Wellington United Church and fraternally was identified with the International Machinist Union. Surviving are his wife, the former Alice Flindall; two sons, Howard and Harold Burley, of this city; one sister, Mrs. Clayton (Lucy) Church of Toronto; four brothers, Elwood (Brook) Burley, Harry Burley of Belleville, Earl Burley of Bloomfield; Ray Burley, Inwood, Manitoba, and four grandchildren.

Resting at the Grant Funeral Home, North Front St. The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

GEORGE THOMAS

The funeral of George Thomas, Canifon, was held from the Grant Funeral Home on Tuesday afternoon. The service in the chapel was conducted by Archdeacon J. B. Creegan, who also said the prayers at the graveside in Belleville cemetery.

The bearers were: Foster Gonolus, Korah Howard, Harry Smith, Don Thomas, Charles and Harry Green.

PATRICK JOSEPH LYNCH

The funeral of Patrick Joseph Lynch was held from the Funeral Home of George F. O'Brien at St. Michael's Church this Wednesday morning.

Requiem Mass was celebrated by Very Rev. L. B. Garvin, with Rev. J. J. Buckley saying the prayers at the graveside in St. James' cemetery. The church was filled with relatives and intimate friends, while the floral and spruce offerings showed the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

The honorary bearers, which included Charles and William Doran, Thos. Fliry, Bert Repard, James Cooper, Harry Flagler, Alex. Wilkinson, Samuel Cherry, Alex. Bremner, George Wilson, Dave Fisher and Albert Clarke formed a guard of honor at the church and graveside while Albert Clarke as chaplain conducted the memorial service of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

The bearers were: Edward Cornish, James Coughlin, Allan Vanstone, John Doran, William Lynch and Stephen Garvin.

Shirley Campbell Back in Water, Fully Recovered

TORONTO (CP) - Shirley Campbell, 19-year-old stenographer who came within two miles of swimming Lake Ontario last week, was back in the water Tuesday, fully recovered from her 21-hour ordeal.

The pretty pride of Fergus, Ont., still was troubled by a sore throat contracted near the end of her ordeal but her only comment after a five-minute dip in an outdoor pool at west-end Sunny-side was: "That feels great. I'm glad to be back in the water. Monday night she will try to swim the lake again, probably next August. 'I came too close to let it beat me,' she said."

Seek to Control H-Bomb Energy For Peaceful Use

GENEVA (Reuters) - Britain is working on the control of the hydrogen bomb to harness its enormous energy for peaceful purposes, Sir John Cockcroft, director of the Harwell atomic energy establishment, announced today.

He made the statement at a press conference here but refused any further observations.

"When you work you make progress," was all he would say today. Reporters threw a barrage of questions about Britain's progress in atomic programs at Cockcroft, Sir Edwin Plowden, chairman of the British atomic energy committee, and other leading British atomic scientists.

Cockcroft's opinion was that no one could possibly make any forecast as to when the power might be harnessed for peaceful purposes.

"We are working on this in Britain, but we are not in a position to make forecasts," he added.

Sir George Thomson, master of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, and representative of Britain's Royal Society, told correspondents: "H-fuel for peaceful purposes is bound to come in the end."

"The ingenuity of engineers is so great I am convinced that any proposition which you put before them and which does not conflict directly with physical processes will be solved by them within a reasonable period of time," he declared.

Asked what he considered a reasonable period, Sir George Thomson answered: "A generation."

GOOD WILL TOUR

LONDON (Reuters) - Five British Labor members of Parliament were among an 18-strong delegation that left here by air today for Peiping on a goodwill visit to Communist China. The group, which is to spend three weeks in China, also included miners, trade union officials and social workers.

IN MEMORIAM

WHITE. - In memory of a dear husband and father, Mr. Henry (Frank) White, killed in C.N.R. accident at Kingston, August 10, 1947.

Please God, forgive a silent tear. A silent wish that my Dad was here. There were others, yes we know. But he was ours, and we loved him so. Eight years ago we had to part. With one we loved with all our hearts. The wound is deep, it will not heal. Only those who have lost, know how we feel.

With love and lovingly remembered by wife Edna and son Jack White.

WHITE. - In memory of a dear step-father, engineer, Charles Henry White, killed in C.N.R. accident at Kingston, August 10th, 1947. I have only your memory, dear father. To remember my whole life through. But the sweetness will linger forever. As I treasure the love you gave me. - Lovingly remembered by son Doug, Marge and granddaughter Dale Palmer of Birmingham, Michigan.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to extend my sincere thanks to neighbors, friends and relatives, also The Belleville Lodge, who so kindly remembered my whole life with gifts, cards and flowers while I was ill in the Belleville General Hospital. - D. A. Thresher.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials and golds gained narrowly today on Toronto stock exchange to recover some ground lost in Tuesday's widespread fall. Activity was moderate with 1,363,000 shares changing hands to 11 a.m. against 1,848,000 to the same hour Tuesday.

Uraniums moved lower, base metals showed scattered gains while western oils were mixed.

Industrial gains went to 1 1/2 points. Federal grain added that amount and Ford A improved 1 1/2. Shawinigan dropped two points and Industrial Acceptance one. Other changes were in fractions.

Algonquin led uranium gains with a loss of $1.30. Consolidated Denison slipped 3/4 and Gunnar 3/4. Down 10 to 20 cents were Bicofit, Can-Met, Gulch, Lorato, Nesbitt Labine, Rayrock and Rix Athabasca. Beaver Lodge added pennies.

In base metals Coniag went up 55 to $5.30. International Nickel added 1/4. Down were Hudson Bay, Golden Manitou, Coppercorp, Casiar and Bathurst.

Among western oils Calgary and Edmonton were 1/4 better. Twenty-cent gains went to Triad and Western Lardolands.

New Thurbais in golds added 11 at 49. Narrowly ahead were Preston East Dome, Teck-Hughes and Sullivan. San Antonio slipped 10 at $1.55.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — A small offering of good and choice steers, heifers and fed yearlings sold steady to week's advance today at the Ontario public stockyards.

Slaughter cattle grading medium and down sold slowly at steady prices. Good cows were steady while medium and plain cows met a narrow demand. Bulls were steady.

Receipts: cattle 285; calves 120; hogs 375; sheep and lambs 135; holdover from Tuesday 900 cattle.

Prices: choice steers 20-21 some to 21.50; good steers 19-20; medium 17-19; commons 12-16; good heifers 18-19.50; mediums 16-18; commons 12-16; good fed yearlings 19.50-20.50; mediums 17-19; good cows 13-13.50; commons and cullers down to 7; good heavy hogs 13-13.50; common and medium bulls down to 9.

Sales were too few to establish a market in replacement cattle.

Calves sold by auction strong to 50 cents higher and more on good and choice vealers. Common and medium grades sold steady with grass calves gaining up to 2. Good and choice vealers were 20-22 with some sales to 22.50 and more. Mediums 15-20; commons 10-15; grass calves sold to go back to the country ranged up to 15.

Hogs were firm at 28 for grade A with two loads out at 28.50; sows were 17.75.

Sheep and lambs were steady 21 for good handweight ewes and wethers; bucks were discounted 1 and heavies 2; common and medium lambs were 14-18.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was steady on large grades and firm on mediums. Offerings were light for a good demand.

Hon. Alcide Cote Laid to Rest At St. Johns, Que.

ST. JOHNS, Que. (CP) — Hon. Alcide Cote, Canada's postmaster general who died at his home here Sunday, was buried today following a state funeral in St. John's cathedral. Burial was in the family plot in St. John's cemetery.

The service was conducted by Rev. Canon Eugene Martineau, parish priest of the cathedral. Dignitaries attending the service included Governor-General Massey, Prime Minister St. Laurent, Veterans Affairs Minister Lapointe, Transport Minister Marler, State Secretary Pinard and Bishop Gerard Coderre of St. John's.

Before removal to the Roman Catholic cathedral the body lay in the St. John's city hall, guarded by representatives of the three armed forces.

The 52-year-old lawyer-politician was stricken with a heart ailment last Feb. 1 and except for two weeks in June has been away from his office since.

Mr. Cote had been a member of Parliament for St. Jean-Bererville-Napierville since 1945. He was named postmaster-general in 1952.

Dulles Appeals To S. Korea To Exercise Patience

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Secretary Dulles appealed to South Korea today to exercise patience and avoid violent action in efforts to oust troop supervisors from the country.

Dulles emphatically told a press conference the United States intends to live up to its obligation to protect the true team members—who include Communist Czechs and Poles.

South Koreans have staged violent demonstrations against the troops. A number of American soldiers have been injured, none severely. Korean President Syngman Rhee has demanded that they get out of his country.

Dulles agreed with South Korea's charges that the Reds are little more than spies, but said he does not think information they pick up can imperil Korea.

Dulles also rejected, in response to questions, any idea of trying to unify Korea or any other divided nation in today's world, by force.

Kingston Bus Driver Fined

BOWMANVILLE (CP) — Arthur Perry of Kingston, who police said was the driver of a bus which rammed the rear of a parked auto transport near here July 15, was convicted Tuesday of driving recklessly and fined $25 and $116 costs.

Twenty-two of the 30 Colonial Coach Line bus passengers, many on vacation from the Maritimes, were injured in the collision.

Perry testified he didn't see the parked transport until another car illuminated it.

"I can't swear there were no lights on the parked transport," Perry said. "But I can swear that I saw no lights."

Two Drivers Get Into Difficulties

Police activity centred around the Bay Bridge Road Tuesday night as officers of the law took an alleged hit-and-run driver into custody and checked another motorist for speeding at 65 miles per hour.

A Station street resident complained that a hit-and-run driver had struck his auto at the corner of Bridge and Pinnacle streets.

Police located the alleged hit-and-run car in a driveway on the Bay Bridge Road and questioned Howard Babcock, 78 Foster Ave., who they said was the driver. As police questioned Babcock he ran across the highway into Zwilck's Island where he was apprehended.

The motorist in a hurry who was clocked on Bay Bridge Road at 65 miles per hour was Norman Meyers, 17, R.R. 2, Belleville.

TO VISIT YUGOSLAVIA

ATHENS (Reuters) — King Paul and Queen Frederika will leave Sept. 3 for a five-day state visit to Yugoslavia. It was announced Tuesday night. The king and queen will then sail to Yugoslavia President Tito's private yacht to the Ionian sea island of Corfu for a two-day stay before leaving for a holiday in Austria.

GLENDAL, Calif. (AP) — Susan Ball was buried Tuesday in her wedding dress. More than 1,500 fans and friends gathered by as her body lay in state. The 21-year-old actress who overcame the handicap of a leg amputation 18 months to be married and resume her career, died of cancer last Friday.

Sues for Shock When New Suit Is Nude Suit

CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP) — Claudia Hamilton says she went swimming in a new bathing suit at a South Carolina beach and when she emerged she suffered the following:

Mortification and humiliation shock, permanent injury to her nerves and psychic injury to her personality.

The bathing suit, from the waist down, became transparent, she claims in her suit for $20,000 against Glamor Shops, Inc., of New York. She said she purchased the garment in the firm's Dillon county shop.

Crowds spotted her rising from the sea in a semi-nude state, she claims, and a friend knocked her back into the water to cover her form from gazing males.

She said she was forced to walk the gauntlet up the beach and into a towel "for protection from the leers of the public."

Welcome Sign Out for Scouts At Jamboree

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — United States immigration and custom officials will have the welcome sign out for Boy Scouts attending the eighth world jamboree at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., Aug. 18-28.

More than 10,000 scouts from 40 nations of the free world are expected to encamp at the jamboree site on Lake Ontario at the mouth of the Niagara river.

Harold R. Becker, Buffalo district customs collector, said Tuesday his inspectors had been instructed to show every courtesy to the visiting scouts.

The Buffalo office of the immigration service said it had arranged to grant the scouts liberal border-crossing privileges.

A spokesman for the office said each of the scout organizations had received a waiver of passport and visa requirements, which will permit the scouts to enter and leave the United States as easily as Canadian citizens.

Mob Roughs Up Two Constables Arresting Woman

TORONTO (CP) — Police said two constables were roughed up at a midtown intersection early today when the arrest of a woman touched off a mob scene that finally took four carloads of officers to disperse.

Constable Lloyd Macleod said a woman raised a disturbance after a doorman refused her admittance to a dining lounge.

He said she attacked him when he asked her to move along and a crowd estimated at more than 100 quickly gathered.

After the scuffle was broken up by Muriel Gora, 31, and Paul Forest, 30, were arrested and charged with assaulting a police officer. Robert Aiken, 29, was charged with obstructing police.

Constable Macleod said he collapsed unconscious at one point. Constable Ronald Howard was treated for a ruptured blood vessel in his arm.

Child Burned To Death In Cache Bay Home

CACHE BAY (CP) — Jo-Anne Belanger, 2, died in flames which destroyed her home early today in this North Bay district community.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Belanger, suffered severe burns in rescue attempts.

Russell Lennan, a neighbor, rescued another child, four-month-old Diane Belanger. Lennan suffered burns on the back and the child was burned about the face and arms.

The Belangers said they awakened to find the one-storey dwelling filled with smoke and flames. Mrs. Belanger, 20, tried to carry out the baby but dropped her as she neared the door. Jo-Anne was in her own room on the other side of the house and the parents could not reach her.

Mrs. Belanger suffered severe burns on the back and face as well as shock. The hospital at Sturgeon Falls later described her condition as critical.

Her 21-year-old husband was severely burned and cut as he tried to rescue the children.

Chaudhri Asked To Form New Pakistan Govt.

KARACHI (AP) — Chaudhri Mohammed Ali, new head of the Muslim League party, was asked today to form a new Pakistan government.

Acting Governor-General Iskander Mirza called on Chaudhri, a key government figure since Pakistan's founding in 1947, to take up the task.

Mohammed Ali, previous leader of the Muslim League, resigned as prime minister after the league elected Chaudhri as its head Sunday. Mohammed Ali had been Pakistan's third prime minister since April, 1953.

The Muslim League, which holds 35 seats in the national constituent assembly, and the United Front party, which holds 25 of the 80 assembly seats, agreed Tuesday to form a coalition cabinet.

Chaudhri, finance minister since 1951, is considered certain to continue the pro-Western foreign policy of Mohammed Ali's regime.

Chaudhri was a key adviser to the Muslim nation's founder, the late Mohamed Ali Jinnah, and its first prime minister, the late Liaquat Ali Khan.

How Bureau Prepares Public For Hurricane

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States weather bureau prepared the public for a hurricane in three stages:

1. Hurricane alert—a term used for the first time this year, meaning there's the first prospect of trouble, play it safe. "On your mark."
2. Hurricane warning—this is "get set and go." There's more danger, a semi-definite threat and you should take cover.
3. Hurricane—this is it. Winds have to be more than 75 miles an hour to make a genuine hurricane in weather bureau language.

There are other terms that go along: small craft warnings mean winds will get up to 35 miles an hour and small boats should make cover. Night storm warnings mean winds will be from 45 to 60 or even 75 miles an hour from the northeast.

Highlands Need Rehabilitation Says Clan Leader

HALIFAX (CP) — The chief of the clan Mackintosh said Tuesday all very well to go into rhapsodies over lochs, heather and the glens but the plain truth is the Scottish Highlands are in sad need of repair.

Vice-Admiral Lachlan D. Mackintosh, 25th chieftain, told the North British Society at a luncheon that Scotsmen around the world should thrust to the back of their minds the romantic attachment for the homeland.

What is urgently needed, he said, is a program of Highland rehabilitation.

"The bald facts are that the Highlands today are little better than a wasteland and are furnishing only a meagre living for those hardy souls who still live there," Admiral Mackintosh said.

Wanted Piece Of Uranium To Heat Home

GENEVA (AP) — An unidentified woman appeared Tuesday at the United States atom-for-peace exhibit here and tried to buy a piece of uranium to heat her home.

She told an attendant she had seen stories in the newspapers quoting prices. The attendant explained that the uranium was not for sale here and that anyone with a small piece of it was enough to take the place of thousands of tons of coal.

"I know," she said. "I just need a tiny piece—enough to heat my house."

Freed Fliers Flying Home

TOKYO (AP) — Eleven U. S. airmen who spent 32 long months in Communist captivity sped eastward across the Pacific toward home and family today.

Two plush C-54 air transports left Tachikawa air base in Japan early this afternoon. After a 27-hour layover in Hawaii they are due at Travis air force base, Calif., Friday morning.

The freed airmen are Col. John Knox Arnold Jr., Capt. John Vaadi, Capt. Elmer F. Llewellyn, Airman Harry M. Benjamin Jr., Airman John W. Thompson III, Maj. William H. Baumer, Lt. Wallace L. Brown, Lt. John W. Buck, T. Sgt. Howard W. Brown, Airman Steven E. Kohn and Airman Daniel C. Schmidt.

Schmidt consented to an interview only after a promise that no mention would be made of his tangled marital affairs. Schmidt's wife, Una, says she married another man while the airmen was in a Red Chinese prison. She said she thought Schmidt was dead.

The triangle won't be straightened out until after Schmidt arrives home. He is to meet Una at some undisclosed place after the arrival at Travis.

New Englanders Ready for Blow If It Comes

BOSTON (AP) — New Englanders went to work today with one eye on their jobs and the other on the latest news of hurricane Connie. Abnormally high seas were in prospect today along Cape Cod and the summer resort islands of Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard.

Gales were expected tonight along the southern New England coast — and possibly northeast storm warnings.

But Connie itself, the weather bureau said, poses no threat to New England before Thursday.

When—or how close—it would come to New England remained uncertain.

However, no one took the storm's threat idly. Not after the hurricanes of 1938 and 1944 and the two last year—Carol on Aug. 31 and Edna on Sept. 11.

Along Cape Cod, small boats were pulled from the water and "natives" and summer folk alike battened down for the blow. But there was no noticeable exodus to safer areas, police said.

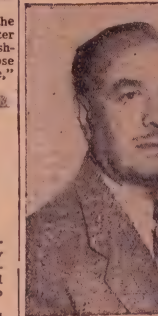

Military services dispersed aircraft inland and surface vessels to sea.

Fishing boats took shelter in harbor. Public utilities warned repair crews. State agencies announced they were keeping close watch on the storm and would be ready with men and equipment.

Disaster relief organizations like Red Cross and civil defence reviewed lessons learned in last year's blows and got set to move if needed.

Race Week at Marblehead, Mass., was suspended indefinitely because of the storm's threat. The suspension gave yachtmen an opportunity to protect their craft.

Steel Producers Hard Pressed To Meet Demand

NEW YORK (AP) — Steel producers, struggling to keep pace with demand, are "wielding a heavy blue pencil on customer allotment," Iron Age, national metalworking weekly, said today.

"Mills are going through one of the worst periods in recent years from a production and customer relations standpoint," said the weekly. "It's as hard on them as it is on consumers."

Both old and new customers are "getting the treatment," Iron Age said. "What it boils down to is this: The steel companies were caught flat-footed by the continued strength of a market they thought would ease during the summer. Incoming orders are still running 10 to 15 per cent ahead of activity."

The publication listed the June 30-July 1 steel strike as an obstacle to high production, along with maintenance problems, summer vacations and a record-breaking heat wave.

"Operations this week are scheduled at 96 per cent of capacity, while last week the mills produced at only 88.5 per cent."

Moscow May Lift Censorship On Dispatches

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet spokesman said Tuesday night the government is studying whether to lift censorship on all dispatches sent from the Soviet Union.

Leonid F. Ilyich, press chief of the foreign minister, gave this response to an inquiry. He said also he knew of no change in the status of correspondents of Communist newspapers. Western correspondents in Moscow have long suspected that writers for papers like Italy's L'Unita and France's L'Humanite have been able to skip censorship. These correspondents, however, say they submit news to the censor.

There has been some relaxation of censorship for correspondents representing the non-Communist world. Dispatches telephoned abroad reporting on such events as foreign ministry press conferences and meetings of the Supreme Soviet are not censored, as a general rule. But correspondents are supposed to submit copies of their stories.

There also has been no censorship recently on sports copy.

Chinese Reds Can Have Talks With Fisheries Minister Of Canada Within Ten Days

OTTAWA (CP)—If the Chinese Communists in Peiping want ministerial talks with a Canadian cabinet minister they can have them within the next 10 days.

Fisheries Minister Sinclair, en route home from Russia, will make a two-day unofficial visit in Peiping, as guest of Britain's charge d'affaires, C. D. W. O'Neill.

At the same time, Ottawa officials conceded Tuesday, he undoubtedly would be ready and available for talks with the Reds, possibly to clarify the question of the Ming Sung ships and future relations between Red China and Canada.

While Canada does not recognize the Communist government of China it still is hopeful of collecting on the $12,750,000 bank loan which the Canadian and Chinese Nationalist governments guaranteed when the seven ships were built in Canada in 1947 for the Chinese Ming Sung Industrial Co.

PAID THE BANKS
The Canadian government later had to pay the banks when the Nationalist government and the company defaulted after the Reds captured the ships in 1948.

In the Commons last month Prime Minister St. Laurent indicated the government feels the Ming Sung affair is not closed and that it still hopes to collect on the deal.

Opposition leader Drew, opposing the sale of Canadian wheat on credit to Communist Poland, noted in passing the money in the ship deal had not been returned to Canada.

Mr. St. Laurent interjected: "Which has not yet been returned," indicating hopes that it will.

SOFTENED ATTITUDE
There was some speculation in Ottawa that Canada may be able to make some deal to get payment, if the Reds have the ships. The fact that the Reds have allowed Mr. Sinclair in Red China indicates a softened attitude towards the West.

Mr. Sinclair toured parts of the Soviet Union after attending the 8th annual meeting of the international whaling commission in Moscow July 18. He now is believed to be at Petropavlovsk, in the Kamchatka peninsula of eastern Russia.

After his Peiping visit he will fly to Hong Kong and from there board plane for Vancouver and Ottawa. He is expected back by mid-August.

PUBLISHER SAYS

In a stern statement to the newspaper men, Mr. Tupper said he could see "only two possible explanations—gross stupidity which should never have been made or, and . . . I hesitate to even suggest it, the paper concerned is involved in a campaign for the miscarriage of justice."

Part of the main headline to which Mr. Tupper took exception, read: "Magistrate recalls Leatherdale report."

"I can not think of anything more apt to prejudice the public," he said. The headline, he said, referred to testimony by magistrate Orr as to what Det.-Sgt. Bob Leatherdale had told him. "Any one would take it that he was incriminating the chief and that he had direct knowledge. . . ."

OBJECTS TO WORDING
The commissioner also objected to a headline on page three, reading: "Wisner opposed probe by B.C. police."

"This is another innuendo," Mr. Tupper said. "This headline would indicate he was opposed to any kind of investigation."

Mr. Tupper said that at the opening of the commission hearings he had taken "the opportunity of warning reporters to advise editors" to be careful in their handling of stories.

"IS UNFAIR"
"Any comment which discriminates against a man who has not had an opportunity of testifying is unfair. In this case it is even worse because there is a direct charge against him which is untrue."

He said magistrate Orr was merely testifying to what Leatherdale had said.

"And yet, the very next morning, there was spread across Vancouver in very large headlines the fact that his Worship was behind this allegation."

The headlines were drawn to Mr. Tupper's attention by T. G. Norris—counsel for police chief Walter Mulligan—who made a charge of "dishonest journalism."

Corporal Named Police Chief At Tilbury

TILBURY, Ont. (CP)—Council Tuesday took steps to correct a critical police situation here by naming corporal Arthur Lewis new chief constable.

Lewis, the sole remaining member of the town's three-man department, has been acting-chief since the resignation Friday of chief Ralph D. Chisholm and constable Jack Murray.

Chisholm and Murray were asked to resign following a disturbance July 27 in which 200 townspeople threatened to break into the town jail and free a man arrested earlier in the evening by Murray.

Mayor William Cowley read the Riot Act and three other men were arrested during the incident. Corporal Lewis, who was in hospital, had no part in the near-riot.

RESIGNATIONS ASKED
Petitions demanding the resignation of the entire force were circulated the day following the trouble. Mayor Cowley said Chisholm and Murray were asked to resign because of incidents revealed since July 27. "I can honestly say it wasn't because of the riot but it sparked complaints," he said.

Mayor Cowley said council asked the two to resign after a meeting last Friday night at which reports were heard from townspeople.

The council meeting Tuesday appointed Louis Vanacker a constable on a six-month probationary period as a replacement for Murray. Tenders were called for a third man.

Weddings

THOMPSON—LATENDRE

St. Catharines' rectory, Tweed, Ontario, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday, August 6, at 9 a.m., when Lois Lorens, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Latendre of Tweed, became the bride of Lorne Howard, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Thompson of Thomasburg, Ontario. The brief but impressive ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dean Shannon of St. Catharines' church, Tweed, Ontario.

The bride was charmingly gowned in a cocktail length dress of white nylon net and lace with long-sleeved lace bolero and white headress. She carried a bridal bouquet of red roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Marlene Langevin of Tweed, chose blue flowered nylon with matching headress for her costume and wore a corsage of pink roses.

The bridegroom was attended by his younger brother, Mr. Guy W. Thompson of Thomasburg. The bridal party enjoyed a dainty wedding luncheon at Log Cabin Inn, Actinolite, Ontario, immediately following which the happy couple left for a brief honeymoon in New York State, the bride travelling in a yellow nylon dress with harmonizing hat and accessories. On their return they will reside in Trenton, Ontario, where the bridegroom is on the staff of Weaver Motors.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was honored by a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Fred Van Meer of Tweed, the staff of the Bell Telephone office, Tweed, gathered at the home of Mrs. John Blakely and presented her with a pair of air-foam pillows and a clothes-hamper. Then on Friday evening, the bridegroom was the recipient of a pop-up toaster at a party composed of the staff of Weaver Motors at Presqu'ile Pt. (Trenton, Brighton papers please copy.)

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG.—The sympathy of the community is extended to the family of the late Mrs. Daniel Bowers, who passed away at the home of her son, Charles, of Tweed, Ontario, on Monday, August 1, after a long illness. The funeral took place from Bush's Funeral Home, in Tweed, to Thomasburg United Church on Thursday at 2:30 p.m., with interment in Thomasburg cemetery. The Rev. C. R. Chapman of Thomasburg United Church, was in charge of the service, assisted by the Rev. George Ewald of Tweed Pentecostal Church. Mrs. Arnold Diltz of Plainfield, Ont., rendered a solo, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," accompanied by Mrs. Ross Wilson, organist of Thomasburg United Church.

Mr. E. Ward, who has been a patient in Kingston hospital, returned home last Wednesday improved in health.

The dry, hot weather, which has persisted for so long has had serious results for farm crops in this district. However the rain and cooler weather over the weekend was a welcome respite for everyone.

Thomasburg district escaped serious damage in the brief but violent wind storm on Friday last. Some rain fell in other sections, but in immediate vicinity of the village only a few drops were noticeable.

Mumps are reported quite prevalent in this district at present. Four children of Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Morton are ill at present with the disease.

Garry and Stanley Morton, who have been holidaying with Mr. and Mrs. Donald Richardson of Hilton, Ont., are visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bateman, at present.

Mrs. Ed. Thompson and Donald spent the week-end with Mrs. Ethel McCullough of Belleville, Ont.

Divine service was held in Christ Church (Anglican) on Sunday evening.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

TEEN-AGE SKIN CARE

It is perfectly natural that the average teen-ager should get a terrific bang out of using cosmetics. She wants to look as glamorous as her favorite movie star and her first experiments with powder, rouge and lipstick seem a dither in the right direction. Some mothers may frown on the early use of make-up, but the wise one will not. Instead, she will see that her budding glamour girl selects the right shades of make-up and will help her to apply them properly. But, most important of all, she will stress the necessity of a flawless complexion. A teen-ager really needs a one good cream and lots of soap and water!

The before bedtime cleansing is especially important. The cream should be applied first and lavishly. It should be massaged into the skin, always with upward strokes, clear up to the hairline, back of the ears, all about the neck, with special attention given to the areas about the chin and the nostrils where blackheads and pimples are most likely to occur. The cream should be left on for two or three minutes, then removed with facial tissues. After every bit of the cream has been removed comes the soap-and-water routine. Hot water should be used for soaping and lathering and care should be used in the selection of the soap. The skin is inclined to be dry, a castile soap should be used and a soap with a drying agent is best for girls with oily skin. The soaping should be a thorough one, after which skin should be rinsed with cold water to close the pores. Two or three times a week ice cubes can be used in place of cold water with great effectiveness.

The same treatment in the morning will start the day right for the complexion since the face, thoroughly clean, will be ready to accept make-up without injury to even the most delicate and youthful of skins. It is also important for the teen-ager to realize that one coat of make-up should never be put on top of another. If make-up is to be changed during the day or before an evening date another thorough cleansing should precede its application.

Diet is also important to the teen-ager's complexion. Lots of green vegetables and fresh fruit will decrease the teen-ager yearning for sweets and greasy fried foods which inevitably bring pimples and blackheads in their wake. And which, in addition to ruining her complexion, will add unwanted poundage!

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOUR GIRL HAS A FINE CHARACTER — DOES YOURS MATCH IT?

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am 24 years old and engaged to a girl 23. We had planned to be married in December, but now I am not sure whether we will be or not. The fact is that I have had a bad shock which has made me feel uncertain as to the wisdom of our marriage.

We have been engaged for nearly a year, and were going together for a year before that, so that we had plenty of chance to know each other thoroughly, and I thought we did. But I was wrong. Can you imagine how I felt to learn from my fiancée the other day that she was not as pure as I had believed her to be? That she had, to come right out with it, had sexual relations on two occasions with a fellow she was going with before she met me?

How I came to find out was that we got talking about a girl we knew who has been the subject of a great deal of talk in the rather small town where we both live. I suppose you would call her wild. Anyway, she is known to stay out till all hours of the night with men. I said to my girl that I wondered how a girl like that could ever expect to marry a nice guy, and she suddenly began to cry. Then it all came out.

I don't want you to think that my girl was ever like this other one, because I know she wasn't. She told me that what happened was just one of those things, and that afterward she could have killed herself for what she did. She said she had wanted to tell me all the time, but was afraid to, but finally she just couldn't stand my not knowing any longer, because she didn't want us to marry with anything like a lie between us. She felt that not telling me was almost the same as having lied to me, because she had let me think she had always been a good girl when she wasn't.

Please tell me what I should do. I have lost faith in this girl, but I still love her. — George H.

Dear George: What, exactly, do you mean when you say you have "lost faith" in your girl? If you mean that because she is one of the sadly many who have had sexual experience before marriage you feel she might be unfaithful as a wife, then I think you are making a very hasty and unfair assumption.

This is not to be interpreted as condoning sexual intimacies among young people in advance of marriage. It is merely a realistic facing of the fact that these things happen today, and not infrequently, among girls of whom higher standards might be expected. Aren't you realistic enough—and honest enough—to admit that the same could be said of young men? You may, of course, be an idealistic young man who has never indulged in such intimacies—but if you were not, and your girl were to find it out, would you expect her to lose faith in you?

What the whole unhappy question boils down to is whether a given young person is basically good character or not. Youth and inexperience can lead even young people of fundamentally sound principles into foolish, sometimes tragic mistakes, and it certainly by no means follows that a mistake made through youth and inexperience will be repeated in maturity. Moreover, your girl was honest enough to tell you the truth when she needed to have done so, and no girl of inferior quality would have done that. She told you how bitterly sorry she was—and no girl of inferior quality would have felt that way. She wanted the marriage between you to start out with everything open and aboveboard—and it would take a girl of character to sacrifice herself to the extent she did in the hope of making that possible. Can you be any less generous and understanding toward her especially since this thing happened before she even knew you?

Whether or not you can have a happy and successful marriage with this girl now hangs upon two points: her basic character and your own. My opinion is that she has demonstrated the essential sturdiness of her character, and that you are the one whose fitness of character remains to be demonstrated.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

WEDDING SHOULDN'T TAKE PLACE IN GROOM'S HOME TOWN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am planning to be married in the near future. My parents are dead. I have four brothers, all older than I. Two are married, and I live with two brothers. Which one should give me in marriage? And who announces the wedding?

2. My fiancée is from out-of-town. It is impossible for his father to travel. Would it be proper for me to be married in my fiancée's town? — Bride-to-be

1. According to the usual custom it would be your oldest brother who would have the honor of giving you in marriage. But sometimes the bride-to-be has a decided preference that another brother . . . not the oldest, but one to whom she has always been particularly close in devotion . . . give her in marriage, and this choice, if agreeable to all, is decided on. And customarily the oldest married brother and his wife are the sponsors of the marriage announcements.

2. Even when there is such an unfortunate health-situation, your wedding should, if at all possible, take place in your home city. I am sure the groom and his father would understand this decision. This or a similar situation often must be faced, and perhaps you and your groom might make the plan often made by the bride and groom after the reception . . . to drive to see the relative who wouldn't come to the wedding, to tell him or her all about the wedding and reception, and to take a piece of the wedding cake and any other mementos of the wedding.

HE SHOULDN'T ADDRESS BRIDE BY FIRST NAME . . . YET

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

For several years I have worked closely with a young man who is to be married soon. I have received a formal invitation to the church wedding and to the reception. My question: Since he and I of course call each other by our first names, should I also call his bride by her first name as I offer my best wishes in the receiving-line? I have met her only once as she has been teaching for the past two years in an out-of-town boarding school. I certainly don't want to make a social error in this name business, Jim.

Since you have met the bride only once, I advise that you address her as "Mrs. Smith" (whatever your co-worker's name is), as she greets you in the receiving-line. Unless she may ask you to address her by her first name. Soon, of course, this name-status may change, but your co-worker's bride is the one to suggest the change.

RECEPTION CARDS MUST CARRY NAMES OF HOST AND HOSTESS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother and father are divorced, and ever since their divorce I have lived with my mother. I am to be married soon, and my wedding invitations are to be issued in the name of my mother only. However, my father, who has re-married, is to pay most of the expenses of my wedding, is to give me in marriage (at my mother's suggestion and with her complete approval), and wishes to give the wedding reception in his home. If this is correct, would the wedding reception invitations be issued in his name only, or in "their" names, his name and his present wife's name? — G.J.W.

If agreeable to all concerned it is correct for your father and his present wife to give the wedding reception in their home. Then the reception cards should include both names, as they must carry the names of host and hostess of the occasion.

Shakespeare and the Birds

By Mary Moore

Still shocked and rocked, twenty-four hours later, by the power of Valk's Shylock in The Merchant of Venice, which we heard yesterday in Stratford, and totally entranced by Frances Hyland's inspired "Mercy" speech, I feel that descending to a mundane plane where food is the topic is to be guilty of trifling.

However I have an alibi—but it is strictly for the birds. The quality of the food was not trivial for we had one of Barb's Freelon ducks, stuffed and roasted, and ate it on the banks of the Canadian Avon while a mother swan and her brood of six paddled serenely by. Willy-nilly we became bird watchers for we saw a kingfisher swooping and a humming-bird pause like a helicopter over some dainty orange flowers then dive into each tiny cup and circle the whole plant until he'd had his fill then streak off to untapped blossoms.

get the change.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Our guests were our beloved Ron and Grace. Our dessert was made by Ron—his second cooking effort since he made a chicken curry in my kitchen ten years ago while he was a pre-med student. The dessert was stewed and green gage plums and it was good. Grace had to rescue the brew because he was called away to suture a boy's knee in the midst of this effort.

I wish though, that when folks do turn out something worth eating and writing about that they would remember what they did. He said "I put two colors of plums in the dish so the result would be orange, and poured some sugar in and turned on the heat. What happened after that only Grace knows." I turned to Grace: "When I heard them boiling and I dropped Joanne on my chair and snatched them off. They looked done so I just let them sit until you called for us."

I suppose that is good enough for you folk who know how to make fruit compotes. What I can tell you in exact detail is how I stuffed and roasted that beautiful duck.

STUFFED FREELTON DUCK

It weighed dressed 6 3/4 lbs. I cut the ducks from 3-4 of a loaf of white bread (which Eleanor gave me for we don't buy it) and cut it into 1-2-inch cubes. To reduce dish-washing I melted in my big electric fryer 2 tablespoons butter and added 3 sprigs of fresh marjoram chopped finely, 1-4 cup parsley chopped finely (both from Doris' herb garden) and about 1 tablespoon thinly sliced green onion. These were gently sautéed until just limp, then I threw in all the bread cubes and some salt and pepper and mixed it up right in that pan. Once it was inside the duck and closed

The way they fit like clockwork around the fireplace is a site to see. Goodness, William, the things that could be done around this house if you were only as clever with your hands as you are with your brains, she said.

If a Fogel can do it, a Potts can do it, pop said. After all, what's in a name? Didn't I hear you say you wish you had another kitchen cabinet? he said, and ma said, I say it practically every time. I'm in the kitchen. My, an additional cabinet would just make wonderful order out of annoying confusion, she said.

Good, I'll construct one for you, pop said, and ma said, Now William, come down out of the clouds. How could you possibly make a kitchen cabinet when you couldn't even tighten the towel rack in the bathroom without making the whole thing crooked she said.

All big men learn from their own mistakes, pop said, and ma said, But William, when you tried to fix the belt on the vacuum cleaner, you know what happened.

You had a to get a brand new vacuum cleaner, you couldn't ask for a bigger improvement than that, pop said. This is the age of do it yourself, and I don't intend to be behind the age. I'm going to construct a new kitchen cabinet for you, out of stainless aluminum, it comes in 8 easily assembled parts, 3 feet by five. I saw the ad in the back of one of your magazines, he said, and ma said, Why? Which he probably will.

Charles Thrasher, and Mrs. Thrasher, Trenton, and Mrs. Clarence Douglas and Harold, of White Lake. Following the birthday dinner the group enjoyed television and a family chat.

Mrs. Orno Sharp is spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clarke and family, Markham.

DELIGHTFUL HOLIDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Vernal Steacy and Murray, of Pump St., Mount Pleasant-Rawdon, have returned home from a delightful three-week holiday. They visited her sister, Mrs. H. Grey, Mr. Grey and other relatives at Prescott. From there, they motored to Ogdensburg, Lisbon and Waddington, crossing by ferry from Canada to the United States. They were accompanied by their niece, Miss Betty Grey and her friend, Mr. Ivan Sanderson.

Mr. Steacy renewed acquaintances with several former friends across the border.

On their return to Prescott they visited several cousins in that area. They then journeyed to Smith's Falls and spent some time with her mother, Mrs. F. Gifford, and then to Seeley's Bay to visit his mother, Mrs. J. B. Holden.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Simpson and family entertained several relatives and friends on Saturday evening in honor of Mrs. Simpson's sister, Mabel, Mrs. A. Landberg, Mr. Landberg, Merle and Jeanne, of Evanston, Illinois, who were holidaying on Pump Street at Mt. Pleasant with the Simpson family. The Landberg family are now holidaying at the home of her brother, Mr. Clarence Seenev, and Mrs. Seenev, Belleville.

Messrs. Robert Hoard and Ray Sharp arrived home on civic holiday following a delightful motor trip to the western provinces, where they attended the Calgary Stampede, then on to Vancouver, B.C., crossing to the States, where they visited California, Florida, and other noted spots and returned home via Montreal, Que.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl McAdam are camping this week with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McAdam of Toronto, at the latter's cottage, near Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Melville and Peggy Ann, Sarnia, spent a week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dunham.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Shaw and Wayne; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thrasher spent a day last week at Oak Lake.

Messrs. Kenneth Menzies and John Bamber, Warkworth, spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. James Menzies.

Mrs. Ross Hoard spent last week with her sister, Mrs. Harry Ketcheson at Bethel-Zion.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoard attended the funeral of Mr. J. F. Ketcheson at Belleville on Thursday.

Miss Ruth Linn, an employee of Bateman's Ladies' Wear, spent last week on holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Linn, Mount Pleasant.

RUSSIA SHOWS FOUR-JET BOMBER

Russia's new swept-wing, four-jet bomber has gun turrets on top and bottom of fuselage, three sighting blisters—one at either side of the nose, and one forward of the upper gun turret—plus a stinger set low in the tail. The wing is high-shoulder mounted with a broad, thick inboard section where the engines are housed internally. Wing pods are believed to house out-rigger landing gear. Note large radome on bottom of nose section and tremendous size of the angular stabilizer. (Central Press Canadian).

Drinking Habits
Of British Fighting Men Change

LONDON (AP)—Tremendous changes are taking place in the drinking habits of the British fighting man.

The Royal Navy is drinking more milk than beer.

The army and the Royal Air Force are drinking more tea, coffee and soft drinks than they are the foaming brew.

Whisky and gin are far down the consumption list.

Sales in service canteens 50 years ago were 95 per cent alcohol. Last year alcohol was only 5 per cent of the refreshment dispensed.

Authority for the palate poll is the Navy, Army, Air Force Institute, which operates the canteens.

RESCUE 20

NEW YORK (AP)—Twenty persons were rescued by the coast guard Tuesday from a sinking party fishing boat off Sandy Hook. The boat, the 54-foot Sea Queen, was reported in distress from a leak in her hull.

Machines Carving New Wealth From Nickel, Copper Deposits At New Mines at Lynn Lake

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LYNN LAKE, Man. (CP)—Machines are at work in the bowels of the earth below Lynn Lake, Canada's newest northern mining town.

Crowling, grinding and clawing, the mechanical monsters are sending to the surface new riches in nickel and copper ore.

When Sheritt Gordon Mines Limited exhausted its copper and zinc mines at Sherridon, 143 miles south, it decided to develop the nickel and copper deposits at Lynn Lake, first discovered in 1941 by Austin McVeigh, a company prospector.

DOWN 2,830 FEET

The first mines were moved to Lynn in 1946 and two years later the sinking of "A" shaft was started. By June, 1949, the shaft was down to the 12th level. Today it is down to the 20th level, some 2,830 feet below the surface.

The sinking of the more highly productive "E" shaft began in 1952 and is now 1,580 feet below ground. Production at Sherridon ended in September 1951 and the giant machines were loaded on to tractor trains and sledged north to Lynn Lake. At the same time the Canadian National Railways began laying track to Lynn. The line was finally completed Nov. 9, 1953 and the first nickel concentrate was loaded the same day.

Seven creechies have been developed at Lynn, grading about five per cent nickel and 1.7 per cent copper.

MINING METHOD

Sheritt Gordon uses the open stop, sub-level mining method. The blasted ore is drawn from the stop by screw, a machine much like a giant hose, and dropped through a series of tunnels to the giant jaw crusher located on the 14th level.

The jaw breaks down the ore to six-inch chunks. The ore moves by conveyor belt to the shaft ore pocket where it is loaded onto skips, or elevators, and sent up to the headframe for more crushing.

The ore is broken down to pebble-like pieces then sent through ball mills, huge revolving cylinders filled with steel balls. Water pumped into these ball mills turns the ore to a milky slurry.

The ore, in liquid form, is piped into flotation cells where chemical agents separate the minerals. Approximately 85 per cent of the nickel and 93 per cent of the copper is recovered in the flotation process.

The metal concentrates are then filtered and dried in oil-fired furnaces then sent by conveyor belt to the waiting ore cars. The nickel is shipped to the company's refinery at Fort Saskatchewan, Alta., and the copper to Noranda, Que.

OUTPUT INCREASED

Sheritt Gordon produces approximately 280 tons of nickel concentrate and 40 tons of copper concentrate.

During 1954 a total of 557,588 tons of ore was processed at Lynn Lake, an average of 1,721 tons a day. During the first four months of 1955, the daily average increased to 2,231 tons.

Power for the mine is obtained from a power plant on the Laurie River, 45 miles south of Lynn Lake. The mine has 450 men in the payroll. Manager of the operation is Alan Galley, a University of Toronto graduate and former superintendent at Sherridon.

Widow Without Funds Faces Bleak Future With Brave Heart

TORONTO (CP)—A widow who watched her husband lose his life Sunday in a bid to rescue a stranger on Wasaga beach sat alone Tuesday, wondering how she can lead a new life for her two children.

Mrs. Veronica Reckless came to Canada one month ago to join her husband, Harry, 27, who was a policeman in Manchester for six years before coming here in 1951. Sunday she went with her family for their first outing in Canada and saw her husband drown in a savage whirlpool on a beach once known as the safest in Ontario.

Neighbors who rallied round the Reckless home today found the family has been afflicted with poverty and even hunger since his arrival in Canada. Mrs. Reckless is searching through her dead hus-

Station Agent Saves 3 Men In Nick of Time

THAMESVILLE, Ont. (CP)—A fast-acting station agent faced a life-or-death battle with a Canadian Pacific train on Monday night and flagged down a train while a short distance away an overturned car, its occupants injured and dazed, blocked the tracks.

Three Detroit men had struggled or were thrown from the vehicle and one still lay unconscious at the side of the tracks when the train came into view.

Station agent Duncan Blair said "something woke me up at 2 a. m. I ran outside and saw the car on the rails. I knew the first train was due soon."

FLAGGED FREIGHT

"I flagged the London-to-Detroit freight first and then the flag man stopped a passenger train which came soon after, also headed for Detroit."

Provincial police from Chatham said the driver, Nathaniel Crawford, 22, of Detroit and passengers Leroy Hasty and James A. Shirever, also of Detroit, were taken to Chatham public general hospital suffering undetermined injuries.

Police said the car missed a turn on Highway 21 near the tracks, plowed through a ditch and overturned on the rails.

Queen and Duke Bow Gracefully To Fairy Legend

The couple paid homage to the good fairies who lurk in the island according to legend.

Manxmen waited anxiously as the royal party approached "fairy bridge" where the fairies live. Manxmen always doff their hats in a salute to the "little people."

Islanders believe failure to do so is tempting disaster.

VOTE ON SUBSIDY

TORONTO (CP)—The metropolitan Toronto council will vote Sept. 8 on the executive's recommendation to give the Toronto Transit Commission a $2,500,000 subsidy. In 1954 the TTC lost $2,355,920. Metro chairman Fred G. Gardiner said council has "no choice" but to approve the subsidy in an effort to avert fare increases.

Brig. Jean Allard May Be Next Defence Minister

By DAVE MCINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CAMP Gagetown, N.B. (CP)—One of the hottest pieces of speculation in the Canadian Army is that Brig. Jean Victor Allard, DSO, will be Canada's next defence minister.

The rumor, it was learned Tuesday, is not just the latest army gossip but has persisted for more than a year and since the 42-year-old brigadier returned from Korea. The rumor is particularly prevalent, of course, among French-speaking soldiers.

One army source said it is believed that Prime Minister St. Laurent is carefully grooming Brig. Allard as Defence Minister Campney's successor. Such a move would not be carried out hurriedly. There was no speculation on Mr. Campney's future.

The prime minister would want to make sure that the brigadier could be elected after his appointment to the cabinet, probably in a by-election. It was recalled that Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton could not win a seat in the Commons after he was appointed defence minister in 1944.

Informants said the first move toward the top defence post might be Brig. Allard's appointment as chief of the army's Quebec command and his move to Quebec, a province known in his native province.

It was also recalled that Brig. Allard, now commander of the 3rd Infantry Brigade, was passed over in favor of Maj.-Gen. John Rockingham when a commander for the 1st Infantry division, now on exercise Rising Star here, was chosen last year.

It now is said in some quarters that Brig. Allard was deliberately passed over to save him for some bigger job.

Brig. Allard, who has a distinguished war record both in the Second World War and in Korea, and Mr. St. Laurent have been on cordial terms for some time. The prime minister, it is understood, often sees him in Quebec City. The 3rd Brigade, now in training here with the 1st division, has its headquarters at Valcartier just outside Quebec City.

French Acadians to Observe Bi-centenary of the Expulsion Of Ancestors from Nova Scotia

The French Acadians of North America are observing the bi-centenary of the expulsion of their ancestors from what is now Nova Scotia. The following story tells how these hardy pioneers returned to their chosen land and how the 20th century Acadians plan to salute the renaissance.

By RAE CORELLI

Canadian Press Staff Writer
MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—There are 437 Leblancs in the Moncton telephone book, more than any other name.

This illustrates graphically how much wasted effort was involved in expelling the Acadians from the Maritimes 200 years ago.

The 300,000 Leblancs, Savoies, Cormiers and Gallants in the east coast provinces, the 630,000 in Louisiana and the additional thousands in Quebec and New England testify to the greatest comeback by any ethnic group in modern history.

GATHER AT GRAND PRE

The Acadians are bearing sober witness to it this year in a bi-centenary of thanksgiving that will culminate Aug. 15 in a burst of pageantry at their shrine of Grand Pre in Nova Scotia's Annapolis valley.

Many of their ancestors remained widely scattered after they were deported by Gov. Charles Lawrence of Nova Scotia for persistent refusal to swear an uncrowned allegiance to the British crown.

But many came back. One group of exiles seized the ship carrying them away and steered a course up the St. John river. Hundreds who had found their way to France re-crossed the Atlantic, passed briefly at St. Pierre et Miquelon and landed eventually on Prince Edward Island whose current population of 98,000 includes 15,000 Acadians.

331,759 Acres Burned Over Since Season's Fires Started

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Ontario lands and forests department Tuesday tallied up the season's forest fire toll.

The figures showed 1,551 fires reported to date, burning over 331,759 acres.

The department did not estimate the value of the ruined farmlands or what it has cost to fight the outbreaks. Nor was a breakdown of the type of forest ground burned available. It ranged from scrub to prime timber.

Firefighters continued to make headway against the outbreaks although the hazard rating was medium to extreme. Fifteen new fires were spotted during the 24 hours up to noon today, while 18 were extinguished.

That left a total of 96 still burning, 20 out of control.

Eight "skidding" horses from lumber camps were brought into the fire lines today at a 3,450-acre blaze in the Gogama district—the first time horses have been used in this manner, in the opinion of Keith Acheson, subsidiary regional forester.

It was strictly a cash deal. The lumber companies billed the lands

Committee Probes Show Business For Communists

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Francis Walter (Dem. Pa.) said today he expects the House of Representatives anti-American activities committee to find "a lot of people in the entertainment business who've been Communists" and who have used their "large incomes" to further Red causes.

Walter, in an interview, listed 27 actors, writers and other Broadway figures a sub-committee plans to question at week-long hearings beginning Monday in New York City.

Among those he named were Stanley Prager, actor-director appearing in the Broadway musical "Pajama Game"; Sam Jaffe, film and stage actor; Jerome Chodorov, writer of the stage and screen version of "My Sister Eileen"; Lou Polan, a feature player in the Broadway comedy "Bus Stop"; Zero Mostel, television and stage comedian; Ivan Ball, advertising and publicity man; Joshua Shelley, a musical comedian in "Phoenix '55" now playing here.

"WERE IDENTIFIED"

Walter said some of the questioning will be about alleged Communist activities as late as this year. Some of those subpoenaed, he added without mentioning names, were identified as Communist party members "as far back as 1951."

He emphasized the inquiry is not directed at the entertainment world itself, and added:

"The committee is interested in one thing and one thing alone: That is, whether or not an individual subpoenaed before it is today a member of the Communist party, and whether or not he has ever been a member of the Communist party."

FLY ACADIAN FLAG

Giant metal "A's" surmounted by five-pointed gold stars will stand at tri-axial highways leading into the city. The streets will be affixed with the Acadian flag, a starred French tri-color which the first Acadian Acadian congress adopted at Miscouche, P. E. I., in 1884.

Twenty floats for the giant parade were purchased at one-third of cost for $10,000 from the sponsors of this year's St. Jean Baptiste celebration at Montreal, Mr. Savoie says he hopes the whole bi-centenary can be swung for the $100,000 picked up in government grants and private contributions.

Menamcook, a purely Acadian settlement 10 miles from here and the site of the Acadian University of St. Joseph's, will salute "the Acadians of 1855," when modified centennial celebrations take note of their progress up to the mid-19th century. The Memramouc gathering will feature the Acadian dress of 100 years ago, although by that time it had come to vary from the garb of other maritime Canadians.

Grand Pre will witness the climax on Aug. 15 although a ceremony will be conducted at Annapolis Royal the following day in memory of those who founded the town 350 years ago.

James Cardinal McGuigan of Toronto, Paul - Emile Cardinal Leger of Montreal and Giovanni Panico, Apostolic delegate to Canada will participate in the observances.

Police Chief Said Officers In Conspiracy to Oust Him, New Charges in Mystery Letter

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver police commission investigating Vancouver's police force and an inquiry into the death of superintendent Harry Whelan both stood adjourned for a week today.

The commission adjourned Tuesday after.

Magistrate Oscar Orr testified chief constable Walter Mulligan reported to the police commission three years ago he had discovered a conspiracy among some officers to remove him from his job.

Gerald M. Brown, publisher of the Vancouver Herald, and his managing editor, Glyn Lewis, made a "complete, absolute and unreserved apology" for two headlines in the Tuesday morning edition of the newspaper to which commissioner Reginald H. Tupper took exception.

And Mr. Tupper announced he has a mystery letter containing widespread charges against police officers.

The inquiry adjourned after city pathologist Dr. T. R. Harmon told coroner Glen McDonald that Supt. Whelan died of an "unnatural death" at his home last Friday, Dr. Harmon said the fatal wound in the officer's chest "indicated it was a close contact gunshot wound."

RCMP Sgt. John Knox, appointed by Attorney-General Robert Brown following Mr. McDonald's request for "a completely impartial" investigation, asked for the adjournment to complete his inquiry. City police officers said Whelan shot himself Sunday night.

It was reported the superintendent had an unidentified visitor minutes before he died.

Whelan died little more than three hours before he was to resume testimony before the Tupper commission and six weeks after another officer on the strike-ridden force made an admitted suicide attempt.

Expulsion of Acadians Main Topic Among Celebrants

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Sobbing men, women and children, herded from fertile farmlands they had called home for six generations; burly British redcoats nudging them with bayonet points into small barges; sailings to hostile colonies on the American mainland; personal tragedies of wandering, broken families in search of loved ones.

This is the expulsion of the Acadians, 200 years ago, in the minds of thousands of Canadians, though redcoats were few and blue-coated Massachusetts troops carried out the job.

This week church bells will peal throughout the land of Old Acadia—New Brunswick and Nova Scotia—as Canadians commemorate the bi-centenary of that melancholy autumn when the barges began to move.

For two weeks Canada's Acadians, joined by delegations from the United States and Quebec provinces, will visit French-speaking parishes in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, attend pageants, stage parades, join in dancing and banquets.

"Les Acadiens" will celebrate their survival.

But what was Acadia, and who are the Acadians? What did happen in 1755 and what sparked the expulsion?

Historians, untangling the knotted strands of Acadian history, sifting legend from fact, have dusted off new documents, thrown new light on events.

They have placed the expulsion in the perspective of the mammoth, empire-building struggle between France and England in the New World where greed and religious zeal, barbarism and charity, treason and heroism, clashed and surged for 100 years in the birth of new nations.

There is little agreement between French and Canadian historians. Most French or French-Canadian writers see the expulsion as a barbaric decision, English-speaking Canadian writers see it as a sad event but find historical justification.

Neither historical versions give much support to the popular notion that British Governor Lawrence of Nova Scotia suddenly deported some 3,500 French-speaking settlers.

Teachers Will Return to Jobs At Port Arthur

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — Forty-four high school teachers who resigned their posts May 31 will be back on the job for the fall term, the board of education announced Tuesday.

The teachers resigned in protest when the board hired 11 new teachers at wage scales higher than salaries already existing between the board and the Teachers' Federation. The board subsequently advertised for teachers to fill the 44 positions.

The board statement Tuesday said its differences with the 44 teachers had been settled. A basic wage scale had been offered and accepted by the Federation. Application of the schedule to individual teachers will be ironed out in November and full findings of the board will become effective Jan. 31, 1956.

New maximums for non-specialists, specialists and department heads are respectively $5,800, $6,000 and $6,300. Previously they were $3,250, $3,450 and $3,650. New minimums are $3,300, $3,400 and $3,600 compared to $2,800, $3,000 and $3,400.

Storks Disappearing Behind Curtain, Nobody Knows Why

By GUY BETTANY

COPENHAGEN (Reuters)—The storks of Denmark, for centuries traditional birds, are disappearing behind the Iron Curtain and nobody knows why.

Half a century ago, there were more than 4,000 pairs of storks which migrated each year to Denmark and made their nests here. Last year, only 210 couples and 30 lone birds were counted.

Hans Christian Andersen, the great Danish story teller, often wrote about storks in his famous fairy tales, and ornithologists believe that during his lifetime, as many as 18,000 pairs arrived every year in Denmark. The legend about storks bringing babies is believed to have started here.

The 210 pairs last year produced between them 449 young storks. In 1953 only 177 pairs were found, with 307 young. In that year, 80 unmated storks made the long migratory flight to Denmark alone.

Professor Hans Johansen of the Danish Zoological Museum, says: "The decline is found not only in Denmark but also in other Western European countries, where these birds were formerly seen in large numbers, although not so frequently as in Denmark." Reason why the number of storks visiting Denmark and other Western European lands has declined is not known.

Ornithologists know that they prefer marshy moors and open spaces. As a result of the greater utilization of the land in Denmark these have become fewer. But even under the present intensive land cultivation, it is believed that several thousand storks could easily live here, if they wanted to.

GO BEHIND CURTAIN While the number of storks in Denmark has shrunk to a small proportion of what it was within living memory, stork migrations to the Iron Curtain countries, according to Danish scientists, have greatly increased.

Professor Hans Johansen of the Danish Zoological Museum, says: "The decline is found not only in Denmark but also in other Western European countries, where these birds were formerly seen in large numbers, although not so frequently as in Denmark."

Reason why the number of storks visiting Denmark and other Western European lands has declined is not known.

Central Press Canadian John Butler, 24, was the object of a night-long search in the bush at Lake Phillippe, Que., but when found, he appeared quite happy about the whole thing. Here, barefooted, he clutches his jacket and appears ready for another day or two alone. His parents are Rev. and Mrs. John Butler of Hespeler, Ont.

MARILYN IN ROME ROME (AP)—Marilyn Bell, 17-year-old Toronto schoolgirl who swam the English channel last week, arrived here Tuesday night with her father, mother and younger brother. She said she planned to stay three days, to rest and see the sights.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

PEACE, AIN'T IT WONDERFUL!

An armistice has been signed on the senior "B" hockey front, or so it would appear—but in all likelihood the round-table hostilities will flare up again at the September 11 meeting of the eastern group being held in Kingston on that date.

However, the sum and substance of that meeting held in Peterborough last week where Orillia, the Petes, Whitby and Stouffville declared their willingness to operate in a five-team set-up with Newmarket a possible starter, seems to be that the OHA brass stepped in after the wishful thinking was done and told the Whitby and Peterborough delegations that due to the fact they were still members of the eastern group they could do nothing about entering another league until after the September meeting of the eastern body.

Much hinges on what will be done by both camps before the date of the September meeting rolls around.

Herbie Cain, manager of the Newmarket club, who appears to be fed-up with the three-team set-up of his group (Newmarket, Orillia and Stouffville) last season, said he was interested in the proposed five-team group but plans in his town were not far enough advanced for him to make a commitment. He is quoted as saying previous to the meeting that his club would fold rather than participate in another three-way loop.

As was said before Orillia looked for new hockey pastures prior to last week's meeting, and even sent out feelers for an entry in the eastern group.

Wren Blair, ebullient Whitby manager, who admits the authorship of the new sports column in the Whitby section of the Oshawa Times Gazette, said in one breath: "All four clubs present said they will operate in this new group providing a fifth club is entered. It is felt, and rightly so, that four teams will not constitute a good league."

In the next columnar breath, Mr. Blair says: "The Whitby and Peterborough clubs were told that they are still members of the eastern group and as such were bound to attend the September meeting of that group and nothing could be done until after that time."

So if there is no harm in conjecture, what will Whitby and the Petes do if financial arrangements arrived at at the eastern group meeting this fall do not meet with their approval—and Newmarket decides not to enter a club?

Sponsor Don McNeven's recent decision not to agree to the payment of 15 per cent to the eastern pool may lay the groundwork for another hot discussion at that September confab. That may side Belleville with Kingston against Cornwall and Brockville—and definitely meet with the disapproval of the western clubs.

Much has been said and written about the Kingston Good-years being the "sugar-daddies" of the eastern group since their Community Centre came into being. Nothing is more correct. The turnstiles at the Jock Hartly Arena never wore out bearings from overwork in the old days when the Goodies were on the short end of gate receipts.

But how about the future? We understand that construction has started on the new Peterborough Community Centre, and while it was rumored, later killed, that the Petes would finish next season in their new building, it is safe to assume the new structure will be ready in 1956-57. And if the same conditions exist in Peterborough that attended the new Kingston centre that "sugar-daddy" role may be transferred to the Lifflock City if the eastern group and its pool conditions still exist.

Jim Ellis, Petes' mentor, makes no bones about the fact that the only remuneration the Petes players received last year was from the group pool. Jim told this department: "Our fellows never got paid a cent until the season was over when the pool receipts were divided."

THE PLOT THICKENS, OR, WHAT'S BEHIND IT?

A story from Kingston says: "The possibility of a second OHA senior "B" team in Kingston loomed over the week-end with the announcement by a group of sportsmen that such a step was being contemplated. A spokesman for the group, who wishes to be anonymous, indicated that it was the feeling of the new organization that there were enough players and interest in hockey at the senior "B" level to make such a move feasible. A decision as to whether the group would become a reality is expected this week and it is understood hinges upon the successful negotiations with a proposed sponsor."

WELL, ALMOST

Vons in a while we would like to see these German Vons bite the dust. If they were good vons it would not be so bad, but they are bad vons and that is not good. Von Schober and Von Erich, ja wohl, have clobbered the best of 'em and the Teuton Terrors are not least feared of Lord Layton and Prince Maiava, whom they meet come Friday. For vander Vons might not feel so vonny. Layton and Maiava are good, too? Should be quite a schmozzle.

"Well, you were certainly right when you said No. 5 might turn out to be a sleeper!"

Blast Bengals by 4-2 Score As Boston Bombs Bombers 4-1 Chisox Cling to Wafer Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

That American League pennant race is really a dilly. Where else could a team lose three straight to the seventh place club, then win one from the fifth place member and still edge upward into second place?

Cleveland did just that in its last four games—blowing a three-game set at Washington that dumped the Indians out of a virtual three-way tie for the lead and then moving up again with a 4-2 decision over Detroit Tuesday night.

What's more, while the Indians dropped seven of 13 on their recent eastern swing, they lost only a half game in the frantic pennant scramble.

With the victory at Detroit, Cleveland moved into the runner-up spot ahead of the New York Yankees, beaten by Boston 4-1. The Chicago White Sox stayed out front with a 4-1 success at Kansas City.

DOUBLE HELPED

Four runs in the second inning got the job done for the Indians, who combined a pair of walks, two singles and Gene Woodling's double to beat Ned Garver and the Tigers in the opening game of a vital three-game set for Detroit. The Tigers now are 6½ games behind the White Sox and can't afford to fall much farther back.

Rookie Herb Score won his 11th, with Ray Narleski wrapping it up in the seventh after two unearned runs had come across.

Southpaw Billy Pierce took over for the White Sox, checking the Athletics on two hits—both by Bill Wilson, who banged a homer with two out in the ninth. The As had whacked 16 hits while losing 16-12 to Boston Sunday.

Pierce contributed a run-scoring single ahead of Minnie Minoso's two-run triple as the White Sox shelled Bobby Shantz with three runs in the second.

TWO HOMERS DID IT

Boston powered past the Yankees on homers by Bill Kincaid and Grady Hatton while Willard Nixon was down what came naturally—scattering six Yank hits for his fourth victory in five decisions against the New Yorkers this season.

The big righthander is 8-2 against the Yanks lifetime.

The two homers and a single were the only hits Boston got off loser Wiley Ford until the ninth. Then a single and Nixon's double made it 4-1. A crowd 51,678—largest throng in the majors this season and tops at Yankee Stadium since July 21, 1950—sat in as the Red Sox made it four straight in New York.

The other AL action saw Bill Wright four-hit Washington for a 1-0 Baltimore victory in the first game of a two-night pair; then Roy Sievers homered twice for four runs in a 6-3 success in the nightcap.

BROOKS STILL WIN

In the National, Brooklyn stayed 14 games out front with a 4-2 decision over New York in 10 innings; Milwaukee smacked St. Louis 6-2; Philadelphia clung to fourth with a 9-1 pasting of Pittsburgh, and Chicago beat Cincinnati 4-3.

The Dodgers spotted the Giants two runs in the first inning on Willie Mays' 38th homer, then nicked Ruben Gomez in the sixth and seventh to tie. Reliefers Marv Grissom loaded the bases, then walked home the clincher in the 10th.

Warren Spahn, who was 10-10 this time last year, snared his 10th victory against 12 defeats by dumping the Cards to their 10th defeat in 11 games. Stan Musial homered with a man on for his 998th extra base knock.

The Phils stayed a half game up on the Cubs as Bobby Morgan knocked in four runs with a homer, triple and single against the Pirates. Chicago managed to edge the Redlegs with an unearned run in the sixth, after a three-run first.
